Admiral Hichborn has received word of his election in the Institution of Naval Architects. This is a life connection of great dignity in naval circles and a notable compliment.

Senator Clark, of Montana, scared the real estate agents of Washington by declaring, upon his arrival in that city, that he would take no house the dining-room of which would not seat 200 persons.

Andrew Carnegie, who has given $250,000 for the erection of a public library in Washington, has informed the district commissioners that if his business continues to be prosperous, he hopes to erect branch libraries in the city.

It is interesting to know that 4,200 species of plants are gathered and used for commercial purposes in Europe. Of these 420 have a perfume that is pleasing and enter largely into the manufacture of scents and soaps. There are more species of white flowers gathered than of any other color—1,124 in all.

William Le Queux, the writer, has been expelled from the Riviera by the French authorities on account of several articles he sent to the London Daily Mail, in which he described the abuses practised in Nice which have driven away practically all of the English colony. He thinks himself lucky that he has not been imprisoned.

Aigues-Mortes, once an important French harbor on the Mediterranean and from which St. Louis sailed in his crusades of 1248 and 1270, is now miles from the sea, on account of the silt brought down by the canal, and the government will sell at auction the picturesque ruins of the walls of the port.

The foreign capital invested in Mexico and interested there at this time exceeds $1,000,000,000. It has 410 weaving and printing factories for cotton goods. Those factories produce 4,561,381 pieces every six months. They employ 19,557 workmen and workwomen. The sales amount to $11,828,776. Mexico has twenty-seven woolen mills, ten paper mills, seven glass factories, nine starch factories, sixteen chocolate factories, 146 soap factories, twenty-eight wax match factories, and numerous other lines.

There is an amusing story current about Lord Herschell and his clerk. When he first entered politics the fortunes of the liberal party were at their blackest, and his clerk, who was a clerk of the old school, and took an almost proprietary interest in his career, used often to brood over the political situation, says the Westminster Review. At last, on the day when Lord Beaconfield returned in triumph from Berlin, and was received with such unparalleled popular enthusiasm that he seemed certain of a fresh lease of power, the clerk confided his feelings to Mr. Herschell in these moving terms: "Don't you think, sir, in view of the turn events seem to be taking, that our choice of politics was a little premature?"

The Hindu Widow.

Action is being taken by certain enlightened natives to ameliorate the shocking condition of the average Hindu widow. To begin with, the Indian mother is shaved bald, and can only hide her baldness with her cloth; she is deprived of all jewelry, wears coarser clothes than the rest of womankind, must fast on certain days, and every day has fewer meals than are taken as a rule by the rest of the family. The scheme of the relief afoot is that no widow shall be shaved until she is 21, the age at which it may be supposed that she will be able to show a will of her own in case she objects.—Bombay Advocate, of India.

Green-Headed Men.

In the district surrounding the copper mines of Cornwall, Cuba, Chile and other places where the ore is abundantly found a curious sight is to be seen in the shape of men with hair that is quite green. This is not, as might be imagined, a fashionable fad, but the grave results produced by the men's surroundings. The crude ore, in order to secure a more marketable article, is roasted in enormous furnaces, and it is some strange emanation from the smelted copper that effects this chemical change in the hair of the miners, and turns it as green as grass. Investigations have proved that the fumes from the furnaces contain a certain quantity of arsenical matter, and this causes the startling change, although the texture and growth of the hair suffers no injury.

BOOKER WASHINGTON SPOKE.

Colored Professor Makes Address Before Patriotic Club.

Booker T. Washington was the guest of the Patria Club at its annual meeting at New York Friday night and in the course of an address said:

"Object lessons that shall bring the southern white man into daily, visible tangible contact with the benefits of negro education will go further in the solution of political problems than all of the mere abstract argument and theories than can be evolved from the human brain. In proportion as the negro learns to do something as well or better than a white man he will find his place in our economic and political life, and his place, like that of every being possessing real worth, will be that of a man, for it is not our duty to set metes and bounds upon the aspirations and ambitions of any individual or race, but it is our duty to see that the foundation is wisely and firmly laid. A race that plants itself in the ownership of the soil, the industries, the dramatic arts of a country, in intelligence and religion and in the confidence of the people among whom it lives, is the race that will win, regardless of all temporary makeshifts, obstacles and discouragements.

"We in this generation of the south must lay the foundation for those that are to come. I would not advocate that the end of every negro's education should be the ownership of property, skill in agriculture, mechanical and industrial arts, but I would, with all the emphasis of my soul, remind my race over and over again that if we of this generation lay the foundation principles well in these, our children and children's children will find through them the surest way to recognition and success in arts, letters and statesmanship. Then will the sacred story repeat itself. 'The rain descended, the floods came and the winds blew and it fell not, for it was founded upon a rock.'"

WILL BE RETAINED.

United States Consuls to Spain to Take Their Old Places.

The secretary of state has decided to return to their posts in Spain the United States consuls who were obliged to leave on account of the war.

Two of these officers—Consul H. W. Bowen at Barcelona and Richard M. Bartleman at Malaga—are now in New York. The third—J. Howell Carroll, consul at Cadiz—is now at Gibraltar. The department has determined that they shall all be retained in the consular service, there being no evidence of any personal ill feeling incurred by them.

The sub-consular officers mostly remained in Spain throughout the war and were undisturbed, some even continuing to discharge a part of their official duties. They will also be continued in the service.

Sandy Soils and How to Improve Them.

As a general rule very sandy soils, that is soils containing above seventy-five per cent of sand, are unfit for cultivation for any standard crop except early garden vegetables, berries and stone fruits. Sandy loams containing from sixty per cent. to seventy-five per cent. sand will grow rye, all legumines, most vegetables, grapes and many varieties of apples and oriental pears. Soils containing less than sixty per cent. sand, if not too dry and having at least two-tenths of one per cent. lime make good cereals, especially corn and oats.

Soils containing as high as ninety per cent. pure sand may yield more profitable returns than heavier and better soils, provided they are properly cultivated. Such soils are suitable only for early spring vegetables, which command a price out of all proportion to their nutritive value, merely because they are very early. But unless such soils are intelligently managed, they are more likely to entail loss than profit. All very light soils require previous amelioration before being planted for market crops. The first requirement is the storage in the soil of a large supply of vegetable matter. This is best effected by turning under a green crop. Blue or yellow lupines or rye are the best crops to use for this purpose. Lime should be added next, the more the better, up to ten tons per acre. The addition of vegetable matter and lime will change the color of the soil from light yellow to chocolate or even black. The physical texture will be changed and improved in the same ratio. The soil has become less porous and more retentive. It is now in condition to receive large doses of fertilizer and produce something to sell. If rye has been turned under, it should be followed by a leguminous crop, such as peas, beans, sand vetch, crimson clover, or cow pea. This crop should receive a generous application of potash, preferably in the form of kainit or muriate, and phosphate in the form of superphosphate. Finally after the early market crop is off, the land should be planted in some summer legumine, preferably cow pea or soy pea or beggar-tick (desmodium molle). This should be turned under in late fall or very early in spring, so that the soil will have time to compact before the market crop is set. Such light soil should receive only shallow cultivation.

The best fertilizer to use upon such soil depends largely upon the crop grown. But phosphoric acid and potash should be liberally used to endure a luxuriant growth of legumines to be turned under. This will at the same time supply the requirements of the commercial crop, and in addition furnish nearly all the nitrogen needed by such crops. But it will be profitable to use nitrate of soda in small doses to force the early growth. A good formula for the legumine fertilizer is as follows per double ton: Kainit, 1400 pounds; acid phosphate, 600 pounds; dose, 1000 to 2000 pounds per acre. May substitute 350 pounds of muriate for the kainit.—Gerald McCarthy.

The President has appointed Lawrence Townsend, of Pennsylvania, to succeed Bellamy Storer as United States Minister to Brussels, Belgium.

Mr. Townsend is at present United States Minister at Lisbon, and his transfer leaves a vacancy in the Portuguese mission, for which a selection has already been made and will shortly be announced.

THINGS IN THE LADRONES.

Queer Food and Other Natural Products of the Islands.

The queer things in the Ladrones include a tree, says the Richmond Times, the fruit of which is so obnoxious to the nostrils that a man cannot "keep his stomach" and smell it. But once past the nose it is so delicious that he will eat until too full to walk. This fruit ripens once a month and is plentiful.

A nut which can be eaten shell and all is another queer product. The shell is brittle like a cracker, sweet and good. The inside has a kernel which can only be bitten when the fruit is fresh.

Another fruit is so rare that it is used as a coin.

A very queer mineral product is a stone which changes color in the atmosphere. Cold days it is black, hot days it is bright red, when rain threatens it is pinkish, and in cloudy weather it is blue. This stone lies on the highways and the pedestrian can forecast his own weather.

A great yellow flower which opens and closes to the sun at noon is another novelty. This flower takes only five minutes to open and shut; for one minute it is wide open, showing a white center with golden heart. It opens directly up to the sun and closes tight with drooping head. It varies not one minute in the whole lifetime of the plant. On cloudy days it opens, but its petals point downward, for the stem does not rise as on sunny days. This flower acts as a clock to the natives. The domestic animal of the Ladrones is a small bird called a "laughing donkey." It laughs like a parrot, but has projections at the side of its head which give rise to the name. Another household pet is the Japanese poodle, which here is very small and very curly haired. This dog catches its own fish in the lagoons and eats fruit from the guava tree.

The man who owns a farm in the Ladrones is a rich man, for he can support life without labor. Breadfruit trees grow wild, and, with the cocoanuts, are the shade trees of the islands. A grove of breadfruit trees to a Ladrone islander is what a herd of western cattle is to a ranchman. Fruit grows all the year round, and every quality of queer edible tropical fruit is found there.

A very valuable possession which Uncle Sam will use is the palm grove, which extends in a belt across the islands. This grove consists of palm trees which rise side by side so close together that you can hardly, except for the slenderness of the trunks of the trees, penetrate into the depths of the palm forest. They grow vegetable ivory, which in commerce is as good as the elephant tusk. This ivory can be used in all cases that do not call for great durability, and for ornaments it cannot be surpassed.

PITIED THE FILIPINOS.

The most graphic pictures of the warfare in the Philippines which come from any source continue to be unstudied letters which private soldiers write to families in Western states. "Talk about dead Indians!" says Theodore Conley, of Emporia, who is in the Kansas regiment. "Why, they are lying everywhere—the trenches are full of them, the woods, and swamps are full of dead, not wounded, and still Aguinaldo will not give up." He reports that our troops would have had a hard time but for the gunboats, the searchlights from which showed where the enemy were, "and those killed in the trenches were killed when they tried to come out." Conley's letter closed with this outburst of feeling.

"No wonder they can't shoot, with that light thrown on them, shells bursting, and infantry pouring lead all the time. Honest to God, I feel sorry for them."

Doctors Not Needed.

It is not generally known that medical science has made no progress whatever in Turkey, and that the poorer classes of that country have no skill at all in the treatment of disease. The popular belief among these people is that disease is God's will, and that to attempt to cure disease would be to interfere with the divine judgment.

The sum of wisdom is that the time is never lost that is devoted to work.—Emerson.

"He Who Pursues Two Hares Catches Neither."

Said a well known young man about town, "I tried for years to burn the candle at both ends, in the pursuit of pleasure while trying to attend to business. My blood, stomach and kidneys got into a wretched state and it seemed that I could not carry the burden any longer.

But now my rheumatism has gone, my courage has returned, and all on account of that marvel, Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has made me a picture of health. Now I'm in for business pure and simple."

Indigestion—"I now have a good appetite, eat well, sleep well and my dyspepsia and indigestion have left me. The reason is I took Hood's Sarsaparilla which entirely cured me. I am Baggage Master on the B. & O. Railroad." THOMAS COLES, 119 Carr St., Sandusky, Ohio.

The Joy of Living

IS GREATLY ENHANCED by knowledge of the world's best products, which contribute most effectually to personal comfort and health. The contest of high quality and original efforts, which give universal satisfaction, against the cheap and meretricious imitations will ever continue, and the greatest protection against mercenary dealers is in being well informed. In the medicinal sphere the well-known laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is used by many who are enjoying good health and by many others who are seeking health, and this is true to so great an extent that it is often called the remedy of the healthy. The excellence of Syrup of Figs is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known only to the California Fig Syrup Co. Therefore we wish to impress on all the importance of accepting the true and original remedy only. When buying note the full name—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, as there are many imitations sold under similar names and the imitations are really injurious to the system. The true and original remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and when you see the name of any other Fig Syrup Co. printed on any package you may know that it is a fictitious company and has no real existence, and that the dealer who offers it to you is seeking by cunning and misrepresentation to take advantage of you in order to make a larger profit.

The better class of druggists are men of high integrity, attending strictly to business day and night and willing to make great sacrifices, if necessary, to supply their customers with the best of everything in their line, knowing the importance to health of doing so, and valuing the patronage of their friends and patrons and desiring their confidence. Druggists of that class do not try to sell something else when you ask for Syrup of Figs. They give you the genuine remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only. When desiring physicians' prescriptions filled, or pure drugs and chemicals, proprietary medicines and fine toilet articles, you may rely upon them; but as in other callings some black sheep may be found, so among druggists there are some who will try to impose upon and deceive their customers when they can, and in order that all who are well informed may know them and avoid them we are publishing the facts.

A DEARLY BOUGHT VICTORY

Engagement With Filipinos Disastrous to American Army.

COL. STOTSENBURG AMONG THE KILLED

American Loss Was Over Fifty, While Only Thirteen Dead Filipinos Were Found—Details of the Fight.

A cable dispatch from Quengua, P. I., Sunday says: Four men of the Nebraska regiment, including Col. Stotsenburg, Lieut. Sisson and three men of the Fourth Cavalry, were killed and forty-four wounded in an engagement at Quengua. The Filipinos retreated with small loss.

The engagement developed into a disastrous though successful fight The insurgents had a horse shoe trench about a mile long, encircling a rice field on the edge of a wood. Captain Bell, with forty cavalrymen, encountered a strong outpost. One of his men was killed and five were wounded by a volley.

The Americans retired, carrying their wounded under fire and with great difficulty, being closely pursued, a fog enabling the enemy to creep up to them.

Two men who were carrying a comrade were shot in the arms, but they continued with their burden.

Captain Bell sent for reinforcements to rescue the bodies of the killed cavalrymen, and a battalion of the Nebraska regiment, under Major Bufford, arrived and advanced until checked by volleys from the enemy's trenches. The Americans lay about 800 yards from the trenches behind rice furrows under fire for two hours. Several men were sunstruck, one dying from the effects of the heat, as they lay there waiting for the artillery to come up. Finally the Second battalion arrived, and Colonel Stotsenberg, who had spent the night with his father at Manila, came upon the field. The men immediately recognized him and raised a cheer. Colonel Stotsenberg, deciding to charge as the cheapest way out of the difficulty, led the attack at the head of his regiment. He fell with a bullet in his breast, dying instantly, about 200 yards from the breastworks.

Lieutenant Sisson fell with a bullet in his heart, the bullet striking him near the picture of a girl suspended by a ribbon from his neck. In the meantime the artillery had arrived and shelled the trenches.

The Filipinos stood until the Nebraska troops were right on the trenches, and then they bolted to the second line of intrenchments, a mile back.

The Nebraska regiment lost two privates and had many wounded, including two lieutenants. The Utah regiment had one officer and three men wounded. Thirteen dead Filipinos were found in the trench. Their loss was comparatively small on account of their safe shelter.

Col. Stotsenburg has won a reputation as one of the bravest fighters in the army.

Fraudulent Cigar Stamps.

Mr. C. A. Tutwiler, special revenue agent, seized 21,000 cigars in the stores of local dealers at Montgomery for the reason that the boxes containing them bore counterfeit stamps. It appears that certain Pennsylvania factories have recently disposed of some 2,000,000 fraudently labled cigars and have sold them in all portions of the country. It is believed that at least 10,000 more will be found in Montgomery.

Rev. Robert Ryland Is Dead.

Rev. Robert Ryland, probably the oldest Baptist clergyman and educator in the United States, died at Lexington, Ky., Sunday, aged ninety-four. He was one of the pioneer educators of Virginia. For twenty-eight years he was president of Richmond college. During much of this time he was also pastor of the largest African church in the world, 3,000 members, nearly all of whom were Virginia slaves. He taught them orally every Sunday. His later years were spent at the head of educational institutions and churches in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Death of Hon. W. McC. Maples.

Ex-Representative William McC. Maples died at his residence near Statesboro Saturday. He was one of the most substantial men of the county and one of the leaders of the democratic party. He served several sessions in the general assembly of Alabama, his last term being in 1894-95. He was about sixty-five years of age.

FORTY HOURS AT SEA.

Considerable excitement was created at St. Augustine, Fla., Sunday by a small boat out at sea giving signals of distress. Captain Allen immediately went to its assistance in the Baldwin yacht. Upon nearing the boat he found it to be the missing lifeboat of the steamer General Whitney, which foundered north of Cape Canavara during Friday night. Captain Allen transferred the suffering sailors from their cramped quarters to his yacht and brought them in to Corbett's dock, where a large crowd awaited them.

The story of the disaster, as told by Mate Mattson and his men, was a thrilling one. One of the bulkheads sprung a leak from the heavy seas which were prevailing during the early part of Friday night. All hands were ordered to the pumps and worked hard, but the holds soon began to fill in spite of their efforts. The officers and men, realizing that the steamer was settling fast and sure to founder, took to the two life-boats. Captain J. W. Hawthorne and fifteen men went in the first boat and were never again seen by the remaining men. Shortly afterwards Mate Mattson and the balance of the crew, fourteen men, took the second boat.

They spent all of Saturday and Saturday night at the mercy of the sea, which washed over their frail boat frequently. Early Sunday morning they sighted land, and with redoubled energy, made strong from desperation, they took their turns at the oars. When near enough to land they improvised a flag with canvas tacked to an oar, and it was then that Captain Allen went to their rescue.

AMICABLE AGREEMENT.

Mississippi State Board of Health Will Not Quarantine.

The Mississippi state board of health held its annual meeting in Jackson Saturday. The meeting will not carry into effect its threat of last year to establish a quarantine against New Orleans on the 1st of May, as an amicable agreement has been reached between the two boards, whereby the Mississippi inspectors are allowed free access to the New Orleans hospitals.

The members of the board feel confident that the recent severe winter has killed all yellow fever germs in this state, and they do not expect an appearance of the disease this summer, unless the germs are imported from Cuba by returning soldiers. The gulf coast ports are being closely watched. During the session, county health officers for the seventy-five counties in Mississippi were appointed, and daylight communication between towns on the gulf coast and New Orleans granted.

Hostility Toward Foreigners.

The reactionary attitude of the Chinese government toward foreigners is creating for them an intolerable situation which cannot be prolonged. Promises made by the Tsung Li Yamen (Chinese foreign office) are of no value unless approved by the grand council, a majority of whose members are bitterly opposed to foreigners and foreign influences.

Unless some change takes place soon it is believed the powers will remonstrate directly to the empress dowager.

Hon. John B. Knox.

Hon. John B. Knox, of Anniston, Ala., has accepted the invitation of the society of the Alumni to deliver the annual address before that society at the approaching commencement of the State University, June 20. Mr. Knox is one of the ablest men in the state, an orator of rare ability.

Suicide at Winterville, Ga.

At Winterville, Ga., Sunday H. O. Johnson committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. A short time before the act, he was conversing as usual with his family, when he went up stairs, lay down on a sofa with a hand mirror, placed his pistol behind his ear and shot himself through the head.

Dr. Lipscomb Dead.

Dr. W. F. Lipscomb, the famous Kemper county poisoner, who was serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Jackson, Miss., died early Sunday morning of paralysis. The crime for which Lipscomb was convicted was the poisoning of Charles T. Stewart of Kemper county two years ago to obtain the insurance on his life.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY CALLED

Governor Johnston Issues Proclamation for Extra Session,

TO MEET AT THE CAPITOL MAY 2, 1899

For the Purpose of Considering the Repeal of the Act Calling for a Constitutional Convention—The Governor States His Reasons.

A PROCLAMATION.

The General Assembly of Alabama is hereby called to meet in extra session at the Capitol on Tuesday, May 2, 1899, at noon, for the following purposes only:

1. To consider the question of repealing an act entitled:

"An Act to provide for holding a convention to revise and amend the constitution of this State, and for the submission of the question—convention or no convention—to a vote of the electors of the State." Approved December 16, 1898.

2. To consider and submit amendments to the constitution of the State.

3. To consider a primary election law.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the city of Montgomery, on this, the 20th day of April, 1899.

Jos. F. Johnston,
Governor.

By the Governor,
Robt. P. McDavid,
Secretary of State.

Montgomery, Apr. 20, 1899.

In connection with his proclamation calling the general assembly in extra session, the governor gave to the press the following statement, which he has issued to the people:

To the people of Alabama:

I have determined that it is my duty to convene the general assembly in extra session to repeal the convention act, submit amendments to the present constitution, and adopt a primary election law.

I am sarisfied that if the act be not repealed a bitter campaign will ensue, the convention be overwhelmed by a vote of the people and desirable amendments postponed for years to come.

An extra session should not cost over $10,000; the election alone, under the act, even if fruitless, would cost about $30,000. The money will come in any event out of the pockets of the people.

In my last biennial message to the general assembly, whilst conceding that the constitution needed some revision, I said:

"Our state is enjoying a political repose most grateful, after years of bitter dissension and strife, and, if possible, we should wisely avoid any issue that would disturb this condition." I submitted to the general assembly, "whether such revision as may be necessary could not be had with more certainty and less expense, apprehension and discord by amendment than by a general convention."

The general assembly by narrow majorities, five in the senate and ten in the house, decided to submit to the electors the question as to whether or not they desired a constitutional convention. Whilst this was not in accord with my views, I did not feel at liberty to withhold my assent from a measure that permitted every voter in the state to decide for himself whether he desired a convention to be held or not. Since then a democratic state convention has been held and without the question ever having been submitted to the democratic voters, or having been considered by them, an attempt was made to take away from them the right given by the legislature to decide for themselves whether they desired a convention or not, and to bind them to vote for a convention, whether approved by their judgment and conscience. This has been followed up by threats that nominees of county conventions shall disobey the wishes of the conventions which nominated them and declare for the constitution convention or be driven to resign.

A PARTISAN PLAN.

Instead of the non-partisan convention designed by the general assembly the plan now seems to be to give us a constitution framed by partisans seeking only political advantage for those engineering and directing the cause.

THE SUFFRAGE LIMITATION.

Some of the friends of the convention claim that the pledges given in the platform practically confines the convention to a consideration of the suffrage amendment. If this be true and the pledges are faithfully observed, I am sure that the 133 members of the general assembly are quite as competent to frame amendments and are quite as patriotic and representative of the people of Alabama as the delegates named to the constitutional convention, and can do the work at one-tenth the cost of a constitutional convention.

PLEDGES THAT ARE MISSING.

The pledge to submit the proposed constitution to the ratification of the people is ominously silent as to who shall be qualified electors to vote on it. The convention seems to have the power to deny to those disfranchised by it the right to vote on ratification. Even if we can trust every member of the convention to keep in good faith every pledge made, and the previous record of some of them does not inspire confidence, then the pledges did not go far enough.

Our present constitution guards with jealous care many rights dear to the people. Amongst others:

1. It provides a homestead exemption to shelter every family in Alabama.

2. It prohibits the state and counties and municipalities from endorsing bonds of railroads, or lending their aid or credit to any corporation.

3. It secures to the people the right to elect their own judges and other officials.

4. It prohibits imprisonment for debt.

5. It secures the right of trial by jury.

No pledge is given that a single one of these provisions shall be preserved inviolate.

SHACKLED ONCE, SHACKLED TWICE.

If the call for a convention can be made a party question and democrats led shackled to the polls to vote the commands of those who may dominate their conventions, the ratification can also be made a party question and a constitution adopted distasteful to 49 per cent. of the party, and to 100 per cent. of all other electors.

INVESTMENT OF CAPITAL ENDANGERED.

The state has not only been enjoying political repose under our present constitution, but is making rapid progress. The laws are enforced; peace, security and good order prevail; the dissensions and divisions of the past have almost disappeared; mob law has ceased; our public schools are making rapid progress; the burdens of taxation have been more equally distributed; economy is rigidly enforced; public officials are held to rigid accountability to the people; manufactures are increasing; railroads are being constructed; the large deficit of two years since has been paid and the public credit has reached the highest point in the history of the state. A constitution that produces such results is certainly not wholly bad. These facts are well known all over the country, and Alabama is recognized in all financial centers, as the most inviting field in the United States for the profitable investment of capital. To disturb these conditions now by political strife and dissension, to open up for discussion the overthrow of a constitution that has made these conditions possible and to practically devote the remainder of this year to heated political discussions and elections and watching the proceedings of a constitutional convention would, I fear, check at the borders of our state and possibly retard for a long time the inflowing capital so greatly needed for the development of our splendid resources.

APPREHENSION EXCITED.

So many evil things may be done by a constitutional convention and so few good things that cannot be accomplished by constitutional amendments that it is enough to excite the apprehension of all good citizens. The fact that any constitution framed would be the offspring of a democratic convention denounced by the newspapers most ardent in support of the constitutional convention as the most disgraceful that ever sat in Alabama is enough to excite alarm; a convention that throttled debate and sought to expel life long democrats from its halls who desired to be heard and nominated a lot of unrepentant deserters who still denounce the national platform and leader of our party, can hardly be the parent of anything acceptable to true democrats.

DENOUNCED BY DESERTERS.

Scarred democrats who never failed to give generous support to the nominees of our party, are now denounced as traitors because they are unwilling to be led and have their political faith questioned by men who basely betrayed their party in 1890 and who still denounce its splendid platform, and who are now conspiring to prevent Alabama next year from sending a delegation to the national convention that will vote as a unit for the renomination of the ablest and most patriotic democrat now living. Some good democrats are unwittingly lending their aid to this movement.

THE STRANGER WITHIN OUR GATES.

Some now most persistent in demanding a new constitution have not resided sufficiently long in the state to become acquainted with the present one or the sentiment of our people.

PRIMARY ELECTION LAW.

Recent events have again demonstrated the necessity for a primary election law that will secure to every voter the right to express his choice and convictions and to have that given effect. Such a law wisely framed will be potential to unite the white people, destroying existing evils, and pave the way to secure any amendment necessary to our constitution.

DESERVES THEIR OPPOSITION.

I count myself fortunate to still deserve the opposition of the editors and editorial writers of nearly every newspaper in Alabama that deserted the democratic party in 1896; of every unfaithful official, of every tax dodger, of every office seeker whose pretensions outstripped his ability and service to the party, and of every individual and corporation whose rapacious fingers sought unlawful gains or special privileges and immunities at the expense of the people.

WILL CONTINUE TO DESERVE IT.

Had I been content to betray the people, desert the principles of my party and the pledges it made, surrender to rings and cliques and yield my powers and judgment and convictions to others, I would have the enthusiastic support of many now in opposition. I shall continue to deserve the hostility of those by fighting the battle of the people, protecting the treasury, enforcing their laws, maintaining the principles of the democratic party and standing for equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

PLUTON IS FOUND BY DIVERS.

Spanish Torpedo Boat Destroyer Was Riddled With Six Pounders.

The wreck of the Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Pluton, which was sunk in the great battle that resulted in the destruction of Admiral Cervera's squadron, was discovered a few days since about three miles west of Morro castle in eight fathoms of water. It was found by divers from the Yankton, who made a thorough inspection, finding the hull lying on the port side and with no indications of having been struck by a heavy shell, as was originally reported. The vessel, however, is badly stove and literally riddled with six-pound shot. No attempt will be made to raise her.

RACE TROUBLE IN LOUISIANA.

White Men Make an Attack on Colored Men's Quarters.

At Maxwell, a saw mill village, in Livingston parish, Louisiana, a crowd of white men made an attack on the negro quarters Friday night, which resulted in the death of one negro and the wounding of two others. The balance of the other negroes were notified to leave.

There had been no trouble between the races at that point, but the whites, it seems, concluded to get rid of the negroes. The guilty parties are not known, but suspicion rested upon Sam McCorral, Charles Stewart, Garfield Kitchen and Virgil Ardt and they were jailed pending an investigation.

Otis Needs Only 30,000 Men.

Seretary Alger has received a reply from General Otis to a recent inquiry as to whether the reinforcements proposed to be sent to him to relieve the volunteers would be sufficient for the purposes of the campaign. General Otis replies in the affirmative, the estimate of thirty thousand men to constitute the army agreeing with his own calculations. The program for the movement of the regulars to Manila and of the volunteers homeward, therefore, will be carried out according to General Otis' statement contained in his dispatch. General Otis adds to his message the hopeful remark that he expects very shortly to be able to report a decided improvement in the situation in the Philippines.

A Proclamation From the President.

The president will in a few days issue a proclamation giving effect to the new extradition treaty between the United States and Mexico, President Diaz taking similar action in Mexico.

The Mexican embassy has been advised that the treaty was ratified by the Mexican senate on April 12th, and already has been ratified by the United States Senate, so that it will become effective as soon as proclaimed by the presidents of the two countries. The text of the treaty has never been made known, but besides providing for all crimes not political, its principal feature is in giving the treaty retroactive effect, so as to cover crimes committed while no treaty existed.

German Traitor Gets Away.

Sergeant Major Albrecht, of the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth regiment, who was arrested at Bromberg, Prussia, and was being taken in chains to Spandau, nine miles from Berlin, where the state prison is situated, has escaped from his guards and has not yet been recaptured. He was charged with high treason in disclosing to Prussian agents detailed plans of German fortifications and plans for mobilizing the army of Germany.

Chairman Lowe's Address.

Following the action of the state executive committee, Chairman Lowe Saturday issued the following address to the democratic party of Alabama:

Birmingham, Ala., April 22, 1899.

To the democratic and conservative party of Alabama:

At a meeting of the state executive committee of the democratic and conservative party of Alabama, held in Montgomery yesterday, the 21st instant, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, The democratic caucus of the general assembly endorsed the call for a constitutional convention; and,

"Whereas, The state convention of the democratic party is the highest party authority in the state; and,

"Whereas, The state convention has endorsed the call and has made the same a party issue; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the chairman of the committee be and he is hereby directed to appoint a campaign committee, of which he himself shall be chairman, to take charge of and conduct a campaign for the call of the constitutional convention and the election of the democratic nominees, state and county.

"Resolved, That this committee is opposed to the repeal of the act calling the constitutional convention."

By direction of the committee I appeal now to the democracy of Alabama to rally around the standard which the party has raised. The majority has spoken, and the majority should rule. No organization can long endure which disregards the right of the majority to rule. Those who are wisest and best amongst us have declared that the welfare of Alabama depends upon the issue now presented.

The republican party has declared against this measure.

It is understood that the populist party opposes it.

The democratic caucus of the general assembly approved the bill.

The democrats of the general assembly passed it.

The democratic state convention declared in favor of a constitutional convention by a vote of two to one. And your state committee on yesterday, in the foregoing resolution, declared it to be a party issue.

If there be wisdom, patriotism and conservatism in the democratic party in Alabama, then this measure is wise, patriotic and conservative.

It is not to be believed that a general assembly composed of a majority of democrats in both houses will rescind their own act, and thereby refuse to abide the judgment and mandate of the party so clearly and repeatedly asserted.

It would be untimely to undertake to set forth here the reasons which have been deemed sufficient to make this measure a party issue.

At a proper time and as soon as it may be practicable to begin the campaign, your senators and representatives in the congress of the United States, your nominees and all other orators and writers will again present to the people the reasons for the faith your party has professed. In the meantime, let us hope that every patriot who loves Alabama, and every democrat who loves his party will give his voice and influence in this emergency to the preservation of party harmony and the maintenance of party organization.

This is not the time to dally or to doubt. The people of Alabama are about to determine at the polls whether or not a new constitution shall be adopted. Let them not be deprived of the opportunity to determine this question. Who questions that they will determine wisely? Who is afraid to trust the people?

The democracy desires the honor, the welfare and the glory of Alabama, and in this spirit now appeals to a liberty-loving, God-fearing and patriotic people to rise up to the measure of this great emergency.

Robert J. Lowe, Chairman.

Lumber Scare.

M. S. QUAY NOT GUILTY.

Jury Acquits Him of the Charges of Misusing Public Funds.

HE IS APPOINTED SENATOR.

After Twenty Hours' Deliberation the Jury Decides That He Did Not Misuse State Funds—Jury Stood Ten to Two at First—The Scene in the Courtroom—Three Ballots Taken.

Philadelphia, Penn. (Special).—The trial of ex-Senator Matthew Stanley Quay on the charge of conspiring to use State funds on deposit in the broken Peoples Bank of this city for his private gain ended on Friday in a verdict of acquittal. Almost simultaneously Governor Stone announced at Harrisburg that he had appointed Mr. Quay to the seat in the United States Senate recently vacated by him, which the Legislature failed to fill at its session just ended.

The verdict of the jury acquitting Mr. Quay was announced at 11 o'clock. There were comparatively few persons in the courtroom. There was an attempt at a demonstration, but this was repressed by the court officers, whose loud shouts of "Order!" and "Silence!" were effective in quieting those jubilant spirits who wished to give vent to their satisfaction by cheering. Mr. Quay, with a broad smile on his face, responded pleasantly to the greetings and congratulations of those who crowded around him. A few of his political friends were there, and these men were vociferous in their expressions of satisfaction at the outcome of the trial.

Though the jurors entered into a bond of secrecy it was learned that three ballots were taken before the verdict was reached. On the first ballot they stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. Then one man was won over by the majority, and in the morning the last man who stood between Quay and freedom gave in.

QUAY APPOINTED SENATOR.

Governor Stone Immediately Acts On the Receipt of the Verdict.

Harrisburg (Special).—Immediately on receipt of the news that Mr. Quay was acquitted of the charges against him, Governor Stone appointed him United States Senator to fill the vacancy until the next Legislature meets and notified Vice-President Hobart as follows:

"Sir: By virtue of the power vested in me as Executive of the State of Pennsylvania, under Article I., Clause 2, Section 3 of the Constitution of the United States, I hereby make temporary appointment of the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay to be United States Senator from Pennsylvania until the next meeting of the Pennsylvania Legislature to fill the vacancy now existing in this State. Very respectfully,

"William A. Stone,
"Governor of Pennsylvania."

Precedent Bars Him From Senate.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Matthew S. Quay, in spite of his appointment as Senator by Governor Stone, will probably get no nearer the Senate of the Fifty-sixth Congress than the Marble Room. Precedents are all against his taking his seat by virtue of appointment from the Governor. The Senate is on record as holding that where a State Legislature convened for the purpose of electing a United States Senator fails to do so the vacancy cannot be filled by a Gubernatorial selection.

COUNTERFEITERS CAUGHT.

The Makers of the $100 Silver Certificate Arrested in Pennsylvania.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The makers of the counterfeit $100 silver certificate, the most dangerous form of bad money ever discovered by the Secret Service officers of the Treasury Department, were arrested in Philadelphia. Accomplices of the engravers were arrested in Lancaster, Penn. The engravers are Arthur Taylor and Baldwin Bredell, of Philadelphia, and as far as known the production of the $100 bill was their first experience as counterfeiters.

Their accomplices in Lancaster are William M. Jacobs, William L. Kendig and James Burns, the latter an employe in Jacobs's factory. Jacobs and Kendig are cigar manufacturers, and Jacobs especially is recognized as a leading citizen of the town and has always had a good reputation. When arrested it was found that his stock of cigars amounted to $40,000, and his accounts showed that he had a large amount of money deposited in bank. His factory and his bank accounts were taken possession of by the agents of the Government when he was arrested.

A Former U. S. Attorney Accused.

Philadelphia (Special).—A sensational arrest was made in this city in connection with the capture of the gang of counterfeiters who issued the $100 silver certificate. Harvey K. Newitt, who was Assistant United States District-Attorney in this city under President Harrison, was taken into custody by Secret Service men, charged with bribing Detective McManus, of the Philadelphia office. He was held in $15,000 bail, which was furnished by a wealthy friend.

VOLUNTEERS TO COME HOME.

Fourteen Thousand Regulars to Relieve Those in the Philippines.

Washington, D. C.—Fourteen thousand regulars are to be sent to reinforce General Otis at Manila as soon as the necessary marine transportation can be provided. It is not expected that the bulk of the large body of reinforcements can reach Manila until the end of the rainy season, which has just begun. With the regular troops already ordered and on the way to Manila General Otis will have an effective force of 21,728 men in addition to the recruits being sent there every few days for the regiments already in the Philippines. This force is to be raised to thirty-five thousand men by the time aggressive operations can be pressed in the early autumn.

After a conference between the President, Secretary Alger and Adjutant-General Corbin it was decided that the volunteers should be returned to the United States in the order of their arrival at Manila. Instructions to do so have been sent to General Otis. It is the intention of General Otis to send home all the volunteers. The first expedition will reach San Francisco between May 5 and 10. There are about 12,000 volunteers to be sent home.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

1. That we favor the holding of a constitutional convention for the purpose of so regulating the right to vote as to perpetuate the rule of the white man in Alabama.

2. That the constitutional convention shall regulate all questions of suffrage so as not to conflict with the Constitution of the United States, and for the best interest of the people and taxpayers of the State of Alabama.

3. That there shall be inserted in such constitution a provision limiting the rate of taxation by the State, counties and municipalities, and that such rate shall not exceed the rate now fixed by the present constitution, but a lower rate if practicable.

4. That the proposed new constitution shall be submitted to a vote of the people for its adoption or rejection.

5. That we pledge our faith to the people of Alabama not to deprive any white man of his right to vote except for conviction of infamous crime.

6. That section 39 of article 4 of the present constitution in reference to the removal and location of the State capitol shall remain unchanged.

7. That the provisions and restrictions in the present contitution as to corporations shall remain unchanged.

8. What we hereby instruct all Democratic members of the constitution to faithfully carry out the above pledges.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY PLATFORM.

The Democratic party of Shelby County, in convention assembled, declares its belief in a just, capable and honest government; and to that end desires such a change in the Constitution of this State as will place the governing power in the hands of those who are competent to properly administer it; but is opposed to the disfranchisement of any white citizen of this State.

We believe that the new Constitution when framed should be referred to the people for final ratification.

We are opposed to any increase in the tax rate above the present Constutional limit.

We are opposed to the curtailment of the present power of the legislature to regulate, control or prohibit the sale of liquor as the people may in their wisdom desire.

FROM ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

We publish the following from a private letter to the editor, written by one of Shelby County's most prominent Democrats—a man to whom the party owes a great deal, because he has never sought or received any return for his labors. His words may be taken as representative of the opinion of the people:

I suppose now our committee will not care to take any definite action until after the legislature meets and acts. I don't believe however they will carry out the Governor's wishes in repealing the constitutional act, but there is no telling what the great SCHEMER, Johnston, may do. I have about come to the conclusion he is willing to sacrifice the Democratic party rather than fail to carry his point, he would be fully as much of a dictator as Reed ever proved to be in Congress if he could. I fully endorse the action of State Executive Committee last Friday, and am proud to know it is backed up by Morgan, Pettus, Bankhead, Knox, Clarke and, in fact, by all of our best statesmen nearly. I greatly fear the result to the party should Johnston succeed. I believe it will be a worse blow than Kolb ever struck us.

AT the executive committee meeting the other day, the following telegrams were received:

I am in favor of the convention and am against proposed repeal. Am always against factious opposition to Democratic rule.

E. W. PETTUS.

The Democrats can only march straight to the front. To recede or to hesitate invites disaster to the white voters. Democrats have never been divided on the main question and cannot afford to be divided on the side issues. As to the form of proceedings the Legislature has exhausted its power in taking the first step in revising the constitution, and the people have the right to act. The first step is as irrevocable as any that are to follow.

JOHN T. MORGAN.

These two men do not seem to be afraid of any danger to silver to come from a convention, and their record for the white metal can not be doubted. We feel somewhat inclined to follow those two in preference to the man who would use Populist and Republican votes to defeat the will of a Democratic convention.

The people are with the Governor, and the small politician and the greater are fools not to reckon with this fact.

We don't want to positively dispute our friend Hood's veracity, so we compromise by saying he is mistaken, and surely if he were not blind he could see it. We find from a careful investigation that there is not a Democrat in our section who is with the Governor, and half of the white people in this county are Democrats. Even those Populist politicians who express sympathy for him admit that their sympathy is due to the fact that his course is likely to disrupt the Democratic party, a thing they are always willing to help along.

THE question is simply this: Are Johnston and the Populist and Republican members of the legislature better qualified to secure Democratic harmony than a majority of the Democratic members of the legislature, the majority of a Democratic convention, and the Democratic executive committee? There is but one answer and it is not necessary to state it.

THE latest news is that the Populists will revoke the call for a State convention, and will sit on the fence during the constitutional convention fight.

THE Governor claims to have the legislature with him, but refuses to give names.

THE GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

The Governor has called the legislature to meet in extra session on the second day of May for the purpose of repealing the constitutional convention act. With his call he issues an address to the people embodying his reasons for the position he takes. A careful reading of this address leads one to believe that the Governor is not sincere in his motives. At many points his reasoning is false; at none is it sound or convincing.

In the outset he says:

I am satisfied that if the act be not repealed a bitter campaign will ensue, the convention be overwhelmed by a vote of the people and desirable amendments postponed for years to come.

This, taken with other assertions further on, shows that the Governor is going on the supposition that there is great dissension within the party strong opposition among Democrats to the holding of the convention. We are forced to differ with the Governor at this point. We have not heard of any such serious opposition. On the contrary, from the very best information we can get, Democrats are as near a unit as they can be, and the only opposition comes from Republican and Populist politicians. The Governor does not even inform us where the opposition comes from. The facts are against him.

Instead of the non-partisan convention designed by the general assembly, the plan now seems to be to give us a constitution framed by partisans seeking only political advantage for those engineering and directing the cause.

It is not at all clear that the general assembly designed a non-partisan convention, nor do we see how they could do so. The fact that the bill was opposed by every Populist and Republican member of that body was notice that if the convention was called it must be done by Democratic support, and the refusal of the general assembly to provide for the election of delegates by senatorial districts was due notice that delegates opposed to the convention and its purposes were not desired.

Again:

Some of the friends of the convention claim that the pledges given in the platform practically confines the convention to a consideration of the suffrage amendment. If this be true, and the pledges are faithfully observed, I am sure that the 133 members of the general assembly are quite as competent to frame amendments and are quite as patriotic and representative of the people of Alabama as the delegates named to the constitutional convention and can do the work at one-tenth the cost of a constitutional convention.

Here the Governor will find that the people differ with him. Had this been true more of the members of the legislature would have been nominated for delegates. Surely the Governor does not expect anybody to believe his assertions when they compare the ability of Deans, Case, Hurst, or some of the Democratic senators, with that of such men as Knox, Oates, Clarke, Plowman, Harrison, Lomax and others who take their places. Or does the Governor seriously mean to say that Sturdivant, Spears, Reynolds, or scores of the Democratic members of the house, are as competent as the men nominated by the counties? If he does, then the Governor is sadly off in his estimate of brains. It was the wild and incompetent acts of the last legislature which set the fear of the people against the holding of the convention; the personnel of the candidates nominated for delegates and the platform of the party have relieved those fears and brought unity.

The Governor proceeds:

Our present constitution guards with jealous care many rights dear to the people. Amongst others:

1. It provides a homestead exemption to shelter every family in Alabama.
2. It prohibits the State and counties and municipalities from endorsing bonds of railroads or lending their aid or credit to any corporation.
3. It secures to the people the right to elect their own judges and other officials.
4. It prohibits imprisonment for debt.
5. It secures the right of trial by jury.

No pledge is given that a single one of these provisions shall be preserved inviolate.

This is the veriest rot. No pledge is needed in regard to these matters. No sane man in Alabama would change them, except for the better, unless it were some of the imbeciles who compose the present legislature.

Besides the present homestead law does not shelter those whom it was intended to shelter.

The State, counties and municipalities are now lending their aid to corporations by allowing them to escape taxation. If the Governor does not believe this we can site him to some notable instances in this county.

The election of judges and other officials depends upon the power of the candidate to appeal to the prejudices of the negro, his ability to buy him, or the dishonesty of his managers to steal his vote. If the Governor does not want this changed, the people do; and these officials will still be elected.

None but a fool, or a knave would fear that imprisonment for debt will be allowed by a new constitution.

The right of trial by jury will not be disturbed, but unless some better system of selecting competent jurors is formulated it ought to be.

The State has not only been enjoying political repose under our present constitution, but is making rapid progress. The laws are enforced; peace, security and good order prevail; the dissensions of the past have almost disappeared; mob law has ceased; our public schools are making rapid progress; the burdens of taxation have been more equally distributed; economy is rigidly enforced; public officials are held to rigid accountability to the people; the large deficit of two years has been paid and the public credit has reached the highest point in the history of the State. A constitution that produces such results is certainly not wholly bad.

Democratic administration—white man's rule—has made these things possible, and white man's rule has been made possible by methods that the people are tired of and have determined to throw off. No one knows the truth of this better than Governor Johnston.

The fact that any constitution framed would be the offspring of a Democratic convention denounced by the newspapers most ardent in support of the constitutional convention as the most disgraceful that ever sat in Alabama is enough to excite alarm.

Who made that convention disgraceful? The precocious young kinsman of the Governor, who, not having the judgment to yield when he was defeated, attempted to break up in disorder a convention he could not control by threats. The Governor is the last man who ought to speak of the disgraceful scenes of that body.

Scarred Democrats, who never failed to give generous support to the nominees of our party, are now denounced as traitors because they are unwilling to be led and have their political faith questioned by men who basely betrayed their party in 1896, and who still denounce its splendid platform and who are now conspiring to prevent Alabama next year from sending to the national convention that will vote as a unit for the renomination of the ablest and most patriotic Democrat now living, Some good Democrats are unwittingly lending their aid to this movement.

Here the Governor seeks to frighten silver Democrats to his support by dragging in the money question. He cannot do it. Most of us have left enough discretion to know when we are called upon to uphold a national policy of the party. Just at this time we are engaged in a struggle to relieve our State of a load of ignorance and vice, and no national scarecrow can frighten us from our purpose. The Governor may appeal for support to Populists, whose treachery defeated Bryan and elected Republican Congressmen in Alabama; we are glad to have the help at this time of the gold bugs who did no worse, and most of whom like men obeyed the party mandate. At the proper time we will see that Alabama remains true to silver; and at the same time, with the negro disfranchised, we will send silver Congressman to Washington who will not be unseated, and we will return to the Senate a man whose record for silver is untarnished and whose ability is unquestioned. The Governor's scarecrow will not work at this point.

I count myself fortunate to still deserve the opposition of the editors and editorial writers of nearly every newspaper in Alabama that deserted the Democratic party in 1896.

How about the opposition of some ninety of those papers who did not desert the party in 1896, and whose editors are still as firm in their support of the Chicago platform as any who are supporting the Governor, and firmer than most of them?

Altogether the address of the Governor is full of the veriest demagoguery, and will appeal to no reasonable Democrat. It will please Populists and Republicans, and they will receive it with ostensible favor, while they laugh in their sleeves at the prospects of its creating some dissension in the Democratic ranks.

In contradistinction to this document we present the address of Chairman Lowe. It will need no comment.

ADDRESS TO DEMOCRATS.

Birmingham, Ala., April 22, 1899.

To the Democratic and Conservative Party of Alabama:

At a meeting of the State executive committee of the Democratic and conservative party of Alabama, held in Montgomery yesterday, 21st instant, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, The Democratic caucus of the general assembly endorsed the call for a constitutional convention; and,

"Whereas, The State convention of the Democratic party is the highest party authority in the State; and,

"Whereas, The State convention has endorsed the call and has made the same a party issue; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the chairman of the committee be and he is hereby instructed to appoint a campaign committee, of which he himself shall be chairman, to take charge of the campaign for the election of the constitutional convention and the election of the Democratic nominees, State and county.

"Resolved, That this committee is opposed to the repeal of the act calling a constitutional convention."

By direction of the committee I appeal now to the Democracy of Alabama to rally around the standard which the party has raised. The majority has spoken, and the majority should rule. No organization can long endure which disregards the right of the majority to rule. Those who are wisest and best amongst us have declared that the welfare of Alabama depends upon the issue now presented.

It is understood that the Populist party opposes it.

A Democratic Governor approved it.

The Democratic State convention declared in favor of a constitutional convention by a vote of two to one, and your State committee on yesterday, in the foregoing resolution, declared it to be a party issue.

If there be wisdom, patriotism and conservatism in the Democratic party in Alabama, then this measure is wise, patriotic and conservative.

It is not to be believed that a general assembly composed of a majority of Democrats in both houses will rescind their own act, and thereby refuse to abide the judgment and mandate of the party so clearly and repeatedly asserted.

It would be untimely to undertake to set forth here the reasons which have been deemed sufficient to make this measure a party issue.

At a proper time and as soon as it may be practicable to begin this campaign, your Senators and representatives in the Congress of the United States, your nominees and all other orators and writers will again present to the people the reasons for the faith your party has professed. In the meantime let us hope that every patriot who loves Alabama, and every Democrat who loves his party will give his voice and influence in this emergency to the preservation of party harmony and the maintenance of party organization.

This is not the time to dally or to doubt. The people of Alabama are about to determine at the polls whether or not a new constitution shall be adopted. Let them not be deprived of the opportunity to determine this question. Who questions that they will determine wisely? Who is afraid to trust the people?

The Democracy desires the honor, the welfare and glory of Alabama, and in this spirit now appeals to a liberty-loving, God-fearing and patriotic people to rise up to the measure of this great emergency.

ROBERT J. LOWE, Chairman.

THE Huntsville Tribune, a Republican paper, which has been fighting the constitutional convention, comes out now in favor of the disfranchisement of the negro. Charlie Lane, the editor, says that it is necessary to pure elections in Alabama.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of one Fi. Fa. issued from the circuit court of Shelby County, and to me directed, I will proceed to sell in front of the courthouse door, in the town of Columbiana, on the 24th day of April, 1899, within the legal hours of sale, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property, to-wit;

The interest of Mrs. Minnie J. Gist in the following described lands: The northeast ¼ of the northwest ¼ and that part of the southeast ¼ of the northwest ¼ lying north of the Montevallo and Columbiana road, all in section 5, township 24, range 13 east, and containing 45 acres, more or less. All in Shelby County, Alabama.

Levied upon as the property of Mrs. Minnie J. Gist, to satisfy said Fi. Fa. in my hands in favor of S. Jamison & Son.

This 24th day of March, 1899.

E. F. VEST, Sheriff.

E. F. VEST, Sheriff.

Notice.

There will be a meeting of the stock holders of The Climax Coal Co. at its office at Maylene, Ala., on May 15, 1899, at 10 o'clock a. m. for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year and transacting such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

By Mrs. F. W. GIST.

The ladies of the Baptist church here organized on last Monday a Ladies Missionary and Aid Society. Their first entertainment, which promises to be a novel and interesting affair, will be given at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Rowe on Friday night of next week—namely a poverty party. Gentlemen must wear hickory shirts and jeans pants and ladies calico dresses with no ruffles. Persons violating these instructions must pay a fine. Let everybody dress well and wear lots of ruffles. We are much gratified at this organization. The Baptist church here have some of the livest, most energetic women in the community. It is hoped every lady member of that church will come forward and identify herself with this society.

The Presbyterian juvinile society will next meet at the residence of Rev. W. I. Sinnott on Saturday of next week, at 4 p. m. sharp.

TO THE CLUB WOMEN.

Take up the woman's burden.
"Send forth the best ye breed"
And bind with clubs and axiums
To serve your country's need.
Then wait in ready harness
Til shown your fondest work
Among this world so tarnished.
Ye dare not shrink or shirk.

Take up the woman's burden.
"In patience to abide
To veil the threat of terror
And check the show of pride;
By open speech and simple
An hundred times made plain,
Go seek anothers profit
And work anothers gain."

Take up the woman's burden,
Thy duty a labor of love
And seek the ignorant, benighted,
Help enlighten and improve.
Yea! shed a ray of sunshine
And reap for aye a beaming smile,
Go lift the peoples children
From ignorance, bondage, exile.

Take up the woman's burden,
And heed the myriads call,
Then make this life worth living
If you dare to live at all.
Just smooth the roughest places,
Dive deep in miseries pit
And do your duty gracious
As should a woman befit.

Take up the woman's burden,
And work! not for reward,
Nor greed, nor adulation,
Nor peoples pomp or pride,
Go battle with the masses
Even to the prison cells,
And never choose your classes,
But battle! both wise and well.

Take up the woman's burden,
And bear this burden brave,
Ye are the country's rescue
How dare ye be a knave.
We'll bind this queenly nation
To higher motives still,
Let's work this whole creation
And heal its thousand ills.

LITERATURE IN THE SCHOOL.

BY MRS. W. W. WALLACE.

Read at Teacher's Institute in Wilsonville last week.

The teacher who realizes the dignity and responsibility of his high vocation cannot rest satisfied with the knowledge that he has imparted a certain number of facts, carried the pupil through the usual course in mathematics, or acquainted him to a certain degree with the sciences. He recognizes that the more important part of his work is to develop character, to unfold to the pupil the possibilities of his nature, to point out to him that realm to which God has given him a title if he will surmount the difficulties that lie in the way.

To some of us is given the holy task of training children, whose minds can wander at will through vast regions its borderland we can but touch. Still, if we but wisely lead them as far as we can go, we may leave them in possession of a heritage which will grow richer with the passing years. When my honored father was giving John T. Morgan his first lessons in English, he had no dream that the bright young boy would become the pride of Alabama, the silver-tongued orator whose fame would be national. Nor do you, my fellow-teacher, know the height which some of your pupils may attain. The mischievous little urchin whom you surprise while laughing over your own carricature may perchance be a Thackery in embryo; or the boy who gravitates naturally to a workshop at playtime, rightly handled, may grow into a fine architect. That awkward youth, acutely conscious of his disabilities, may yet be a Spurgeon, whose utterances will be heard throughout the world; or that shy little girl a Julia Tutwiler, a Clara Barton or a Frances Willard, with whose life work our little efforts may not be compared.

Naturally the teacher will avail himself of all the outside help he can get, and in good literature he finds the very thing he wants. A good book assimilated becomes an actual part of one's self, uplifting the whole nature, forever shutting the door of the mind against the worthless literature that is flooding our land to-day. By training the pupil to read standard works, the teacher may create a demand for such literature as will effectually diminish this ever increasing tide of vitiating trash that is such a menace to our age. It is well to have some good books in easy reach of the student, so that he may read for recreation as well as for profit.

For implanting a taste for historical reading I think Abbott's Histories can not be surpassed. The style is fascinating and the story of each nation is short enough to hold the attention of small children. For acquiring beauty of expression it would not be amiss to use our own inimitable Irving. Louise Alcott's works would be of great service in developing the better side of a child's nature. For young ladies the books of Charlotte Younge or Miss Muloch would be more suitable. Their heroines are so essentially feminine, so endowed with modesty, delicacy and refinement that they must profit a young woman. Besides, the keynote to their writings is faithfullness to duty, which if engrafted on any character will make that life a success in the highest sense.

It was no accident that gave to the world the great minds whose productions adorned the Elizabethian era in literature, but a logical outcome of the fact that the minds of the English people were fed upon the Scriptures. The common people expressed themselves in Scripture language. The human mind being elastic accommodates itself to the thoughts that find lodgement in the brain; and the natural sequence was a race of intellectual giants. The wonderful ability of the Scotch people to day is largely due to their familiarity with the Holy Book. And with all my heart I believe that a daily reading and assimilation of a small portion of the Bible will, if continued, bring about the best results of which any given mind is capable.

There are certain works of fiction that are helpful to young and old. Books of this nature are of incalculable assistance in forming character. No boy can read Tom Brown's School Days without admiring the honest, downright, manly character of the hero and instinctively measuring himself by the sturdy young Briton. His acquaintance, too, with that prince of teachers, Thomas Arnold, will enable him to understand his own teacher more thoroughly; and instead of the stern tyrant he sees the sympathizing friend whose large experience reveals to him danger in practices which to a boy appear harmless. Some of the wisest teachers whom I have known have influenced their charges by indirection. There is something in a person nearing maturity that seems to rebel against either advice or reproof given in a direct manner. Perhaps it is Nature's assertion of the individuality of each human soul; and she certainly sets her bounds—"Thus far and no farther shalt thou go." Respect for elders may compel obedience, but we can see the chafing at the bit and know that our seeming victory amounts to little. Do we wish to inspire a child with sympathy for the helpless, the poor, or even the wayward? Put Dickens into his hands and the great writer will surely find and touch his heart if he has one. Not only did Charles Dickens revolutionize the schools, prisons and almshouses of England, but to-day, though dead, he is speaking to the great heart of humanity, and pleading for helplessness everywhere.

Would you engraft a little worldly wisdom upon the character of the young? No man has so successfully portrayed the great world, from king to scullion, from queen to kitchen maid, as has Thackery. Do you wish to give a boy the model of a gentleman, to show him the marks of a snob, to convince him that a supposed harmless habit of drinking will convert him into something less than a cipher? Thackeray will do all this and more without calling forth that innate resistance that is so strong that we feel it even when unexpressed. Besides, no one can teach more clearly that the sweetest pleasures in life are those that leave no sting; that devotion to the trivialities of the world will dwarf a man mentally as well as morally; and that a truly noble character will command the respect, aye, reverence, of mankind, even if stripped of all the accessories of wealth or fame.

A fine delineation of the ennobling effect of self-abnegation on human character is found in a volume of Bulwer's entitled, What Will He do With It? I have read this book several times, and never without the purest enjoyment. In fact, the school library should contain the best books in all lines. A teacher can have no more valuable adjunct to his work. It is hardly too much to say that a liberal education would be impossible without a fair acquaintance with standard English authors. Some of us may have pupils of more than ordinary ability who will be denied college training. For these solid literature, abounding in seed thoughts, should be provided. To such an one a book like Carlyle's Sartor Resartus would be an inexhaustible mine. It seems that sometimes the Grand Schoolmaster places His choicest spirits where they can have least help from the thoughts of other men: perhaps for the purpose of preserving their individuality. In such a case the help provided should be of a solid, lasting character. Great thoughts should be implanted in such a mind: thoughts almost beyond the comprehension; thoughts whose fullness will gradually dawn upon the recipient as he feels his mind expand under their quickening influence. Ah! that teacher is surely wise who summons to his aid the treasure houses of the ages.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enouga to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

10 CENTS IN SILVER

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Munnia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the perfect preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

ENDEAVOR ENTERTAINMENT.

A Very Enjoyable Evening at White House.

Last Friday evening the entertainment given by the Christian Endeavor at the White House was quite a success. The programme published in advance was followed, and a large crowd of guests thoroughly enjoyed it.

The music and recitations were very much enjoyed, each number being well rendered.

The debate was the feature of the occasion, and the novelty of its conduct made it especially attractive. The participants resolved themselves into a legislative body, and with G E. Mason as speaker, and J. R. White as clerk, made of the debate a parliamentary wrangle, which was more enjoyed by the crowd than a regular debate. After many motives and much voting, the discussion of the main question was indefinitely postponed.

It was a happy idea of the Endeavor Society, and the applause received good evidence of the successful rendition of the programme.

If you wish to accomplish much in this world you must go to the bottom of things and if you wish to enjoy continued good health you must take Simmons Liver Regulator, the remedy for biliousness, constipation sick headache, indigestion and all liver and stomach diseases. As you value your health refuse substitutes for Simmons Liver Regulator. The word Regulator is on every package. Be sure you see it there.

Harpersville.

Farmers are busy planting.

Sheriff Vest was in our community last week looking after the violaters.

W. A. Gorman, of Childersburg, spent Saturday night here with his mother.

Borum and Rowe have bought out the old stock of goods in the brick store and have moved into the same.

E. V. Caldwell will go over to Birmingham this week and will go into the real estate business. His family will remain here.

The people on Kelleys Creek in this county are terribly wrought up over the establishing of the boundary line between Shelby and St. Clair. It is very probable that some of the Shelby people will be thrown over into St. Clair County, and if they are, such another kicking you have never heard.

Rev. Mr. Roberts filled his appointment last Sunday.

Governor Johnston's last act has about killed him politically here.

The school here will close about the 19th of next month.

TO GOVERNOR JOHNSTON—Now, Governor, what made you go and crawfish as you have done? You had some warm supporters here in the last two elections who are astonished at your course. But we were told by some of your friends, who used to fish with you in the Coosa, and roam with you in the forest, came back home with you, and who have been with you a great deal since, who did not support you in the primaries, but did in the elections, that you would not do, but we did not believe it then. Now, Governor, you have something else in view, which is probably this: You want to go to the United States Senate by this route: that at the next State election a Johnston man will be elected Governor and a majority of the legislature will be that kind, and you may think that Morgan and Pettus may have served out their time by then, and you, with this Governor and legislature's influence, will step right into the Senate. Now, Governor, I am not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but this is all bosh. The Democrats of this grand State of ours are not going to elect another Johnston man for Governor in a long time; in fact, I don't believe they ever will again, and you had better drive your team in another direction if you expect to get home for supper. Now, Governor, I have whooped you up, voted and worked for you very hard in the last few years, and if it was all to do over and I knew no more about you now than I did then, I would do the same. Now the time has come for us to part; so, goodbye. But, say, we find somewhere these lines: "That while the lamp holds out to burn the vilest sinner may return." Governor, I don't mean to say you're a vile sinner, but if you are going to be dictated to by those disgruntled officeseekers, Pops and Republicans, you are a very poor Democrat.

Brush Heap Burns Down.

The burning of a brush heap on the premises of Rev. H. M. Millstead last Thursday night created considerably more excitement than usually attaches to such commonplace occurences. The brush was on a piece of ground recently cleared by Mr. Millstead and lies directly between his house and the business portion of the city. Several people who were on the streets and saw the blaze turned in an alarm of fire, thinking some house was being destroyed. The ringing of bells and firing of pistols collected a large crowd upon the streets, but none went farther than the courthouse, each one positively asserting that he knew all the time what it was, and only ventured so far to see how many were thoughtful enough to bring their buckets. However, the fact that a great many people did appear upon the streets demonstrates once more the efficiency of our "fire department" and the willingness and promptness with which our citizens respond on all such occasions.

Letter From Texas.

EDITOR CHRONICLE.

Having lived in the old county of Shelby for a period of ten years it is quite natural that I should form some attachments for her people, and after being away from there for more than two years it naturally occurs to me that I would like to speak to my acquaintances through the columns of your paper if this you will allow.

After being confined closely for a few years in the mercantile life it became necessary that I should take some rest and outdoor exercise and prompted by this thought, Gainsville, Alabama, was made my abiding place for two months and that after the Black Warrior River had been terribly swolen, made it hard for me and I concluded to try another abode than that, and moved my headquarters to Beeville, Texas, where I remained for four months. At this point I found it quite improving to my health as well as pleasant to take a twenty or thirty mile ride every day upon my new bike in this beautiful level country, where I could roll with but little exertion, and when too it was an eye feast to one being raised in the hills and in the timbers, and when I contrast this country, to that along side Cawaxie creek where H. C. DuBose and I often tried to climb over in our hurried chases after birds.

I realize that the Maker of this world certainly had a preference for the people he expected to put here or had a grudge at the ones he expected to put back there among those hills where holding-back straps are needed to descend as well as extra exertion to climb them.

At Beeville I fell in with a jolly young fellow who accompanied me in my travels through all the border counties along side the Rio Grande, both in Mexico and in Texas where we scarcely ever met any Americans except the Astec or Mexican who only talked the Spanish language.

My companion, who spoke the Spanish language like a native, and I finding a good opening in the cattle business, we began to buy cattle all along the Rio Grande where but few Americans cared to go and to endure the hardships; we were mounted on good horses and with a blanket strapped on our saddle and some little provisions in a "Moral" on the horn of our saddle stopping wherever night would overtake us and there reposing upon mother earth. Thus we traveled from Brownsville to Eagle Pass, Texas, visiting the various ranches; the deep rich soil, equable climate, the large open prairies ready for cultivation by the farmer, can not fail to attract the eye of home seekers. The variety of soil is great, in some a light sandy, in others a dark sandy loam, and in still others a deep, rich, black soil, varying from four to ten feet in depth.

The staple crop, corn, cotton, fruit and vegetables grow in luxuriance. Every part of this section of the country is swept by the cool, refreshing salt breeze that destroys malarial germs and fever, the scourge of so many rich agricultural districts of Southern latitudes is unknown.

Those from the extreme north can labor in the open air in the hottest months and enjoy health and comfort. The waters along the east side teem with millions of fish and oysters, and easy and cheap transportation to the markets of the world is afforded.

In the fall and winter months thousands of swan, geese, ducks and other wild fowl swarm along the shores, while the inlands abound with deer, cat, wolves and other wild animals, and the sportsman has a paradise.

There are but few negroes in this part of the State and the political race trouble that disturbs the black belts will never occur. Immigration is beginning to pour into this country and the large pastures of from 50,000 to 100,000 acres are being cut up to furnish homes for those who have decided to leave the thickly settled region of the older states; these ranches are being disposed of at prices ranging from $1 to $5 per acre upon small cash payment and long time at a low rate of interest, thus placing it in the power of all those who desire to have a home.

Yours,
W. B. HUBBARD.

Proposed Confederate Veterans' Reunion.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:—Admit a few lines in reply to J. W. Johnston's card in reference to a re-union of the old Confederate Veterans. I indorse all that Comrade Johnston said, and wish that he had said more. By all means, let us have the re-union! I have seen Private Brasher, and he approves of every step in that direction, provided it is indorsed by Private I. D. Mason. I would suggest that a representative veteran from each beat meet at J. W. Johnston's store in Columbiana on Saturday, May 20, for the purpose of appointing the time and place for the re-union. I want everyone that indorses this to go to work, that we may have a good time, with every old Confederate in the county present.

Kidney Complexion.

The pale, sallow, sunken-cheeked, distressed-looking people you so often meet are afflicted with kidney complexion.

They may also have indigestion, or suffer from sleeplessness, rheumatism, neuralgia, brain trouble, nervous exhaustion, and sometimes the heart acts badly.

Usually the sufferer from kidney disease does not find out what the trouble it until it is almost too late, because the first symptoms are so like mild sickness that they do not think they need a medicine or doctor until they find themselves sick in bed.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root will build up and strengthen their weak and diseased kidneys, purify their diseased, kidney-poisoned blood, clear their complexion and soon they will enjoy better health.

You can get the regular sizes at the drug store at 50 cents and $1, or you may first prove for yourself the wonderful virtues of this great discovery. Swamp Root, by sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle and a book that tells all about, both sent to you absolutely free by mail. When writing kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in THE CHRONICLE.

CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the worlds with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better that it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

Wooden Cannon.

Quaker guns, that is the trunks of trees, blackened to look like cannon, have often been used to deceive the enemy, but in the Chinese civil wars of three years ago actual cannon made of wood were used. They were made from the trunks of hardwood trees, shaped, bored by means of red-hot pipes from the sugar mills, dried in hot-air draughts and bound with strong ox hides. They made fairly serviceable artillery, one piece being fired more than a hundred times before showing signs of weakness. The projectiles were scrap iron, stones and fire-hardened clay. At the taking of Amoy, wooden cannon used by the Chinese were found, and bamboo artillery has been employed by the Japanese.

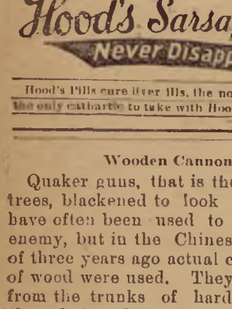
MRS. ELIZABETH WHEELOCK, Magnolia, Iowa, in the following letter describes her recovery from a very critical condition:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been taking your Vegetable Compound, and am now ready to sound its praises. It has done wonders for me in relieving me of a tumor.



"My health has been poor for three years. Change of life was working upon me. I was very much bloated and was a burden to myself. Was troubled with smothering spells, also palpitation of the heart and that bearing-down feeling, and could not be on my feet much.

"I was growing worse all the time until I took your medicine.

"After taking three boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Lozenges, the tumor passed from me.

"My health has been better ever since, can now walk quite a distance and am troubled no more with palpitation of the heart or bloating. I recommend your medicine to all sufferers from female troubles."

It is hardly reasonable to suppose that any one can doubt the efficiency of Mrs. Pinkham's methods and medicine in the face of the tremendous volume of testimony.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

NOTES OF INTEREST ON AGRICULTURAL TOPICS.

Rolling Down Stubble Land—To Prevent Cattle Bloat—Simple Butter Making—Beyond the Chemist, Etc., Etc.

Rolling Down Stubble Land.

The bulk of snow the past winter has been everywhere great enough to break down last year's grain stubble, so that it will not be in the way when mowing the clover next June. But there is still the necessity of rolling the surface so as to press down the loose stones, which are worse than clover in mowing fields. This should be done while the ground is still moist, so that the stones may be pressed level with the surface. This rolling has an excellent effect on young clover, compacting the soil around the roots and making it grow much better. It should be done early before the clover starts to grow, as rolling clover while it is growing crushes the leaves and injures the whole after growth.

To Prevent Cattle Bloat.

At a farmer's meeting held in Arizona a gentleman said that for six years he had kept from fifteen to thirty cows and kept them as fat as they ought to be for milk and never lost a cow from bloat. His remedy is to make the cows stand with their front feet a little higher than their hind ones, and he believes this kept them from bloating. Another man recommended all the dry feed the cows would eat before turning them on alfalfa, but if turned upon the alfalfa when the dew is upon it and the cows hungry, there is still danger.

Simple Butter Making.

In the small dairy the cost of butter production must be reduced to the smallest possible figure that will result in a first-class product to compete in any degree with the creamery. This method for a small churning, say ten to thirty pounds, will be found simple and inexpensive. The box or barrel churn is most in use and is generally satisfactory. Churn until the butter granules are as large as wheat, then dash in cold water equal in quantity to the cream originally used. Revolve the churn rapidly a few times, draw off the buttermilk and then fill the churn nearly full of cold water. Turn rapidly until the butter is firm to the touch, when it will be ready to salt. If too firm, as sometimes happens in cold weather, add enough warm water to soften it. Add the salt and turn the churn a few times slowly to incorporate thoroughly the salt with the butter. Let it stand until the butter forms a mass, press down firm with the masher, turn over, set the mass on edge with a ladle and press down again, when it will be ready for packing or putting up in prints, whichever is best for the market to be supplied. In larger quantities the butter would have to be worked and taken from the churn, but with small churnings all of the work is done in the churn and the result is very satisfactory.—Atlanta Journal.

Beyond the Chemist.

A debt of gratitude of considerable size is owing to the chemist by the owner of the cow for telling him what feds he must use in order to get the greatest return in milk for the feed feeds he must use in order to get the in it certain ingredients, and in certain feeds he has found the same ingredients; and the careful experimenter has demonstrated that to get the milk we must feed the feed containing the same ingredients as does the milk. But the cow has certain predilections of her own and of two things that the chemist says have the same ingredients, of the one she will give a fair mess of milk while of the other she will not. A pound of corn cobs is worth from two to three times as much as a pound of ensilage, but put a mess of corn cobs before one cow and a mess of ensilage before another, and see which gives the most milk.

There is no reflection upon the work of the chemist in this. There undoubtedly is from two to three times as much feed value in a pound of corn cobs as there is in a pound of ensilage, only it is not in such a form as is best suited to the cow. Now this is an extreme case. But is it not fair to suppose that in the commoner stuffs there are certain feeds or certain combinations of feed that have the same chemical value, yet the one is better for feeding than the other? Since we cannot take the stand that a pound of protein is a pound of protein wherever found, would it not be advisable to find out just what pounds of protein are most valuable? Linseed meal for an example has in addition to its feeding value a value as a medicine in keeping the bowels in good condition. Now may it not be true that some feeds, by reason of their action upon the digestive organs, are worth more than their mere feeding value?

The farmer is not the man to determine these questions, for he has neither the time nor the means at hand, but it seems to me that such a question would well repay the time of some of our experiment stations.—P. B. Crosby in Farm, Field and Fireside.

The Fuchsia as a Bedding Plant.

The fuschia, although of tropical origin, will not stand the intense heat of our summer sun, consequently is very seldom used as a bedding plant for lawn purposes. However, my most attractive flower bed for years has been one of fuchsias. Every building has a north side to it and it is in such a place that I constructed my fuchsia bed. This bed was shaded from the sun during the entire day with the exception of three hours in the morning, yet the fuchsias grew, thrived and blossomed in profusion.

In making the bed, which was three feet wide and twelve feet long; eighteen inches of the surface soil was removed, as it was largely composed of clay. The bed was then filled with a composition of thoroughly decayed marsh muck, manure and leaf mold equal parts. Pot plants were set in the bed the last of May and arranged according to color. The best effect was produced by planting four rows lengthways of the bed, setting plants one foot apart in the row or closer, for immediate effect. The border row was composed of Speciosa, a very free-blooming single sort, the next row Black Prince single, third row Storm King and the last row composed of Phenomenal. The contrast procured by this arrangement is very effective and pleasing.

With a little management a stock of plants can easily be carried over in the cellar, large enough to plant a bed the size mentioned. In the fall after the first killing frost the plants can be lifted, cut back to the stumps, heeled in in boxes of soil and placed in the cellar for the next summer, when they can be reset. With the exception of an occasional watering this flower bed will require no other care during the summer, and in a few weeks from time of setting out will be covered with beautiful blossoms and as the season advances will become more attractive every day.—W. J. Moyle in The American Agriculturist.

No one grass is best suited for the permanent pasture. A judicious mixture has always been found to give the best results. A mixture of a few good grasses and many weeds is not the kind referred to, but a proper mixture of well-tested grass plants. Nearly all grass mixtures that we purchase at the seedsman's are supposed to be mixed with an eye single to the best interests of the farmers, but personally I prefer to mix my own grass seeds. It is not at all strange that the seedsmen should scant a little on the varieties that cost the most.

The best varieties of grass for good, all-round, permanent pastures are the common blue grass, orchard grass or meadow fescue. Probably they produce foliage with more of the food-making elements in them than any others. That is, they are rich in potein and gluten. As the grasses must largely decide the condition of the cows, they are called upon to supply flesh, muscle, blood, skin, hair and tendons. Fat is unnecessary. We can lay on fat enough with the grains when we want to top them off for market. Meanwhile, they must have blood, muscle, and fleshmaking food. They must also get most of this from the grass on which they are pastured most of the growing season.

Kentucky blue grass is largely used for pasture fields, but as a rule it is so slow in furnishing good, permanent pastures that it should occupy only a secondary consideration in the mixture. Its catch is less certain than any of the others, and it really does not furnish good grazing until five or six years.

Orchard grass probably gives the quickest and best results of any, and in any mixture it should occupy a high percentage. In from twelve to fourteen months it supplies a good pasture. Moreover, it catches readily on a great variety of soils. It will also thrive in all sorts of weather. Neither the heat, dry spells, cold and freezing will not dislodge it after its roots once get established. But on account of the more permanent character of the Kentucky blue grass I think it would be a mistake to use all orchard grass and none of the latter.

On a good soil where seeding is observed occasionally a permanent pasture land ought to be kept flourishing for upwards of twenty years. Besides seeding occasionally in poor places, the land should be enriched occasionally with top dressings of manure. Close cropping should never be permitted.—

Cattle for the General Farm.

What kind of cattle shall the general farmer raise? The general farmer is the man that follows diversified farming, corn, wheat, barley, hay, oats and horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. He neither devotes all of his land to raising one kind of grain, nor feeds all of his crops to one kind of stock. He does not depend upon one thing entirely for his income, as does the specialist. Stock are kept in order to feed the crops raised on the farm to the greatest advantage and to preserve as much of the fertilizer constituents of the crops raised as possible. But there are obstacles to specialized farming that at present seem insurmountable. Cattle are kept on these farms for two purposes, to furnish milk and butter and to produce meat. The milk and butter products are primarily for the use of the farmer's family, and the surplus is usually sold in the open market. The calves are raised by hand on skim milk, and the steers are kept until they are two or three years old and then sold to local butchers or to shippers. The heifers are kept to replace their mothers, or else sold as milch cows. It is very evident that the special dairy cow is not suited to this class of farmers, although she would admirably fill the requirements for milk and butter, yet her calves would be worthless for feeding purposes. On the other hand the special beef cow cannot fill the bill, because she cannot yield enough milk to supply the family wants and raise her calf. Neither can the farmer afford to keep both classes, one to supply milk and butter and the other to supply feeding cattle.

But the kind of cattle demanded must be a combination of both the beef and dairy animal, or as Professor Shaw has christened them, the dual purpose cattle. They must produce a good quantity of fairly rich milk and their calves must make good feeding cattle. The cow herself must be of good size and capable of being fattened easily, so that when her days of usefulness are passed as a milch cow she may be easily fattened for beef. Although the dual purpose cattle stand midway between dairy and beef cattle, they do not result from the first cross, any more than the hackney results from a cross between a heavy draft horse and a trotting horse. But they form distinct breeds and the breeding of dual purpose cattle requires as much and if any difference, more skill than the breeding of special purpose cattle. The dairy quality must not be developed at the expense of the beef quality nor the beef at the expense of the dairy. Both qualities must be advanced together, and it takes skill and experience in breeding to do it.

Probably no one breed is ideal as dual purpose cattle, but the Shorthorn, the Red Polled and the Devon approach most nearly to it. It is from these breeds that the general farmer must look for his supply of dual purpose cattle. The breeders of these should recognize the importance of developing both the beef and dairy qualities, and all tendency to breed for single or special purposes should be eliminated.—H. E. Price in the Orange, Ind Farmer.

An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, SYRUP OF FIGS, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

NOTES OF SCIENCE.

It is now pretty thoroughly settled that the British and Germans will work together in the Antarctic expedition that it is proposed to send out next year for two years exploration work in and about Victoria Land. The location of the southern magnetic pole will be one of the labors of the party, elaborate plans for which are now being perfected in Germany. The Royal Geographical Society of Great Britain has raised nearly $200,000 to carry on the work of the English section of the expedition.

A German chemist, Dr. Goldschmidt, has discovered the process of reducing chromium with aluminum so as to procure a very pure metallic chromium at a cost of but a few marks per kilogram. The metal will not oxydize in the open air, and he is now at work trying to find a method by which this cheap chromium may be utilized to plate articles as is now done with nickel. It would be much more stable as a plating then nickel, would be cheaper, and in every way valuable in the mechanic arts.

Gutta percha is now at the highest price in its history, and a question has arisen as to where the supply would come from in case it is decided to to build a cable across the Pacific ocean to our new possessions in the Philippine Islands. So short is the supply of gutta percha that cable people say that if this cable is laid it will be the last one that will be laid until some new insulating material is discovered that will take the place of gutta percha.

Having overcome the difficulty of electrical disturbances in their cables across the river, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad company will operate a telephone and telegraph circuit at the same time over the same wire between their offices in this city and various points on the line of the road in New Jersey. Experiments on this line have proved very satisfactory, and experts see no reason why the scheme should not be successfully carried out.

The Ousatonic Power company of Derby, Conn., is preparing to erect a dam at Zoar Bridge on the Housatonic river, to be 400 feet long, 35 feet high, and of about 20,000 water power. This power will be utilized for the distribution of electric light, power, and heat through New Haven and Fairfield counties. It is proposed to feed with the power thus generated, New Haven, Bridgeport, Waterbury, Danbury, South Norwalk, and other towns and cities of lesser importance. Work will be begun on the plant this summer, and the projectors expect to be able to transmit the power without material loss over a distance of at least thirty miles.

How to Save Labor in Spring Cleaning.

Spring cleaning is no longer the labor it was in the days of our grandmothers. Women understand how to save themselves by the use of modern conveniences. When beginning the work everything should be in readiness—tacks, hammers, brooms, with a supply of Ivory Soap (which is the best for all cleaning purposes), lime, ammonia and carbolic acid. Good weather should be selected, and only one or two rooms cleaned at a time; air and sunshine should be freely admitted.

Novel Temperance Scheme.

A manufacturer at Three Oaks, Ind., has just inaugurated a temperance reform in that town that is at once novel and apparently practicable. This man, who has several hundred employees, recently offered to pay into the village treasury annually an amount equal to the license fees derived from the saloons if the authorities would abolish the saloons and make the town "dry." If the offer was refused he threatened to move his factory to another town.

The proposition was submitted to the council and it in turn referred the matter to the people at a special election. The result was an overwhelming victory for temperance. The saloons will be closed, the village treasury will receive the annual payment promised and the factory will not be removed.—Cleveland Leader.

DEPARTMENT HEARS OF REBEL REQUEST

For an Armistice in the Philippines. Court of Inquiry Completes Its Work and Adjourns—Miles' Charges Not Sustained.

General Otis telegraphed the war department Friday morning that the commanding general of the insurgents has received from the insurgent government directions to suspend hostilities pending negotiations for the termination of war and that the insurgent staff officers arrived at Manilla for that purpose. The text of General Otis' dispatch was:

"Adjutant General, Washington:

"After taking Calumpit MacArthur's division crossed the Rio Grand river in the face of great obstacles, driving the enemy back on the railroad two miles. MacArthur reports that passage of the river a remarkable military achievement, the success of which is due to the daring skill and determination of Colonel Funston, under discriminating control of Gen. Wheaton. Casualties slight; number not yet ascertained.

"This morning chief of staff from commanding general of the insurgent forces entered our lines to express admiration of the wonderful feat of the American army in forcing the passage of the river, which was thought to be impossible. The staff officer reports that the insurgent commander has received from the insurgent government directions to suspend hostilities pending negotiations for the termination of the war. The staff officer with party is now en route to Manila and will arrive soon.

"Lawton's forces well in hand in vicinity of Angal, east of Calumpit, where he is waiting supplies to be sent tomorrow. Yesterday morning a force of 1,500 insurgents attacked troops at Taguig; driven back by Washington regiment. Our loss was two killed, eleven wounded.

The war court of inquiry has completed its report and adjourned. The report was submitted to the president Saturday afternoon.

The verdict is known to be that the charges which General Miles made before the war investigation commission are not sustained in reference to the refrigerated beef, although his contention that the canned roast beef was not a suitable continuous ration is admitted. There is direct criticism of General Miles for failing to promptly bring to the attention of the war department the reports made to him concerning bad beef, and several individuals "are censured for failing to observe the proprieties of their positions as commanding officers in this and other respects."

The court takes the position that the testimony is conclusive that both the refrigerated beef and the canned beef were in good condition when delivered to the government, and continued so until issued to the troops, except in special instances where the deterioration was due to accident in condition or the tropical climate.

General Robert P. Kennedy, president of the Insular Commission, has returned from his tour of inspection of Porto Rico. Mr. Curtis is the only member of the board now absent, and he is expected this week, when a meeting of the board will beheld and preparation for the commissions report be gun.

General Kennedy declined to anticipate the probable recommendations of the board, but he spoke eulogistically of the people and soil of Porto Rico. "It is," said he, "one of the most fertile lands on the globe, and the people are calculated to become good citizens. They are industrious, intelligent and hospitable and loyal to the United States."

General Kennedy said in reply to a question that he heard very little talk of a territorial form of government for the island.

"The Imperial Postmaster General has just informed me that your excellency has given your consent to the landing of a new cable on the shores of the United States. This welcome news will create unanimous satisfaction and joy throughout the German Empire, and I thank your excellency most heartily for it. May the new cable unite our two great nations more closely and help to promote peace, prosperity and good will among their people."

President McKinley replied as follows:

"I have received with pleasure your majesty's telegram regarding the joining of the two continents by a direct cable. It afforded genuine gratification to give consent to the landing of this new cable on the shores of the United States and more so as I saw therein an opportunity to further the high mission of international telegraphy in drawing closer the distant nations and bringing their peoples into more intimate associations in interests of mutual advantage, good will and amity. That the new cable will prove an additional bond between the two countries is my fervent wish and hope."

Senator McBride, of Oregon, has received a letter from the adjutant-general saying that General Otis has been instructed to discharge every volunteer who makes application for discharge and that it will hereafter be useless to make applications to the department for the discharge of individual voluntees, as the entire matter has been turned over to General Otis.

END OF THE STRIKE.

Trouble at Pana Will Soon Be Over. Victory for Union.

Indications are that the coming week will see the end of the miners' strike, which for the past thirteen months has kept this part of the state in a turmoil, has cost twenty lives by riot and encounters growing out of constant friction between union and non-union workmen and has cost the state thousands of dollars in the maintenance of a military guard.

Daniel J. Keefe, president of the state labor board, and others, have held several conferences within the last few days to arrange plans for a settlement. The result has not been made public, but Thomas D. Keligar, a member of the state labor bureau, said:

"The trouble will soon be satisfactorily settled and union miners will be reinstated in the mines. My understanding is the unison will recognized, the negroes will be sent back to Alabama and the scale will be either mutually agreed upon between the operators and the miners or left to the state arbitration board."

ENVOYS SENT TO GEN. LUNA.

MacArthur Sends Money and Provisions to American Prisoners.

MANILA, May 2.—General MacArthur has sent officers to General Antonio Luna, the Filipino commander, under a flag of truce, carrying money and provisions for American prisoners in his hands and asking an exchange of prisoners and the names of such as he may have.

It is reported that the insurgents have two officers and sixteen others, and it is supposed among these are Lieutenant B. C. Gilmore and eleven men of the United States gunboat Yorktown, who fell into the hands of the Filipinos last month when the gunboat visited Baler, on the east coast of Luzon.

Major Bell, with a squad of scouts, has captured the town of Macabebe, about four miles southwest of Calumpit, the people ringing bells and shouting "vivas."

The American army is now employing Macabebes, instead of Chinese, and they are delighted to get 50 cents a day, declaring their loyalty to the Americans.

Major General Lawton is advancing. He has organized a band of forty scouts to go ahead of the column. The band, which is under W. M. Young, an old Indian fighter who killed five Filipinos last week, includes Diamond, Harrington, Somerfield and Murphy, of the Second Oregon regiment.

Yesterday, the anniversary of the battle of Manila bay, was observed by the United States fleet, the usual drills being omitted. Admiral Dewey had many visitors and the American and British merchantmen dressed their ships.

ALABAMA BOYS HOLD A REUNION.

Organization Effected to Be Known as "Alabama Veterans of Spanish-American War."

The first re-union of Alabama volunteer who were in the volunteer army of the United States during the late war with Spain, was held Monday at East Lake. More than 500 members of the Alabama regiments were present to join with their comrades in celebrating the first anniversary, as it was, of the departure of the regiment for Mobile in response to the president's call for volunteers. A permanent organization was effected which will be known as "the Alabama Veterans of the Spanish-American war," which will be open to any member of the First and Second Alabama, or the Fifth Immunes, with an honorable discharge. The purpose of the organization is to preserve the records of the regiment and to foster a fraternal feeling among members who were united in a common purpose.

Another Advance in Wages.

Monday the Sloss Iron and Steel company posted notices at their mines near Birmingham announcing that the wages of coal miners are increased 2½ cents per ton. The advance was due to the advance in the price of iron. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company has not announced the advance, but will doubtless do so as soon as the miners' committee and the company have their customary monthly conference. The miners will now receive 47½ cents per ton. This is higher wages than they have received in years, and is 7½ cents advance since January 1. This advance is the third 2½ cents increase since January 1.

Pythians in Session.

Officers of and representatives to the Twenty-seventh annual convention of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of the Grand Domain of Alabama, convened in Birmingham Monday.

Siezing Cigars With Counterfeit Stamps.

Alabama, like nearly every other state in the union, is flooded with cigars bearing the counterfeit cigar stamp of the Jacobs gang of swindlers of Lancaster, Pa. It is estimated that there are 200,000 of the cigars in the state at present and that 50,000 more are in transit. Already about 150,000 have been seized. Of the total number of these cigars in Alabama probably 50,000 of them are in or immediately about Birmingham. In Mobile alone 50,000 have been seized. They have also been found at Montgomery and Gadsden—everywhere in Alabama, in fact.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt issued Monday shows that at the close of business April 29, 1899, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,172,587,264, an increase during the month of $23,081,701. This is accounted for by the payment of $20,000,000 to Spain in settlement of treaty obligations. The debt is recapitulated as follows:

In the bearing debt $1,046,048,680; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,218,380; debt bearing no interest, $388,447,727; total, $1,435,714,997. This amount does not include $554,356,613 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding, which are offset by an equal amount of cash on hand. The cash in the treasury is classified as follows:

Bond deposits in national banks, disbursing officers, balances, etc., $85,682,064; total, $917,165,517, against which there are demand liabilities outstanding amounting to $654,037,984, which leaves a net cash balance in the treasury of $263,127,533.

A CHURCH DESECRATED.

The Mob Spirit Runs Wild in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Baptist Tabernacle in Atlanta, Ga., the largest church of that denomination in the south and a recently completed structure, was entered Sunday night and considerably damaged. The doors were broken in, the carpets torn up, paint was smeared over the seats and walls and a water tank upset. On the outside of the church were tacked placards bearing such inscriptions as "Negro lover," "Run him out of town," and other sentiments of that nature. One week ago Dr. Broughton denounced the burning of Sam Hose at Newnan and said the lynchers were as much murderers as Hose was. Last week Dr. Broughton received one or two pieces of Hose's flesh, accompanied by threatening letters. Sunday night he denounced the senders of these letters as cowards and expressed his sentiments rather freely regarding them. Dr. Broughton thinks the desecration was performed by sympathizers of those he denounced.

TO DISCUSS LYNCHINGS.

Georgians Will Call a Convention to Devise Remedies for the Existing Evil.

A state convention, which shall have for its mission the discussion of lynching, and whose object shall be to find a remedy for existing conditions, will probably be called to meet in Atlanta as soon as delegates can be selected from the various counties of the state. The convention will not meet for the purpose of condoning the crime, or censuring the work of outraged citizens who dealt out summary punishment to the assailant, but its purpose will be to suggest such changes in the present law as to make it possible for indictment, trial and execution of the guilty to follow in such rapid succession the execution of the crime as to make it impossible for any delay to swell the indignation of the people to a point of frenzy.

Another Bloody Chapter.

News has been received at Little Rock, Ark., of the assassination in Van Buren county of the son of Hugh Patterson, who was murdered in December, 1897, by Lee Mills and Wil Hardin. Mills was hanged, while a few days ago Hardin was shot to death in jail. It is believed that young Patterson was murdered by friends of Hardin in revenge.

Altgeld is Broken Down.

Dr. Senn, attending ex-Gov. John P. Altgeld, of Illinois, stated Sunday night that the ex-Governor had in all probability fought his last political battle. The doctor says ex-Gov. Altgeld is broken down in spirit and is despondent to the last degree, caused chiefly by development of his old ailment, locomotor ataxia.

Now a Peanut Trust.

A consolidation of the peanut industry of the country under the control of a single company with a capital of $5,000,000 is about to be effected in New York.

A Barn-Burner Hanged.

Willis Sees, a negro, aged about 30 years, was taken from the jail at Osceola, Ark., Sunday morning at 1 o'clock and hanged in the jail yard by a mob of forty men. Sees was in jail on a charge of barn burning. After being suspended in mid-air twice the negro confessed the crime of which he was charged and he was then hanged.

EVENTS IN OUR OWN STATE

Cream of the News in Our Own Commonwealth.

A COLONY OF DUNKARDS LOCATED.

Moving Calhoun's County Seat—Last of Fourth Corps Leave Huntsville—A Verdict for $5,600 for Mrs. Carney—Wage Advance.

Will Build a City Hall.

The board of mayor and aldermen of Scottsboro have decided to build a new city hall and prison combined.

Was Asleep on the Track.

Frank Marlow, aged 35 years, was struck by a train on the Southern railway at Huntsville Saturday morning, and his skull was fractured. Marlow was asleep on the track.

Colony of Dunkards.

B. Sid Jones, immigration agent of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, has succeeded in locating a colony of Ohio Dunkards at a point in Limestone county, a few miles below Decatur, on the Tennessee river, the site of "Bismarck City," a Germany colony scheme which fell through two years ago. The site includes 7,000 acres of fine land.

Moving the New County Seat.

County officials are deserting the old court house at Jacksonville and seeking quarters in Anniston, the new capital of Calhoun county. Rooms and vaults have been secured in the Anniston City Land Company, near the union depot, until the new court house is built, and are now being changed about and got in shape for the county officials.

Water Works Sold.

A controlling interest in the Birmingham Water Works company has been sold to the American Water Works and Guarantee company, of Pittsburg. The capital stock of the concern is $500,000, and it is understood that the remainder of the stock will be purchased by the Pittsburg parties. The cost of the building of the plant was $1,400,000, and it controls at present Birmingham's only two sources of water supply.

Last of Fourth Corps Leave Huntsville.

The office of the depot quartermaster of the old Fourth army corps at Huntsville was practically discontinued Saturday, and Quartermaster Capt. Chas. M. Augur is awaiting orders for assignment to duty elsewhere. The last of the army supplies from the warehouses of this station were shipped in eight cars to San Francisco. The last wagon train in charge of Dr. Holmes, was shipped to Chickamauga park. Civilian clerks W. A. Sanford and R. M. Gibson have been ordered to report to the quartermaster general of the department of Cuba.

Verdict for $5,600.

In the United States court at Birmingham, the case of Annie Carney vs. the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company was given to the jury Saturday. Verdict for the plaintiff for $5,600 was brought in and the jury discharged. The plaintiff sued for $30,000 as damages for the death of her husband, George Carney, who was killed in the Cahaba river wreck on December 27, 1897, when a passenger train on the Birmingham Mineral railroad went through the bridge and twenty-six persons were killed.

A General Wage Advance.

On May 1 the salaries of all employes of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, exclusive of coal miners, was advanced on an equivalent of 10 per cent. The advance in wages affects all the office forces, the superintendents at the mines and furnaces, the pit bosses and the labor a tthe furnaces and mines, including the mine driver, the tipple men and others of that class. The advance will increase the monthly pay roll of the company about $25,000 to $30,000 per month. The coal miners are not included in the deal for the very simple reason that they have a separate contract with the company by which their wages are regulated by the price of iron. The advance to other employes will affect about 3,000 men.

Tallapoosa County Still Seized.

A distillery owned by T. L. Clark, at Camp Hill, Tallapoosa county, has been seized by the revenue officers on the charge that two stills were being operated on one license. The entire stock, consisting of a number of barrels of whisky, has been shipped to Birmingham and stored in a vacant room in the government building pending the final disposition of the case.

Warrior River Work Approved.

The secretary of war, upon the recommendation of the chief of engineers, has formally approved the setting aside of $800,000 for the purpose of improving the Warrior river, as provided by act of congress. It is expected that bids for the work will be advertised for by the war department this week.

Representative John H. Bankhead has returned to Alabama from Washington, where he went to present the claims of the Warrior to the chief of engineers and to the secretary of war. In this matter of such vast importance Representative Bankhead had the active support and co-operation of Representative Oscar W. Underwood.

"The approval of the great plan by the secretary of war means the completion of the Warrior improvement scheme," said Mr. Bankhead. "The plans finally signed provide for one lock, with dams, above Tuscaloosa, and three locks, with dams, below Tuscaloosa. Work will begin as soon as possible after the bids are let, and its beginning will mean a vast deal for all the mineral regions of Alabama—for there can be no doubt of the completion of the improvement. That will give a good and safe waterway the year around from the mineral district to the gulf at Mobile, and the benefits which Mobile will derive therefrom will be incalculable. So, also, with all the mineral district. It is expected that Chairman Burton, of the house committee on rivers and harbors will call the committee to meet at Knoxville about the 10th of May. From Knoxville we shall proceed down the Tennessee river to the Colbert shoals and ascertain on the spot what is needed in the way of improvements. Upon the result of the committee's inspection of the river will depend the amount of the appropriation at the next session of congress."

Posse After Sanders.

Officers and citizens are searching the country for Luke Sanders, one of the negroes implicated in the killing of Mullen, the road overseer, at Marion, a few days since. Houston Sanders was captured Friday night. Houston says he made no effort to escape, and that he had no pistol and took no part in the shooting. The inquest was begun Friday evening before Justice Clifton Johnston, and as a result of the investigation thus far twenty negroes are now in jail. Excitement has not abated in the least, and the community in which the killing occurred is up in arms, and serious trouble expected every hour.

The coroner's investigation has developed beyond question that a conspiracy was planned to kill Mullen, and as the case proceeds more heinous the case appears. John Sanders, reported dead, is yet alive.

ALABAMA BREVITIES.

T. J. Hamner found 900 cigars with counterfeit stamps at Ozark.

Will Crawford, colored, died at Ozark, from the shock of an operation for tumor on the eye.

Mrs. Elizabeth Denson, the aged mother of ex-Congressman W. H. Denson, died at Ball Play last Friday.

It takes $4,000 to open up a retail whisky business in Alabama City, or $2,000 to wholesale it, while all dogs are taxed or killed.

Harold Percival Turner, the six-year-old son of John Turner, died Saturday at Anniston as a result of a fall from a bicycle into a stone-paved gutter Thursday afternoon. There was little immediate discomfort, but peritonitis developed shortly afterward and proved fatal.

A daring robbery was committed at Livingston Friday night. While the southbound passenger train was at the depot the agent started out to the train with two packages of money in his hand and an unknown negro grabbed the money and ran. The amount in the packages was $57.

Messrs. Vernon & Pinckard, who are to erect a big cotton seed oil mill at Anniston, are now east purchasing machinery. Work on the buildings will begin in about three weeks. About $20,000 to $25,000 will be expended on machinery alone, which will be the best to be had.

The following city officers were elected at Anniston: Gen. George T. Anderson, clerk and tax assessor; Charles L. Quinn, tax collector; P. B. Brown, treasurer; Fred L. Blackman, attorney; Dr. W. A. Smith, physician; J. M. Prather, chief of police; George Bell, warden; W. C. LeGrand, J. C. Hamilton, F. C. Bryan, W. D. Hayes, C. B. Ragsdale and H. C. Bates, patrolmen; J. A. Summers, cemetery sexton; Michael Lahey, street overseer; W. H. McKlery, mayor pro tem.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the more important of the new industries reported by the Tradesman during the week ended April 29, are a box factory in Texas; a brick and tile works in Kentucky; coal mines in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia; a cotton mill supplies factory in South Carolina; a cotton and woolen mill in North Carolina; a $1,000,000 cotton mill in Louisiana; a $75,000 one in South Carolina and two of 10,000 and 1,200 spindles respectively in East Tennessee; two cotton seed oil mills in Arkansas, and one each in South Carolina and Texas; an electric light and water works plant in West Virginia; an electric light plant in Mississippi; an electric light and power plant in Georgia; a 100-barrel flouring mill in Georgia, two of 25-barrel and one of 50-barrel capacity in South Carolina, and a 100-barrel mill (new) and a $150,000 mill (rebuilt) in Tennessee; a foundry and machine shop in upper East Tennessee; a $25,000 guano factory in Alabama; an ice factory in Arkansas; lumber mills in Arkansas, Florida and Virginia; a machine shop in Northern Alabama; a $200,000 marble company in Virginia; a mattress factory and a natural gas and oil company in Texas; a 600-barrel sugar refinery to be built by Memphis capitalists; a $2,000,000 iron and steel company in Virginia; telephone companies in Arkansas, Kentucky and Virginia.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN AGREEMENT.

America Will Apparently Be Left Out in the Cold.

Pending detailed information, the London papers comment approvingly but cautiously upon the news of the Anglo-Russian agreement, regarding spheres of influence in China.

The Daily Chronicle points out that this agreement will produce similar arrangements with Germany and France, resulting in the partition of China, which Lord Chas. Beresford predicts will bring about war. "America," says the Chronicle, "will apparently be left out in the cold, and she really deserves no sympathy, for if her statesmen had been willing to join us at an earlier stage in keeping China open to the world, the present situation would never have arisen."

Three Killed, Many Injured.

Three persons were killed, more than a dozen seriously injured and fifty less seriously hurt, as the result of a wreck Sunday afternoon on the Rochester & Lake Ontario railroad, better known as the Bay railroad, at Rosenbaurs Corners, about one-half mile north of Rochester, N. Y., when two cars on an excursion train, filled with passengers, left the track while rounding a curve at full speed, and were completely wrecked.

Texas Cotton Crop.

The Houston Post issued its first cotton crop report Monday. The summary embraces the entire state; it gives the acreage at about the same as last year; the condition, so far as the crop is above ground, is good; planting is ten days late, though it is completed in South Texas and nearly so in Central Texas. No boll weevils or other pests are reported as yet.

More Kirksville Victims.

With the excepton of two victims who died Sunday, all those killed in the tornado at Kirksville, Mo., Thursday evening have been buried. C. A. Little succumbed from his injuries, as did also Paul Beeman, a child. This makes the number thirty-three. Fifteen thousand visitors came from hundreds of miles around to view the ruins Sunday.

Alger Wants to be Senator.

Secretary Alger, being asked whether he will be a candidate before the next Michigan legislature for United States Senator to succeed Senator McMillan, replied: "I will say frankly that I did think if the state should see fit to send me to the senate I would appreciate the honor, but after all my state has done for me I shall not enter into any scramble for it."

Hobart Slowly Improving.

Vice President Hobart's conditon continues to improve very slowly and he is still a very sick man.

Wealthy Woman Murdered.

Mrs. L. H. Mandarsy, a wealthy lady of San Antonio, Tex., wife of a Hungarian nobleman, who was banished from his country over thirty years ago, was murdered Sunday. Robbery is believed to have been the incentive, and a Mexican man laborer who worked on the place has been arrested on suspicion.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

1. That we favor the holding of a constitutional convention for the purpose of so regulating the right to vote as to perpetuate the rule of the white man in Alabama.

2. That the constitutional convention shall regulate all questions of suffrage so as not to conflict with the Constitution of the United States, and for the best interest of the people and taxpayers of the State of Alabama.

3. That there shall be inserted in such constitution a provision limiting the rate of taxation by the State, counties and municipalities, and that such rate shall not exceed the rate now fixed by the present constitution, but a lower rate if practicable.

4. That the proposed new constitution shall be submitted to a vote of the people for its adoption or rejection.

5. That we pledge our faith to the people of Alabama not to deprive any white man of his right to vote except for conviction of infamous crime.

6. That section 39 of article 4 of the present constitution in reference to the removal and location of the State capitol shall remain unchanged.

7. That the provisions and restrictions in the present constitution as to corporations shall remain unchanged.

8. What we hereby instruct all Democratic members of the constitution to faithfully carry out the above pledges.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY PLATFORM.

The Democratic party of Shelby County, in convention assembled, declares its belief in a just, capable and honest government; and to that end desires such a change in the Constitution of this State as will place the governing power in the hands of those who are competent to properly administer it; but is opposed to the disfranchisement of any white citizen of this State.

We believe that the new Constitution when framed should be referred to the people for final ratification.

We are opposed to any increase in the tax rate above the present Constutional limit.

We are opposed to the curtailment of the present power of the legislature to regulate, control or prohibit the sale of liquor as the people may in their wisdom desire.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Birmingham New Era, which a few weeks since was one of the most enthusiastic friends of the new constitution movement, seems to have changed its mind. We had occasion sometime ago to call attention to some of the questionable reasoning of this journal. In a recent issue we find, at the end of an editorial of some length, the following questions asked:

1. Are the people of Alabama prepared to have their political representation abridged?
2. Are they ready to submit to greater taxation?
3. Are they willing to surreptitiously deprive white men of the right of suffrage?
4. Are they ready for any and all the ills they know not of, that may come to them through the holding of a Constitutional Convention at this time and under the present conditions?
5. And above and beyond all else, are they prepared for these changes, and yet willing to continue to bear the burden and reproach of dishonest elections and fraudulent primaries for time immemorial?

We beg to answer them.

1. The people of Alabama are prepared to accept any of the disadvantages that may accrue from the elimination of the negro from politics. If we lose a Congressman or two, which is not at all likely, we greatly prefer it to the present condition. We are tired of "stealing" negro votes to protect our public interests. We are tired of having them bought by unprincipled politicians whose only capacity for public service is the size of their pocketbooks, and we are no longer able to bid against them in the open market. If we are to have a white man's government we want it to be conducted by white men all the way from the ballot box to the White House. If it gives us a Congressman or two less, we will still be the gainer.

2. We are not ready to submit to greater taxation, nor is there any danger of it. The party platform pledges the delegates against any increase, and we know by experience that the pledges of the Democratic party in this State are made for redemption and not for buncombe.

3. The same answer applies to this question. The New Era is of weak faith in the men of Alabama, the very best of whom will be in the convention.

4. They are tired of the ills they do know of, and they know the men they have named to make the new law.

5. Dishonest elections will prevail so long as the ignorant negro is allowed to vote. When the contest is narrowed down to white men common honesty will prevent the buying of votes, while the love of right and fairness will prevent the stealing.

In conclusion, we beg to suggest again to the editor of the New Era that she go learn of those who know of experience the ills of the present condition, and she will soon see the impracticability of her beautiful theory.

WE are privately informed by a gentleman who is in a position to know that the white people of this county, Populists and Democrats, are practically a unit in favor of the constitutional convention. We have been further informed from a Populist source that if the Governor had not started his crusade against it, thereby giving the Populists an opportunity to aid in Democratic division, the convention would have carried overwhelmingly in the county. This bears out what we have contended from the beginning—all white men, except officeseekers, are in favor of the movement to eliminate the ignorant and vicious negro and to purify the ballot in Alabama.

IS THERE WHITE SUPREMACY?

Last week we took occasion to notice some points in Governor Johnston's address to the people, giving his reasons for calling the legislature together. His message to the general assembly is merely a rehearsal of the some demagoguery. One point in it presents a text for serious thought. He says:

White supremacy is as complete and all pervading to-day throughout the jurisdiction and domain of our State as it is possible to be. There is not a negro in all the commonwealth holding an office under the present constitution.

The latter assertion is true, and the Governor seems to argue that so long as there are no negroes in office there is white supremacy. Not so. White supremacy is only complete where there are no negroes at all or where they are under the complete subjection of the white man. There are three classes of counties in this State, so far as political conditions are concerned. The first class are those counties where there are no negroes, or so few that they are an inconsiderable factor in politics. The second class are those where the negroes outnumber all the whites. The third class embraces those counties where the negro vote is just strong enough to hold the balance of power between a divided white vote.

The first of these classes are in no danger from either negro rule or negro domination, so far as their local affairs are concerned, and are only interested in the subject as participants in the affairs of the State.

In the second class of counties the white people, by virtue of their minority, are a unit on all political matters, and in this close unity lies their only safety. In their own way they have made themselves masters of the situation, and they will continue to hold their power. Their influence in the great body politic may be good or bad, as the occasion demands, but so long as the negro has the right to vote his right will be subjugated to the interest of white supremacy.

It is in the third class of counties where the real danger to white supremacy lies, and though there is and may never be a negro officeholder in one of them, there is and will be negro domination. The white people in those counties may divide and still elect white officers, but the negro vote is necessary to the success of one party or the other. The question at once arises. How is that vote to be obtained? It will not be stolen—it cannot be. White men will watch one another too closely for that. Only two other methods are effectual. It can be bought at so much per vote, or it can be obtained by allowing the negroes to name a share of the candidates to be voted for by themselves and the white party which seeks their aid.

The first of these methods is as morally wrong as to steal the vote straight out. It establishes the power of money in the control of public affairs, and takes away the rights of the poor but competent sovereigns. It puts the official elected thereby in the attitude of being tempted to reimburse himself out of his office for the cost of obtaining it, and in the end builds up a corrupt and corrupting system.

The plan of allowing negroes to participate in the nomination of candidates is equally as dangerous. He will name as his candidate either the man who has sunk himself to the level of the negro's limited virtue and intelligence, the man of like degenerate character as himself, or else the man who pays a price for his nomination as the other man pays for his election. In the development of this method the same power of money will come to be established, or else the negro, emboldened by the recognition of his importance, will sooner or later demand a recognition of his fellows on the fusion tickets.

To speak plainly, there is evidence of the growth of all these varied conditions in Alabama to-day, as the result of the negro's participation in elections. True, it is, as the Governor says, there are no negroes in office, but there is negro domination all over the State. There is power obtained by the subjugation of negro suffrage; there is holding of office by virtue of simple commercial transactions; there are nominations obtained by the use of money in conventions; there are men holding office who were nominated by negro conventions and voted for by white men on "cooperation" tickets.

White supremacy obtained by any one of these methods can not long be tolerated. That supremacy conceived and fostered by Southern Democracy is of a purer type, and we must get back to it if we would preserve the glory of our commonwealth and the high standard of our institutions. The time has come to reestablish genuine white supremacy in Alabama, and he who stands in the way of it is no Democrat. Neither is he a friend of his State or his people.

THE Populists in the legislature are confronted with the opportunity of making fame or infamy for themselves and the people they represent. They may either help to strike down the shackles of vicious ignorance that bind the political establishment in this State, or they may aid in the building up of a personal machine that will control the destiny of the community for a time to come. Will they join hands with the people of whom they claim to be the particular sentinels, or will they fall in with the Governor and his coterie of appointees? We shall see.

JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRACY.

Few men of this day know what was the creed of the man from whom they take their heritage of faith. The following are the fundamental principles of republican government upon which Mr. Jefferson founded his allegiance to the party which he and the men who thought like him established. Those who are in doubt as to what they are may measure their faith by this standard and know whether they are Democrats:

A wise and frugal government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, which shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvements, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned.

The support of State governments in all their rights, as the most competent administrations for our domestic concerns, and the surest bulwarks against anti-republican tendencies.

The preservation of the general government in the whole of the constitutional vigor, as the sheet-anchor of our peace at home and safety abroad.

Absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority—the vital principle of republics, from which there is no appeal but to force, the vital principle and immediate parent of despotism.

A well-disciplined militia—our best reliance in peace and for the first moments of war, till regulars may relieve them.

The supremacy of the civil over the military authority.

Economy in the public expense, that labor may be lightly burdened.

An honest payment of our debts, and sacred preservation of the public faith.

Encouragement of agriculture and and of commerce as its handmaid.

The diffusion of information and the arraignment of all abuses at the bar of public reason.

Freedom of the person under the protection of the habeas corpus; and trials by judges impartially selected.

These principles form the bright constitution which has gone before us and guided our steps through an age of revolution and reform. The wisdom of our sages and the blood of our heroes have been devoted to their attainment. They should be the creed of our political faith—the text of civil instruction—the touchstone to try the services of those we trust; and should we wander from them in moments of error or alarm, let us hasten to retrace our steps and to regain the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety.

THE SITUATION.

The legislature met in extra session on Tuesday, and is considering the repeal of the constitutional convention act. In the house the repealing bill was introduced and referred to a packed committee, and was reported yesterday favorably. It is evident at this time that the Governor has enough Democratic members with him to pass the bill in the house if the Populist members remain of that mind. In the senate no test vote had been taken up to adjournment yesterday, and no definite conclusion could be reached as to the true status there. A resolution in the house that the repeal bill be not passed until an amendment is proposed to the constitution will be defeated. Governor Johnston is not only onposed to a convention, but he is opposed to any amendment to the constitution. His insincerity is very apparent, and he is fighting his party for political supremacy. Able lawyers are saying that the legislature has no right to repeal, and it is probable that if repeal wins the courts will be called upon to settle the question. The Democratic party of Alabama is face to face with its most perilous moment. It is the Governor with the patronage of his office against the organization of his party. It will be a fight to the death, and we are inclined to believe that the party will not die.

THE Calhoun County courthouse fight is to be carried into the courts. The constitutionality of the act calling the election will be tested. The constitution of the State provides that election laws shall be uniform throughout the State. The election provided for the Calhoun contest very materially differs from the general law. There appears to be something in the point raised, and the trial will be awaited with interest. Shelby's removal act contains the same difference, and we are somewhat interested in the result of the legal tilt.

MORGAN was in his old-time form in Montgomery the other night, and his words of love for his people, of counsel in their time of trouble, and of bitter denunciation for the usurpers and hypocrits were alike suggestive of his wisdom and his power. No man who heard him but insensibly felt that he is still the first of his race as he will be to the very end of his illustrious life.

Mr. Johnston has another card in this issue requesting the Confederate veterans, and lovers of the cause for which they strove, to meet him in the courtroom at this place on the 20th of this month, and to formulate plans for the holding of a reunion of the ex-Confederate soldiers. This is the date fixed by the Populists to name their delegates to the constitutional convention, if one if held, and as a large crowd will doubtless be in attendance it to be hoped Mr. Johnston will receive a hearty response to his call.

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

By Mrs. F. W. GIST.

The Alabama Womens' Press Association and the Woman's Club of Birmingham are things too large for the small calibre of the State Federation of womens' clubs. So far as we are concerned, we are perfectly willing to "tote our skillet" by ourselves. If the federation is better off without the cooperation of the press women let her roll. Mrs. Craighead will see where she is at before many moons.

***

The disgraceful lynching and burning at the stake of the negro rapist in Georgia last week has called forth a deluge of comment and criticism. Sober minded, civilized and christianized people cannot commend or tolerate such barbarous deeds, even to avenge the heinous crime of rape. The white man thinks he is acting for the best protection of the white southern women. But these lynchings only serve to increase the crime for which they are meant to suppress. He will surely have to resort to other means than lynch-law for a remedy and the protection of our white women. Perhaps if the white man will first elevate himself above the low-level of the negro woman, he will solve the first problem in this direction. Pluck the beam out of his own eye that he may see more clearly, etc. It is a startling but bare-faced fact that our white men are to a considerable degree responsible for the conditions existing in the South. The basis of a solution and correction of these conditions must begin with a complete revolution of the moral system, custom and practices of our country. If the present sinful practices are kept up, a few generations hence will find and utter extinction of the pure Caucassian blood, and who but our white men are responsible?

***

The Democratic party of Alabama is making the loudest, longest, most lamentable howl for white supremacy. This is right, we believe in white supremacy. God never intended the Caucassian race to bring itself down on a level with the African politically or socially. We would like to see our white men practice entirely what they preach, not only at the polls but everywhere under all circumstances.

One of the happiest maraiages occurred at Calera on last Thursday afternoon, the contracting parties being Miss Lula Alberta Jones and Mr. Walter Porter Eason.

Miss Jones is a young lady endowed with superior intellectual qualities and a heart rich in the graces of christianity. She has been reared in Calera and is known throughout the community for her high standard of dignity and purity of character. As organist and a leading, active member of the Baptist church, her works and examples could not be surpassed.

Mr. Eason is a conductor on the Mineral branch of the L. & N. and is a gentleman noted for his high traits of character and sterling qualities. He is one of the most popular men on the line, and well deserves the prize he has won.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Eason left over the L. & N. for a trip to Tampa, Savannah, and other points, carrying with them the good wishes of a large host of friends as evidenced by the number of handsome gifts received.

Shelby Springs Shot Drops.

The Springs opened Monday, May 1.

Editor Gist's family are cozily settled here for the summer. This is a favorite resort with Mrs. Gist, who has spent many summers here.

Miss Louise and Mr. John Bowen, of Logan, Ohio, and one of the wealthiest and most prominent families at that place, are guests Mrs. Mary Pond for the summer.

Prof. C. C. Slaton, who has engaged a house here for his family, was up with his brilliant little 4-year-old-daughter, Vivian, Sunday. This bright little jewel entertained a number of people most interestingly by reading articles from newspapers and did it with an ease and grace that surpasses anything we have ever seen for one of such tender years. Professor Slaton's family will be a great addition among the season's guests.

Hon. A. F. Wilson, of Montgomery, came up Saturday and returned to bring his family this week.

Miss Lizzie Law, the charming daughter of the proprietor, who has been spending the winter in Selma and Montgomery, has returned home to enchant our numerous visitors with her loveliest smiles.

The affable and ever pleasing Fred Hardy and Abe Stein came up Sunday to change drinks a few hours.

Dr. Shoaff's family, of Selma, who have recently located here at their beautiful home, are one of the greatest attractions and additions to this community. Dr. Shoaff is one of the most eminent men of the State, and has a most interesting and cultured family.

A number of families from Montgomery and Selma are expected in a few days.

We deeply regret to learn of the death of little Francis, the 3-year-old-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. L. Neal, of Selma, who died Saturday night of cholera-infantum. She was a very brilliant, lovable child, and the bereaved parents have our deepest sympathy.

A serious accident occurred near here on Sunday afternoon. The family of Pink Martin, who had been attending services at Summer Hill, were returning home in a two horse wagon when the horses became frightened and ran away, throwing Mr. Martin and two of his daughters out on the ground, inflicting very painful, and, it is feared, serious injuries. Mr. Martin's hip was dislocated and otherwise badly hurt. One of the young ladies' teeth were all knocked out, her nose broken and an ugly gash cut across the forehead. The other young lady received internal injuries, the extent and seriousness of which are not yet known. Dr. Morgan was on the scene of the accident and administered to the suffering victims.

For the past six weeks the genial proprietor, Col. T. J. Law, has been putting the Springs property in fine trim for the season, and everything looks as fresh and inviting as heart could wish.

An immense picnic crowd of 1500 people from Birmingham will regale themselves here on Thursday.

A Sunday School picnic from Calera will spend one day this week under our giant oaks.

A negro boy named Wade Owens, about fifteen years old living at Wiley Nelson's, stole on Sunday night $4.80 in money, a new suit of clothes, a pair of shoes and straw hat, and ran away in the night. He was last seen at Calera Monday morning at 3 o'clock by the yard master trying to get on a freight train for Birmingham.

Mrs. Pond has had her entire premises undergoing repairs, and the whitewasher's brush has added a new charm to her beautiful home.

On Monday night of last week a most enjoyable dance was participated in by several couples from Columbiana and Shelby, the string band from Shelby accompanying the crowd.

J. R. Chute, of Chicago, the affable gentleman who is bringing so many Northern prospectors to this vicinity, seems to be peculiarly attracted to Shelby Springs, but the attraction isn't entirely in the water, nor the green lawns, nor the shade of the giant oaks—something else beside these.

Mrs. James Nunnellee and Miss Louise Morgan, of Selma, are guests here this week.

Mr. Lawler and family, of Calera, were up Wednesday.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $11.77 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mummia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the perfect preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

Habeas Corpus Trial.

The habeas corpus proceedings in the case of Lizzie LaGrone, charged with the murder of her new-born babe, was held before Judge Longshore Saturday afternoon, and resulted, after a careful investigation into the facts, in a decision by the court granting the defendant bail. The sum was placed at one thousand dollars, and she feels confident that no trouble will be experienced in making it. B. W. Brand was the attorney for the defendant, while W. R. Oliver represented the State. Quite a little evidence was received, and strong armuments presented on both sides, but the defendant seemed to have the weight of the testimony and was allowed bail in the sum above-named. She was remanded to jail to await the return of her bond which has been forwarded to Blocton, where she resided previous to the birth of her child.

From now until September all merchants and business men of our city will close their doors at 6.30 p. m.

A druggist who gives you a substitute when you ask for Simmons Liver Regulator is unworthy of your confidence and you should take your trade where you will be honestly treated and not cheated. Simmons Liver Regulator is put up only by J. H. Zeilin & Co. and no one else knows how to make it. Be sure you see the word Regulator on the package, otherwise it is not Simmons Liver Regulator.

Attention.

I want every old Veteran who left his home and fought for his country and who lives in Shelby County, to meet me at the courthouse in Columbiana on May 20, that we may appoint a time and place for the Confederate re-union to be held in this county sometime this summer. Bear this in mind and talk to the old Rebs about it. Come, let us meet; don't fail.

J. W. JOHNSTON,

A white man, by the name of Brooks was killed yesterday on the Saginaw Lumber Co's. road while attempting to board the train.

We always keep on hand a full line of samples of the work turned out in our job department, and those needing stationery are requested to call in and learn our prices.

The citizens of Columbiana have erected and presented to Mrs. Sanders, an estimable widow lady, a neat and comfortable dwelling, situated at the intersection of the Wilsonville and Mardis Ferry roads.

A wire, stretched across the street by some mischievous and thoughtless boys, caused our night watchman to receive a very heavy and painful fall Friday night. The thumb nail on one of his hands was knocked entirely off, and it will be some little time before the wounded place heals. This is not the first wire to be placed across the streets of Columbiana, but none have as yet resulted so seriously as befell the lot of Mr Hester.

Harpersville.

Mrs. Russell is visiting Birmingham.

Rev. Mr. Lock, of East Lake, will preach at the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday next.

J. F. McGraw was made happy over the arrival of another boy at his house last Monday.

There has been several new tombstones put up in the graveyard here this spring. Why not meet now and spend a day's work in beautifying the same.

Our friend, Charley Elliot, who had the misfortune to get his dwelling house and contents burned sometime ago, has rebuilt and is now in his new one.

The school here will close Friday night, the 12th instead of the 19th, as we stated last week. A very nice program is being arranged and a nice time is expected.

Mrs. Seale, wife of Mr. Mack Seale, died at her home on Kelley's Creek in this county last Friday after a long spell of sickness. She was a good woman, loved and respected by all who knew her.

Our farmers are getting about up with their work. Cotton is coming up very nicely. Corn is being plowed and a good rain would be very agreeable.

JAKE.

If you cannot sleep the cause is pretty sure to be the stomach. If that important organ be out of order the nerves will be too disordered to allow sleep. Simmons Liver Regulator will correct this. "I have been a great sufferer from loss of sleep and dyspepsia. As soon as I feel the least nervous I take a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and sleep all night."—Mrs. R. Bryant, Griswold, Ga.

Notice to Pensioners.

Notice is hereby given to disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors and the widows of such soldiers and sailors that the undersigned Board of Examiners for Shelby County, Ala., will open an office in the court house of the said county on the first Monday in June, 1899, and for ten days thereafter, during which time applications for pensions under the Act approved February, 1899, can be made to said board, and the applicants should appear in person and have two witnesses who can prove the service of the soldier or sailor, or of the deceased soldier or sailor when the application is made by a widow.

Persons owning property exceeding in value $400, or who have children living with them upon whom they can depend for support, or whose salary or income exceeds $300 per annum are not eligible and need not apply. Applicants should come prepared to give a full itemized list of all property owned by them, with the value of each item.

S. H. GIST,
Board of Examiners.

It is becoming manifest that discerning farmers are beginning to see what they never saw before—the money-wisdom of offering for sale and exchange through their papers the surplus products of their land.—Ex.

Regardless of Age.

The kidneys are responsible for more sickness, suffering and deaths than any other organs of the body.

A majority of the ills afflicting people today is traceable to kidney trouble. It pervades all classes of society, in all climates, regardless of age, sex or condition.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are unmistakable; such as rheumatism, neuralgia, sleeplessness, pain or dull ache in the back, a desire to urinate often, day or night, profuse or scanty supply.

Uric acid or brick-dust deposit in urine are signs of clogged kidneys, causing poisoned and germ-filled blood. Sometimes the heart acts badly, and tube casts—wasting of the kidneys—are found in tha urine, which if neglected, will result in Bright's Disease, the most dangerous form of kidney trouble.

All these symptoms and conditions are promptly removed under the influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root. It has a world-wide reputation for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

No one need be long without it as it is so easy to get at drug stores at 50 cents or $1. You can have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery, Swamp Root, and a book telling all about it sent to you absolutely free by mail. Send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention THE CHRONICLE.

Notice.

If anyone musically interested has poetry or hymn-words of goood poetical step, and wishes them set to music will send me a copy and the name of author, I will set music to them and send them in return a copy of music in sheet form, either round or shaped notes, as desired. I retain all copyrights

Several farmers in this immediate section have found it necessary to employ extra help, the heavy rains of late causing them to be considerably behind with their work.

W. B. McMath and Miss Daisy Canterbury, both of Montevallo, were married in that city yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, the marriage license having been procured about 2 o'clock of the night previous. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Cincinnati, where Mr. McMath is engaged in business. Both parties are well known to the people of this community, Burwell having resided in this city for a great many years.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER. 50 CENTS A YEAR.

(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)

CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better that it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

WINE OF CARDUI

has demonstrated ten thousand times that it is almost infallible FOR WOMAN'S PECULIAR WEAKNESSES, irregularities and derangements. It has become the leading remedy for this class of troubles. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence upon the menstrual organs. It cures "whites" and falling of the womb. It stops flooding and relieves suppressed and painful menstruation.

For Change of Life it is the best medicine made. It is beneficial during pregnancy, and helps to bring children into homes barren for years. It invigorates, stimulates, strengthens the whole system. This great remedy is offered to all afflicted women. Why will any woman suffer another minute with certain relief within reach? Wine of Cardui only costs $1.00 per bottle at your drug store.

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Rev. J. W. SMITH, Camden, S.C., says: "My wife used Wine of Cardui at home for falling of the womb and it entirely cured her."

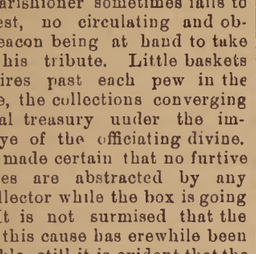
Taking Collections by Electric Energy.

A Chicago church has adopted an electrical system of taking up collections. At a certain crisis in the service the preacher touches the button, and the parishioner sometimes fails to do the rest, no circulating and observant deacon being at hand to take note of his tribute. Little baskets run on wires past each pew in the tabernacle, the collections converging to a central treasury under the immediate eye of the officiating divine. It is thus made certain that no furtive percentages are abstracted by any thrifty collector while the box is going round. It is not surmised that the loss from this cause has erewhile been considerable, still it is evident that the theory of the new process is that it is best to be on the safe side. There are as yet no signs of its general adoption in Chicago churches, but the single experiment is interesting. If it shows an increase in the church revenues it will be an argument for its introduction elsewhere; if a diminution the plant will probably be taken out some time before or after the Epiphany and sold for old wire. In the latter case not Keely's motor will be more discredited. The result will be awaited with composure, but at the same time with curiosity, not only in church circles, but to a certain degree in those of the ungodly as well, to whom the mechanical and automatic features of the experiment present aspects of interest.—New York Tribune.

PERIODS OF PAIN.

Menstruation, the balance wheel of woman's life, is also the bane of existence to many because it means a time of great suffering.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical pain, it does not seem to have been nature's plan that women otherwise healthy should suffer so severely. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It relieves the condition that produces so much discomfort and robs menstruation of its terrors. Here is proof:



DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—How can I thank you enough for what you have done for me? When I wrote to you I was suffering untold pain at time of menstruation; was nervous, had headache all the time, no appetite, that tired feeling, and did not care for anything. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of Blood Purifier, two boxes of Liver Pills, and to-day I am a well person. I would like to have those who suffer know that I am one of the many who have been cured of female complaints by your wonderful medicine and advice. —MISS JENNIE R. MILES, Leon, Wis.

If you are suffering in this way, write as Miss Miles did to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for the advice which she offers free of charge to all women.

MARRIED NOW.

He had ceased to call her "darling."
She has ceased to call him "dear;"
He has ceased composing sonnets
To her "little shell-like ear."

She has ceased to hurry madly
To the mirror when he calls!
He has ceased to buy her chocolates
And ice-cream at concert-balls!

This is not because these lovers
Have been mixed up in a row—
No, the simple truth is that they
Are a married couple now.

QUALIFYING HIS BELIEF.

First Ex-Bank Cashier—Do you believe in a community of goods?

Second Ditto—I would if I could be the treasurer.

THEY ARE PLENTIFUL.

Askins—"What do you think of Poots?"

Grimshaw—"He is one of those fellows who take the cork out of a bottle by pushing it in."

A BINDING TRANSACTION.

Lady—Measure off another yard of that dress binding, please.

Clerk—Beg pardon, but I understood you to say nine yards.

Lady—So I did, but another yard will make the sale more binding."

A CONDITION OF SUCCESS.

"How large do you think we ought to make the first edition?" asked the author who was paying for the publication of his own work.

"It rests with you, my dear sir," answered the publisher, "but, advising you professionally, I may say that the smaller the editions the more you will be able to advertise if it is a success."

A SERIOUS DILEMMA.

"What's the Matter?"

"I'm in a dilemma."

"How so?"

"I've got two invitations to dinner. One comes from a woman whom I am afraid to offend, and the other woman gives the best feed!"

WHY HIS HEALTH IMPROVED.

Convalescent—"Y-e-s, I've been off among strangers who didn't eternally talk to me about it."

INCONSIDERATE.

"Did the minister say anything comforting?" asked the neighbor of the widow recently bereaved.

"Indeed, he didn't," was the quick reply. "He said my husband was better off."

JUST TO EACH.

Mrs. Yeast—I never saw any one get away with pigs' feet like my husband.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Unless it was the pig himself.

ABSOLUTELY SAFE.

"I never like to attract attention," she said.

"You never will," answered her dearest friend.

A SOUND DEFINITION.

She (reading the paper)—What's a pachyderm, dearest?

He (irritably)—Oh, a beast who doesn't care a button for microbes.

She—Give me some illustration I can understand.

He (pointing to a pile of bills)—Well, these are the microbes, and—

She (interrupting)—You try to be the pachyderm.

A FATAL OMISSION.

City Editor (with a dark frown)—"No, sir. I have discharged him."

Caller—"Indeed! May I ask the reason?"

City Editor (wrathfully)—"He wrote up an account of a suicide without mentioning the calibre of the revolver."

ENTERTAINMENT AND PROFIT.

"Was that sleight-of-hand man's exhibition successful, Mudge?"

"I think so; I lent him a counterfeit silver dollar, and he gave me back a good one."

WHEN SHE CAN'T THERE'S HOPE.

She—Can't I make you understand that it is impossible for me to marry you?

He—Yes, I know. For that reason I thought you would look with favor on my suit.

THE SITUATION.

"I don't like him," said the other. "He's too egotistic."

"It's merely a matter of impression. You judged from his manner that he's egotistic and you feel resentful. He judges from your manner that you think he's egotistic and he resents your self-opinionated fashion of jumping at conclusions. It's a mistake all 'round."

Eye-Witnesses.

"While I was out West," said the man in the mackintosh, "I saw snowdrifts more than 600 feet high."

"I don't doubt it," replied the man with the cinnamon beard. "When I was out there a couple of weeks ago I saw drifts that couldn't have been less than 900 feet deep."

"If you hadn't been in such a hurry to tell a bigger lie than you thought I could tell,' rejoined the man in the mackintosh. "I would have explained that the drifts I saw were 600 feet up on the side of a mountain."

"That's all right," said the other. "The drifts I saw were at the bottom of a 900-foot gorge."—Chicago Tribune.

The census of persons practicing medicine in France showed, at the beginning of the year 1899, a number of 17,735, at the beginning of the year 1898, 15,984, thus showing an increase for 1899 of 1,751, a figure which is by no means what might have been expected when the very small increase in the general population is taken into consideration, and which augurs very badly for the future of the medical profession in France, owing to the great decrease in disease, thanks to the improvements in sanitation.

The difficult problem of assisting the poor without pauperizing them seems to have been successfully met by the Dutch, states a writer in the North American Review. A model in miniature exists of a community where those who have lost their hold on prosperity are restored to at least a semblance of self-support, family ties are preserved, education is afforded the young, and, in short, the utmost possible is made of the most unpromising material. The poor colonies of Holland, four in number, are not, as might be supposed, a government institution, though at one time co-operation with the government was attempted which resulted quite injuriously to the undertaking. After passing through many vicissitudes, the charitable enterprise at present consists of property to the amount of a little over 5000 acres of land in the heart of the country, Steenwyk, the nearest town, being five miles distant.

Preparing for Examinations.

Many hundreds of teachers see the necessity to prepare well for the State Board's examinations in June and September, now that the requirements of the "new law" are so much more rigid than while under a county board of examiners, and the State Normal College at Troy is preparing to give the fullest opportunities for classes in review or anew, in all the branches of the state examination. This college has a large and able faculty, and already its students come from every section of Alabama, and from adjoining states as well.

Hon. John W. Abercrombie, State Superintendent of Education and Chairman of the State Board of Examiners, and Hon. S. C. Jonkins, chairman of the senate committee on education, last Alabama general assembly, have been selected to give a course of lectures each, and Professor J. B. Cunningham, late president of the Alabama Educational association, will deliver several lectures and be a regular instructor in the Peabody Summer school of Pedagogy, in connection with the college's last five weeks' work, from May 22 to June 24, and other able lecturers and instructors will be on the programme, too. A great opportunity to review all the State Board of Educational Examiner's branches will then be afforded, at a very low cost, as the college announcements show. Teachers should take advantage of this opportunity to prepare better for the work. Troy will welcome all who come to attend.—Normal Exponent, Troy, Ala.

In the more progressive countries, at least, the breaking of the shackles in which the investigating mind had been imprisoned for so long has led not only to a greater number of scientific workers, but also to an increase in the fields of observation, observes C. L. Whittle in Appletons' Popular Science Monthly. The methods of investigation have likewise undergone a transformation. In place of deductive reasoning, even as late as a few decades in the past, conclusions and generalizations are now founded on lines of thought more largely inductive. Men of middle age are able to recall the time when even our leading institutions of learning required instruction in several branches of science to be given by one teacher. It was possible 25 years ago for a man of great ability to master the essentials of the leading sciences and to teach them, but under the present stimulus for investigation no one can hope to excel in more than one subject. It has thus come about that in place of the many-sided teacher of science we now have in our larger universities specialists in every subject.

The residents of Gloucester, Mass., are to hold a memorial service in the city hall in memory of the lost fishermen of Gloucester. Statistics compiled by the Gloucester Relief association, which provides for the families of those who lose their lives at sea, show that in the past twenty-five years no less than 2,413 seafaring men from the above named port have been drowned.

In his eulogy of the late Representative Dingley, Mr. Dockery called attention to the great changes in the membership of the house of representatives since they first met at the opening of the fifty-third congress. Of the 356 men who then stood up to be sworn only seventeen remain, and only fifteen will enter the next congress, namely, Bingham, Ermentrout and Harmer, of Pennsylvania; Reed and Boutelle, of Maine; Cannon and Hitt, of Illinois; Payne, Ray and Wadsworth, of New York; Henderson and Hepburn, of Iowa; Bland, of Missouri; Steele, of Indiana, and Lanham, of Texas.

No sovereign is so rich as the emperor of Russia, and no sovereign has such heavy calls upon his purse. The grand dukes Vladimia, Alexis, Paul Alexandrovitch and Michael-Nicholejevitch, as the sons of emperors of Russia, receive from the head of the houses an annual sum of 182,000 rubles, which, added to their private means, makes them very rich. The wives and widows of Russian grand dukes receive 40,000 rubles each, their sons 150,000 rubles each. It was the late Emperor Alexander III. who made the rule that every member of the Russian imperial family must spend a part of the year in Russia or else lose a third of his or her allowance.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

An old boat woman on the Seine, named Mme. Wadin, whose age is 102, has just quitted the river boat Pont d'Arcole to enjoy the remainder of her days ashore. This "doyenne" of boatwomen is retiring to a pretty little house at Longueil-Aunel, near the river on which she has lived uninterruptedly for over a century.

Mrs. Clara Murray, the distinguished harpist, is an enthusiastic believer that the study of the harp affords a profitable opportunity to women having musical talents wherewith to carve out a career. She says that two years' study and her own harp is an outfit for any girl for life; that even now the demand for women harpists far exceeds the number trained for public work, while the time is coming when every church choir will recognize that a harp is the most fitting instrument for praise now, as well as in King David's time.

NOTES OF SCIENCE.

Volcanic dust carried by the wind from the mountains of Puy in Auvergne enriches the soil of Limagne with phosphoric acid and potash. According to M. Nivois, it is owing to this natural fertilizer that the soil is so rich. A field at Gerzat, Clermont-Ferrand, has yielded a fine crop of hemp eighteen years running without any other manure.

At a recent meeting of the Academie des Sciences, Paris, M. Marcy presented a new phonograph which speaks so distinctly that one can scarcely recognize any difference between the original voice and its reproduction. On the same occasion M. Drussaud described a new method of amplifying the sounds of the phonograph just as a photograph is enlarged. It is done by causing the phonograph to speak into a second phonograph having a cylinder of large diameter.

In the manufacture of artificial ivory, two parts of caoutchouc are dissolved in thirty six parts of chloroform, and the solution is saturated with pure gaseous ammonia. The chloroform is then distilled off at a temperature of 85 degrees centigrade. The residue is mixed with phosphate of lime or carbonate of zinc, pressed into molds and dried. When phosphate of lime is used the product possesses to a considerable degree the nature and composition of ivory.

According to MM. Blanchini and Regnault, the inventors of the phonendoscope, by which the size and position of the internal organs is outlined on the skin, a Turkish bath causes the heart, lungs, liver and kidneys to dilate with the dry heat and return to their normal size in the cold water. This action appears to their mind salutary.

The use of smokeless powder has its disadvantages, especially the increased wear of the gun. It is rather a grave inconvenience, for in time of peace soldiers have to practice firing and their arms are the worst for it. Prof. W. C. Roberts-Austin, C. B., has recently presented photographs to the Iron and Steel institute of Great Britain which demonstrate the ruin of rifled ordnance by cordite, melinite and other smokeless powders. A quick-firing gun suffered from cordite after five shots, although the steel was of the usual quality and the tube had been tempered in oil. M. Meriel, a French writer, thinks that if the sudden elevation of temperance followed by cooling on firing a shot could be avoided it would help the matter.

HOW TO WASH FLANNELS.

Dissolve fine shavings of Ivory Soap in boiling water, and when cool enough to bear your hand in it, immerse one piece of flannel. Don't rub it with soap, but knead it with the hands. Don't rinse in plain water or in cold water, but make a second solution, warm and well blued, for this purpose. Use a clothes-wringer; hand-wringing is insufficient. Dry quickly in a warm place. If left to stand wet, flannel shrinks.

Cut out these directions and tell the laundress to follow them with Ivory Soap. It keeps the flannels very soft.

GOMEZ WILL NOT SERVE

The Cuban Army in the Distribution of the $3,000,000.

WASHES HIS HANDS OF WHOLE BUSINESS.

Informs General Brooke That He is Embarrassed by Opposing Factions. Force May Be Used to Disarm the Insurgents.

Gen. Maximo Gomez Monday informed Governor-General Brooke that he could no longer act as representative of the Cuban army in the distribution of the $3,000,000 appropriated for the payment of the Cuban troops. The General added that he had arrived at this decision with reluctance and with the most friendly feelings towards General Brooke personally and officially, but he felt that he could no longer represent the Cuban army because a cabal composed of many of the subordinate commanders existed to oppose and, if possible, defeat the plans for partitioning the money

He explained that former members of the Cuban Military Assembly, led by Mayai Roderiguez, Manuel Sanguilly, Juan Gaulberto and other malcontents, who had organized a majority of the officers against him, apparently, and though he (Gomez) might persist and possibly carry the payment to a successful conclusion, he was disgusted and wished to wash his hands of the whole business. Therefore he thought that if he left General Brooke alone, the latter would be able to act with effectiveness.

It was mutually agreed that General Gomez will issue a manifesto to the Cuban army. This document will be prepared this afternoon and will be submitted to General Brooke. After it has been issued, General Brooke may make a declaration concerning the manner in which he will proceed. He is determined not to be trifled with. He has the rolls of the privates and non-commissioned officers, who are willing to accept $75 each, and this amount will be offered on the condition previously laid down.

A forcible disarmament of the Cuban troops will be the ultimate procedure provided the events of the next two or three weeks show that such action is necessary.

A BRUSH WITH THE ENEMY.

Two "Tinclad" Gunboats Ran Into Insurgents, Routing and Killing Many.

A special from Manila says: The "tinclad" gunboats LaGuna De Bay and Cavadenga and a launch under Captain Grant ran into a nest of insurgents concealed in the brush and on both sides of the Rio Grande river, three miles above Calumpit, Sunday afternoon and received a heavy volley at short range. A sergeant belonging to the Utah Battery was killed and one private was wounded. Opening with their rapid fire guns the Americans killed twenty-two natives and wounded several others, filling the jungle with a hail of shot for a half hour until the enemy fled.

Had His Neck Broken.

Particulars of an accidental killing at Gravelly Springs, Ala., on Saturday night were received at Florence Monday. In a general fight in which a number of parties were concerned Bell Ransom was killed by having his neck broken. It seems that Belt Hewitt, another one of the fighters, in wrestling with Ransom, grabbed him around the knees, lifting him bodily above his head, dropped him to the ground. In the fall Ransom struck on his head, and his neck was broken, death resulting almost immediately.

No Extra Session.

A member of the administration who is in a position to know the views of the president on the subject said Monday that the probabilities were against an extra session of congress being called. He thought that the president had given the subject some thought, but he was reasonably sure that no call would be issued except in some unlooked for contingency, which would make it necessary.

A fire in Montgomery, Ala., early Monday morning destroyed eight residences occupied by negroes. The loss sustained will not exceed $5,000.

Death From Lockjaw.

Belle Bates, the 12-year-old daughter of George Bates, a white miner at Readers, near Bessemer, Ala., died Saturday morning, after twenty-four hours of terrible suffering, with lockjaw. The little girl ran a splinter into her foot about a week previous to her death. Friday lockjaw set in, and she died Saturday, as stated.

TWO YOUNG MEN KILLED.

One Dragged to Death by a Mule, the Other Shot by His Uncle.

Pierce Hinds, the 13-year-old son of Thomas Hinds, who lives five miles from Guntersville, Ala., lost his life in a frightful way Saturday. Pierce had been plowing, when a rain came up. He unhitched his mule and endeavored to lead it to the house. The mule refused to be led, when the boy slipped behind it and slapped it with the lines. The mule jumped and ran away. The boys hands were looped into the lines, and he was dragged to death. His mother and father were both eye witnesses. On reaching him it was found that his neck, jaw and a number of other bones in his body were broken, while his body was terribly lacerated. His parents are heartbroken.

Sunday a young man in a semi-conscious condition was found lying in the road about ten miles above Guntersville. Upon investigation it was found that an ugly wound was in his abdomen, his bowels were punctured and both his hands burned. After some attention the young fellow revived somewhat and gave his name as Mant Hart, and that he had been shot by his uncle Tom. This was all he was able to state, and relapsing into an unconscious condition again, soon died. The ground for quite a distance was kicked up and tracks were in abundance, showing that there had been considerable scuffle. There is no clue to any crime, but the case is being investigated.

Rivers and Harbors Committee.

The special committee of six congressmen from the rivers and harbors committee of congress was in Florence Monday on their trip down the river, and stopped at the Florence wharf for two hours. The party consisted of Congressman Burton, of Ohio, chairman; Alexander, of New York; Berry, of Kentucky; Bishop, of Michigan; Bankhead, of Alabama, and Sparkman, of Florida. With the committee were Major Dan Kingman, of Chattanooga, engineer in charge of the Tennessee river improvements; Gen. Joseph Wheeler, G. T. Nelles, secretary to Major Kingman; L. M. Ellis, secretary of the rivers and harbors committee, and Mrs. A. S. Berry, wife of Congressman Berry, of Kentucky.

New Railroad Through Georgia.

Application for a charter will be filed in the office of the secretary of state of Georgia, in a day or two, by the parties interested in the contemplated road that is to be built from Gainesville, Ga., via Dahlonega, through the counties of Hall, Lumpkin, White, Uniontown and Rabun to some connecting point with the Southern railway in Tennessee. The road is being built for the purpose of reaching the gold fields in North Georgia and the big marble and granite quarries in that section of the state. It has been practically determined that the motive power of the new road is to be electricity, which is to be generated in the northern part of the state by use of water power that runs through the mountains.

To Build 100 New Coke Ovens.

The Sloss Iron and Steel Company, of Birmingham, is letting contracts for 100 coke ovens, to be erected near Brookside. The company will also open up a new coal mine at that place on June 1, the slack coal from which will be turned into the coke ovens. The building of the coke ovens is necessary to supply the company's four iron furnaces. The cost of the improvements will be about $25,000. The officials assign as a reason for these extensions that the business of the concern has never been as flourishing as at present.

Captured Vessel Returned to Owners.

The United States Supreme court Monday decided the prize money case of the French steamer Olinde Roderiguez, the first of the naval prize money cases growing out of the Spanish war to reach the court. The decision was announced by Chief Justice Fuller, and directed that the vessel, which was captured off San Juan, Porto Rico, on the 17th of July last, and has been held since by this government, shall be returned to its owners, on the ground that it was not proven that the steamer's officers intended to enter the blockaded port.

Brutally Burned Her Four Children.

Winnie Roach, a mulatto woman, came near being lynched by an angry negro mob Monday night in Atlanta. The crime with which she and her husband were charged was brutally burning their four little children nearly to death by igniting paper, saturated with kerosene, with which their bodies had been wrapped.

SEEKING PEACE ONCE MORE.

AGUINOLDO ORDERS FOREIGNERS TO LEAVE.

Rebel Leader Trying to Force Other Governments to Recognize Belligerency of His So-Called Government—Situation in the Philippines.

A Saturday's cable dispatch from Manila says: The Filipinos have resumed the attempt to induce the Americans to discuss the situation. Reyes, a young lieutenant on the staff of Gregorio Del Pilar, came to General Lawton today under a flag of truce. He was accompanied by a barefooted bugler. The two were escorted Manila by Captain Sewell, of General Lawton's staff. Reyes told Major-General Otis that Aguinaldo desired passes for a military commission to confer with the American Philippine commissioners. General Otis replied that passes would not be necessary, as unarmed commissioners could enter the lines. He would leave the matter, he said, in General Lawton's hands.

Aguinaldo has issued orders that all foreigners must leave insurgent territory within forty eight hours. There are only a few commercial men there, mostly English and German. Aguinaldo believes that by refusing them the rights of non-combatants he can force other governments to recognize the belligerency of his so-called government, in order that they may treat for the safety of their subjects.

A Filipino priest who has talked with the Tagal General, Treas, has brought to Father McKinnon, chaplain of the First California regiment, a copy of a letter written by Aguinaldo to General Treas, asking his opinion as to the advisability of surrendering, saying: "I fear that the long warfare that will be necessary to conquer the United States will drain the country's resources too much."

"FORCE THE FIGHTING,"

Says President McKinley to General Otis in the Philippines.

A special to the New York World from Hot Springs, Va., says: "Force the fighting. Penetrate far into the interior and capture or destroy every warring Filippino."

That is the pith of a long cipher cablegram President McKinley sent to General Otis in Manila. It was promoted by several dispatches from General Otis, transmitted by Secretary Alger, which greatly encouraged the President.

Nebraska Regiment Wants a Rest.

The First Nebraska volunteer infantry is taking the unusual step of requesting Maj.-Gen. MacArthur to temporarily relieve them from duty at the front. The regiment is badly exhausted by the campaign, in which it has taken an active part, and not many more than 300 men of the organization are at present fit for duty. On Sunday last 160 men of this regiment responded to sick call. The men, in view of the facts, have prepared a respectful memorial to Gen MacArthur, asking that their regiment be withdrawn for a short time from the fighting line, in order that they may recuperate. Since February 2 the regiment has lost 225 men in killed and wounded, and fifty-nine since the battle of Malolos.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Frank A. Vanderlip has consented to act as chairman of a national committee to provide a residence in Washington for Admiral Dewey.

Strike at Chattanooga.

Three hundred coal miners of the Soddy Coal Company, in Hamilton county, Tenn., went on a strike Saturday. The company recently discharged a number of men because they belonged to the Mine Workers' Union. President Smith of the union demanded that the men be taken back at once otherwise he says the men will remain on a strike all the summer.

HOUSE WILL NOT ADJOURN

Until a Vote is Reached on a Suffrage Amendment.

The house passed a resolution on Monday morning to remain in session until a vote was taken on some suffrage amendment, and the opinion is that it will take some days to do that.

The senate took up the motion of Mr. Brooks to reconsider the vote by which the suffrage amendment was defeated in the senate on Friday. Mr. Brooks addressed the senate in favor of the resolution and urged upon the senate the necessity of some sort of legislation.

Messrs. Jenkins, Buchanan and Hall also spoke along the same line. A little breeze occurred between Messrs. Hall and Jenkins, but it blew over without any trouble.

Bills were introduced by Mr. Buchanan to add amendment to section 3 of act 17 of the constitution: To provide for submitting all future constitutions to the people. Referred to the committee on constitution.

Mr. Jenkins—To provide for regulating primary elections in Alabama; privileges and elections.

The bill to regulate primary elections, which passed the house on Saturday, was received by the senate and referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

At the night session the senate discussed the reconsideration of the vote by which the suffrage amendment was lost for an hour, when it was discovered no quorum was present, and the senate adjourned.

The house discussed a resolution that no amendment should be passed disfranchising anybody, and it was referred to joint committee. The joint committee on amendments reported back all amendments to it without recommendation.

TRUSTS BARRED FROM TEXAS.

The Legislature Forbids Pools and Combinations of All Kinds.

The house of the Texas legislature Friday finally passed the anti-trust bill as it came from the senate Tuesday by a vote of 101 to 3. The bill as passed is decidedly more drastic than the Arkansas law. It absolutely debars any pool or trust from doing business in the state, prevents their goods from being used in the state for the reason that it clearly specifies that goods bought from any trust or corporation which may prove to be a trust need not be paid for. It also provides that no corporation can fix a price on its goods and force merchants to sell at such a price. It provides further that pooling is strictly prohibited, and that any corporation giving away its goods with a view of crushing competition shall be adjudged a member of a trust and shall be debarred from doing business in the state.

CAPITAL OF $55,000,000.

Republic Steel Company Incorporated Under New Jersey Laws.

The Republic Steel company has been incorporated under the laws of New Jersey with a capital of $55,000,000. The president is Randolph S. Warner, of Columbus, O. The concerns in the new corporation include a large number of companies in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Alabama. Among them are the Birmingham Rolling Mill company, Birmingham, Ala.; Pioneer Mining and Manufacturing company, of Birmingham, Ala. All told, the mills have an annual output of 1,000,000 tons of merchant bar iron, the rolled product used by farming implements and wagonmakers, car builders and other kindred industries.

The iron ore properties are a very important part of the combination. The Pioneer Mining and Manufacturing company, of Birmingham, owns 25,600 acres of land of which 14,700 are coal, 8,580 red and brown iron ore, 500 limestone and 1,760 of other character at the furnaces and coke plants near Thomas, Ala. The company will entirely be independent of all other interests in the iron industry.

Dr. John T. Green, of Missouri, has been elected president of the Southern Baptist Seminary to succeed Dr. W. H. Whittsitt, whose resignation was accepted after a long and bitter struggle.

Deal in Coal Property.

Graves & Johnson made a sale of about 1,000 acres of coal property at Mary Lee, near Birmingham, Saturday, the purchasers being either the Gate City people, known as the John Skelton Williams syndicate, of Baltimore and Richmond, or the Republic Iron and Steel company. The persons interested were disposed to be very reticent, but it is known that the price paid was $35,000.

ROSWELL P. FLOWER IS DEAD.

Former Governor of New York Taken Suddenly Ill and Passed Away.

Former Governor Roswell P. Flower, of New York, died Friday night at East Port, Long Island. Mr. Flower was taken ill early in the day with a severe attack of acute indigestion. In the afternoon symptoms of heart failure supervened and he grew steadily worse until the time of his death. The attack of heart failure was accompanied by a fainting spell. He became unconscious an hour or so before his death. He had been a sufferer from gastritis for some time, with every now and then an acute attack. He appeared in robust health the day previous to his death.

Roswell Pettibone Flower was born in Theresa, Jefferson county, N. Y., August 7, 1835. Roswell was the sixth son of nine children, and when his father died he was eight years old. He worked with his brothers on two farms his mother owned, and spent his time between school sessions in the hardest kind of labor.

Mr. Flower came to New York in 1860. Mr. Flower always was a democrat. In the early seventies he helped Samuel J. Tilden to develop the famous organization which exposed Tweed, and enjoyed many other triumphs.

Good authorities estimate that Mr. Flower's profits in the last eighteen months in Wall street have exceeded $10,000,000. He has been during that time the speculative leader in the financial markets of the United States.

TWENTY-FIVE KILLED.

Excursion Special Crashes Into an Express With Fearful Loss of Life.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Friday night a collision of passenger trains occurred on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad at Exeter station, six miles below reading. The express, which left Reading for Philadelphia, was behind the schedule time in leaving, and stopped at Exeter for orders. A special train from Harrisburg, bearing excursionists, who had attended the Hartranft monument unveiling at the capital, left twenty minutes later than the express train and at Exeter, while going at a rapid rate of speed, crashed into the express, causing a great loss of life. The number of dead is fully twenty-five and the injured fifty. The first train ploughed through three cars of the forward train, completely wrecking them. The railroad officials offer no explanation of the accident. Returning passengers say the scenes around the wreck are of the most fearful description.

Briggs Ordained an Episcopal Priest.

In the pro-cathedral in Stanton street, New York, Rev. Dr. Chas. A. Briggs, who was suspended for heresy by the Presbyterian assembly, was ordained a priest of the Episcopal church Sunday. He was ordained with the Rev. Snedeker and the ordination was conducted by Rev. Bishop Potter.

A Georgian Assassinated.

While searching for a supposed thief, Robert F. Davis, an old and highly respected citizen of DeKalb county Ga., was shot down by an unknown person at 1 o'clock Friday morning at his home near Decatur. Davis said that he recognized his assassin as will Lucas, a discharged farm hand. The wounded man lived nearly twelve hours.

Mrs. William Hazlehurst, of Macon, Ga., dropped dead of heart disease in Washington city, where she was visiting her daughter.

Killed By a Bicyclist.

Samuel Gaut, an old gentleman who lived on a small farm in Catoosa county, Georgia, was run down Saturday morning by a bicyclist in Rossville Gap, and received injuries from which he has since died. The cyclist was "coasting" down the long hill and in turning out to escape a wagon he struck the old man who was walking in the rear of the wagon.

Fell From a Ladder.

W. W. Moore, a well known painting contractor, fell from the top of a seven foot step ladder at the Hercules Pipe Works at Anniston and died in a few minutes. His neck was probably broken by the fall, though he fell upon soft earth, and it may have been an apoplectic or a paralytic stroke.

Slayer of Burgess Surrenders.

No further trouble has occurred as was feared as a result of the killing of D. R. Burgess, at Edwardsville, by Town Marshal A. C. Sorrells, a few days since, though there is much suppressed feeling. Sorrells did not go to the courthouse after the shooting, as at first reported, but went to the office of a friend and afterwards to the county jail, where he surrendered to the sheriff. As he left the scene of the shooting he fired two shots at the father and brother of Burgess, but without effect.

Three Men Drowned in the Warrior.

Three men were drowned in the Warrior river, near Foster's ferry, late Friday afternoon. W. C. and Alex Autrey and Fellows Boutwell, who had been getting out timber there for several months, started down the river in a small skiff rigged with a sail. The wind was blowing very hard, and it is supposed that the skiff was capsized, and in attempting to save each other they were all drowned. A negro was in a skiff near by, but was so frightened that he did not attempt to save them. The bodies of the unfortunate men were shipped to Catherine for interment.

Coal Lands and Furnace Property Sold

The deed by which three thousand acres of mineral property, situated on the Cahaba river, in Jefferson and Shelby counties, as conveyed to the Terrell Coal Company, has been filed for record in the Probate office of Jefferson county. The amount paid for the property was $85,000. The property in question was conveyed to the Terrell Coal Company by V. S. Sweatman, trustee; James Ogden and Frederick W. Hammett. The conveyance was made in Philadelphia, Pa., on May 1. The property conveyed consists of timber and mineral lands and contains mines, coke ovens and furnace. All of the machinery, coke ovens, furnace, etc., are conveyed to the company in the deed and rights of way are also conveyed. The deed bears $85 worth of internal revenue stamps.

Pulled the Trigger With Her Toe.

A horrible tragedy occurred Saturday about twelve miles from Selma, in Woodland precinct. S. T. Seay left home, taking with him his two boys, leaving his three little girls at home with their mother. It is from the latter that Mr. Seay learned the particulars of the horrible sight that met his gaze as he reached his garden gate, for there, on the ground, dead, in a pool of blood, lay the wife and mother he had left full of life but a few hours before.

The story of the children is that their mother took the shotgun from a shelf and went out into the garden. She then pulled off her shoes, placed the gun to her breast and pulled the trigger with her toe. The load entered her body, causing instant death. About a month ago Mrs. Seay had a difficulty with a neighbor, out of which trouble has grown, and it is thought from worrying over the matter her mind became unbalanced, and she committed the deed while suffering from temporary insanity.

Gen. Harrison Succeeds Gen. Ferguson.

At the annual convention of the Alabama division, United Confederate Veterans, held in Charleston during the recent reunion, Gen. George P. Harrison, of Opelika, was elected major general commanding the Alabama division. Gen. F. S. Ferguson, the former major general, declined to stand for re-election, so Gen. Harrison's election was unanimous.

JENKINS BILL DEFEATED.

The House Passes the Primary Election Law.

The senate, Friday afternoon, defeated the Jenkins suffrage amendment by a vote of 13 to 10. Senator Jenkins' amendment incorporated the educational and poll tax qualifications for electors. The vote on other amendments will likely be much larger, because more members will be present. The vote in detail follows:

Nays—Messrs. Brooks, Case, Hurst, Lee, Matthews, McCain, Moody, Nunnellee, Sowell of Walker, Windham—10.

Mr. Brown changed his vote to aye to move to reconsider.

The president decided that it took two-thirds of all the senate, or 22 aye votes, to pass the bill, but there was a bare majority and nothing like two-thirds of those voting even.

The house passed the primary election law by 36 to 34. The vote was a tie, 34 to 34, before the vote was announced, and Messrs. Smith and McGuire voted aye and Messrs. Speaker and Tunstall changed their votes to aye to reconsider, and that made the final record 38 to 32. The bill will hardly be passed, and, as has been predicted all along, nothing further will be done.

Refused to Kill Election Law.

There was a close and exciting fight in the house Saturday over the motion of Mr. Tunstall to reconsider the primary election bill.

The forces were led by Messrs. Tunstall and Robinson, the seat of Mr. Brandon being questioned, he was quiet. The debate brought out some interesting things, among others the statement from Mr. Heflin, of Chambers, that the governor had told him that he would sign the Coosa county court bill abolishing the commissioners' court of that county if he would send it to him after the house had finally adjourned.

This brought out a statement from Mr. Kelly, populist, of Choctaw, that the governor sent for him when the bill to abolish the Jefferson county commissioner' court was pending and told him if he would vote for it that he would take care of the populist counties and would not let them abolish any of their courts. These statements created quite a sensation, and were denied by authority of the governor, but both gentlemen stick to their statement, and take square issue with the governor.

The motion to reconsider was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 34 to 33, and the bill goes to the senate.

Mr. Tunstall challenged Mr. Brandon's right to a seat, but it gave way to a motion to reconsider, and will come up hereafter.

The primary election bill has been so amended that it amounts to very ittle, and if it gets through the senate will not be much improvement on the present law.

Charged With Counterfeiting.

J. A. Harding, living at Avondale, near Birmingham, is under arrest on a charge of being connected with a gang of counterfeiters who have been manufacturing bogus gold coin. The government officials have made about five arrests in various parts of the state already, the allegation being that all have been in the gang making spurious gold and silver coin. Many bad coins have been traced as coming from Alabama, and the treasury department people have been on the lookout in the state for some time, arrests just being made.

New Officers are Installed.

The grand lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, adjourned Friday night after sessions of three days a Huntsville. The following grand officers, elected several months ago, were duly inducted into office: John A Donahoo, grand master; Jacob Papperman, deputy grand master; W. S. Lewis, grand warden; H. C. Weaver grand secretary; A. F. McGee, grand representative.

E. Erswell, grand treasurer, was too ill to be present, and will be installed by the grand master at his home in Birmingham.

Cruelty to Convicts Charged.

The legislative committee sent to investigate convict camps in east and south Florida has just returned to Tallahassee and its report filed Monday contains startling disclosures of cruelty and unlawful treatment of convicts. A large number of convict lessees are now in Tallahassee seeking to prevent further investigation.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

1. That we favor the holding of a constitutional convention for the purpose of so regulating the right to vote as to perpetuate the rule of the white man in Alabama.

2. That the constitutional convention shall regulate all questions of suffrage so as not to conflict with the Constitution of the United States, and for the best interest of the people and taxpayers of the State of Alabama.

3. That there shall be inserted in such constitution a provision limiting the rate of taxation by the State, counties and municipalities, and that such rate shall not exceed the rate now fixed by the present constitution, but a lower rate if practicable.

4. That the proposed new constitution shall be submitted to a vote of the people for its adoption or rejection.

5. That we pledge our faith to the people of Alabama not to deprive any white man of his right to vote except for conviction of infamous crime.

6. That section 39 of article 4 of the present constitution in reference to the removal and location of the State capitol shall remain unchanged.

7. That the provisions and restrictions in the present conntitution as to corporations shall remain unchanged.

8. That we hereby instruct all Democratic members of the constitution to faithfully carry out the above pledges.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY PLATFORM.

The Democratic party of Shelby County, in convention assembled, declares its belief in a just, capable and honest government; and to that end desires such a change in the Constitution of this State as will place the governing power in the hands of those who are competent to properly administer it; but is opposed to the disfranchisement of any white citizen of this State.

We believe that the new Constitution when framed should be referred to the people for final ratification.

We are opposed to any increase in the tax rate above the present Constutional limit.

We are opposed to the curtailment of the present power of the legislature to regulate, control or prohibit the sale of liquor as the people may in their wisdom desire.

THE Cullman County Tribune-Gazette gives the best of evidence that the Senator and Representative from that county did not voice the wishes of their constituents when they voted for repeal.

THE report comes from Montgomery that the House journal has been tampered with since the adjournment of the regular session. It is about time some of the dirty work about the capitol was brought to light and stopped.

IN the last analysis, the question now in issue here is whether Alabama is to have a government of the people and by the people or a government of the committees and by committees.—Southern Argus.

Or whether we shall have a government of the Governor and by his appointees.

THE Mountain Home suggests that Senator Morgan's toga would not have to be let out any to fit Johnston. We should say not. Of course Morgan's toga will have to be worn by another some of these unfortunate days, but it will never be filled by such a man as Johnston. He may, by the scheming at which he is such an adept, wear the garment, but he will never fill it. It has been worn by too big a man.

THE Southern Argus, famed in days gone by, has been revived by its veteran editor, Col. Robert McKee. In the old days Colonel McKee was an able editor, and a brave defender of the people's rights. He begins his renewed editorial work by espousing the cause of Governor Johnston. We fear the Colonel, during his years of rest, has forgotten the art of measuring public sentiment. If he has his venture will prove a failure.

DRUMMERS can tell you more about the prevailing sentiment of the people than anybody outside of the country press. Several of these gentlemen inform us that Governor Johnston is the worst abused man in Alabama today. They find nobody supporting him. One of them informs us that the ladies in the black counties, the ones most interested in white supremacy, are calling the Governor's name in disgust, referring to him with the utmost contempt.

ONE of the Populist members of the House gave the snap away the other day. He stated on the floor and through the papers that Governor Johnston called him into his office and offered to protect all Populist commissioners' courts if he, the Populist member, would vote for the Governor's bill to abolish the court of Jefferson County. How many of these trades were made or proposed by the Governor remains to be seen. Doubtless they will all come out. Since the Governor has helped the Populists kill the convention they will turn and kill him. This is the usual fate of men who betray their party for selfish motives.

THE Birmingham Times, a Republican paper, speaking of the repeal of the convention law, says: "We won." No other evidence is wanted that Governor Johnston acted unwisely. That a Republican organ, opposed to disfranchising the negro, should be highly elated over the repeal is proof enough that the repeal was against the interests of the Democratic party, against the good of the whole people. The Times is joined in its hilarity by all the Populist sheets in the State. They are all warm supporters of the negro's political equality with the white man. Governor Johnston must feel highly honored that his actions are praised by Republicans and Populists while condemned by so many Democrats.

DEATH OF I. D. MASON.

As noted in our news columns last week, we have lost by death's hand one of our most substantial citizens. His death occurred on the 10th instant, after many months of illness, not always serious but always present. With his untiring energy he kept too much at business toward the latter part of his sickness, which undoubtedly hastened the end. He at last yielded to the advice of friends and physicians and was taken to Birmingham, where it was thought he would soon be improved. But the silent reaper had marked him for its harvest and he was gathered into the garner of the Master whom he had served so long and well.

Mr. Mason had been in business in Columbiana for more than fifteen years, during which time he had built up a successful trade among the farmers. He adhered strictly to well balanced rules in his business affairs, and was scrupulously honest and fair in his dealings. A spirit of charity seasoned his business dealings, and there be many who will miss him.

In religious work he was a leader and a worker. He was a steward of his church, an officer of the North Alabama Conference, superintendent of his Sunday school and a prime mover in the county Sunday school organization. He took great interest in the work of all the churches, and was perhaps the largest contributor to the church expenses in the town.

He had held the offices of county treasurer and county superintendent of education, and always took a lively interest in political affairs.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge, and was buried with Masonic honors.

His life was open, honest, charitable and worthy of emulation. He reared a family of sons and daughters who are held in high esteem by all our people, and who have the sympathy of them all in their loss.

The death of no man can retard the progress of the world about him, but in a great degree the death of Mr. Mason will be a serious blow to our community.

ANOTHER of the Populist legislators discloses an effort on the part of Governor Johnston to unduly influence members to vote as he wished. The worst thing we see in his letter to Senator Brooks is that he conferred with a Populist as to the best method of preserving the Democratic party. It seems that Governor Johnston must think the party is in a bad way when he appeals to Populists to save it.

THE Atlanta Constitution is still troubling itself to give the people of Alabama advice in their effort to change the constitution of the State so as to eliminate the negro vote. The Constitution's long-winded editorials on the subject would be very easily answered if one cared to take the trouble, but we have all the advisors we need over here at home, and the Constitution might a great deal more profitably give its own people some advice along this same line.

THE Ashland Standard thus foretells the condition of affairs when a certain event takes place in Alabama:

When Joseph Forney Johnston becomes United States Senator from Alabama bullfrogs will turn to angels and owls will sing like mocking birds, young women will grow whiskers, monkeys will talk French. Populists will shave, the whangdoodle will rejoice over the death of its first born, the jobberwock will join the church and sing hymns, the zygodactyle will have ten toes, the uropygium will sprout horns instead of pin-feathers in his tail, snow will fall six feet deep in Alabama in July, the moon will rise in the West and take the place of the sun. The Montgomery Advertiser will join the silverites, and a whole lot of other equally strange and queer things will happen when the red-headed rooster of Jefferson defeats the Hon. John T. Morgan for the United States Senate.

SOME of the few papers in Alabama who follow the Governor, taking their inspiration from the Montgomery Journal, are saying things about Senator Morgan remaining so much away from home that he does not know the conditions here. These self-constituted public instructors will find in the near future that Senator Morgan knows a great deal more about conditions in Alabama, about the people and about their needs, about the State's constitution and its laws than those who have been so close at home. There is such a thing as sympathetic communion between friends at a distance, and he who is a friend to the State and away in its service will know it and serve it better than him who is closer in person but not in spirit.

WE are beginning to hear complaints already of the high taxes for this year. One naturally inquires into the reason therefor. An examination of the tax books for this year discloses the assessment of real and personal property by one of the richest concerns in the county at $28,005. This same concern has been offered $16,000 per annum for the rent of their property, showing that it must be more valuable than assessed for taxes. Besides this it is a corporation, and has not complied with the law as to the assessment of its shares of capital stock. No other corporation in the county has done this, and there are many more undervaluing their property. So long as these wealthy corporations are thus assessing their property at merely nominal values the tax rate will be high, and the small owners will have to bear the burden. It is the duty of the officials to remedy this evil. There are some reasons why they do not do so. THE CHRONICLE will take occasion to agitate this question until the remedy is forthcoming or the people are acquainted with the facts.

BUILD A COTTON MILL.

The town that receives and forwards to market one thousand bales of cotton can turn those bales into standard sheetings by building a small mill. Such a mill would contain 2,208 spindles and 76 looms. The Tradesman presents the matter of building such mill in detail. The machinery would cost $27,780; the buildings, including the shafting, heating, lighting and plumbing, $8,000; and the power plant, 110-horse power, $2,550; incidentals, $1,100—bringing the total cost up to $39,480. The building should be two stories in height, and 48x100 feet in dimensions.

The production of such a plant would be 23,980 yards a week, thus quadrupling the value to the community of the one thousand bales. The help required would consist of 43 hand at $5.36 a week; the superintendent would receive $24 a week; the overseers $2.25 a day, and the other hands would receive from 60 cents to $1 a day. Some would be paid by piece work.

In estimating the product of a mill it is safe to expect 425 pounds of cloth from every bale weighing five hundred pounds. The weight of standard sheetings, thirty-six inches wide is .285 pounds to the yard. In this way one can ascertain what value would be put into a bale of raw cotton in the proposed mill.

While the cost of the mill would be but $39,480, yet a working capital would be advisable, if the highest possible returns are desired. Without a working capital interest must be paid, and this reduces profits. Perhaps a total capital of $75,000 would be advisable, and the gathering of such a capital should be undertaken on the installment plan. A man who agrees to take $1,000 in the stock of the enterprise should be given twenty-five weeks to pay the amount in. This is the method now largely pursued in North Carolina, and if the plan could be introduced in this State there is not a county in this State that need be without a cotton mill.

A simple calculation will show that 1000 bales of cotton will yield in cloth at 4 cents per yard $62,440. The cost of the labor for one year will be $12,272. The cost of 1000 bales of cotton will be at the present price $25,000. This would leave a profit of $25,168 on the investment. The half of this would be splendid interest on the money invested. Fifty thousand dollars capital would handle the cotton from the field, and a third of the profit figured out above would be very handsome.

A pay roll of $236 per week would make a wonderful difference to a thousand-bale town.

Columbiana ships 2000 bales per year. Why not make it into cloth and save the profit?

"People in Montgomery have ceased to pay any attention to the legislature," said a visitor from the capital; a business man, by the way. "The lawbreakers have disgusted the public, and nobody seems to care what they do. Governor Johnston controls and directs the majority as absolutely as he could wish. They do his bidding as if they were his personal property, and appear to have no wills of their own. Thus these lawbreakers present a pitiful spectacle, and each one receives four dollars a day. For one day's pay anyone of them can get eight acres of cotton chopped whilst he registers the Governor's wishes and drinks ice water or liquor in the shade. I should estimate that not more than a third of the members of the general assembly earn each at home more than four dollars a day.

"Governor Johnston's personal and political extra session is proving to be very expensive to the State. It is costing the taxpayers a thousand dollars a day. That equals forty or fifty bales of cotton, or about a hundred tons of pig iron. It represents the farm labor of 2,000 men. And all this tax because the Governor was displeased with the high character of the men nominated for delegates to the constitutional convention.

"There is one comfort about it all. The Governor is powerless to force the self-respecting minority to do his bidding in the matter of inadequate and ridiculous amendments to the constitution. He has opened a Pandora's box of evils, and he must abide by the consequences. He has set himself up in effect as the three branches of the State government. He is the executive, the legislative and the judicial. His role he shall play to the end."

WE believe that as a rule the newspapers reflect the sentiment of this community. If a community has a well-formed opinion on a public question the paper will be in accord with it; if it has none the paper will soon make one. Ninety-odd newspapers, all Democratic, in Alabama favored a constitutional convention, while less than a dozen opposed it. This unquestionably proves that a large majority of the Democrats of Alabama favor a convention. What a majority of Democrats want in this State will happen sooner or later.

The reason of our poverty is not hard to find. Take our average citizen. He gets up in the morning, pulls on a pair of socks from Lynn, Mass., puts on a pair of shoes from Boston, a suit of clothes from Philadelphia; goes in to his breakfast, draws up a chair made in Chicago and eats from a table which came from Cincinnati; sweetens his coffee from Rio with sugar from Louisiana; takes a slice of ham cured in St. Louis, and butters a biscuit of Minnesota flour with oleomargarine which came from the Lord knows where; he eats South Carolina or Louisiana rice, and even the very grits upon his table were ground in some Northern mill; he goes to his stable and puts a set of harness from St. Louis on a mule from Kentucky, hitches it to a wagon from Illinois and drives over to his neighbors and complains of hard times. Of course times are hard when everything people eat, drink, wear and drive come from somewhere else, and only the atmosphere which he breathes is a home institution.

PRESS dispatches give news of a meeting of the Reform Press Association at which resolutions were passed declaring against fusion of the Populist party. This leads one to consider the inconsistency of that party generally. They decline to fuse with the Democrats on national issues, thus destroying the only chance to accomplish the reform they seek. On the other hand they fuse in States and counties like ours with the very worst element of voters—the negroes and their white leaders—against the Democrats, whose interests are identical with theirs for good and honest government. The only explanation is the one often given—that the Populist party is composed of officeseekers and those whose prejudices can be arrayed against their better judgment.

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

Will the prayers of all the ministers in the State or the five minutes agony on the gallows atone for the crimes of Will Golson or any other criminal? If so, the gallows will be the quickest transport to heaven.

Can't the American people cool off and calm down just a little from their high-pitched enthusiasm over Dewey before he reaches home? Really let us try. Dewey is surely a much beloved and honored naval hero. This fact Dewey himself already knows, and being a modest man, he will surely shrink in disgust at the profusion of demonstrations our people are likely to engage in upon his arrival home. Can't we be a little more discreet, reasonable and moderate in our hero worshiping? At least let the women not repeat the Hobson episode.

Let's see, "Senator Joseph Johnston who defeated Senator John T. Morgan." Voters of Alabama, how would that sound? Verily, it cannot be. It would be a disgrace to our State.

The cartoon of last Sunday's Age-Herald is more expressive than pages of heavy editorial. Let our Governor behold the pit of oblivian into which he will surely be hurled. If Mr. Starkey will persevere a speedy fortune awaits him.

MONTEVALLO SIFTINGS.

Commencement exercises of the Montevallo Girl's School were very interesting and reflected great credit upon both students and teachers. Mrs. Babb, the never-changing, gracious, whole-souled woman, who has had charge of the school from its beginning, remains faithful and successful as one who has no peer in this section of the country in the control and leadership of several hundred bright young women.

Mrs. Cruikshank, of Birmingham, who delivered an address to the school on Wednesday, is a most pleasing, intelligent and forceful woman.

There were many prominent people from different parts of the State visiting Montevallo for commencement exercises.

Mr. J. M. Reynolds excels in gallantry, chivalry and hospitality. On Tuesday afternoon he complimented the girls at his house and visiting ladies, including Mrs. James Robinson, of Montevallo; Miss Flora Thomas, of Goodwater, and Mrs. Gist, of Columbian, with a delightful carriage drive to Aldrich, the famous summer home of Congressman W. F. Aldrich, where the party enjoyed themselves hugely for an hour. On Wednesday afternoon the same party were treated to a delightful drive to Davis Falls, where the picturesque scenery and fragrant forests enchanted the happy little party for another brief hour. Mr. Reynolds and his charming daughter, Miss Katie, are the quintescence of hospitality and always prove themselves model host and hostess.

Mrs. James McConcaughy entertained Mrs. Cruikshank right royally, and makes a charming hostess.

Did you ever meet anyone who was "stuck up," and thus showed plainly that they were only recently enjoying the luxuries of life? Well, then, you know with what a pitying condescension we looked upon a creature of this sort during our visit at Montevallo. Poor shallow-minden mortal; if you could only fathom the disgust that surrounds your haughty "airs" on all sides you would certainly return to your former equilibrium and pose sweetly as you did a few short months ago.

Shelby Springs Shot Drops.

Mrs. Gist, on last Sunday, organized a Bible class, and residents and visitors at the Springs are invited to attend at 4 o'clock every Sabbath afternoon.

Miss Stella Baker and her gallant brother, Mr. Murphy Baker, treated a crowd of young people to a hay ride and picnic on the occasion of the closing exercises of Miss Georgie Cromwell's school near Shelby.

Messrs. Lanore and Hunter, of Selma, were guests here Sunday.

The Regular Army.

The army of the United States was reorganized in 1866 with an aggregate force of 3,036 officers and 51,605 soldiers—total, 54,641. In 1874 it was reduced to 25,000 soldiers. Although small in numbers, it was, in point of physical excellence, intelligence, efficiency and patriotic, martial spirit, the equal of any body of men of its number in any part of the world. It was in the spring of 1898 an army of athletes, and made a good nucleus for the great volunteer force called into service. The war with Spain brought into service 278,000 men.

Within a short time it was the good fortune of the army, acting in concert with the gallant navy and native patriots, to release from Spanish rule 12,000,000 people in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippine islands. I believe the army will in the future, as it has in the past, ever be the exponent of the best thought, inspiration and expression of the people who are now and will be henceforth enjoying the freedom of American institutions.

Recent act of Congress authorized a force of 65,000 men in the Army of the United States, with an additional force of 35,000 volunteers. This increase, however, is not permanent, and the strength of the army will depend upon future legislation.—Major-General Nelson A. Miles, in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for May.

A Standard, Square Bale.

[Savannah News.]

A special effort is being made throughout the cotton belt to have a standard, square cotton bale adopted. This effort is not a new one by any means. For several seasons it has been made, but thus far with only partial success. Last year, in this State, from twelve to fifteen per cent of the cotton press boxes was changed to the standard measurement, which is 24 by 54.

The cotton growers, particularly those who have gins, and the cotton ginners, do not seem to appreciate the importance of the standard bale. It is probable that its importance would be appreciated if higher railroad and ocean freights were charged on cotton not baled in accordance with the standard measurement. At the convention of the cotton ginners associations of Texas, held in Galveston the other day, a synopsis of the proceedings of which we publish this morning, a resolution was adopted by the Galveston Maritime Association which provides that cotton, in bales of greater dimensions than the standard bale, and of less density than 25 pounds to the cubic foot, shall pay extra freight to the amount of ten cents per hundred pounds.

From this it will be seen that it has become an important matter that the standard for square bales shall be adopted. It may cost something to change press boxes which do not already conform to the standard, but it will pay to make the change. With uniformity in the bales a greater number of bales can be carried in cargoes, and hence the general adoption of the standard bale would be followed by a reduction in freight rates.

A physician writing in the New York Times states a fact, laid down in many medical works, which ought to be more generally recognized. In cases of persons up to 45 or 50 years of age, whose hearts are not otherwise affected, pneumonia is not a very grave disease, and will, therefore, result favorably by proper nursing alone without very special remedies. For this reason there is a very considerable percentage of pneumonia cases which are treated "with wonderful success by any remedy," or which recover without any at all. This, however, should not justify any person in allowing such an attack to be neglected, or in attempting to treat it in any member of his family without medical aid. When it is even suspected, a reliable physician should be sent for. It is impossible to know whether the heart is affected until some such test reveals its weakness. It is the complications which need to be watched, and the nutrition which may be too much or too little. Among miners, sailors, hunters, trappers and lumbermen the fact that pneumonia is a self-limited disease were there are complications accounts for a great many recoveries. We repeat the warning given several years ago on the highest medical authority that the deaths from pneumonia in May in this climate along the east coast are as numerous as they are in November; and that the future results of an attack, where there has been a recovery, are often worse than they are in January. From this period until June is well advanced care must be exercised with regard to exposure to draft after becoming heated, and to the changing of underclothing. —Exchange.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cot on and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Munnia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cet preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 167 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 786 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $14.77 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

GERMAN BAPTIST BRETHREN.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER. 50 CENTS A YEAR.

(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)

CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better than it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

WINE OF CARDUI

has demonstrated ten thousand times that it is almost infallible

FOR WOMAN'S PECULIAR WEAKNESSES,

irregularities and derangements. It has become the leading remedy for this class of troubles. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence upon the menstrual organs. It cures "whites" and falling of the womb. It stops flooding and relieves suppressed and painful menstruation. For Change of Life it is the best medicine made. It is beneficial during pregnancy, and helps to bring children into homes barren for years. It invigorates, stimulates, strengthens the whole system. This great remedy is offered to all afflicted women. Why will any woman suffer another minute with certain relief within reach? Wine of Cardui only costs $1.00 per bottle at your drug store.

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Rev. I. W. SMITH, Camden, S.C., says: "My wife used Wine of Cardui at home for falling of the womb and it entirely cured her."

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

The Ediscope Co. gave one of their entertainments at the schoolhouse Friday night—practically a repetion of the entertainments given by other similar concerns which have preceded it here—and played to two dozen people and an equal number of benches.

Tildy Mink and daughter, of Simmons Switch, registered at the hostelry of E. F. Vest Thursday last. They gave bond that night, however, and were released. Both are white, and are well known, they having figured very prominently in a criminal case a few months since.

Simmons Squaw Vine Wine or Tablets make women's lives worth living.

Although there are numbers of excellent fishing pools in the immediate vicinity of this city, the boys find it necessary to tramp many miles before a suitable place for fishing can be found. Owners of land through which the streams pass seem to have a monopoly of the whole business, some even having trespass warnings on lands noted for its sterility or besides which the jungles of Africa would sink to insignificance.

Mrs. A. E. Champion, Yates, Ala., write: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 18 years. It cured my daughter of sour stomach and spitting up her food.

Rev. J. K. Milner, jr., returned last Monday from Princeton, N. J., where he has been attending the theological institute at that place. John has finished his course of studies there and will no doubt soon be assigned to active work in the pulpit—a place he is preeminently fitted to occupy. We extend to him our best wishes and trust that he may wield the word of God with that force and vigor which characterized him on the 'varsity ball grounds and in the schoolroom.

You cannot accomplish any work or business unless you feel well. If you feel "used up—tired out," take Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

W. A. Parker has been circulating among the people of our city this week extending to them a very cordial invitation to meet him tomorrow morning with picks and shovels, for the purpose of working the streets. As this will be the second time the streets have been worked since March the unfortunates are naturally beginning to enquire into the significance of the words, "Shelby County," which are easily found in that wonderful production of Rev. Sturdivant's: "The New Road Law."

The cure of Rheumatism has often taxed medical skill, but its prevention has been found easy by taking Simmons Liver Regulator. "I have taken Simmons Liver Regulator for years. HARPERSVILLE SCHOOL.

Closing Exercises Quite a Success.

MR. EDITOR:—It was my good pleasure to attend the closing exercises of the Harpersville School last Friday night, and such a treat I have not had in a long time. The exercises began promptly at 8 o'clock before a packed house and rendered a program of two and a half hours in length, without the least friction. Everyone seemed to know his or her part perfectly and rendered same with all the enthusiasm of his or her soul.

The audience was refined and intelligent and we have not heard a single criticism of any part of the program, while on the other hand the highest praise was on the lips of almost every one. One special feature of the program could not be overlooked. It was free from those dialogues and negroism which have for their chief object the creation of an outburst of laughter and which leads the hearers unconsciously to a lower plane morally. It was high-toned and refined from beginning to end and there was a moral lesson to be learned from almost every feature of the program.

The little folks opened with the march of life, singing as they spun, carded, sewed, churned, cooked, made shoes, etc. The little folks again appeared with a true representation of a literary society, seven and twelve year old children making and seconding motions and making speeches with all the grace and ease of a statesman. They won the applause of the whole house. A special feature of the occasion was the rendition of several beautiful songs.

E. V. Caldwell, jr., deserves special mention for the most excellent manner in which he rendered "Uncle Ephriam Heaven."

The fourth act of the "Merchant of Venice" won the admiration of all who were at all familiar with the play. All did well, but Henry Walthall as "Shylock" and Stella Posey as "Portie" deserve special mention. The players have already been invited to visit other places.

The exercises closed with a May pole. The pole, the flowers, the bright boys and girls, and the beautiful May Queen and the fine looking King made a complete picture, beautiful to behold. We can not tell all the good things, and hence will close by saying it was all good.

Another change in the date for holding religious services was made Sunday when the Christian Endeavor Society announced that its meetings would be held on Friday nights during the summer season, instead of Sunday afternoons as heretofore. The meetings will rotate among the different churches very much the same as the prayer meetings, mention of which was made last week. The first service under this new plan will be held in the Methodist church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, and will continue at that place until June. This change was made for the purpose of increasing the attendance, which of late has not been very large. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Adopted by Quarterly Conference of Columbiana Charge May 15.

Whereas, It has been the will of God to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Isaac D. Mason, a member of this quarterly conference, which sad event occurred May 10, 1899; therefore, be it

Resolved, 1st, That in the death of Brother Mason our church has suffered the loss of one of its truest and best men, a faithful steward, an earnest and efficient Sunday school superintendent, one who was always ready to spend and to be spent for that which was for the moral upbuilding of our people and the spread of the gospel of Jesus Christ;

Resolved 2d, That we deeply and sincerely sympathize with his bereaved family in this, their hour of affliction and commend them to the care, love and protection of the Man of sorrow who was acquainted with grief.

Resolved 3d, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this quarterly conference, and copies be furnished the family of the deceased, the papers of our county and the Alabama Christian Advocate for publication.

J. R. WHITE.

Mr. John Epps, a practical and scientific optician, is at Drs. Williams Bros. drugstore for two days, and will carefully examine your eyes free of charge and adjust the proper glasses. All whose eyes are affected are cordially invited to call.

Harpersville.

Since the rain Friday night crops have revived and are growing finely.

Our town is quite lonely now. Since the school has closed we miss the children so much.

Charlie Borum, of Montevallo, who has been attending school here, returned home Saturday. Charlie made many friends while here who wish him well, and has left an aching void in one of our girl's heart, which nothing but his presence can ever cure.

We were indeed sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Mason. He was a good man, and we will miss him so much when we visit your town.

Smith Rowe, of North Alabama, was on our streets a few days ago.

Mrs. J. R. Beavers, of Columbiana, was one of the many visitors at the school's closing here Friday night.

Vinett Smith, of Chambers County, who has been attending school here for the past two years, is now pulling the bell cord over one of R. M. Borum's mules. He is a deserving young man and we wish him much success.

Quite a number of our young people attended the birthday celebration of Joe Simmons' Monday night at the residence of Mrs. Simmons. Refreshments were served and all had a nice time generally.

Our school closed Friday night with one of the grandest exhibitions that was ever given here. The house was crowded to its fullest capacity, and a great many were kept away by the rain. The pupils all acquitted themselves very nicely, and there was not a single balk in anything. Professor Spinks is a fine educator, and we hope he will remain with us another year, but should he decide to leave we assure him that he has the hearty wish of every patron and pupil for his future welfare. JAKE.

If your stomach is disordered, bowels irregular, and you don't sleep well, you need Prickly Ash Bitters. It is very effective in removing this condition. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

At the last meeting of the city council Misses Ida O'Hara and Patty Mason were elected as assistant teachers for the next session of the public school, Professor Mynatt having previously been selected as principal. The available funds and the rather slim attendance of pupils at the last session did not seem to warrant the employment of the regular corps of teachers, hence the number was reduced to three. Professor Mynatt and Miss O'Hara are experienced educators and their ability to govern is too well recognized to need comment on our part. Miss Mason has been attending the female college at Tuscaloosa for several years past, and was to have graduated at that place this summer. She is a young lady of rare intellectual endowments and will doubtless adorn the position she is to occupy.

Nothing equal to Prickly Ash Bitters for removing that sluggish bilious feeling, so common in hot weather. It creates strength, vigor, appetite and cheerful spirits. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

Growth of the University.

The University of Alabama is growing in numbers as rapidly as the new material can be assimilated. The enrollment for the past three years as shown by the catalogues has been as follows:

1898-99	220

These figures all refer to the number at the University, exclusive of those at the medical department at Mobile. —Tuscaloosa Times.

Judging from this letter E. G. Talton, of Pikeville, N. C., knows a good thing when he sees it: "I had dyspepsia, indigestion and other liver trouble for twelve years and tried three different doctors, but to no avail. I commenced taking Simmons Liver Regulator and it has done me more good than any medicine I ever used. I always keep Simmons Liver Regulator in the house and cheerfully recommend it as the best remedy known." Williams Bros. & Hall Drug Co., Columbiana agents. A. H. Averyt, Shelby Agent.

LIME MEN IN SESSION.

Directors' Meeting Southern Lime Company.

[Hot Blast.]

A meeting of the directors of the Southern Lime and Supply Co. is being held in this city.

A session of the directors' meeting was held last night at the Wilmer, and another session will be held today.

The Southern Lime and Supply Co. is an association of Southern lime companies and the directors from out of the city who are present are representative lime men.

No business of especial interest was transacted at last night's meeting and the meeting to-day is not expected to be of general interest to any except lime men.

The directors of the association from other cities who are present are:

B. Gager, Chattanooga.
E. G. Eaton, Gadsden.
C. L. O'Neal, Calera.
T. R. Wagner, Calera.
J. B. Adams, Longview.

All of them represent large lime companies, and their actions as directors of the Southern Lime and Supply Co. will affect almost the entire lime interests of the South.

A great many people are influenced by what others say, but no one should be influenced by a druggist and induced to take a substitute for Simmons Liver Regulator, the tried and proven cure for constipation, sick headache, dyspepsia, biliousness and all stomach and liver diseases. Refuse anything offered as Simmons Liver Regulator unless you see the red Z trade mark and the word Regulator on the front of the package.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents or one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, if you send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in THE CHRONICLE.

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

Why Varieties of Grain Run Out.

The horticulturist of the Michigan station claims that one of the principal reasons why varieties of grain run out is probably that oats, wheat and barley are being continually inbred in nature, and the result is that, like animals, their vigor and productiveness decrease, unless the seed be very carefully selected each season, which is not often done. The different varieties of wheat, barley, oats and peas probably never cross naturally in the field. The flowers are so protected that it is next to impossible for foreign pollen to reach them; hence, if new blood is to be infused into a variety it must be done by artificial cross fertilization. This cannot be done until the head is carefully examined, the flower found, and the male and female organs distinguished.

Sow Plenty of Clover Seed.

The farmer who would keep up and ever be increasing the fertility of his land cannot well sow too much clover seed. As the seed is generally a rather expensive article it becomes an important, and in some seasons, a somewhat difficult problem. In general, early sowing is best, especially if the ground is heaved or honeycombed with frost, as the seed will be well covered and thus protected from the late spring frosts. If sown late the ground should be harrowed, even if it is in wheat, with a light slope-toothed or common spike-toothed harrow, as both the wheat and the clover seed will be greatly benefited by the operation. Sow plenty of seed—ten pounds to the acre is not too much, and if you do not harrow, it will pay to sow at different times, some early and some later, cross sowing it.

Where clover sown last spring is much lifted, or "spewed," as a great deal of it is this spring, the best treatment is to reseed the ground heavily with a mixture of red clover and crimson clover seed, and sow upon it some good brand of commercial fertilizer at the rate of 200 pounds to the acre. This will secure a good stand and cause the crimson clover to mature and be ready to cut along with the red clover not frozen out. It will also bring forward the young red clover and give it sufficient vigor and growth to carry it through the next winter and secure a heavy crop the next year. Wherever there is a field with spots of poor soil on the surface, special pains should be taken to so enrich them before seeding to clover as to secure a good stand and a heavy growth.—New England Homestead.

Raising Turkeys.

After the first laying is completed, confine the turkey hen in a clean place with plenty of food and fresh water. In a short time she will forget her inclination to sit and be ready for another laying. Some successful breeders have their turkeys lay three times during the summer and allow them to rear the last brood. For a common hen, nine eggs are sufficient for a sitting. Throw a handful of lime or sulphur in the bottom of the nest. This will drive away mites and the gray louse. As a rule turkey eggs hatch well. The first dose that my little turkeys receive is a pill in the shape of one whole black pepper. Each little mouth is forced open and the pepper pressed down.

The first food for young turkeys is Dutch or cottage cheese and their first drink the whey which is strained from the curd. Many people think the making of this cheese is quite a task, but it is in reality very simple. Let the curd strain through a colander and feed a little at a time at intervals of not more than one and one-half hours. This should be their sole food for two or three days. After this the diet may be changed to stale bread, soaked in whey or buttermilk. Boiled eggs are also valuable. The cheese, however, should be the principal food until the fowls are a month old. An addition of a little pepper and oil cake meal is desirable. Corn meal in any form is almost sure death.

The hen should be confined in a clean coop with the slats far enough apart to allow the turkeys to pass freely in and out. Move the coop every day and keep everything dry, as moisture is fatal. After the grass is thoroughly dry in the morning, turn the hens out for an hour or two each day and allow the brood to run, but they must not be given complete liberty until two or three weeks old. I have always thought that the delicacy of young turkeys is due in a measure to the rapidity with which feathers are grown. A young chicken retains its down for several weeks until its body is well grown, but a young turkey begins at once to put out large feathers on its wings and tail. This enormous feather growth saps the vitality of the body and leaves it an easy prey to weakness and disease. To overcome this tendency should be the aim of every breeder.—L. V. Hopkins in The Agriculturist.

Rape for Sheep.

The following question asked by a farmer living at Whitney, Neb., was submitted to John A. Craig, professor of animal husbandry, at the Iowa agricultural college: Will rape seed, in this climate and locality, do well, or will it do even moderately well, that is, pay to grow for sheep feed? This locality is becoming quite a sheep country; it is an ideal stock raising country, with climate that is hard to equal. Cattle and sheep on the open ranges all are so far in splendid shape, but one should provide feed of some kind for bad storms.

Professor Craig's reply is as follows: "I can hardly write very definitely as I am not well acquainted with the climatic and soil conditions of Dawes county, Nebraska. I would expect, however, that rape could be grown successfully, especially if sown there early in the season so as to be well established by the time the hot and dry conditions come in the summer. There is nothing like very rich soil to enable rape to withstand very hot and dry weather.

"The best plan I know or to secure this condition is to sow the rape very much as they oftentimes sow turnips in Scotland. The land is ribbed, that is, the furrows are thrown so as to face each other and make ridges, with a rather deep furrow between them. This furrow is filled with well rotted manure, and the soil is thrown back over the manure and then the rape seed is drilled on the top of the ridge, thus being directly over the manure. If sown in early in the season this way it is remarkable what a rank, luxuriant growth of rape may be secured before the warm weather comes on.

"If this is cut four inches above the ground an immense amount of soiling feed may be obtained. If cultivated after cutting, the rape will sprout again and grow very strong. By cutting and cultivating in this way, I have secured three good crops, running thirty-six tons of green food per acre.

"By sowing the rape on ridges in this way, it not only enables one to give a crop two or three good cultivations while growing, but the cultivating after cutting also seems to be very conducive to a quick, rank growth. The rape being a very gross feeder, it seems that it cannot get too much manure. Sown early in this way it seems to me that it could be sowed as a soiling crop for ewes and lambs, and any of the crops might be fed with profit by folding fattening lambs on it."—Farm, Field and Fireside.

Low Heads for Apple Trees.

I believe I am the first orchardist to grow low-headed apple trees in nursery rows, and, in fact, so far as I know, the only one to grow them in that way for sale. Trees with low heads have many advantages over tall trees with long trunks. I commenced the experiment over forty years ago and have grown trees which measure sixty feet in diameter of growth and but eighteen feet in height.

A large portion of the fruit can be gathered while standing on the ground and on steps, and the balance by using a short ladder. This makes the gathering of the fruit much more convenient and economical.

I know of trees so high that it requires the strength of two men to raise a ladder long enough to reach the top. It costs more to harvest the fruit from such trees than it is worth. Again, apples which fall from such trees are spoiled, while these that drop from a low-headed tree are seldom injured.

Other advantages in this method are that the trees are not so liable to injury from wind storms; the roots are better seated and there is no trunk to be injured by the hot sun in summer. There are so many arguments in favor of the low-head method of training, that I am surprised that so few people adopt it.

Some think that the branches are more liable to sag down to the ground, but such is not the case. Trees that are trained high and have a long trunk will throw out their branches more horizontally than if they had started near the ground. The reason for this is, that the branches which start out near the ground are affected by the sun only on the upper side. The under side, being shaded, grows the fastest, and causes the branches to grow more upright. Hence, they are not as liable to get down to the ground or to break down as when trimmed higher. If they ever need to be propped up they are down where it can be easily done.

If any one is skeptical in regard to the reason given why branches of the low-head are more likely to grow upright, he can be convinced by sawing off such a branch, and by seeing how much nearer the heart is to the upper side. He will find the growth twice as thick on the under side as on the upper side. Hence the more upright the growth (besides the advantages enumerated above) the larger and finer the fruit such trees will produce. To start a low-headed tree the first year's growth, graft or bud must be cut back to four or five buds. These buds will make the top of the tree—a tree without a trunk.—N. B. White in American Cultivator.

Poultry Notes.

Sweet milk is good for chicks of any age.

Guard against rats among your young chicks.

Weak or deformed chicks should be killed at once.

Adult ducks do better if allowed a pond to swim in.

Remove and burn all nests as soon as brood is hatched.

Geese and ducks should never be kept in the poultry house.

Chicks do not require any food for the first twenty-four hours.

Nice, clean wheat straw makes the best nests for layers or setters.

Do not grease the hen when chicks are first hatched at this season.

When chicks are hatched be sure to keep them in a warm, dry coop.

Ducks can be raised where there is only sufficient water for drinking.

Do not try to raise fifty fowls where there is room for only twenty-five.

Pekin ducks have about supplanted all other breeds for market purposes.

Keep the coops and yards clean and avoid gapes which are sure to follow filth.

Nests should be renewed every few weeks, as the hens seem to appreciate a clean, new nest.

The Evolution of the Plow.

Taking the plow, which is one of the most important, if not the most important agricultural implement, at the time of the enactment of the first patent law in this country, in 1791, the plow was a wooden structure shod with iron, and it was so imperfect that but an acre of land could be plowed in a day, and even then it was not much more than scratched. The plow had hardly been improved at all in forty centuries. Now, the steel plow, with its greater strength and its perfected shape, digs down and overturns the soil so that a much larger crop is grown, and several times as much work can be done in a day with the ordinary one-horse plow as with the old form; while a steam driven gang plow can plow twenty acres in the same length of time.

OLD FASHIONED WAYS.

Serenely delightful, but painfully slow!
They lacked the improving advantages great;
These characteristics of life up to date.

Those old-fashioned portraits in old-fashioned halls—
Good Sir and Good Mistress, you'd scarce be so gay
If you knew the excitement you're missing to-day.

Have you heard of how science can bring us relief
With oleomargarine, chemical beef?
Or the delicate flavoring process whose skill
Makes the turnip to stand for what sweetmeat you will?

And when on a visit your fancy was bent,
In a stately old coach at your leisure you went;
No worried conductor walked over your knees,
And nobody yelled at you, "Step lively, please!"

Ah, that smile patronizing we scarcely should view
Could you know what you miss in our ways that are new;
For of course 'twould be folly for any to hold
They're not better than ways which were fashioned of old.

Chinese Charities.

Chinese charities formed one of the most interesting sections of a lecture on "The Yangtse Valley and Beyond," delivered at the Salisbury Hotel by Mrs. Isabel Bishop, on behalf of the benevolent fund of the Foreign Press Association. Outer barbarians have been wont to regard the Celestials as callous and heartless, but in the Western provinces of the vast Empire, at least, are to be found societies furnished with committees and issuing full reports and balance sheets. Among the objects for which these exist are the supplying of lifeboats, humane societies for providing means to rescue and resuscitate the drowning, free ferries, free day schools, loans to poor merchants or farmers without interests, widows' pensions and medical advice, not to mention organizations for granting free coffins, free cemetery accommodation, wadded clothes and virtue books. Mrs. Bishop gave an interesting account of the wonderful fertility and irrigation works in Szchuen, and of its great possibilities for trade, pointing out that this great tract of country, with its dense and industrious population, was the queen province of the Empire.—London Telegraph.

The bean has been credited not only with possessing occult powers over the living, but over the dead also, and it has entered largely into funeral rites and ceremonies connected with departed spirits. Among the ancient Romans, the repast set apart for the dead consisted of lettuce and beans, while during the funeral rites beans were thrown on the graves and given away in doles. In Great Britain doles of peas were given away under similar circumstances. At festivals in honor of the dead, on the anniversaries of birth, death, or burial, the Romans cast beans into the fire on the altar, and threw black beans on the grave or burned them.

A Panther Eats Quail.

A baby panther owned by a gentleman in Wichita, Kan., has completed the task of devouring a quail per day for thirty consecutive days. The little animal, which is somewhat of a pet, did not seem to object in the least to the diet apportioned her daily, but toward the last did not go at her task with the zest which she displayed in the beginning. Considerable money was wagered on the possibility of the little animal performing the feat.—New York Press.

MARRYING A PAIR OF PIGEONS.

A curious ceremony was that arranged by one of the rulers or guicowars of Banda, in Bombay. It was the marriage of two pigeons.

The guicowar's costly eccentricities are innumerable; every novelty struck his fancy. One day diamonds were in request, and his agents visited all the jewelers' shops. Another time he had a mania for pigeons, and collected about 60,000 in his palace, of all kinds and plumage, and one day he arranged a mock marriage and celebrated the event with extravagant luxury.

The two pigeons, adorned with jeweled collars and carried by pages, were brought on the terrace roof of the palace, which had been sumptuously decorated for the occasion.

The king and courtiers, in gala attire, were ranged around the Brahmins, who recited a vast number of hymns. A considerable sum was given as a marriage portion to the two birds, which sum was appropriated by the priests. Dancing and a grand banquet concluded the festival. The result, upon this particular occasion, was unforseen—a large cat which was an uninvited guest, taking advantage of the confusion, ran off with the unhappy bridegroom, leaving the bride a disconsolate widow.

A taste for bulbuls was another fancy. More than 500 were brought at one time to the palace, and their care and education occupied the guicowar and his courtiers for a month or more. The bulbuls are the nightingales of India. Their plumage is beautifully speckled, and on their heads are tufts of waving feathers which give the birds a coquetish and saucy air.

Rehearsed His Own Funeral.

Parker R. Mason, a millionaire property owner of Chicago, died recently in his old-fashioned mansion near the lake. Before his death he had the burial service read, funeral hymns sung, selected his pall bearers and made every preparation for his funeral. Just before his death he summoned into his presence the quartette that was to sing at his funeral and had them rehearse the hymns to be sung over his lifeless body, after which he paid them for their services. Then he asked to see Rev. Joh Hoke, the Presbyterian minister of Washington Heights, who had often been his companion on fishing excursions. He showed the clergyman the place where he wished to be buried, paid him for the funeral sermon he wanted preached and had the minister repeat the text and a part of the sermon to him. Next he paid for his coffin, settled all the undertakers' fees, picked out the suit he wished to wear in his coffin, and after designating a huge boulder which had been dug up in his yard thirty years ago be placed over his grave, closed his eyes and died.

Race For a Bride.

In Lapland if a man wishes to marry he has to run a race with the girl he wants. The girl is given a start of one-third the whole distance, and can easily win if she wishes to do so. If, however, the marriage is not distasteful to her, she allows the man to catch her up and win, thereupon he claiming her as his bride.

THE CHRONICLE.

Democratic at all Times and Under all Circumstances..Consequently Opposed to Monopolies.

VOL. XIV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1899. NO. 23.

STATE NEWS SUMMARY.

Current Events of More Than Passing Interest to Alabamians.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY THROUGHOUT STATE.

Furnaces Blowing In and Land Companies Organizing—Deal in School Lands. Judge Clarke Dead—Boy Horribly Mutilated—Other News.

Attalla Furnace to Blow In.

The Attalla furnace, which has been idle for the last eight years, blew its whistle Saturday and will be blown in within a few days.

Russell County Case.

The state board of compromise heard the cases of Cochrane and Ferrell, ex-Russell county officials, Friday, and found the former due the state $200, which he agreed to pay. The case of Ferrell was reopened and another examination is to be made.

Stricken in the Pulpit.

Rev. J. F. Goldman, pastor of the Episcopal church, at Gadsden, was stricken with paralysis while preaching at the Methodist church. He was half way through his sermon when he felt the stroke coming on, but he grasped the pulpit stand and preached for half an hour.

Fifty Per Cent Payment.

The general depositors of the Bank of Anniston will receive 50 per cent of their deposits as soon as Chancellor Kelly can enter a decree authorizing the assignee, Mr. Stringfellow, to make the payment. The total deposits under the general head were $24,887.93, and it is half of this amount that will be paid.

Boy Horribly Mutilated.

Joseph Bachelor, 15 years-old and messenger boy for his father, chief train dispatcher of the Western railroad, at Montgomery, was horribly mutilated by a switch engine in the Western yards. His body was cut in twain. He had left his father's office only five minutes previous with important dispatches, which were found firmly grasped in his hand.

Confederate and Federal Graves Decorated

At Huntsville, the Daughters of the Confederacy, assisted by the Egbert Jones Camp, U. C. V., and Huntsville post, G. A. R., Friday afternoon decorated the graves of Confederate and federal soldiers, and one of the soldiers of the recent war who died in camp in that city. The decoration services were attended by the largest crowd that has assembled at the graveyard in recent years.

Former Judge Clarke Dead.

Former Judge William E. Clarke was found dead in bed at Demopolis Saturday morning by his servant. He had died of heart failure during the night. Judge Clarke was one of the best known jurists in Alabama. He was nominated by the democrats for delegate to the constitutional convention that was called for next August. He was the father of Hon. R. H. Clarke, who was also nominated as delegate to the convention.

School Lands Sold.

It has been learned from a reliable source that W. W. Thompson, the commissioner for the Tuskegee Normal school for negroes, has negotiated the sale of lands donated by congress to that school for $120,000. It is presumed that Mr. Plowman, commissioner for the Montevallo School for Girls, will make a similar trade for that school. The price is regarded as a fair one and will start a fund for an endowment for those institutions.

New President Elected.

The commencement of the Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo, was ended with something of a sensation in the election of a new president for the school. Dr. George B. Eager, of Montgomery, one of the trustees, was elected president instead of Captain H. C. Reynolds. Senator Thompson, who assisted in the repeal of the convention act, was appointed trustee in the place of W. W. Wadsworth. Mr. Wadsworth had the reputation of being one of the most efficient members of the board of trustees.

Change of Ownership.

The Anniston Homestead and Fruit Growing Association has been succeeded by the Southern and Northwestern Industrial Association, of Chicago. Mr. W. H. Skaggs is vice-president and Mr. I. M. Sproule, of Chicago, has gone to Anniston as resident manager. The company owns a vast tract of acreage and will continue to invite settlers from the North.

TO WAGE A HOT CAMPAIGN.

Chairman Crowe, of the State Executive Committee Issues an Address.

Dr. G. B. Crowe, chairman of the state executive committee of the populite party, has issued the following address to the populists of Alabama:

"To the Populists of Alabama:

"The adjournment of the legislature and the repeal by it of the constitutional convention act, render unnecessary the state convention called for May 23, and I have revoked the call for the same. We have many reasons for self-congratulation over the present political situation, and at some time in the near future I will ask our committee and the leading members of our party to a general conference for the purpose of outlining and formulating a plan of action for the campaign of 1900. In September last our convention at Cincinnati nominated Mr. Wharton Barker as our presidential candidate, and Mr. Ignatius Donnelly as our vice-presidential candidate, and I think it well to have it at an early date, and I suggest July 4, beat meetings in every beat and at these meetings I think it would be wise to elect a campaign committee of say three to take charge of the campaign for our ticket and go to work now with the end in view of carrying their beat for our ticket.

"It would be only just and right at this meeting to pass resolutions endorsing the wise and manly course of the members of the general assembly, who have so nobly performed their duty in repealing the law which so endangered the suffrage of the people. Governor Johnston deserves our thanks for his course in this matter, and should be congratulated for doing what we have so long tried to do.

"Now, let every man who wants and desires good government and to see our party successful attend these beat meetings, and aid by his presence the grand work now before us. There has never been a time since our organization as a party that the future looked so bright for us as now, not only in Alabama, but in every other state. Our enemies are growing more and more divided and our ranks are being filled with recruits from the old parties. And it is my opinion that upon the growth and dissemination of the principles embodied in our platforms will rest the future welfare and perpetuation of our government, and I appeal to you to do your duty in the future as you have done in the past, and continue in the work, and victory will surely reward you. The attention of the entire country is upon us now, and let us show the world that we have patriotism and are willing to sacrifice time and means to secure the triumph of right over wrong, justice over injustice. Let us show to the world, and to all men that there is today a party in the United States that stands for all that is right and fair, and against all that is wrong and unfair; a party that is in fact, as well as in name, the people's party.

"Respectfully,
"G. B. Crowe,
"Chairman Populist State Executive Committee."

Tyler Pipe Works.

The new pipe worke of E. L. Tyler & Co., at Anniston, began operations Saturday. It will manufacture sanitary and pipe fittings and give employment to about 200 men. The plant is modern and up-to-date in every particular.

A new company has bought the Hercules plant and is now overhauling, repairing and enlarging it, preparatory to operating it on a larger scale than ever before.

Land Company Incorporated.

The declaration of incorporation of the Blossburg Land company has been filed in the probate office of Jefferson county by J. C. Patterson, W. M. Clarke and D. J. Deveneyns, all of Blossburg. The capital stock of the new company is fixed at $25,000, divided into 250 shares of the par value of $100 each. The purpose for which the company was organized, as set out in the declaration, is to own, buy, sell and to otherwise acquire and dispose of real estate and other property.

Birmingham Auditorium to be Completed

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Birmingham auditorium it was determined to complete the structure at once. It was announced that only $10,000 will be needed to finish the building, which lacks nothing now but interior fillings and committees were appointed to raise this sum.

Bridge Works for Ensley.

It is stated upon good authority that northern capitalists have representatives in the Birmingham district arranging to erect large bridge works at Ensley.

Killed by Lightning.

During the general storm of rain and hail which prevailed throughout Blount county last Friday, Jesse Williams, and excellent citizen, was killed by lightning. He resided near Hanceville.

Joe Smith, living at Sylona, near Fort Payne, struck a three-foot vein of coal while digging a well in his yard.

ADMIRAL DEWEY BEGINS JOURNEY HOME

Leaves Manila On the Olympia Amidst Music of Bands, Booming of Cannon and Shouts of Thousands of Sailors.

EXACT ITINERARY IS NOT AT PRESENT KNOWN AT DEPARTMENT

The cruiser Olympia with Admiral Dewey on board left Manila on her homeward journey to the United States at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon. As she steamed away the Oregon, Baltimore and Concord fired an admiral's salute. At the first shot the band on the flagship's aft deck played a lively air and her white clad sailors trowded the decks and gave a tremendous cheer. As the Olympia passed the Oregon, the crew of that battleship gave nine cheers for the Olympians, who responded by throwing their caps so high that dozens of them were left bobbing in the wake of the cruisor.

Then followed the noisiest half hour known in the Manila harbor since the battle which linked its name with that of Dewey. The din of guns and brass bands echoed through the smoke, a fleet of steam launches shrieked their whistles, the musicians of the Baltimore played "Home, Sweet Home," her flags signaled "good-by" and those of the Oregon said "pleasant voyage."

The merchant vessels in these waters dipped their flags, the ladies on the decks of the vessels of the fleet waved handkerchiefs and the great, black British cruiser Powerful, which lay the furtherest, saluted the Olympia. The latter's band then played "God Save the Queen," and to this the crew of the Powerful responded with hearty cheers for the Olympia.

The last music heard from Admiral Dewey's ship was "Auld Lang Syne," while the guns from the forts at Cavite and from the Monterey, on guard off Paranaque, too far to be audible, puffed white clouds of smoke.

Admiral Dewey was on the bridge of the Olympia and received the adieu of his friends during the most of the day. The launch of Major General Otis was the first to arrive alongside the cruiser at 7 o'clock Saturday morning and afterwards the admiral landed and called upon the major general and the United States Philippine commissioners.

Admiral Dewey was enthusiastic over his home going, but when mention was made of the welcome to be extended to him he said he appreciated the friendship of his countrymen deeply, but hoped they would not be too demonstrative. He intends to go directly to his home at Montpelier, Vt., and live there. On it being said that the people wanted him to go home by the way of San Francisco and across the continent, the admiral replied:

"If I was twenty years younger and had political ambitions I would not miss that chance."

Speaking of the situation, Admiral Dewey said:

"I believe we are near the end. The insurgents are fast going to pieces. The sending of a third commission shows that they believe this commission means business."

Captain Walker, of the Concord, the last of the commanders in battle at Manila, went to the admiral and said:

"Don't leave me behind."

So he was relieved and went home on the Olympia along with Admiral Dewey.

DEWEY ITINERARY.

Navy Department Will Soon Issue a Bulletin for the Public.

A Washington special says: So far the navy department knows nothing except in the most general way of the itinerary of Admiral Dewey's cruise from Manila to New York. He has reported that he will come by the Suez canal route and has not indicated officially how long he will take in making the trip. The actual departure of the Olympia was made known in the following five words coming by cable from Captain Baker at Manila:

"Olympia, Hong Kong. Assumed command."

The understanding at the navy department is that the admiral will spend about two weeks at Hong Hong, for the Olympia is to be docked and her drab war paint must be covered with the spotless white which makes the American naval ship the most beautiful in the world.

In the absence of other information, it is assumed that the Olympia from Hong Kong will follow the usual course of the warships coming home by way of the Suez canal. She will touch first after Hong Kong at Singapore, then at Columbo, then, perhaps, sea, to take on a crew of Lascars to fire the boilers in the intensely hot passage through the sea and the Suez canal.

Stops will be made of necessity at Suez and at Port Said. It is assumed that Malta will be touched, and perhaps Genoa or Nice before reaching Gibraltar. Leaving the Mediterranead, the Olympia will stand straight across the Atlantic, though she may put in at Azores for two days.

The time that should be occupied by such a trip is variously estimated by naval officers, but the average is about seventy days from date. However, the public will soon be able to get a more accurate knowledge of the itinerary, for within a few days the navy department will be in possession of the schedule of the ship's movements.

ARBITRATION TO THE FORE.

Second Session of the Peace Conference a Short One.

The second sitting of the peace conference at The Hague took place Saturday morning and lasted thirty-five minutes.

The president of the conference, Baron De Staal, read the replies of the czar and Queen Wilhelmina to the telegrams sent to them by the conference on Thursday.

The president, M. De Staal, then addressed the delegates on the subject of the labors before them, and it was decided not to publish the speech. It was learned during the day that he placed the question of mediation and arbitration in the forefront during his speech. The question of the laws of war rendering war as humane as possible by the extension of the regulations already existing was then touched upon by the president and he relegated the question of the reduction of armaments to the third place.

FINAL ORDERS GIVEN

For Payment of the Three Millions To the Cuban Army.

A special from Havana says: The order for the payment of the Cuban troops and the delivery of their arms to the mayors of the various municipalities under the supervision of the civil governors was signed by Governor General Brooke Saturday.

The first payment of the troops has been set for May 27th at the foot of the Prado in Havana, and the second for May 30th at Santiago de las Vegas, in Havana province. The payments will be continued at other places in the province day by day thereafter.

ROBBERS USED TORCH.

Big Jacksonville Cigar Factory Looted and Then Set On Fire.

The entire plant of the G. H. Gato Cigar Manufacturing company at Jacksonville, Fla., was burned Saturday night. The loss is $15,000, with $7,000 insurance.

The origin was incendiary, the safe in the office being robbed before the place was fired. Mr. Gato, the proprietor, states that he will rebuild immediately.

VIEWED OLD BATTLEFIELDS.

The president and Mrs. McKinley, with the friends who accompanied them, reached Washington at 5:30 Saturday afternoon. The outing has been of great benefit to the president and he resumes his official duties thoroughly refreshed and invigorated.

The party left Hot Springs, Va., Friday night and Saturday traveled slowly through the Shenandoah valley, rich in beautiful scenery and points of historic interest. Thirty-five years ago Mr. McKinley, as assistant adjutant general on the staff of General Crook, marched through the same valley participating in the heavy fighting which occurred during Sheridan's famous raid.

The president went over this ground and from the rear platform of the special train which carried him recalled with great distinctiveness the places which saw so much bloodshed. The roadways and stations were lined with people to catch a glimpse of the chief of the nation or to warmly grasp his hand where brief stops were made.

NEBRASKANS GREET SCHLEY.

Omaha Citizens Tender Rear Admiral a Grand Reception.

In the face of a biting wind of a raw day, 10,000 people attended a public reception tendered Rear Admiral Schley in Omaha Saturday. The rotunda of the city hall was elaborately decorated and from 4 until 6 o'clock a constant stream of humanity passed through.

When the hour for closing the reception came there were still people in line. As he drove away in a carriage a large crowd around the city hall cheered him vigorously. In the evening Admiral Schley was banqueted by the members of the Loyal Legion.

SHAFTER IN COMMAND.

General Is Placed In Charge of Alaskan Military Affairs.

A Washington dispatch states that the war department has turned over to General Shafter the complete direction of all military affairs in Alaska. The only general instructions sent to him have been to relieve the soldiers who have been stationed in Alaska by fresh troops, it being deemed unwise to attempt to retain men in that climate for more than one year at a time.

PROPOSITION REFUSED.

General Otis Again Turns Down the Representatives of Aguinaldo.

Advices from Manila state that two military and two civil Filipino commissioners appointed to co-operate with three citizens in negotiating terms of peace arrived in that city Friday morning.

Major General Otis has refused to entertain the proposal.

TO CONFEDERATE DEAD.

A Monument Will Probably Be Erected At Camp Chase.

A dispatch from Columbus, O., says: By invitation from Colonel W. H. Knauss, a local union veteran, the delegates from the south to the national waterworks convention, visited the confederate cemetary at Camp Chase Thursday morning, and while there, under inspiration of the place, organized the Camp Chase Memorial Association, which is destined to become co-extensive with the south, and whose object will be to care for the cemetery and preserve the memory of the 2,200 soldiers buried there.

It is also proposed to erect a shaft there in honor of the dead.

The organization was effected by electing Rev. John Hewitt, of St. Paul's Episcopal church, president; General Walter S. Payne, of Fostoria, O., vice president; Hon. Samuel L. Swartz, mayor of Columbus, secretary, and Colonel W. H. Knauss, of Columbus, treasurer.

A committee, of which Rev. Mr. Hewitt is chairman, was appointed to draft a constitution and set of by-laws to be adopted at the confederate decoration day in Columbus next month, when the association will organize permanently and when also many prominent southerners are expected to be in the city in response to an invitation to take part in the memorial day exercises.

WILSON TO LEGISLATORS.

Secretary of Agriculture Visits the Capital of Texas.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson was in Austin, Texas, Friday, and upon invitation addressed the house of representatives. By commission he was directed by President McKinley to make an investigation of the agricultural condition and resources of the state. He said that he had visited the Texas cane fields, the rice fields and tobacco fields and had found on every hand evidences of the greatest prosperity.

He urged that more attention be given to diversification of crops and that the legislature contribute liberally to the maintenance of the agricultural college of the state. He said that Texas' dairy products amounted to $2,000,000 annually and that there was no reason why this amount should not be increased a hundred million.

ADVISES BEAT MEETINGS.

Chairman of Alabama Populist Committee Issues Address.

G. B. Crowe, chairman of the Alabama populist state executive committee, is out in an address to his party in the state advising it to be at meetings to be held all over the state on July 4th for the purpose of electing delegates and to select campaign committees to take up the work for 1900.

He states that there never was a time since the organization of the party that the future looked so bright. The democratic party in Alabama is becoming more and more divided, he says, and the populist ranks are being filled with recruits from the old parties. He predicts carrying the state in 1900 for Wharton Barker and Ignatus Donnelly, the presidential ticket selected in Cincinnati last year by the populists.

Tax On Incomes In Texas.

The house of the Texas legislature has passed finally its bill placing 1 per cent tax on all personal incomes in excess of $2,000 a year. The bill will now go to the senate for consideration, and it is believed that it will pass that body.

NO MESSAGES SUNDAY.

Department Heard From Neither Otis Or Brooke During Day.

There was a lack of news in official quarters at Washington Sunday from General Otis at Manila or General Brooke at Havana.

The president and war department officials were awaiting with much interest advices expected from General Otis regarding the outcome of the meeting between the commissions representing the United States and Aguinaldo, though the belief expressed by the American commander at Manila, that the insurgents want an armistice as a condition precedent to treating for peace.

TO MEET IN RICHMOND.

Delegates To Waterworks Association Meeting Adjourn.

The American Waterworks Association in session at Columbus, O., adjourned Friday to meet next year in Richmond, Va.

Papers were read by H. C. Hodgkins, of Syracuse, on "Economic Arrangements and Construction of Sub-Structures and Streets," and by Professor A. M. Bleile, on "Practical Value of Bacteriological Examinations."

USED A WINCHESTER

Woman Shoots Down a Midnight Prowler.

TRIED TO ENTER HER ROOM

Mrs. Wood's Husband Was Away At the Time and She Was All Alone.

Mrs. James Wood, of Esom Hill district, Paulding county, Ga., sent a ball crashing into a negro's brain shortly after midnight Thursday night and thereby escaped the clutches of a negro assailant who was seeking to enter her bedroom.

A few hours after the fearless use of the winchester Mrs. Wood's husband found the dead body of the negro lying under the window through which he was trying to enter when the brave woman pulled the trigger in self-defense.

Mrs. Wood is the wife of one of the most successful and prominent planters in that section of Paulding county. He is a progressive man and finds it necessary to be away from home a good deal. He and his family are close readers of the papers, and of course have not overlooked the many assaults upon defenseless women throughout the south by law-defying negroes.

More than once the matter has been discussed by the man and his wife, and as a precaution Mr. Wood taught his wife how to handle the pistol and the gun and has kept good weapons within her reach at all times when he was away from home.

It was Mrs. Wood's custom to keep her winchester in one place at all times. This was near the head of her bed.

Thursday Mr. Wood found it necessary to leave home. He knew he could not return until late at night, and so informed his wife. At the usual hour Mrs. Wood, after seeing that the doors and windows of her home were all securely locked, retired. Her winchester was near her bed, and though alone, she felt no uneasiness and soon fell asleep. How long she slept she late in the night but it must have been ened by a noise at one of the windows of her bedroom. The room was dark, but outside there was some light, the night being clear.

Leaning against the side of the house, she saw plainly the head and shoulders of a man.

She could not tell at first whether it was a white man or a negro, but she knew no one had any business there at that hour. Quietly she reached for her winchester.

Just then both hands outside the window were raised so as to catch the sash. There was a movement as though an effort was being made to hoist the window.

Mrs. Wood watched all this closely and then cautiously raising her gun, but without moving her head from the pillow, she pulled the trigger. Not knowing what was the effect of her shot, Mrs. Wood half expected every second to see the face appear at the window again, and had made up her mind to try a second shot the instant it came up. But no face appeared.

Mrs. Wood did not feel safe in leaving her bed for the purpose of making an investigation, and decided the best thing she could do would be to remain quiet until her husband should return. During the interval she bore up well, realizing that if danger were still present she would need all her self-control.

An hour or more passed—it seemed an age to the lonely woman—before her husband came. Then it was that she gave way. Her husband finally quieted her and listened to the recital of her horrible experience. Mr. Wood quickly found the hole the bullet had made through the window, and then left the house to investigate. Under the window he found the body of a negro already growing stiff. The ball had struck him in the center of the forehead and buried itself deep in the negro's brain, causing instant death.

WORKING ON COMBINE.

Carnegie Consolidation Promoters Hold a Conference.

H. C. Frick arrived in New York city Thursday from Pittsburg and was in conference at the Holland house with W. H. Moore, of Chicago, and other men interested in effecting the consolidation of the Carnegie Steel Company, limited and the H. C. Frick Coke Company, in the new $625,000,000 Carnegie Steel Company.

It is understood that the plans for financing the gigantic combination were carefully gone over and effected, and the public announcement of them will soon be made.

KRUGER NOT APPREHENSIVE.

Transvaal President Is Strongly In Favor of Peace.

In the English house of commons at London Friday the secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Chamberlain, gave the names and the identity of the men arrested at Johannesburg.

All of them, excepting Tremlett and Fries, were former non-commissioned officers in the British army. He added that President Kruger had informed the British agent at Pretoria that there was no proof that the prisoners were British officers.

STEAMER PARIS ALMOST WRECKED

Went Ashore On the Treacherous Manacles Near Falmouth.

NO LIVES REPORTED LOST

Advices from Falmouth, England, state that the American line steamer Paris, Captain Watkins, from Southampton and Cherbourg for Norfolk, struck on an outlying ridge of the Manacles early Sunday morning at a point half a mile from where the wrecked Atlantic transport liner Mohegan lies, and five miles from Falmouth.

The Paris, which sailed from Southampton Saturday, called at Cherbourg and picked up fifty passengers. She left Cherbourg at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. Soon after 1 o'clock Sunday morning, at high tide, and in a dense fog, she ran ashore. From the first there was no danger. Lifeboats and tugs were soon literally swarming around the vessel to render assistance. A majority of the passengers, numbering 380, were carried to Falmouth, where they obtained lodgings for the night.

Captain Watkins reported that his ship was lying comfortably in smooth water, and that there was no occasion for any alarming reports. He reported the passengers and crew as well.

The first intimation of the vessel's striking the rocks was a slight grating sound, followed by a shock and then a more pronounced shock. The lookout shouted that there was something looming ahead, but before there was time to reverse the engines the ship had gone on the rocks, 200 yards from the shore. Assistance was summoned by means of rockets, and the coast guards promptly telephoned to the life-saving station for boats.

A majority of the passengers were not aware that an accident had happened until they were called up by the steward.

On reaching the deck they found the ship's boats in perfect readiness for their reception. The sea was perfectly calm, and the only discomfort that the passengers experienced was caused by the slight rain falling at the time. Boats could be lowered if the sea the safety.

Perfect order prevailed aboard the vessel. Captain Watkins stood on the bridge giving orders, and his perfect self-possession and calmness of demeanor had a reassuring effect upon the passengers. In accordance with the instructions of the captain, the women and children were the first to be taken off the ship. Such perfect order was maintained that a passenger described the scene as simply a slow procession of women and children walking in single file to the boats.

IT IS NOW AUTONOMY.

Representatives of Filipino Rebels Have Dropped Armistice Question.

The Filipino commissioners who arrived at Manila Saturday to negotiate with the United States commissioners held a conference Sunday morning with Messrs. Schurman, Worcester and Denby. They say that they are without power to bind the so-called Filipino government in any particular and can only refer any results of the present negotiations to Aguinaldo.

The commissioners, General Gregorio del Pilar, Lieutenant Colonel Alberto Barretto, Major Zealita and Senor Gracio Gonzaga, with their families, spent the day in visiting friends in Manila and conferred with Senors Florentino Torres, Pablo Ocampo and Teodore Yanco, the members of the local Filipino association, who will participate in the meetings with American commissioners.

Autonomy is the burden of the talk of the Filipinos, and it is thought that the kind they wish for would be little different from the American protectorate which they talked of before the war.

Who They Were.

One of the first things done by a stranger visiting Albany, says the Philadelphia Call, is to pay 25 cents and put himself at the mercy of a Capitol guide. The guide makes a profound and obsequious bow, like a prestidigitator about to charm an audience, and proceeds to life the veil which hides the mysteries of the great building.

On a recent occasion the guide led the stranger regretfully past "McGinty's" empty frame, and proceeded to identify the heads of notables that decorate the stairway. He did fairly well until the stranger pointed out Shakespeare and Homer and asked who they were.

"Them," replied the guide, undaunted, "are the heads of two politicians whose names I disremember."

With the American cruiser Raleigh and the Spanish flagship Carlos Quinto firing salutes in honor of each other off Gibraltar, it is evident that peace has donned her white clothes and settled down for a long stay. She is clearly delighted to get back to her old quarters.

A SONG OF REJOICING.

The common people of Alabama should rejoice in the fact that they have just been rescued from a perilous doom, and while Governor Johnston has gratified the hearts and consciences of the common masses of Alabama, it might be proper to say that it was not totally intentional with him.

Perhaps the more paramount question with the Governor was that of self-promotion and personal interest, instead of aiding the common people—but let that be as it may. In an effort to promote himself (if that was his object) the people have realized the result, and verily a great victory has come to them. The bill providing for a constitutional convention in Alabama has been blotted out, and the people are once more saved from the hands of the self-imposed, would-be rulers who have made a mighty and monstrous effort to inaugurate other nefarious schemes and thereby land an unfortunate, but none the less honorable, class of people into everlasting slavery. But their heinous efforts were not successful, and the common people of Alabama have been shielded from the clutches of a few bosses, and they can still rejoice in the exercise of the sacred right to vote. The principles of the Populist party have been demonstrated, and the bosses and schemers of the organized Democracy of Alabama have been defeated, and the big guns like Senators Morgan and Pettus were of no avail.—People's Advocate.

We reprint the above from our Populist neighbor as showing the light in which Populists view the action of Governor Johnston and the animus which controls them in their opposition to the disfranchising of the negro.

We note with some degree of gratification that the real motive which prompted Governor Johnston in his recent action is recognized even by those newspapers who supported him in his effort to defeat the will of his own party. While the fight was on these so-called reform papers openly confessed that they were helping the Governor because he was doing a thing which was calculated to disrupt the Democratic party. Now that the battle is over we are glad to see them announce their recognition of the Governor's selfish motives.

In the second place The Advocate is congratulating the "common people" that they have escaped from an effort to "land an unfortunate, but none the less honorable, class of people into everlasting slavery." As there was no intention on anybody's part to disfranchise anyone but negroes, the "common people" referred to above means, of course, the negro; and The Advocate designates them as an "unfortunate, but none the less honorable, class." We differ with The Advocate on this point, but we recognize the need which the Populist party has for the negro, and of course they are obliged to pet him. It is cheaper to get his vote that way than to buy it, and a wee bit safer than to steal it. For our part, either of the latter methods appears more honorable, but The Advocate is entitled to its opinion, and if it prefers to treat the negro as the equal of the white men of its party and accord to him all the rights and privileges of a white man, it is certainly at liberty to do so. It did this in this county in the convention and it will probably do it again. We do not wonder that The Advocate is rejoicing that this "unfortunate, but none the less honorable, class of people" have been given a few more months of power to dictate nominations and aid in the election of incompetent officials.

The Advocate winds up by saying, "The principles of the Populist party have been demonstrated." We are glad they have; and we think they are shown to be just what we thought they were. The effort on the part of the Democrats to disfranchise the negro was an effort to purify the ballot in Alabama in the only way it can ever be done, and if the defeat of this effort is a demonstration of Populist principles then those principles are just what we have often charged—anything for office.

Evidently the chorus of The Advocate's song of rejoicing would read something like this:

I'm glad the nigger is free;
I'm glad the nigger is free;
The nigger is free—he'll vote for me;
I'm glad the nigger is free.

THE legislature adjourned without submitting any amendments to the constitution. Only two bills were passed—one repealing the convention act and one providing for the pay of members. This latter amounted to something like $15,000. That amount of money was spent for the simple purpose of postponing a matter which the people will have in two years from now. It was only postponed because Governor Johnston was not pleased with the personnel of the candidates, and because with a new system of voting he had no chance of controling the next legislature. If the Democrats are on their guard next year he will not do this then, and we will get what we want and what we need.

WE are not offering any defense of Captain Reynolds in advance of any charges that may be made against him, or of the proof of his guilt or innocence. But those charges already intimated are, it seems to us, absurd. There is no good reason why boarding house keepers should pay him a percentage, because every family in Montevallo has taken all the girls it could accommodate, and most of them were crowded and many had to be persuaded to take them for the good of the school. Besides there are enemies of Reynolds among these boarding house keepers who would have long ago told the story. The same is true of the merchants who are said to have paid tribute. If these things were known they ought to have been charged and proven before the election, and the defendant given a hearing. If they are proven now the board will have admitted its cowardice. However, all parties interested, and especially the people, demand an investigation and a plain statement.

THE MONTEVALLO SCHOOL.

In discussing editorially the change of management of the Girls' Industrial School we are confined to two views. We have to speak only of the probable effect on the interests of the school and of the politics involved. Of Captain Reynolds' personal grievances, while we are inclined to sympathize with him as with any man who had received such poor consideration in return for so effectual labor, we will not deal. His defense has been presented to the people over his own signature, and the reading public now know all the facts that have come to light. In passing we permit ourselves to say that Captain Reynolds deserved more courtesy at the hands of those in authority than he received. However, the manner of his removal seems to be characteristic with Governor Johnston. His traps are all set in darkness and sprung in ambush. In this, as in some other instances, he has proven himself an ingrate and shown that his weapons are those of the coward.

We fear that the school will suffer on account of the change. We do not know Dr. Eager, the newly elected president; but we accept the statement of his literary ability, his scholarly attainments, and even his irreproachable character without question. And yet we fear that with all these he is not the man for the place at this time.

There are a great many things to be done before the school will be ready for the control of a scholar, if that time is ever reached. There are buildings to erect and many other material improvements to be made, all of which will need the hand of a business man and the application of the most rigid rules of economy. Few scholars are men of business, and if Dr. Eager succeeds he will be an exception to the rule.

The Montevallo School was established for the industrial training of girls, and the literary feature is of but secondary importance. Most men of Dr. Eager's character are theorists, abounding in the beauties of the higher intellectuality, sadly lacking in the practical side of life's needs. Should he follow the ordinary drift of superior mentality, the effect will be disastrous to the intended purpose of the institution, and we will have a school of letters, no better than half a dozen others in the State, instead of an industrial training school the superior of many and the equal of any in the nation. Nothing succeeds like success, and no man was better fitted to guide the training of young people in practical business and industrial methods than the retiring president, who had proven his competence by his own success. Of course he has his equals—every man has—but we fear the board has not found him along this line.

It is in no spirit of religious intolerance that we object to Dr. Eager on account of his denominational affiliation, but he is a prominent minister, and as such he can but follow the promptings of human nature and the influence of his creed in shaping, unconsciously perhaps, the trend of religious training toward the bent of his own ideas. This is the more likely because his first duty is owing to the schools of his own denomination. Upon the same ground we would object to the place being filled by so prominent a minister of any other denomination. Preachers are rightly joined to their religious beliefs, and they must in the very nature of things teach their creeds or abandon them. No State school should come in contact in the slightest degree with denominational influence, and the only way to prevent it is to keep them under the control of the laity.

Coming to the second phase of this change we have little to say, as little needs be said. When a man in Governor Johnston's position seeks to make political capital of an institution of learning of so great importance as this one he has sunk below the level where condemnation can accomplish good or criticism can reach. We do not attempt to say that Dr. Eager is lending his aid to this unholy purpose, but he is, to say the least of it, in bad company. Governor Johnston can not deny his actions—they are self-confessed. He promised to reappoint Mr. McQueen, and only excused himself by reminding the gentleman of his failure to support him in two of his political schemes. The votes of the two most recently appointed trustees, with his own, accomplished the change. If he had a good reason for displacing Captain Reynolds the public demands that he make it known. If his reasons were of a financial nature, it ought to be given to the public, for they are entitled to know how their money is being spent. If he believed Captain Reynolds incompetent, surely some time should have been given for looking about for his successor. His method smacks too plainly of political trickery to admit of much doubt. If the school boards are to be used for his ends as the legislature was we may look for much of rottenness before we are rid of Johnstonism in this State.

By Mrs. F. W. GIST.

The removal of Capt. H. C. Reynolds from the presidency of the Montevallo Girls' School has developed into a State sensation, and the indications are that it will terminate in a scandal. The proposed statement from the trustees of the school will likely display every mistake, whether innocent or intentional, that the retiring president has ever made. That he may have committed errors, none of his best friends can attempt to deny, inasmuch as it would be almost an utter impossibility for any man to handle and preside over such an institution, with so many girls and so many business interests in progress, the new buildings themselves being under supervision and construction, without committing mistakes and errors. It is a unanimously conceded fact that Captain Reynolds, with his shrewd intelligence, incomparable business tact and ingenuity, together with his experience, energy and untiring efforts, has done and accomplished more for this school than any other man could have done, no matter how honest, intelligent or persevering. There is but one H. C. Reynolds in this country, and the word fail is a stranger to him. This school has been the pride and idol of his heart. His life, his mind, body, and, we like to have said his soul, has been engrossed and wrapped up in it. Now that he is cut loose from any part of work in it and conditions have changed in the "twinkling of an eye" it naturally falls hard upon him. He had expected to consummate all of his plans in constructing, building up and completing, to the glory of Alabama and the South, one of the grandest institutions known to American civilization, and though there may have existed minor faults and errors in the various managements and even shifting scenes of the school, we think the charitable view should be taken of them in the face of larger, greater and commendable works. If we are to give every man his just dues, then this State and the people in it are due Mr. Reynolds a vast amount in hard cash, gratitude, appreciation and kind expressions for what he has done for the dear girls within our borders. We make this assertion from a close acquaintance of twelve years with him and a personal knowledge of him and his efforts for the school. We saw his movement in Washington trying to secure the land grant from Congress. It would have been to Mr. Reynolds interest, financially and physically, to have resigned the office sometime ago. It is hoped now that his life may be prolonged many years by this removal from such incessant, active and exhausting work. His son has carried a great deal of the burden also, and they can return to their intent from a literary standpoint, and that the school will gain in this direction. Others fear that the school is not yet far enough advanced in growth to be turned over to a man of less business ability than Captain Reynolds. Upon one point all are agreed—that the manner in which the change was made smacked of Johnston's lately developed method of controling affairs and that he has but added another part to his political machine.

Dr. Eager is known as a man of fine attainments, though people differ as to his executive ability. He is pastor of the First Baptist church of Montgomery, and is a very popular minister among his denomination.

Captain Reynolds has been without question the prime factor in the development of the school to its present position. To his efforts was due the location of the school at Montevallo, and there has been more or less jealousies on that account on the part of some of the trustees. With a very meagre support from the State, much of which he had to work for, he has, by exercise of untiring dilligence and the application of his well-known business qualifications, built the school up to its present proportions, over many obstacles. What he has done is too well known to need repetition. We may be pardoned for stating from personal knowledge that the federal appropriation of lands to the school was obtained almost solely through his personal efforts.

Mr. Reynolds laid no claim to literary attainments, and never expected to conduct the school beyond its establishment on a firm financial basis. This it has not yet reached, and it remains to be seen whether the change is for weal or woe.

SOME CHARGES.

Later developments disclose a series of charges which are to be made against Captain Reynolds. According to the Age-Herald these charges will be something like the following:

First that President Reynolds exacted from everyone some pay for every dollar received from the college.

Second—That he demanded and obtained toll from boarding house keepers who boarded the pupils attending the school.

Third—That merchants and contractors doing business with the college had to pay back a certain percentage of the proceeds.

Fourth—That in the matter of stationery he stipulated a certain kind only obtainable in a store in which he was interested.

It is believed by a good many men who reason along plainly marked lines that this hubbub is but the prelude to the removal of the school from Montevallo, and it is freely predicted that if Governor Johnston can make any votes in the legislature he will gladly give the school for them.

A prominent member of the Baptist church in this county expresses to us his disapproval of Dr. Eager's election on the ground that he is not the man for the place and he does that if he is to give his talents to the cause of education his first duty is to the Judson.

Dr. Eager has given out a statement, in which he very clearly removes any suspicion of duplicity on his part, if his word is to be taken for the truth of his position.

The vote by which Dr. Eager was elected was, to the best of our information, as follows:

For Eager—Governor Johnston, Senator Thompson, Rev. O. P. Fitzsimmons, and Sol. D. Bloch.

For Reynolds—Messrs. Austell, Alston and Plowman.

Of those voting for Dr. Eager, Senator Thompson, of Macon County, voted for the repeal bill, is a brother of one of the land commissioners, and recently appointed trustee in place of Mr. Wadsworth; Rev. O. P. Fitzsimmons held a commission from the Governor as chaplain in the army and was recently appointed trustee from the State-at-large; Sol. D. Bloch has been an avowed enemy of Captain Reynolds since the location of the school.

We learn that when the legislature met Governor Johnston sent for Captain Reynolds to come down and help him in his effort to repeal the convention act. Mr. Reynolds declined on the ground that he thought it improper for him to engage in the affair and thus force the school into politics

A NEW PRESIDENT.

Girls' Industrial School goes into Untried Hands.

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Girls' Industrial School last week Dr. Eager, of Montgomery, was elected president of the school in place of H. C. Reynolds, who has been the presiding officer since the school was established.

This action of the trustees has created no end of comment throughout the State, and not the least of it right here at the door of the school. It was at once put down as the result of Governor Johnston's scheming for political advantage, and the facts all seem to point that way.

The term of two of the trustees expired some two months ago. These were Messrs. McQueen, of Birmingham, and Wadsworth, of Autauga County. Both these gentlemen claim to have had the practical assurance of Governor Johnston that they would be reappointed. Mr. Wadsworth attended commencement, and started into the board meeting before he was informed that he was no longer a member. Mr. McQueen, seeing the handwriting on the wall, did not attend. State Senator Thompson took the place of Mr. Wadsworth, while a Mr. Thatch was appointed from Birmingham. Both the gentlemen who were deposed were proven friends of the school, both constitutional convention advocates, and both friends of Captain Reynolds.

When the board met no intimation had been given that a change was desirable or intended, although Captain Reynolds had stated that his resignation was ready at any time when the school had outgrown his capacity. He had gone before the board and submitted some suggestions for the future. The board went into executive session, ostensibly for the purpose of acting upon these suggestions, and in a few minutes the news came that Dr. Eager had been elected.

Dr. Eager claims to have known nothing of the matter until he was elected, but in a statement by Captain Reynolds we see that the former admitted that he had been approached upon the subject. He had given to Reynolds hearty expressions of approval, and had discussed some needed improvements.

Some private reports have it that the failure to reelect Captain Reynolds was on account of some financial irregularities found by an examination of his accounts, and yet in his statement he quotes the chairman of the finance committee as expressing himself as thoroughly satisfied after two days of auditing.

Opinions differ here as to the outcome of the change to the school. Some people are inclined to the opin-

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cot on and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mumma Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cet preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 789 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price

A Sudden Death.

On last Saturday Mrs. Sarah Ann Williams, who resided near Williams Ferry, in this county, fell dead in her yard while feeding her turkeys. She was a very old lady, and had for some time been troubled with heart disease, but for awhile before her death had been feeling comparatively well. She was the mother of Drs. John and Hart Williams, of this place, and was well known to most of our citizens. Her sons have the sympathy of their many friends in their loss. The remains were interred at the Williams graveyard on Sunday.

Mrs. A. E. Champion, Yates, Ala., write: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 18 years. It cured my daughter of sour stomach and spitting up her food.

Confederate Veterans' Meeting.

In response to a call from Adjutant J. W. Johnston a number of Confederate veterans from different parts of the county met in the circuit clerk's office in Columbiana May 20 to select a place and appoint a time for the reunion this summer, and after due consideration Camphranch was selected and the 3d of August the time. Officers will be elected and then we will go into camps. On the 4th of August we will have the parade and fight a sham battle. All sober men and women and children are invited to be present and witness the sham war. The ladies of Camphranch are hereby notified to lock up all their chickens on the night of August 3, as the old Rebs will be there, sure.

Resolutions Adopted by the Methodist Sunday School on the Death of Isaac D. Mason.

The following resolutions upon the death of Bro. I. D. Mason, which sad event occurred at the Hillman Hospital in Birmingham, Ala., May 10, 1899, at 3.15 o'clock p. m. have been drawn up by the M. E. Sunday School:

That, whereas, God in his allwise providence and who doeth all things for the best, has called to come up higher to enter upon his reward our beloved superintendent, Bro. I. D. Mason. Therefore be it

Resolved 1st, That while we mourn our great loss and shall ever miss his gentle rule and earnest prayers, his faithful work, whose presence and encouraging words always inspired us to be more faithful and more self-sacrificing in our work for the Master, we bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father, believing he has entered the house of many mansions he has so often told us was prepared for those who loved the Lord.

Resolved 2d, That we feel our loss has been his gain, for he lived and worked in the blessed assurance that he pleased God, whom he loved to serve so well, and when the end came he was ready to hear the beautiful words, "Well done good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

Resolved 3d, That he has been our Sunday school superintendent for nearly twenty years, and his life work among us has proven him to be a christian worthy of imitation, he was modest, refined, unassuming, a devoted and true husband, an affectionate and kind father, a good neighbor and a useful citizen.

Resolved 4th, That in the death of Brother Mason, Columbiana has lost a useful citizen, the church a christian worker ever loyal and steadfast, exemplifying in his daily life faith, hope and charity.

Resolved 5th, That we shall try to emulate the beautiful traits of character of our dear brother, and take up and help push forward the work which he loved so much, and let his life still shine forth in the inspiration it has kindled in ours.

Resolved 6th, That we tender our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved family, and commend them to God who doeth all things for the best, and pray that we may all meet him in that beautiful mansion above.

Resolved 7th, That these resolutions be placed upon the minutes of our Sunday school record, and a copy sent the bereaved family, and also be published in our county papers and the Alabama Christian Advocate.

Attention Teachers.

I will hold the first examination of teachers under the new law at the college in the city of Columbiana, on Monday, June 5, 1899. Two rooms with connecting doors will be used, and at 10 o'clock a. m. in the presence of the applicants, I will break the seal of the package containing the questions furnished me by the State board of examiners. I will have with me a full supply of stationery, paper, pens and ink, to furnish applicants at a reasonable price. No applicant will be allowed to enter the class without first having supplied themselves with stationery as required by law, and have deposited with me fees as follows: For third grade one dollar; second grade one dollar and fifty cents; first grade two dollars; life certificate two dollars. These fees must be paid before entering the class in every case. No credit whatever will be allowed.

Strangers must bring written proof that they are of good, moral character before attempting to enter the class. No applicant will be allowed to sit near enough to another to read his papers or receive assistance from him, and any applicant, procures assistance from any source, while being examined, will have violated the rules and will be reported to the State board of examiners.

Teachers who have filed contracts in my office, previous to April 13, 1899, for summer schools can finish their terms without examination, provided their schools are taught out before October 1, 1899.

EUGENE WILLIAMS,
County Superintendent Education.

The closing exercises of Vincent Free School will take place on May 25 and 26. The public cordially invited to attend.

Calvary.

On last Friday morning a man passed and made some inquiries, leaving suspicion that he had stolen an ox which he was driving with a whip tied on its horns. J. S. Evans and G. D. Baldwin followed and overtook him, and while an investigation was being made he took to the woods and escaped. Immediately afterwards a party was organized, a dog secured and a splendid race began, which continued for six or eight miles almost without a halt. About 9 o'clock the party disbanded, the dog refusing to follow the trail any longer. It has been rumored here that the thief was arrested at Saginaw the same evening and escaped again. He told his name as John Carter, but we have learned since his name was Henry Jones. The oxen belonged to the Saginaw Lumber Co.

The "Poverty Social" at Dr. Rowe's last Friday night was quite a success. The young people derived a great deal of enjoyment, especially from the grotesque costumes of some of the attendants.

Harpersville.

T. J. Martin and D. W. Kidd made Columbiana a business trip Monday.

Cotton choppers are in great demand up here. Can't you send us up a few of your idle clerks for a few days?

Ha! ha! ha! Johnston has gone over to the Pops and Kolb has come back to the Democrats. We always did think that Kolb was a better man than he had credit for being.

Childersburg had their school exhibition last week, and Vincent will have theirs this week.

Misses Janie Wallace and Eula Mallory, who have been attending the Montevallo School, returned home last week, much to the delight of their many friends.

Dr. S. W. Welch, of Alpine, spent a day or two here last week.

E. V. Caldwell came over from Birmingham Friday and was quite sick Saturday and Sunday.

Walter, son of C. F. Elliott, was visiting here last week. He was just from Cuba, where he had been in Uncle Sam's service ever since the war began, but was mustered out a few days ago. He left Tuesday for his home in St. Louis, where his family resides.

Little Willie Caldwell has been very sick for the past week, but we are glad to state that he is improving at this writing.

A. A. Gorman, who is now stationed on Sulivan Island, in Uncle Sam's army, is visiting his mother's family. He seems to be in fine spirits and health. He will go back about the 28th.

We think it very unwise in the trustees in not reelecting Captain Reynolds president of the Industrial School. He has done more towards building up the school than any other man would have done, and to let him off now when the school was in such a fair way to be a success, is just too bad. Dr. Eager is a learned scholar and will fill the place with honor, but it strikes us that Reynolds should have had it longer if he so desired.

JAKE.

When you ask for Simmons Liver Regulator, depend upon yourself, and not on what the druggist tells you. See that the word Regulator is on the package and you will be certain you are getting Simmons Liver Regulator. Nothing else is the same.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents or one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, if you send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in THE CHRONICLE.

Influence of Country Life.

There is a poise and depth in th man who lives close to nature which is lacking in him who has never come under her spell. We feel the artificiality of city life when we talk with the city child, whose heart has never expanded under the gracious ministration of field and wood, who has never heard the woodland symphonies of tone and sound, and who has never thrilled under the mysterious pageant of the seasons. Free, happy denizen of the country! He learns the secrets of nature without fret or hindrance; he lays up stores of moral sweetness and strength; in him all the primitive virtues thrive.

Cities do not give the human senses room enough, and we hug our little stock of acquired knowledge so closely that we do not feel the deep, silent scorn of the country boy for our real dullness of perception. The city child is shut out from a thousand avenues of knowledge held by the country boy. Can he tell the time by the gently creeping shadows? Does he learn his natural history from his neighbors, the birds, the squirrels, the four-footed dwellers of the forest? And chiefest of all, is he taught reverence and pity for all God's creatures. —Self Culture for May.

NERVOUS DEPRESSION.

[A TALK WITH MRS. PINKHAM.]

A woman with the blues is a very uncomfortable person. She is illogical, unhappy and frequently hysterical.

The condition of the mind known as "the blues," nearly always, with women, results from diseased organs of generation.

It is a source of wonder that in this age of advanced medical science, any person should still believe that mere force of will and determination will overcome depressed spirits and nervousness in women. These troubles are indications of disease.

Every woman who doesn't understand her condition should write to Lynn, Mass., to Mrs. Pinkham for her advice. Her advice is thorough common sense, and is the counsel of a learned woman of great experience. Read the story of Mrs. F. S. BENNETT, Westphalia, Kansas, as told in the following letter:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered for over two years with falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb, and this spring, being in such a weakened condition, caused me to flow for nearly six months. Some time ago, urged by friends, I wrote to you for advice. After using the treatment which you advised for a short time, that terrible flow stopped.

"I am now gaining strength and flesh, and have better health than I have had for the past ten years. I wish to say to all distressed, suffering women, do not suffer longer, when there is one so kind and willing to aid you."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's remedy for woman's ills. More than a million women have been benefited by it.

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

Trenching Land for Crops.

Years ago English farm papers had much to say about the advantage of trenching land, especially in gardens, instead of plowing it. Labor on the farm has always been so cheap that trenching or hand digging of land is often resorted to give employment to labor at low rates. It is a waste of labor mostly, for the hand digging of trenches does not fit the soil any better for crops than will the subsoil plow which merely follows the surface plow pulverizing the subsoil without bringing it up. In fact, the subsoil plow, except on the very richest land, does better work than can be done by trenching. In hand digging much of the subsoil is pretty sure to be mixed with surface soil. Only very rich soil can bear such mixture without injury to the first crop after it has been done.

Teaching Calves to Drink.

Nature teaches the calf to turn its mouth upward to get its food. The unwillingness of the calf to put its head down into a pail is the result of instinct. Some have thought to offset this by never allowing the calf to suck its dam even once. But we think this injures the calf. It needs stimulation when first born, and should be allowed to get it in the way most natural to it. In sucking the teat the milk comes slowly, and a good deal of saliva is mixed with it. But after once sucking its dam the calf should be taught to drink out of a pail, and to put its head down when eating. It will need to be pretty hungry to do this readily, and the finger should be used, placing it first in the calf's mouth, and then putting it into the milk. So soon as the calf gets fairly to drinking the finger should be withdrawn.

Quinces vs. Peaches for Profit.

Whenever a peach tree bears a full crop it is almost certain to be more profitable than any other fruit, often paying much more than the cost of the land and previous cultivation in a single crop. But the peach is very uncertain even localities where it is a success. One crop in three years is about the usual average before a severe winter or the yellows disease kills the tree. For a steady bearer no fruit exceeds the quinces. It has no disease except the fungus red rust, which attacks leaf and fruit, and which may be prevented by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. It is true the quince is liable to borer attacks, but not more so than the peach tree, and with sufficient vigilance both kinds of trees may be saved from the borer. The quince never suffers from late frosts, as it is so late in blossoming that there is no danger from that source. If the quince trees have been sprayed often enough, there is sure to be a paying crop every year, which commends it to the average farmer more than a fruit which only brings a crop one year in three.

Parsnips for Late Use.

The parsnip root and also the salisfy or vegetable oyster are so hardy that they are usually left on the soil where they grow, instead of being pulled and put in cellar or pit to escape freezing. One freezing does not injure them at all if they are left where they grew without disturbing them. Repeated freezing and thawing undoubtedly injure them. But the damage is done by warmth rather than by the cold. The parsnip being hardy starts to grow for a seed crop with the first warm weather. Some winters it begins to put out green leaves in midwinter. But the lack of sunlight prevents it from growing much, even though the air be mild. It is not generally known that when green shoots put out from last year's parsnips left in the ground the root becomes tough and even poisonous. So if parsnips are wanted for late use they should be taken up now and exposed to air long enough to dry up the feeding roots. Then lay the parsnips in a trench deep enough so that light cannot get to the crowns, and the roots may be kept in good condition for eating until June, by which time they will be superseded by young parsnips spring sown in hotbeds. These young parsnips are much more tender and sweet, and they entirely supersede those grown the previous year for table use at least. The winter parsnips thus kept will be greedily eaten by cows and horses that do not have a run at fresh grass.

Favored Methods of Culture.

After trying various systems of culture, I prefer this: Plow ground as soon after haying as possible. Sometimes this work is done in the spring, but if the land is plowed early in the fall, the sod decays and I generally prefer to finish in spring with a thorough harrowing at intervals of a few days apart. I desire here to emphasize this point, viz., frequent harrowing. A field upon which late culture was impossible, because of heavy rains last season, was harrowed first in sugar weather, simply because the ground happened to be in good condition and it would be so much nearer ready at planting time. A splendid crop was harvested. These frequent harrowings killed the young weeds, so during the entire season scarcely a weed could be seen.

I make a shallow furrow with the shovel plow, and if the ground is quite level, drop across the furrows by stakes, which brings them rowed both ways. This will not do on sidling ground, for the soil, being made so fine, will wash badly if rowed up and down.

I use a special phosphate for potatoes about 500 pounds per acre, not thrown in a lump in the hill, but scattered. With proper tillage before planting, and early and frequent cultivation I have little use for a hoe.

I have my own ideas in regard to seed selection. Long after the famous Early Rose had been displaced by other varieties on most farms, I grew them in perfection and obtained high prices for seed. I take great pains in selecting seed. An ill-shaped or rough tuber is always rejected. No doubt it is well to try new varieties occasionally, but careful selection of seed is after all the main thing.

A word as to marketing. When selecting for sale, reject all rough, uncouth looking ones (these can be used in your own family) and in measuring, it is well to hang a bushel on the scales occasionally, and see if they hold out weight. Better put two or three good tubers in excess of 60 pounds than do as a certain man once did. A bushel of seed was bought to change seed, the man putting them in a bag. After reaching home the bag seemed so light the purchaser concluded to weigh it, and found bag and all weighed only 49 pounds. It always pays to deal so we can deal with the same person again.—New England Homestead.

Variety in Fruit Culture.

Every commercial fruit grower should maintain a small plot containing several generally commended sorts and determine which varieties he should make his leaders and plant most largely of.

In conducting these experiments there are several things to be considered. There is a vast difference in plants of the same variety. When plants fruit they are breeding or laying their eggs, and the fruit flesh develops as a substance for seeds to grow on, and the quantity of fruit as well as size depends on the stamina of the seeds.

Seed bearing is the most devitalizing process the plant is ever called upon to undergo, and if its intense passion in this direction is not restrained by removing a part of the blossoms in the propagating bed, it will fruit itself into impotency, and after that will multiply itself through its runners and fruit very sparingly. The more you manure and cultivate the more runners you will get without a corresponding increase in fruit either in quantity or quality.

There is the test of varieties without the pedigree or history of the plant which shall determine its physical conditions in this respect must always be unsatisfactory if not entirely misleading. In all this work we want to know the capacity of the variety, or, in other words, what it will do under favorable conditions.

The success of a variety often more largely depends on the man than the soil or location. He is often harsh with the plant, does things at the wrong time and in the wrong way; does his work grudgingly and growls about everything and finds no pleasure in any part of the work. The report of behavior of a variety from such a man would have no value whatever. The only valuable report comes from a man who loves the work, studies plant life and meets requirements which shall enable the plant to show its qualities definitely.

The fruit grower of the opening of the nineteenth century must be a student and know all the laws which govern fruit development.

The variety to plant most largely is the one most generally commended over the widest area until your own experiments determine what sort is best adapted to your soil.

The "war" between intensive fruit growing and the system of broad acres with slovenly culture is ended, and the man who grows many bushels of the finest fruit on the fewest acres is the winner.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

Necessity of Pure Stock Water.

Few farmers and stockmen are as careful to supply the various wants of their stock as they should be. They think if they furnish their animals enough to eat at all seasons of the year they are doing their whole duty, little thinking that a regular and generous supply of pure water is fully as necessary as feed itself. Water forms from 35 to 63 per cent. of the total weight of the body, and enters into the composition of every bone, muscle and tissue. Food can only be assimilated when in a soluble state, hence water is an indispensable aid to digestion.

Where it is available, running water, either springs or creeks, is preferable to any other for stock, as it is pure and needs no pumping. Unless contaminated by surface washings or sewerage, creek water is of good quality, as it is being continually aerated and purified by exposure to the sunshine. For domestic use a spring or deep well is the best source of pure water. The deeper the well the less danger of its being contaminated. The soil acts as a filter and the more soil the water must pass through in reaching the subterranean streams the more thorough the filtration. A tubular well is much safer and a more reliable source of supply than a dug well, since no water can enter a tubular well except at the bottom. In a dug well there is always danger of surface drainage finding its way into it. A dug well may be pure when first dug, even though shallow, and later be contaminated from surface drainage or other causes. No cesspool or vault should be allowed near a well, either deep or shallow, unless every precaution is taken to make the basin of such pools or vaults perfectly watertight, to prevent the surrounding surface from becoming foul.

The water from different sources has frequently been tested and the number of germs contained in each cubic centimeter (about half a thimbleful) has been found to vary from four in a hundred foot tubular well, to nearly three hundred thousand in a clean-looking pond, and four hundred thousand in a dug well receiving surface drainage. A dug well might be very much improved by cementing the inside of the wall down to the water line. This would keep the surface water from seeping in. In a dug well every precaution should be used to prevent any vermin from entering at the top. It is well to lay the upper foot or two of the wall in cement. If wooden sills are used as a foundation for the floor let the top be just even with the top of the wall, then fill the space between the walls and sills with cement, and if the floor is tight, not even an earth worm can find its way through. Every well should be ventilated. Even water in a well will become more or less stagnant without it. A couple of tubes should extend from the top of the pump downward a few inches under the floor. The top of these tubes should be closed with fine wire setting to exclude flies and insects. The air will descend in one tube and ascend in the other, preventing the accumulation of foul gases. —O. J. Vine, in American Agriculturist.

An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, SYRUP OF FIGS, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

A vase cut from a single emerald has been preserved in a cathedral of Genoa, Italy, 600 years. Its dimensions are: Diameter 12¼ inches; height 5¾ inches. Every precaution is used to insure its safe keeping. Several locks must be opened to reach it, and the key of each lock is in the possession of a different man. It is publicly exhibited very rarely, and then only by order of the senate. A precautionary decree was passed in 1476 forbidding all persons to approach the priceless treasure too closely. An antiquarian advances the theory that it was one of the gifts made by Solomon to the queen of Sheba, and has written a book to prove his assumption.

Mr. James Jenkins, well known throughout the south-west as a detective and a terror to evil doers, has, in his old age, conceived a singular scheme of philanthropy. During his long experience as a deputy marshal and officer of the law he has run down and captured several hundred outlaws, most of whom were captured and sent to the penitentiary for long terms. A few months ago the wife of one died in great destitution. Mr. Jenkins heard of it and determined to devote his property to establishing a home for the wives and families of the criminals whom he has brought to justice. It will be built near Prior Creek, in the Indian Territory, and will cost about $20,000. The rest of his fortune, in all about $50,000, will be expended for the benefit of the institution.

At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology tests will soon be undertaken on the strength of timber as affected by moisture. As an accessory a masonry kiln has been constructed 22 feet long, 4 feet wide, and 3½ feet high. In the bottoms are coils of inch steam pipe, supplied continually with boiler steam. Air is driven by a blower under these coils and about the timber which is placed directly overhead, and the moist air drawn off through a series of pipes with openings at the top. During the night circulation is maintained by a 20-foot stack. The kiln has galvanized iron double doors, and will take eight 6x12 sticks at a time.

A correspondent of the Scientific American states that in 1898 the bureau of engraving printed and issued 2,500,000,000 of the common red two-cent stamps. These, he says, would go almost twice around the earth. He further assists our comprehension of this enormous number by continuing: "Stacked one upon another, they would pile up 150 miles beyond our atmosphere, equal in weight to two of our big locomotives, and would make a blanket to keep the frost off the city of Washington. If these stamps worked in relays, each taking the letter as far as allowed by the postal regulations, the letter would be carried beyond the most remote star, and, at the fastest speed at the disposal of the postal authorities, would occupy millions of times the age of the earth in transit."

Chicago is certainly up to date. Its latest acquisitions is an automobile ambulance, presented by several prominent citizens to the Michael Reese hospital, and it is said to be the first automobile ambulance ever constructed. The vehicle's motive power is electricity, its weight 1,600 pounds, and a maximum speed of sixteen miles an hour. In order to reduce the jolting to a minimum, the body of the ambulance is mounted upon a special set of springs. This arrangement and the high speed attainable insures the patient's comfortable and rapid transportation.

Pictures by Telegraph.

The process of sending pictures by telegraph has been so perfected that newspapers in various sections of the country are now using it in illustrating current events happening thousands of miles distant. The sending of such pictures is accomplished by a machine with a cylindar covered with tinfoil on which the picture is traced in minute dots, over which a needle point travels, very like the dots and needle of a phonograph. This needle touches every part of the picture. The receiving instrument is identical with the transmitter, only the cylinder is covered with white, overlaid by carbon paper. The current actuated by the transmitting needle instantly actuates the receiving instrument and an exact copy is reproduced. Necessarily these delicate machines must be synchronized, or in harmony. The telediagraph is the invention of E. A. Hammell, of St. Paul, Minn, and as it is being daily used by prominent journals with entire success, it must be considered commercially practical. In fact, the recent $10 to $1 dinners of Crocker and Bryan could have been illustrated in the San Francisco papers before they actually occurred by means of this wonderful invention.

The Akoulallion.

Physicians and experts have practically tested and endorsed the claims of the young Mobile, Ala., electrical engineer that by his electrical device, something like a telephone, he makes the deaf hear and the dumb talk. It has been thoroughly tested on mutes from the Alabama State asylum and has been pronounced so efficient that a deaf person distinctly heard and recognized the tune from a piano over sixty feet distant.

A Wonderful General Remedy.

Dr. Sloan's Liniment is known by horsemen the world over. The fact that it can be used in any way that any liniment can be used makes it invaluable for strains, sprains, soreness in muscles and similar purposes. The fact, furthermore that this remedy is remarkable in its penetrating qualities is greatly in its favor. Where Sloan's Liniment is used the necessity of excessive rubbing is done away with, as it penetrates quickly to the seat of the trouble and thus relieves pain without the necessity of undue friction, which is liable to make swollen or inflamed joints, tender muscles and tendons still worse Dr Sloan's Liniment can be given with great advantage internally in cases of colic, cramp, etc. This famous remedy will also be found as valuable for the use of man, either internally or externally.

THE CHRONICLE.

Democratic at all Times and Under all Circumstances--Consequently Opposed to Monopolies.

VOL. XIV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 1899. NO. 24.

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF ALABAMA

Jasper Iron Works Burned.

The Jasper Iron works, at Jasper, Walker county, were totally destroyed by fire Friday night. The loss is $6,000; insurance $3,500. The company will rebuild the works.

Sheffield's New Industries.

Sheffield has played in good luck during the past week, having secured a cotton seed oil mill and wood working plant. Both companies start into business with ample capital and excellent prospects.

Improvements at Scottsboro.

The contract for the new brick building at the corner of Laurel and Market streets for the new bank has been let, and work will be commenced at once. The old tan yard buildings on the Caldwell property are being torn down preparatory to erecting the new band mill Mr. Steagall, of Tullahoma, is going to put up there. Work will soon be begun on a switch, to be run from the freight depot to the mill.

A strange incident of where a wedding was turned into a funeral was enacted at Clio Friday night. Mrs. Gussie Smart, an old lady who was in attendance upon the Card-Reynold's nuptials, stepped up and congratulated the couple, and as she turned to leave, fell lifeless to the floor. The wildest excitement prevailed among the spectators, and the festivities, which were bright and joyous, were soon turned to sorrow and weeping.

Colored Coal Mines at Helena.

Helena and vicinity are revived once more. Since "The Birmingham Grate Coal Mining Company" has been operating there the people have taken new inspiration and everything looks more hopeful. Miners are moving in very rapidly. In short while there will be over a hundred miners on the works at Falliston. These mines are operated entirely by colored men. T. W. Walker is president and general manager of the company and W. R. Pettiford general agent.

To Develop Properties in Alabama.

E. F. Thompson, late secretary of the Johnstown, Pa., board of trade, is now in Huntsville to remain as the representative of the DuPont syndicate, of which T. C. DuPont, general manager of the Federal Steel company, of Johnstown, Pa., is president. The syndicate has recently purchased the property of the West Huntsville Land company, just outside of the city limits of Huntsville, and will also build and operate electric car lines in the city. The present investments of this syndicate represent over a quarter of a million dollars, but they contemplate the systematic development of other properties around Huntsville, which will run the figures up into several millions of dollars.

The DuPont syndicate will form three corporations under the laws of Alabama to look after its various investmens and its headquarters will be at Huntsville, with branch offices in several eastern cities.

New Mining Company.

News comes from Alexander City that a new mining company, called the Alexander City Land and Mining company, has just been organized for the purpose of developing all of the rich deposits of gold, cement, copper, mica and other valuable minerals which are found in abundance in Tallapoosa, Coosa and Clay counties.

Colonel C. P. Wright, a mining expert, who seems to be at the head of the enterprise, has spent a number of months past in prospecting over these counties, and is confident that with modern machinery and modern mining hods, that great things will be realized. The company has succeeded in buying up over 4,000 acres of these lands.

Sells His Newspaper.

The Eufaula Times Monday contains W. O. Jelks's valedictory, after eighteen years of active life in journalism as editor and proprietor of The Eufaula Daily and Weekly Times. He has sold out his entire printing plant and leaves the field. A. L. Muir and R. B. Moore, of Bowling Green, O., are the purchasers and will assume control.

A Mammoth Still Captured.

Probably the largest illicit distillery ever captured in Alabama was captured Friday night by Deputy Collector Haulin and Deputy Marshal Vaughan in fifteen miles of Birmingham. The still was of 200 gallon capacity and was provided with a big iron boiler and all of the necessary appliances for turning out moonshine whisky in large quantities. It was located near Highland, in Shelby county, and was destroyed by the liberal use of dynamite, the boiler, etc., being blown up. There was no one about the plant, and though the officers waited for some time, no one came, so no arrests were made.

Three Scholarships for Alabamians.

The state department of education has been notified by the chancellor of the Peabody Normal College, at Nashville, that there will be three vacant scholarships in that institution for the coming year, to be filled from Alabama. These scholarships are worth $100 per year, and the holder's railroad fare from his home to Nashville and return. They are good for two years. The appointments will be made on a competative examination, to be held July 20th and 21st. Either sex is eligible to appointment. Full particulars will be given upon application to Superintendent of Education John W. Abercrombie, Montgomery.

A Daring Conspiracy Unearthed.

Collector Julian H. Bingham has caused the arrest of Richard Benjamin, Reese, Henry, Charles and Franklin Pilcher and Monroe Hatcher, brother-in-law of Ben Pilcher, at Dothan, Henry county. The charge against these men is that of burning the distillery and warehouse of Richard Pilcher, after removing from the same fifteen barrels of whiskey. The suspicion of a conspiracy is said to have led to the discovery of a barrel of whisky buried in a cornfield near Richard Pilcher's saloon, seven miles from the distillery. Six barrels of liquor, it is said, were also found in a potato patch in the plantation of Reese Pilcher. Sweet potatoes were planted over and were flourishing, so it is said. The officers also seized over a wagon and a team of mules and a horse and buggy. On preliminary examination, all were bound over. The Pilchers belong to a very prominent family. Richard Pilcher was the populist candidate for sheriff of Henry county in the last campaign. Ben Pilcher is a man of means. Monroe Hatcher is a justice of the peace. It is alleged by the officers that confessions have been made admitting the removal of the spirits, but denying the burning of the building, it being alleged that it was an accident, caused by the dropping of a match. Collector Bingham believes that the arrests have led to the unearthing of a daring conspiracy.

The Alabama Chautauqua.

The Alabama Chautauqua assembly will open its sixth annual session at Talladega on Wednesday, July 5, 1899, and continue until July 22. A brilliant galaxy of talent will make this a memorable and enjoyable gathering. A cool fortnight in the mountains and a great vacation to the weary worker is here afforded. Summer tourist tickets good for one month can be bought from all railroads at one and one-third fare. Board is from $3.50 to $5.00 per week. Fifty entertainments at less than 7 cents each. It's cheaper than staying at home. John Temple Graves, Byron King, Dr Egerton R. Young, Rosani, the juggler, The Arion Ladies Quartette, Adrian Plate, the wonder worker, Mohr, the crayon king and ventriloquist, Leftwich, the banjo artist, Kentucky Colonels Male Quartette, and Fred Truman, the actor, are just a few of the attractions. The College Oratorical Contest on the 19th, the Old-Fashioned Singing Match on the 8th and the Fiddlers' Contest on the 15th will draw thousands of people. Special excursions on the 8th, 15th and 19th. Write for a detailed programme to Manager Wellington Vandiver, Talladega.

New Mill Will Be Built.

The deal between the Huntsville people and the Merrimac Manufacturing Company has at last been closed, and a 200-spindle cotton mill and bleachery and dye works will be built near the old Brahan Spring, about a mile east of that city. The improvements proposed by the Merrimac company will involve an expenditure of something like a million dollars.

T. W. Pratt has opened negotiations with the owners of the National Manufacturing company's plant in Huntsville with a view of doubling the plant, adding modern machinery and placing it in operation.

Has Made No Announcement.

The Rev. Dr. Eager, of the First Baptist church, Montgomery, has made no announcement as to whether or not he will accept the recently tendered position as president of the Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo. His friends believe, however, that there is no doubt but that he will accept the place.

THIRTY CUBANS PAID.

One Hundred and Eleven Men Made Application Sunday.

There were 111 applicants Sunday at Havana for shares in the $3,000,000 which the United States have offered as a gratuity to the Cuban troops. Thirty were given $75 each. The others were not on the rolls, although they had guns which they were ready to turn in and certificates of service.

The United States military authorities consider that the rolls are very unreliable. Indeed, the opinion is freely expressed that a large proportion of the names are fictitious and that the rolls omit a majority of the names of those rightly entitled to share in the gratuity.

Lieutenant Colonel George M. Randall went carefully over the rolls of one battalion with its commandant. He pointed out thirty-four names of men who are dead and names of others who had not been heard of outside the rolls. Of those paid Sunday twenty-five turned in arms—Mausers, Remingtons and carbines. The other five showed receipts from the vouchers.

NINE BODIES IN THE ASHES.

Horrible Fate of a Family in South Carolina.

Mail advices from Hardeeville, S. C., say that about three miles from that village, on the Oestreicher farm, an Tuesday night, May 23d, occurred a terrible tragedy. A two-story frame building on the farm occupied by Jacob Solomons, his wife and seven children, the eldest aged 16 years and the youngest an infant of 1 year. On Wednesday some one passing saw that the house was gone, and on approaching to investigate, found that every vestige of it was burned, and the bodies of the nine occupants, or rather the charred trunks of nine human bodies, were lying in the ashes.

TWO HUNDRED HOUSES BURNED.

A Million Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed on Coney Island.

Coney Island, N. Y., property to the value of a million dollars was destroyed by fire early Friday morning, twenty acres in the heart of the summer resort section, the district known as the "Bowery," being reduced to ashes. The 200 buildings burned were located between the "Bowery" and the ocean. These buildings ranged in size and importance from a wabbly bathing "pavilion" to a handsome five-story Hygeia hotel, including dancing pavilions, concert halls, stores of various kinds, restaurants and hotels of every grade. The fire made shelterless for a time native and transient population of about 3,500, including 500 men and women, classed as comedians and soubrettes, employed in the district.

Bradstreet's Report for Birmingham.

The following is the report of the Bradstreet agency on the Birmingham district for the current week:

"The past week has been one of comparative quietness. The iron producers are working steadily, and appearances imply good, steady business. Coal mines are running right along, notwithstanding complaints of decrease in demand. The summer dullness has been felt by wholesalers, but up to the present time business surpasses that of last year for the same period. Lumber and building material are still in great demand. Bank clearings for the week have been $713,294."

ALABAMA NEWS BREVITIES.

The owners of the Jackson county flouring mill, located at Scottsboro, have decided to double the capacity on account of the large amount of orders which they are unable to fill. The work will be begun at once.

Captain W. P. Barker, the engineer who laid off the broad streets and avenues of the city of Birmingham and one of the first settlers in the district to lend his engineering skill and tremendous energy to the up-building of the great iron city, died Saturday morning.

M. Farr, an old Confederate veteran living at Brighton, Jefferson county, died Saturday at his home from a heart failure. He was at home with his family when he took a coughing spell. He had been weak for some time, and when the spell came on him he fell over dead on his bed.

To Harness Flint River.

A number of capitalists have for some time been contemplating the project of harnessing the power of Flint river, ten miles from Huntsville and transmitting it by means of electricity to be used in local industries. It is estimated that 5,000 horse power can be secured in this way. The proposition is to buy the old Bell factory, which already has an excellent dam.

REBELS FULL OF FIGHT.

Insurrection in the Philippines Takes on New Life.

A Sunday's dispatch from Manila says: The approach of the wet season finds the insurrection seemingly taking a new lease of life. All along the American lines the rebels are showing more aggressive activity in their guerrilla style than at any time before since the fall of Malolos. They keep the United States troops in the trenches sleeping in their clothing and constantly on the alert against dashes upon the outposts, and they make life warm for the American garrisons in the towns.

The bands of General Luna and General Mascardo, which retreated toward Tarlac when they feared they would be caught between General MacArthur and General Lawton, have returned in force to their old trenches around San Fernando, where are daily collisions.

Opposite our lines on the south protecting Manila, all the way around to San Pacio, Macati, the Filipinos have three rows of trenches most of the distance.

Reports from prisoners indicate that the insurgents construe the peace negotiations to mean that the Americans have had enough of fighting. The Filipinos are also encouraged by the belief that the Americans are preparing for an interval of inactivity during the wet season. This period is sure to be followed by much suffering.

Thousands of acres that were under cultivation last year have not been plowed this year, and the government will probably be obliged to feed thousands, just as it fed the Cubans.

Friendly natives, Amigos, continue to pour into the American lines by land and river routes, coming from the territory of insurrection into the country where the passage of the two armies has left no food, and practically throwing themselves upon the charity of their conquerors.

Americans Losing Ground.

Two weeks hence it is expected that nearly all the advantages gained in the fighting around Manila will be lost. It is a diagreeable fact the war department is facing. Lawton is retreating to Manila on account of inability to sustain himself so far away from the base of supplies. As fast as he evacuates territory it is occupied by the rebels, for whom the rainy season has fewer terrors than for the American forces. The fighting of the past week has all been to protect the departing column. It is the rear, not the advance guard, that has had work to do. The withdrawal of McArthur's brigade is looked for for similar reasons.

Wagon trains with supplies cannot get through the seas of mud into which the rains convert the roads and the rice fields. The country does not afford the means of subsistence, therefore there is nothing to do but to fall back. Even if the elements were not against the American forces it is doubtful if all the conquered territory could be held. The opportunities for bushwhacking are without number, and that kind of warfare is the favorite with the Filipinos.

Nine Lives Crushed Out.

The through train from Chicago to Minneapolis over the Rock Island and Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern railways was wrecked Sunday morning at the crossing of Sink creek, about four miles southeast of Waterloo, Ia. The train consisted of six coaches, including mail and baggage cars, smoking car, two passenger coaches and a sleeper. Nine persons were killed and ten injured. A cloudburst had washed the sand and gravel roadbed, leaving the track unsupported for a stretch of twenty feet.

Attempt to Assassinate Gen. Reyes.

General Reyes, leader of the late Nicaragua revolution, is lying seriously ill at Rocas del Toro, Colombia, from the effects of an attempted assassination. He was on his way home, when parties sprang from ambush and beat him with sticks until he was unconscious.

Dead Body of a Negro Found.

The dead body of George Wilson, a 30 years old negro, was found along side the Central railroad track, about a mile from Montgomery, Sunday morning. His throat had been cut, the jugular vein being severed.

Revision of Dreyfus Case.

Special dispatches from Paris officially announce that Dreyfus will be retried by a court martial, the sittings of which will be held in a garrison town distant from Paris.

Governor Ellerbe, of South Carolina, is sinking. He is very weak. Three or four doctors are in constant attendance, but in the last three days the governor has failed rapidly.

KILLED UNDER A WHITE FLAG.

Captain Tilley, of the signal corps, with a detachment made up of other members of the corps, landed at Escalante, on the Island of Negros, to pick up and repair the cable. The natives had a white flag over the cable house when the party landed. They, however, were no sooner on shore than they were fired upon by the natives. They at once took to the water and a number of them were picked up by a boat, but Captain Tilley and two native men of the party are missing.

The commander of the Recorder, running a great risk, managed to reach the launch and put off from the bank in time to save it from being captured by the natives.

Meanwhile a rain of bullets was falling all around the fugitives. The second mate was picked up by the launch just as he was sinking, but was alive. He said that the last he saw of Captain Tilley the latter was swimming feebly by his side.

The steamer was far out from shore, but those on board could see that the other seamen were caught by the natives, flogged and then cut to pieces.

The ship returned to Iloilo, stopped, and within an hour troops were dispatched to the scene of the attack.

THE TIDE IS TURNING.

Cubans Are Now Turning in Their Arms and Receiving Their Money.

Monday's events in connection with with the payment of the Cuban troops entitled to apply at Havana for a share in the American gratuity have killed off opposition to the bounty. In American military circles it is considered that a fine start has been made and that the opposition is defeated. Three hundred privates arrived during the day to apply for payment, but for lack of time only 112 were paid.

Many who brought arms were not on the rolls at all. Ninety-nine rifles were surrendered, many applicants declining to take any chances in turning the weapons over to the mayor of Havana, believing it would be better to give them direct to the Americans. The Cuban officers, who on the first day tried to discourage any who were disposed to apply, finding now that the tide of feeling has turned, are offering all the assistance possible to Colonel Randall.

Rioting in Guadaloupe.

Advices received from Guadaloupe, the French West Indian island of the Leeward Group, report a recurrence of serious riots between the native population and British contract labor immigrants, which culminated in the recent fire.

The secretary of state, it was announced from Washington, received recently a telegram from Consul Ayme at La Pointe-a-Pitre, Guadaloupe, saying that fires, alleged to be of incendiary origin, started at midnight April 17, and destroyed sixteen squares in the vicinity of the American consulate. The consul said that 400 houses were destroyed, thirty-one lives lost, and 2,000 persons rendered homeless. The loss, he estimated, would approximate $1,000,000.

Cablegram From Gen. Otis.

The war department has received the following cablegram from Gen. Otis:

Transports Ohio and Senator with the Fifteenth infantry have arrived at Manila. Private David R. Johnson, Co. E, drowned, and five men deserted at Honolulu.

The campaign against the Filipino insurgents will be prosecuted by the American forces with the utmost aggressiveness possible during the rainy season.

Captain Elliott Dies Suddenly.

Captain J. M. Elliott, Sr., was found dead on a cot at his home in Alabama City Sunday afternoon. Captain Elliott had been in town to see his son, J. M. Elliott, Jr., who is very ill. On reaching his home he laid down on a cot to rest. Soon afterward someone went to call him to supper, when he was found cold in death.

The Plague in Egypt.

The total number of plague cases reported at Alexandria is eight. Two of those stricken have died and two have recovered.

Eighty Prospectors Missing.

T. B. Robinson, of Oakland, Cal., who has just returned from Copper River, Alaska, says that he knows of eighty prospectors in that section who are missing. If not dead already they will die in an effort to reach civilization. Most of them went out in small parties with only provisions to last them at best a few months. Rescue parties have been unable to get trace of them.

FOUR THOUSAND OFFICES

Released by the President in the Civil Service Rules.

President McKinley Monday issued the amendment to the civil service rules, which he has had under consideration for about a year. It releases from the operations of the civil service about 4,000 offices. Among such places are the following:

Pension examining surgeons, Indians employed in the Indian service not connected with the Indian schools service and many places in the engineer department at large, the quartermaster's department at large, the subsistence department at large, the ordnance department at large of the war department. With reference to these places in the war department service it is provided that they shall be subject to regulations to be prescribed by the secretary of war and approved by the president, thus placing these branches of the service on substantially the same basis as the navy yard service.

A FATAL JUMP.

The Wife of Mayor Clisby, of Montgomery, Killed in a Runaway.

Mrs. John H. Clisby, wife of the mayor of Montgomery, Ala, was fatally hurt Monday afternoon by jumping from a carriage, and her sister, Mrs. Charles Virgin, seriously injured.

Mrs. Clisby, Mrs. Virgin and Miss Annie Virgin were out riding in the former's carriage, when a small rabbit ran across the road and Miss Annie got out and tried to catch it. She called the driver to her assistance and he thoughtlessly turned the horse. In a moment they were dashing down the road with the two ladies in the carriage. The horses went at a terrific rate and the ladies decided to jump, which they did, both landing on their heads, being found in the road soon afterwards unconscious. Mrs. Clisby was so seriously hurt that she died about half past 10 o'clock. Mrs. Virgin is critically injured and may not recover.

Bankhead Confident of His Election.

Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, who has been in Washington for several days, is very much gratified over the assurances he has received of the support of many for the minority's candidate for speaker of the house. He feels reasonably assured, he says, that he will enter the caucus with more votes than any of the other candidates, and having once got the lead, he hopes to keep it.

Ex-Governor Holiday Dead.

Ex-Governor Frederick William Mackay Holiday, of Virginia, died at his home in Winchester, Va., Tuesday, aged 71 years. He was a colonel in the Stonewall brigade and lost an arm at Slaughter's Mountain. Upon retiring from the service he was elected to the Confederate congress, in which he served until the end of the war.

Reina Mercedes Accepted.

The naval department Monday instructed the commandant of the navy yard at Norfolk to accept the Spanish prize, Reina Mercedes, from the Merritt and Chapman Wrecking company. Under the contract, they will receive $75,000 from the government in full of all demands for their services.

Stallings Wants Richardson for President

Representative Stallings, of Alabama, one of the foremost Southern members of congress, in a two-column signed article in the New York Journal Sunday morning, presents the name of James D. Richardson, of Tennessee, as the ideal Presidential candidate for 1900.

The Transfer Made.

News comes from New York to the effect that the formal transfer of the Birmingham Southern from the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company to the Southern and Louisville & Nashville railroads has been made, and the purchase money, $1,100,000, will be paid over on July 1.

A Rich Find.

Postmaster Peter J. Clark, of Pulaski, Tenn., while having a well bored on his farm struck coal at a depth of fifty-nine feet. The vein it 5 to 6 feet thick, and the coal burns freely in the grate.

The death of Commissioner D. M. Cowley created a vacancy in the county commissioners court of Jackson county which will be filled by appointment by Governor Johnston. There were several candidates for the place, but it is understood all have withdrawn in favor of Dr. W. H. Payne.

THE CHRONICLE

F. W. GIST, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

TURN ON THE LIGHT.

Little is being said now about the Montevallo school matter, and it is being intimated by each side that the other has backed down. This may or may not be true; but the people have not backed down from their position as interested spectators. Some ugly charges have been made by each side against the other, and the people are entitled to know which is occupying the correct position.

It was first charged that the deposition of Captain Reynolds was the result of political intrigue, and the facts seemed to bear out that theory. In rebuttal the trustees intimated that they had reasons for their action which, if made public, would be damaging to Captain Reynolds, and here the matter rests.

We took occasion last week to say that the situation demanded an investigation, and we still think so.

The trustees deposed Captain Reynolds in a manner that was discourteous, to say the least of it, and all the circumstances pointed to schemes of a political nature. It has been so charged, and in the absence of the real motive it will continue to be so regarded. If the motives hinted at exist the trustees should let them come out, and the verification should come with them.

The friends of Captain Reynolds seem to be perfectly ready for an investigation, and if he is innocent of any wrongdoing he is entitled to vindication. If he is guilty as a public officer he is amenable to public sentiment, which demands the facts.

Shelby County is interested. She gave material aid to the locating of the school in her territory, and she is entitled to know if her trust has been betrayed by one of her own people. If the trust has been kept the county deserves to have the name of her citizen freed from suspicion.

The town of Montevallo is at present bearing the odium of being filled with dissenters, and some of her people are laboring under the suspicion of being marplots. The town deserves to know the facts.

The State of Alabama is most interested. The interests of her daughters are at stake, and she ought for their sake to know whether her institutions are being used for political purposes.

Every interest involved demands the truth. We speak from an entirely disinterested standpoint when we say, Turn on the light.

We beg to congratulate the county on the increase in the number of convictions and the size of the fines manifested at the last term of the county court, and especially in the matter of illicit whisky selling. There are too few convictions yet by far, but the increase is encouraging. It is high time that the bold and open violation of law were stopped, and we are glad to see our juries waking up to this fact. A few heavy fines, supplemented by imprisonment from the court, will soon show good results.

Dr. Eager has promised to give his church a decision next Sunday as to whether he will accept the presidency of the Girls' School. We hope he will not accept. We gave our reasons for this last week. In the opinions expressed then we are supported by some of Dr. Eager's most ardent admirers. Those loudest in their protestations against his acceptance are men of his own denomination. They know his true worth in his own proper sphere, and knowing the latter they demand that he stay in it. It will be best for him, best for the school and best for his church that he decline. We hope he will do so.

Columbiana was highly honored by the visit of the good ladies of the missionary society the past week. They were a body of bright and good women, and such always leave a hallowed influence where they go. All who attended their meetings were benefitted; all who came in contact with them will have a kindly remembrance of them. The influence of a good woman is as powerful for weal as is that of a bad woman for woe. All those who were with us are good. Their visit has left our ladies much encouraged and our men touched to the heart by that unseen spirit which hovers over the pathway of virtue and truth. We will love our own wives better because we know more of the good they are helping other wives and daughters to do.

We notice in a clipping from the Clayton Record the following paragraph:

> The Record has it from reliable information that Governor Johnston knew nothing about the contemplated change, and had no hand in deposing Captain Reynolds. Neither were any of the newly appointed trustees, "creatures of his making," present on the occasion of the change.

The Record is very much misinformed. The Governor had a great deal to do with deposing Captain Reynolds, whether premeditated or not. Of the four votes which Dr. Eager received, the Governor cast one; Rev. O. P. Fitzsimmons, a newly appointed trustee, cast one; Senator Thompson, also a newly appointed trustee, cast one. This leads us to believe that the Governor and the "creatures of his making," who were on hand, had a great deal to do with making the change. Whether they had good cause for their action remains for them to show by proving the charges they have hinted at against Captain Reynolds.

LET INTOLERANCE STOP.

The Montgomery Journal these days has some wonderful communications in it. In one of these we find someone saying that none should be recognized as Democrats who do not actually believe in the Chicago platform, and that none should be nominated for office who do not believe likewise. The following is a sample of this political lawgiver's utterances:

> The fact that, under constraint, and from selfish motives, they may have voted for Mr. Bryan's electors, will not justify the party in supporting them. The time has arrived when men who do not approve of the Chicago platform, which is the last announcement of Democratic policies should not be recognized as Democrats, and still less should they be voted for to fill offices in our country.

Begging pardon for the harsh expression, the man who wrote that is either a fool or a demagogue; it is sometimes hard to distinguish the difference. We can conceive of no higher type of Democrat than the men who voted for Bryan, while differing in opinion with him, because he was the nominee of their party, and they are certainly better Democrats than the man who would, for the mere sake of one national issue, yield his party's interests into the keeping of its avowed enemies.

The free coinage of silver is but a policy of the party—not a principle—and the man who supports it because it is a policy of his party is still a Democrat, though he still does not believe in it. He can be ostracised only when he refuses to yield to the majority of his fellow Democrats.

If the above proposition were true all the Populists in the State of Alabama would be entitled to come into the Democratic party, control its councils and name its candidates, simply because they believe in free silver, while men who do not believe in it must stand aside, although they have supported every action of their party, nolens volens.

The Chronicle yields to none in its fidelity to the cause of silver, and none believes more strongly that it is right and good for the country, but we want to be understood as denouncing any such proscriptive doctrine as the above contains. We believe that free silver is Democratic, because the party has adopted it as a policy; but we do not believe that it is the whole of Democracy, and we are fast losing patience with men who measure the purity of Democratic faith by the amount of silver in a dollar. If such foolishness is to characterize the control of the party it will have few followers ere long. We can subscribe to no rule of faith that, followed out, will make the man who believes in one single policy but votes against them all as good a Democrat as he who believes in all but one and votes for all. For ourselves, we believe it all and vote for all; but we cannot subscribe to a species of intolerance which shuts out the bravest and truest and lets in the cowards whose only right rests in the profession of a single faith, but who remain true to none.

A letter from Latham, Alexander & Co., New York, gives a comparative statement of the cotton acreage for this year as compared to last. This statement shows that there are 2,466,000 acres less in cotton this season than last. For Alabama the figures are: Acreage in 1898, 2,879,000; for 1899, 2,591,060; decrease, 10 per cent. The following is an extract from the letter:

> The total estimated decrease in cotton acreage in the United States for 1899 is 10 4-10 per cent or 2,466,060 acres less than last year, and the average planting of the crop is about 2 weeks later than last year.
>
> Our correspondents report that the reduction in the acreage has been brought about by the low price of cotton, reluctance of commission merchants to make as liberal advances to the planters as formerly, and the increase in acreage in tobacco, wheat and corn.
>
> In Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, owing to the continued drought and defective seed, much complaint exists of poor stands causing much replanting, and of late planting not coming up.
>
> In Arkansas and portions of Texas there are complaints of too much rain causing a grassy condition, and considerable damage from worms.
>
> Our correspondents also report a large reduction in the use of fertilizers; viz: 26 per cent in Alabama, 25 per cent in Florida, 30 per cent in Georgia, 25 per cent in North Carolina, and 30 per cent in South Carolina.

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

By Mrs. F. W. Gist.

METHODIST MISSIONARY.

The district conference meeting which closed here on Monday last was altogether one of the most interesting and edifying bodies of women that has met in Columbiana for many years. Columbiana is sadly in need of the association and comradeship of such women as these consecrated, intelligent representatives of foreign mission work. There is no calculating the fruit that may come from the seeds sown at this meeting. It has broken down barriers hitherto built up by prejudice and conservative training, a prejudice that has long retarded the expanding and building up of christian work and mission work in many communities. There is nothing that stings or cuts so deep and stifles a woman's inclination to extend her religious duties as the jeers and ridicule of a man or set of men. Columbiana is unfortunate in that it contains both men and women of such conservative ideas that it is almost dangerous for a woman, no matter what her education, intelligence, or consecration might prompt, to make an utterance or read a paper before a public audience. Or if she does she must defy the local sentiment and ignore the ridicule and criticism that must follow.

The good women of the M. E. Church South who met here last week, coming into our midst and into the homes entirely ignorant of an opposing undercurrent, plied their way into the hearts of the people with their intellectual gifts, their prayers and earnest demeanor, and all in such womanly gracefulness that we believe many were won to the cause of foreign mission work.

Mrs. Carrie Brandon, who delivered such an able address on Sunday night, is a woman who commands the highest respect, reverance and love of the North Alabama Conference. She represents the Foreign Board of missions of the M. E. Church South, and has been corresponding secretary of the North Alabama Conference society for twenty years, beginning the work as a young matron with family cares and young children around her knees. As to the interesting family she has reared it is scarcely necessary to speak, as the people of the State know the facts. By the grace of God and perseverance in the duties that have confronted her she stands to-day transformed from the timid creature at beginning to one of the ablest and most eloquent of women. For such as her there should be no jeers, but only praise. To emulate such a life should be the highest aspiration of womankind. Twenty-five years ago Mrs. Brandon was a citizen of Columbiana, which made her all the more welcome and the people here all the more proud of her as a guest and a leader in the cause of missions.

The local society here, which already sends out splendid reports, will no doubt be stimulated by this meeting to do better work.

To the children of the Columbiana Juvenile Society we wish especially to say words of praise and encouragement. The most interesting of the series of entertainments was that given by the children. The delegates spoke in the highest terms of it, and were pleased beyond expression. Mrs. T. J. Weaver was manager, and with the untiring efforts of Mrs. S. N. Burns had them thoroughly drilled in their various parts. Misses Pauline Nelson and Lanais Brand deserve special mention, but little Braddie Browne and Clarice White bore off the palm. The committee on music did their part excellently and enjoy the gratitude of their community.

As we return to our homes we go inspired with new faith and hope and new information and impressions as to woman's duty to her sister heathen.

Miss Ida Blake, a most charming and intelligent young woman of Talladega, was a delegate, and added much interest to the occasion. Her address on Saturday afternoon covered a great deal of ground, as she gave an account of the work and conditions of the natives in China, Korea, Mexico, Brazil, Indian territory, and Cuba. She emphasized the great work being done by the Students' Volunteer movement, whose broad motto is the evangelization of the whole world in this generation. Miss Blake is not only a good missionary girl, but is a club woman also, who enjoys distinction in the State Federation. We predict for her a brilliant and useful career.

Among the interesting visitors were Rev. W. K. Simpson and wife, of Oxford. Mr. Simpson was chaplain of the Fifth Volunteer Infantry, and both he and his wife gave interesting accounts of conditions in Cuba and the mission work they begun there. Mrs. Simpson delighted her hearers on several occasions with well-rendered solos.

The following statistics show the success that has attended the work and prayers of these missionary women. Reports at the annual meeting in Nashville last week show that they occupy in foreign fields 22 stations; have 58 missionaries; 159 converted native helpers; 14 boarding schools; 62 day schools; 4,320 pupils; 56 Bible women 114 scholarships; two Bible colleges, and three hospitals. They have had 87 missionaries, and out of that number only three have died, a strong evidence that the divine hand is guiding and protecting them. Total receipts for the past fiscal year were $129,708.82. The Board owns property to the value of $388,729.79. They have 34 conference societies; 270 districts; 3,543 auxiliaries; 72,312 members; four kindergartens, and two pedagogues.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the Alabama Fertilizer. The only objection ever raised to the Alabama Fertilizer was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the Alabama Fertilizer will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mississippi Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the perfect preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of Alabama Fertilizer.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 789 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4.75 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

GERMAN BAPTIST BRETHREN.

WEEKLY 50 CENTS A YEAR.

ADVERTISER.

(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)

CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover, has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better than it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

Columbiana was treated to an entertainment Monday night, the like of which our people have rarely ever enjoyed. Ralph Bingham, the celebrated impersonater, humorist, and musician, gave a performance at the academy for an hour and a half, all of which time he kept his audience delighted. His humor was side splitting, his pathos brought tears, and his music thrilled. His selections were most happily made, and perfectly rendered. To Miss Myrtle Swain, who played his accompaments, was due much of his success. The performance was under the management of Rev. W. I. Smoott, who engaged him for the benefit of the Presbyterian church. Our pleasure seekers ought to be provided with such entertainment more frequently.

Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well is an old saying. Therefore, take Simmons Liver Regulator for biliousness, constipation, sick headache, indigestion and all stomach and liver diseases, and the work of restoring your health will be thoroughly well done. As you value your health refuse to take anything in place of Simmons Liver Regulator. Bear in mind that every package of Simmons Liver Regulator has the word Regulator on the front.

MISSIONARY WOMEN.

Society of Talladega District in Session Here.

The Talladega district conference of the Womans' Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church South was in session here for three days the past week, and their stay was greatly enjoyed by the delegates and by the town.

The delegates were greeted on Friday night by an entertainment by the Columbiana Juvenile Society, comprising a very interesting programme, which was exceedingly well rendered.

Saturday morning the conference was called to order by Mrs. Carrie Brandon, who conducted the religious exercises.

Mrs. T. J. Harrison, the corresponding secretary of the Talladega district, took charge of the meeting, and Miss Ida Blake, of Talladega, was elected recording secretary.

The following delegates were enrolled:

AUXILIARIES.

Talladega—Mrs. V. O. Hawkins.
Columbiana—Mrs. T. J. Weaver.
Weavers Station—Miss Mattie Watson.
Jacksonville—Mrs. Carrie Brandon.
Oxford—Miss Myra Gunnells.
Alexandria—Miss Mary Lyles.

JUVENILES.

Talladega—Mary Hicks.
Oxford—George Pierce.
Talladega Young Peoples' Society—Miss Ida Blake.
Childersburg Young People—Mrs. M. L. Butler.
Columbiana—Pauline Nelson.

Mesdames W. K. Simpson and J. W. Newman were presented to the meeting. The latter is an officer of the North Alabama Conference Society.

Reports were filed from the various societies represented, all of which were indicative of good work since the last meeting.

Mrs. Brandon then presented the claims of the Woman's Missionary Advocate, the official organ of the Society, and of The Little Worker for the juveniles. Miss Mary Lyles was appointed the agent of the latter paper.

The hour of adjournment was fixed at 11.30, and the morning session was closed with devotional exercises.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. W. K. Simpson.

Mrs. Harrison gave a most encouraging report from the entire district.

The following pledges were made:

Talladega Auxiliary	$30 00
Talladega Young People	15 00
Talladega Juveniles	20 00
Columbiana Auxiliary	20 00
Columbiana Juveniles	20 00
Jacksonville Auxiliary	20 00
Oxford Auxiliary	25 00
Oxford Juveniles	10 00
Weavers Station	5 00
Alexandria	5 00
	170 00

The following papers were read before the society:

On Cuba and on Our Mission Work in Cuba, by Mrs. W. K. Simpson.

Our Mission Work, by Miss Ida Blake.

A talk about the field by Mrs. Brandon was listened to with much appreciation, and the session was closed with song and prayer.

Resolved 1, That the thanks of the Talladega District Foreign Missionary Society is hereby extended to Rev. S. N. Burns for his earnest words and kind cooperation; to the local Society for their untiring efforts in behalf of these meetings; to Mr. Simpson who so delightfully entertained us with his lecture last evening; to Mr. Parker and Mr. Elliott for courtesies received.

Resolved 2, We heartily appreciate the soul-stirring music the choir has so beautifully rendered; also we congratulate the lady manager and the Juveniles on the success of their entertainment.

Resolved 3, Our sincerest thanks we extend for the cordial hospitalities and charming courtesies which have been ours in the pleasant homes of Columbiana.

On Saturday night a large audience was entertained by Rev. W. K. Simpson in a lecture on Cuba. This gentleman was chaplain of the Fifth United States Volunteer Infantry, (Immunes,) and he spoke from a personal knowledge of conditions on the island. His remarks were illustrated by stereoptican views taken from the island. The audience received much of instruction and pleasure from this lecture.

Sunday at 11 o'clock Rev. S. N. Burns preached an interesting sermon to the ladies, which was enjoyed by all. He spoke of woman's work from a Bible point of view, and discovered much of encouragement from the Word for the ladies.

Sunday afternoon a lovefeast was held, at which a genuine spirit of good feeling prevailed.

Sunday night Mrs. Brandon delivered an address on the subject of the mission work of the ladies generally. She gave a history of the formation of the woman's board, and explained the system on which it is operated. Mrs. Brandon is a fluent speaker, and her audience was delighted with her. At the close of her address a donation was asked of the audience, who responded with $35.

An informal reception was tendered the ladies at the close of the service, and those present took advantage of the occasion to express their appreciation of the visit of those good ladies.

Monday morning at 10 o'clock a short service was held at the church, which was not at all the least interesting of the services.

Shown Through a Bank.

A few days since it was our pleasure to be shown through the bank of Gordon DuBose, and everything except the private affairs of the customers were explained to us. We have never seen such a simple and complete method of book-keeping in use anywhere; at any moment the status of any account is apparent without the tedious process of adding credits and then adding debits and subtracting one from the other. Under the system used by Mr. DuBose every account in the bank is balanced every day, and this without any trouble whatever. We were shown the general statement for every day in the year, and it is certainly wonderful how the needs of such a large number of customers are supplied with such slight fluctuations in the figures. It was quite interesting to us to trace the loans; as deposits go up, loans go up; and as deposits go down, loans go down, leaving the cash on hand practically the same. We were particularly struck with the large cash reserve carried continually as shown by the statements. Mr. DuBose certainly has his business reduced to a science. If every business man in the county could see the methods pursued and the automatic perfection of the management of this bank, we doubt if any Shelby County business would go to banks out of the county. We feel very proud of having such an institution in the county.

If anyone said you could be easily cheated you'd resent it with all your might, yet that's just what the druggist tells you when he sells you a substitute for Simmons Liver Regulator. When you ask for Simmons Liver Regulator, depend upon yourself, and not on what the druggist tells you. See that the word Regulator is on the package and you will be certain you are getting Simmons Liver Regulator. Nothing else is the same.

Attention Teachers.

I will hold the first examination of teachers under the new law at the college in the city of Columbiana, on Monday, June 5, 1899. Two rooms with connecting doors will be used, and at 10 o'clock a. m. in the presence of the applicants, I will break the seal of the package containing the questions furnished me by the State board of examiners. I will have with me a full supply of stationery, paper, pens and ink, to furnish applicants at a reasonable price. No applicant will be allowed to enter the class without first having supplied themselves with stationery as required by law, and have deposited with me fees as follows: For third grade one dollar; second grade one dollar and fifty cents; first grade two dollars; life certificate two dollars. These fees must be paid before entering the class in every case. No credit whatever will be allowed.

Strangers must bring written proof that they are of good, moral character before attempting to enter the class. No applicant will be allowed to sit near enough to another to read his papers or receive assistance from him, and any applicant, procures assistance from any source, while being examined, will have violated the rules and will be reported to the State board of examiners.

Teachers who have filed contracts in my office, previous to April 13, 1899, for summer schools can finish their terms without examination, provided their schools are taught out before October 1, 1899.

The singing at Union last Sunday was fine. Such a treat we have not had in a long time. People began gathering early in the morning and continued till 12 o'clock. Singing was opened about 9.30 by singing one song, after which Rev. B. C. Hughes led the congregation in prayer. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves. Every beat in Shelby County was represented, Columbiana, Wilsonville, Harpersville, Sterrett, Vincent and Creswell were all represented. We thank those people of our sister towns for their aid in our singing convention and hope all who are not members may become members.

Weldon News.

The singing convention was largely attended, fully 2,000 people were present, the house would not accommodate half the crowd. The music was especially fine, it was worth journeying many miles to hear. There was quite a number of towns represented. From Columbiana we noticed Philip Erlick, Walter Lester, B. W. Brand and his three charming daughters; from Fourmile, David Spearman and family, L. B. Riddle, W. C. Powell, A. A. Acker; from Creswell, D. W. Rayfield and family, J. W. Spradley, E. E. and J. M. Wallace. There was quite a number of people present from Wilsonville, Sterrett, Vandiver and other places. Miss Lanna Blanchard, of Sycamore, attended the convention. R. E. Cosper and family, J. R. Dyke, G. P. Cosper, Jim Payton and Misses Maud Byers, Belle Falkner and Leila Turner were also present. A. C. Wilder and wife, of Vincent, were present. The directors were Messrs. W. A. Weldon, J. T. J. Wilder, J. M. Dye, J. W. Shaw, D. W. Rayfield, Amos Acker, R. J. Moore, B. W. Brand, W. A. Wilder, T. A. Blackerby, W. H. Gilbert and G. H. Weldon. The organists were Misses Mary and Alice Weldon, Nancy and Ola Dye, Alma Brand, Miss Rayfield and Mr. John M. Dye. Professor Weldon makes a splendid presiding officer. There was a large crowd present and everyone seemed to have enjoyed themselves finely. The dinner was fine indeed. The good people of Weldon are noted for their hospitality and on this occasion they did themselves credit. All honor to the good people of Weldon; many good things could be said, but space will forbid. The convention adjourned to meet at Campbranch on July 20-23.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents or one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, if you send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in THE CHRONICLE.

BURIAL OF KAIULANI.

SEVEN DAYS OF WEIRD MOURNING OVER HAWAII'S PRINCESS.

Old Customs Revived — A Waving of Plumes and Chanting of Lamentations Over the Casket—Midnight Removal of the Body—Hearse Drawn by Natives.

The remains of Princess Kaiulani now rest in the tomb in Hawaii, where lie the bodies of all the Kamehamehas, except the great Kamehameha, who was buried, like Moses, no man knows where. The funeral took place on Sunday and fully 25,000 people attended it. It is Hawaii's superstition that the death of a member of the royal family is accompanied by the severest rainfall of the year. The conditions attending the death and burial of Kaiulani bore out the superstition. The rain began falling in torrents after she died and continued until after she was buried. The hours of the funeral, however, were bright and clear.

All that the military and civic pomp of civilization could add to the strange old Hawaiian funeral customs went to make the ceremony one not easily forgotten. For nearly seven days there was not an instant when some ceremony was not in progress. Soon after her death kahili bearers began waving royal kahilis or feather plumes over her body. Every bearer, whether a man or a woman, wore the yellow feather cape, which was a sign of Hawaiian royalty. The bearers stood rigidly erect and the waving of the plumes was done according to a formula from which it was a point of honor not to vary. At the beginning each bearer held his kahili in the "Carry arms!" position. At a signal the kahilis were extended in a horizontal position till they touched tips with those on the opposite side of the casket. Each bearer then waved his kahili to the right, then to the left, repeating each motion, and then holding the plumes aloft, finally returning to the first position again. During the week several kahili bearers fainted from sheer exhaustion.

The body lay in state at Ainahau until the Friday preceding the funeral and was then removed to the Kawaialias church. The ceremony of removal was weird. It took place in the middle of the night. The sky was heavily overcast and threatened rain. Kahili bearers walked beside the hearse, waving aloft torches made of oily kukui nuts, spitted on bamboo poles. Following the hearse came members of the royal family in carriages, then friends, old servants and retainers. Among the last were many Mele women, who hand down from generation to generation the historical chants reciting the valor, great deeds and history of the Hawaiian people. They wailed and chanted throughout the journey to the church. Others wailed in cadence, while some of the old servants broke out in lamentations and expressions of personal grief. The darkness, the weird light of torches, the absence of the constraining presence of the white man and the white man's customs, revived in many of the old Hawaiians thoughts and feelings of earlier days, and they broke into hula hula songs and dances according to the ancient custom, which has latterly fallen into disuse since the hula has become discredited.

At the church, a short service was held and finished at 2 o'clock in the morning. The church decorations were in sympathy with the customs on such occasions.

Throughout Saturday rain fell in torrents, but the remains were viewed by thousands. After the funeral the quiet of the scene was broken by chants or by wailing and lamentations of old servants of the princess, who recited incidents of her life. Their words were extemporaneous, spoken in a chanting, melodious way, sometimes accompanied by a swaying of the body, which was kept up until the speakers dropped from sheer physical exhaustion.

The services on Sunday were those of the Anglican church. The funeral procession was led by the marshal of the republic, A. H. Brown, his deputies and a company of mounted police. Then followed members of the royal family, civil officials, foreign consuls, representatives of societies and the clergy, including the Catholic bishop. The hearse was drawn by 230 natives, uniformed in white trousers, blue sweaters, white hats and blue and yellow cloth capes. From the church to the tomb is two miles, but the entire distance was lined with spectators. The services at the tomb were very simple. The coffin was placed next to that containing the body of Princess Likelike, Kaiulani's mother, and near that of Kalakaua.

Unuttered Thoughts.

No man or woman who snores will ever believe it.

Many an individual who has saved another's life has not been able to save a cent.

You never hear anything about a person's virtues, so long as one vice is apparent.

Some one says that the cause of many unhappy marriages is that men will go on proposing when they expect to be refused.

A woman is never so pleased that it storms as when her new frock has failed to come home, and she couldn't have worn it, anyway.

Listeners never hear any good of themselves, but hear a lot of bad about other persons. Sorrow makes the eyes red, the hair white, and the feelings blue—in fact, it is quite a national affliction.—New York World.

Achill Island Now Accessible.

Achill, a little island off the Atlantic coast of Ireland, was once one of the loneliest spots on the map. The current in the channel that separated it from the mainland was so swift that few dared to navigate it. A bridge has been built across the channel and a railroad now connects Achill with the mainland, redeeming the island from its isolation. A telegraph station has just been opened in Dugort, the town at the extreme end of the island, which has become a deservedly popular resort for tourists.

"BY-PRODUCTS."

How Chemists and Other Ingenious Persons Make Use of Waste.

To such an extent has the utilization of by-products been carried in the stockyards of Chicago that now the only waste in a steer is the gastric juice, and what was formerly the waste is now worth more than the meat. The horns go into knife handles or backs for combs. The white hoofs are sent abroad to return as ivory, while the black hoofs become handles for knives and canes and are made into a dozen other things, the soft internal parts being resolved into jellies and candies.

From the bones are produced piano keys, dice and bone-black. Glue, gelatine, neat's-foot oil, and an imitation whalebone are made from the sinews. The clarified blood is taken by the sugar refiners, while the rest of it becomes buttons and fertilizers. The intestines serve as casings for sausage, and the bladders as cases for snuff. The tail tuft is an insignificant part of the animal, but when steamed, dried and washed it becomes a curled hair that sells readily. As a result of this care and economy, the financial returns from a steer, as estimated by one in the business, are: From the meats and compounds of meat, $40; from the hide, hair, horns and hoofs, $25; from the fats, blood, sinews and bones, $15; from all other waste, $15, or $55 received from the by-products.

But not alone in the stockyards are by-products carefully husbanded. Many large industrial corporations employ chemists to search for by-products with a view to increased profits and reduced waste. The production of alcohol from waste molasses is well known, and the recent conversion of pig-iron slag into cement has been noted. To these may be added tiling made from crushed tree bark, acids from plum and peach pits, jellies and an inferior kind of champagne from apple cores, prussiate of potash from castaway shoes, carbonic acid gas generated in the processes of beer making, and window weights from the iron recovered from tin cans.

More notable, perhaps, are some products from corn. Indian maize contains a kernel in which there is a yellow germ. Under chemical treatment this germ yields an oil which, when refined, is a competitor with cotton seed oil in the substitution for olive oil, and which may be vulcanized and made to do duty as rubber. What are called rubber boots and shoes are being made from this imitation rubber at a cost far below that of the genuine article.—The Manufacturer.

A Poison Bottle Wanted.

The Chemist and Druggist, we learn, has actually offered a five-guinea prize for a good tell-tale poison bottle, and has received many valuable suggestions in reply. One of them is that the neck should be at right angles to the body of the bottle, instead of in a line with it. This idea also reaches us from another quarter. Another, of a more fanciful kind, is that the user should be warned off by a death's head and cross-bones of the poison label. But the main thing is the appeal to other senses than that of sight. The bottle must be able to signal "poison" in the darkness. One ingenious person, as we showed the other day, proposed to appeal to the sense of hearing by means of a sort of musical cork. The senses of taste and smell, of course, are out of the question. The sense of touch remains, and this or nothing can be our safeguard. This sense may be simulated by differences of form in the bottle or by differences of texture. One competitor for the prize suggests strips of sandpaper pasted on the sides. But while he is about it, why not have the roughness in the texture of the bottle itself, and combine the two safeguards in a triangular bottle with "toothed" edges? If anything further is wanted, put the neck at right angles, as aforesaid. Any person who persisted in the abuse of the bottle in spite of these precautions ought to be brought under the habitual inebriates act.—London News.

Health in the Navy.

Good order and discipline, the cleanliness of the ship—nothing, not even the daintiest of summer cottages, is more clean than a well-ordered American warship—were maintained at the camp throughout its entire occupancy by the battalion, and the fact that, although exposed to a malarious climate in the torrid atmosphere of a tropical summer, at a spot located but a few score miles from where our poor fellows of the army were succumbing by hundreds in the fever-laden air, the entire loss of life in the marine battalion was due to the casualties of battle—not one man died of disease—shows what can be done by well-regulated and well-drilled organization in all departments of a military body. There was no lack of medical or other necessities; nothing essential to the efficiency of the force as a fighting body, to its health, to the protection of the men from adverse conditions of life in the field during the rainy season of the tropics, had been neglected or forgotten; and while it is true that the base of supply was close at hand and the problem of transportation inland from the water's edge did not have to be met, it is safe to assume from the admirable order and system displayed, that any such difficulties presented would have been overcome.—Harper's.

The South Pole.

L'Eclair of Paris recently published an elaborate article, "tres documente," signed Dagoubert and concerning itself with the discovery of the south pole. According to Dagoubert the region about the pole is inhabited and organized as a kingdom, having the name of "L'Etat d'Adelie." It is said to contain 100,000 inhabitants, of whom 60,000 are French and 40,000 are Paupuans. A traveler who, Dagoubert says, happened to reach this country of the south pole, has lately arrived in Paris. He is about to apply to the ministry and proposes a protectorate of the country and a subsidy for it of $8,000,000 a year. There is said to be much gold in the country, which is jealously guarded by the inhabitants. Some notice is being paid M. Dagoubert by scientific men, and he is likely, it is said, to attract as much attention in Paris as Louis de Rougemont and his Australian tales did in London.—London Times.

AN ODD DEPOSITOR.

His Methods Fooled the Man Who Stood Behind the Desk.

The cashier of a thriving bank in a big western town was doing the talking.

"When I began my career in the banking business," he said, "it was in an old established bank in an Ohio city to which my father had been elected president. We didn't live in the town until his election and moved there when he took charge. After about six months' experience I was made assistant receiving teller, and between that and my youth, and the fact that my father was president, I guess I was about four sizes too large for the earth. But I got over it, and one day when there was a lull and the receiving teller had gone across the street to look after a check that he had taken I popped up to the window and took my first lesson. A rough-looking old fellow came in that I thought was a farmer from Hayville. He came straight for me, and said that he wanted to deposit some money. It wasn't my business to undertake a new customer, but I thought I knew it all, and began to talk to him. He said he wanted to deposit a cent that day, but had more. Well, I gave him the ha ha then and there, and told him to run around to the Dime Savings Bank and become a depositor on the installment plan. I also said some more funny things, and after I had had all the fun there was he said that while he wished to deposit only a cent that day, he would put in two cents next day, and four next, and so on for four weeks. I gave him the laugh again and told him we really couldn't do a small business like that, and he must be a good boy and run along to the penny ante bank around the corner. Then he went away and I was still laughing when the receiving teller came back.

"I told him what was making me smile and he looked at me kind of funny, I thought, and went to figuring on a sheet of paper without further comment. Presently he handed the paper over to me. 'That old fellow,' he said, is a millionaire, whose business we have been after for a year. Those figures will show you that what you consider is a penny ante bank business would have amounted to something over $210,000 in four weeks or twenty-four banking days, during which he wished to deposit his money. He's a crank, but he's got the cash, all the same, and we want him. Just what effect your able funny business has had upon him I can't say, but suppose you go and talk to your father about it, or do you want me to report it to the cashier and let him see the president?'

"I had cold chills and collapse and a lot more things during the next five minutes, and then I mustered up courage and went to my father with the story. He promptly reduced me to the ranks and cut my salary 10 per cent., and I learned a whole lot in the next six months, by which time we had the old fellow all right, and I was made assistant again, but I wasn't the same kind of a one by a good deal.'—Washington Star.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

The expert in handwriting had made a number of very interesting and convincing demonstrations with a piece of chalk on the blackboard. He would flourish a few lines and then stand back and describe them, and the jury was profoundly impressed.

"This," he said, holding a piece of paper out before him in his left hand, while with his right he made passes in front of the blackboard so as to get a running start, "is the handwriting of a person who is not used to handling a pen; not necessarily an uneducated person. It might be one who had been so much in the habit of dictating all correspondence that his handwriting failed to settle into any permanent style or had drifted into unsteadiness through lack of practice."

The testimony did not have any particular bearing on the case, but the jury looked at one another and the spectators nodded their heads significantly.

"The weakness of the upward strokes especially indicate that this is the handwriting of one who is not accustomed to clerical labor, while the intelligence is shown in punctuation."

"May the court please," exclaimed a man who had been on the witness stand a short time before, and who had been fumbling through his pockets.

The expert paused and everybody turned to look at the man who had made the interruption.

"May it please the court," he repeated, with much embarrassment, there is a mistake here. The expert has been testifying as to handwriting."

"Of course," said the expert. "That is what I am here for."

"Well, the paper he has been talking about is not the one I meant to hand to the prosecuting attorney. I got the documents confused, somehow, and what he has is a letter from an old friend of mine—a man whom I met long ago when I was in the dime museum business. He writes to me very frequently to let me know how he is getting along. He was the armless phenomenon. Judge, your honor, that ain't handwriting at all. It's footwriting."

Wonderful Food Condensation.

A retired officer of the British Royal artillery is reported to have invented a new food which is thought to offer inestimable advantages for purposes of military and naval sustentation. The new food has been subjected to the severest tests, and it is declared by experts that it has succeeded in the very point wherein all other condensed foods have failed—the preservation of the flavor as well as the food qualities of the original article. Eggs, meat, fish and vegetables have all been successfully treated. Fifty-three pounds of this food, occupying one cubic foot of space, is equal to the carcasses of 13 1-2 sheep. Thus a 6000-ton vessel could carry the equivalent of 324,000,000 pounds of meat, or rations enough for the whole population of the British Isles for eight days. The war office, which is taking up the invention, preserves the strictest secrecy as to the methods of condensation employed.

Gold Deposits in the Philippines.

At this distance and with the slight exploratory work which has been carried on in the Philippine Islands, the minerals that can be profitably exported are best known. Mr. George F. Becker, in his recent investigation has given a very clear view of the present mineral exploration in the Philippines, and is shown that gold is found in a great number of localities in the archipelago, from northern Luzon to central Mindanao. In most cases the gold is detrital, and is found either in exisiting water-courses or in deposits now deserted by the current. It is said that in Mindanao some of the gravels are in an elevated position and adapted to hydraulic mining. There are no data at hand which indicate decisively the value, of any of the placers, but the fact that they are washed largely with cocoanut shells for pans by the natives is an indication of either rich deposits or quite coarse gold. In the province of Abra, at the northern end of Luzon, there are placers, and the river Abra itself yields auriferous gravel. In Le Planto there are gold quartz viens as well as gravels, and here also is the best developed deposit of copper ores, although these are also reported from a great number of localities on the islands of Luzon, Mindoro, Capul, Masbate, Panay and Mindanao. This last island is practically unexplored and full of possibilities.

The Hindu Idea of Religion.

I met in India an intelligent Sikh from the Punjab and asked him about his religion. He replied: "I believe in one God, and I repeat my prayers, called Japji, every morning and evening. These prayers occupy six pages of print, but I can get through them in a little more than ten minutes." He seemed to pride himself on this rapid recitation as a work of increased merit. I said, "What else does your religion require of you?" He replied, "I have made one pilgrimage to a holy well near Amritsar. Eighty-five steps lead down to it. I descended and bathed in the sacred pool. Then I ascended one step and repeated my Japji in about ten minutes. Then I descended again to the pool and bathed again, and ascended to the second step, and repeated my Japji a second time. Then I descended a third time and bathed, and ascended to the third step and repeated my Japji a third time; and so on for the whole eighty-five steps, eighty-five bathings and eighty-five repetitions of the same prayers. It took me exactly fourteen hours, from 5 p. m. one evening to 7 a. m. next morning." I asked, "What good did you expect to get by going through this task?" He replied, "I hope I have laid up a great store of merit, which will last me a long time." This is the genuine Hindu idea.—Sir Monier Williams.

A Small Dog's Battle With a Cactus.

Otto Kleeman, who lives on Belmont street, recently acquired a beautiful cactus, which he established in his house, unmindful of the fact that his dog held the opinion that his master should have no other pets before him. Now he has no cactus and the dejected semblance of a dog. The little animal espied the plant soon after its arrival and issued a challenge. In default of acceptance he gave battle, but retired at the first shock to reconsider. The enemy had more teeth than a battalion of bull-terriers, and all of them were newly sharpened. He was no quitter, however, and, with a rising anger, he renewed the attack. This time his opponent came down, landing on him heavily, and with the touch of a barb-wire fence. The two rolled over and over in a death embrace, and the cactus was finally vanquished, torn into shreds and scattered about the room. But it was a costly victory. The conqueror is punctured in more places than his owner can count. He may live to fight another day, but it will not be with a cactus.—Oregonian.

Chess Game Lasting Five Years.

Probably the longest game of chess ever known was that played between a man living in Australia and a friend in Newark, N. Y. Each move was made by letter, one player making use of the Europe and Suez canal route and the other writing via the Pacific ocean and San Francisco. Five years elapsed before the game was drawn to a close. Another similar record in chess playing was a correspondence game which took place recently between several Germans living in New York and a chess club in Bremen, Germany. The game terminated in February last year with a victory for the New York players, having lasted a period of two years and five months.

Mrs. Hoffman Describes How She Wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for Advice, and Is Now Well.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before using your Vegetable Compound I was a great sufferer. I have been sick for months, was troubled with severe pain in both sides of abdomen, sore feeling in lower part of bowels, also suffered with dizziness, headache, and could not sleep. I wrote you a letter describing my case and asking your advice. You replied telling me just what to do. I followed your directions, and cannot praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me. Many thanks to you for your advice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me, and I will recommend it to my friends.—Mrs. FLORENCE R. HOFFMAN, 512 Roland St., Canton, O.

The condition described by Mrs. Hoffman will appeal to many women, yet lots of sick women struggle on with their daily tasks disregarding the urgent warnings until overtaken by actual collapse.

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and for sometimes past has had sole charge of the correspondence department of her great business, treating by letter as many as a hundred thousand ailing women during a single year.

CRIME NEAR BLOCTON.

Mrs. Hubbard Brutally Murdered by a Discharged Negro.

POSSE SEARCHING FOR THE MURDERER.

A Crime Which May Cause the Citizens of Bibb County to Wreak Vengeance of the Sam Hose Stripe—Mr. Hubbard in a Serious Condition.

A crime that may arouse a community to wreak vengeance of the Sam Hose kind was committed in Bibb county, twelve miles from Blocton, Ala., Monday morning. An innocent white woman was shot to death, and armed bodies of determined looking men are scouring the woods in quest of Bud Hargrove and Alex Hill, one of whom fired the shot that felled Mrs. Hester Hubbard to the floor of her own home a corpse.

Mrs. Hubbard was the wife of Rufus Hubbard, a respected and prosperous farmer. Mr. Hubbard was also seriously wounded by the negroes and may die. The motive of the double crime was revenge.

Until a few days ago Hargrove and Hill were employed as farm laborers by Mr. Hubbard. For a good cause they were discharged. They swore vengeance at the time and went about the neighborhood making ugly remarks. This came to the ears of Mr. Hubbard, but he thought nothing of it; at least he did not accept the talk seriously.

Monday morning the negroes came to his house and opened a dispute about their pay. They claimed more was due them. Mr. Hubbard was standing in the front door and Mrs. Hubbard was in the rear of the room. Mr. Hubbard refused a second time to accede to their demands and the negroes fired on him. Mrs. Hubbard ran to the door, it is supposed, in an attempt to stop the difficulty. Heedless of the woman, the negroes fired another volley. The poor woman screamed for help once.

A bullet went crashing through her brain, and she fell backwards to the floor, her head striking the cradle, which held her four-weeks'-old baby.

Mr. Hubbard had already been wounded, and with difficulty he crawled to the body of his dead wife. Their two little daughters ran screaming from the house to notify the neighbors.

When help arrived Mr. Hubbard had fainted from the loss of blood and Mrs. Hubbard was dead. The husband was revived in a short while and he and the little motherless girls gave the crowd the names of the negroes.

New Furnace and Cotton Factory.

It is probable that Talladega, Ala., will have another furnace and cotton factory besides the ones already there. It is understood that the buyer of the Talladega furnace has stated that if everything proves satisfactory with the furnace he is preparing to put in blast, that another will be built if considered feasible. The same party also stated that if the citizens of Talladega would give $50,000 that he would give $25,000 to erect another cotton mill.

Denounce Censorship.

The local press at Santiago, Cuba, Monday violently denounces the censorship ordered by the governor-general. The Indepencia calls it a "Horrible crime against a free people."

The Porvenir says: "Cuba has fallen from her pedestal, one of a dignified Spanish colony, and become an abject slave to the intervener."

The censor has not been named.

Three Were Fatally Hurt.

A dispatch from Strikler, Ark., states that in a difficulty there Monday two men were killed instantly and one other fatally stabbed. James Herrick shot John Hinkle with a shot gun. Hinkle returned the fire and both men fell dead upon the floor. A younger brother of Herrick then assaulted a brother of Hinkle with a club and in turn was stabbed so severely that he cannot live through the night. The were all associated in the live stock business, and the trouble resulted from the settlement of some joint transactions. The surviving Hinkle is under arrest.

Something Like a Cloudburst.

Something like a cloudburst was experienced at Helena, Ala, and for a mile or two on either side Sunday evening. There was an enormous fall of water, and Monday the young corn and weeds and bushes were so badly wilted they looked as though they had been scalded with hot water. It was a notable evidence of the power of rain and intense heat on vegetation.

Veterans' First State Reunion.

It now seems very probable that the Confederate Veterans of Alabama will have their first state reunion and barbecue this summer, and that the place will be in Birmingham some time in August. Some time ago all of the Confederate camps in Jefferson county decided to hold their annual county reunion on August 5, and a committee was appointed to make the arrangements. The committee, in discussing the plan, concluded that it would be a splendid thing to invite the veterans of the state to meet with them at their county reunion and hold the first state reunion of Confederate Veterans. It is argued that the constitution of the Alabama division requires that there shall be a state reunion every year, and yet not one has ever been held. Major-General George P. Harrison, who was recently elected to command the Alabama division, thinks the plan an excellent one, and he is now getting opinion of the camps in various parts of the state preparatory to calling the reunion,

Fifth Immunes Arrive at Home.

The Fifth Regiment United States volunteers, which was organized as an immune regiment and was made up principally of Alabama and Mississippi men, was mustered out of service at Camp Meade on Wednesday morning last, and many of the boys are returning home. Four hundred of the mustered out soldiers reached Birmingham Friday. The Fifth Immune regiment was the only regiment from this state which saw service in Cuba, having been stationed at Santiago until a few weeks ago. The last catastrophe which happened to the regiment, was the killing of Aaron D. Bishop, formerly of Birmingham and Gadsden, by a fellow soldier, Dock N. Thorpe, in the passenger station at Washington, Wednesday night. Thorpe, it will be remembered, was very drunk and while trying to force his way through the gates to board his train pulled a pistol and began firing at a station employe. One of the bullets took effect in Bishop's temple, producing instant death.

Miners Get Advance in Wages.

The announcement was made at Birmingham Saturday, both by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company and the Sloss Iron and Steel company that, according to the agreement existing between the miners and companies that the former were entitled to a raise of 2½ cents per ton for mining coal, owing to the continued advance in the price of pig iron which the companies are receiving. This raise makes the fourth that the miners have received since march 1, at which time the rate was only 40 cents a ton. It makes the fifth raise since the 1st of last July, and an increase of 12½ cents per ton in eleven months, or, in other words, an increase of exactly 33 1-3 per cent. in that section.

Gen. Wheeler May Run for Governor.

The friends of General Wheeler believe that if he will consent to the use of his name as a candidate for governor he will receive the unanimous support of the democracy of the Eighth district, and that the republicans, if they do not vote for him will offer no opposition. His war record has won General Wheeler an unbounded popularity in his home district, and the people think there is nothing too good for him.

A Gigantic Swindle.

A letter of inquiry from the executor of a New York estate addressed to State Treasurer Little, of Arkansas, has unearthed a bond swindle which already amounts to $175,000, and which, when the state officials investigate, may run up into the millions. The letter reveals the fact that fraudulent state bonds have been successfully issued, but the extent of the swindle cannot yet be approximated. The letter is from William A. Jaques, of New York City.

The appearance of these bonds is taken by the Arkansas state authorities as evidence of a gigantic swindle having at some time in past years been perpetrated.

Walked to Her Death.

In Atlanta Mrs. Adeline Mooney, aged 71, wife of a merchant, walked from a two-story window, falling on hard pavement, sustaining injuries from which she son died.

Ex-Gov. Baxter Dead.

Elisha Baxter, the tenth governor of Arkansas, is dead at his home in Batesville. Governor Baxter was born in Rutherford, N. C., in 1827. He was elected in 1872, and his administration witnessed the stormiest period in the history of the state, and brought about the Brooks-Baxter war. President Grant issued a proclamation recognizing Baxter as Governor.

THE KIDNAPERS ARE HELD.

County Sheriff Refuses To Give Up the Abductors of Marion Clark.

A New York dispatch says: Arthur A. Clark, father of baby Marion Clark, who was kidnaped a week ago, and restored to her parents last Thursday, has filed an information against James and Jennie Wilson and Carrie Jones for kidnaping. The two former are in custody at Nyack.

When Chief McCluskey went to Nyack Friday after the Wilsons Sheriff Blauvelt refused to surrender the prisoners, maintaining that the Rockland county authorities had jurisdiction in the case. McCluskey says the sheriff's refusal to surrender the prisoners is outrageous and declares he will appeal the matter to Governor Roosevelt.

The Wilson woman is reported as saying that Carrie Jones gave her the baby as a sick child in need of country air. She was paid for taking charge of the baby. The man known as Wilson is said to be George Beauregard Barrow, a lawyer of Little Rock, Ark.

Carrie Jones, the nurse who had charge of little Marion Clark, was arrested at Summit, N. J. The girl's real name is Bell Anderson. Before a notary public she made the following confession:

"I aided in the abduction of Marion Clark, the infant child of Author W. Clark, of the city, county and state of New York. In this abduction I was prompted by Mark Beauregard and his wife Jennie.

"I was told by them that I would get half of any ransom paid for the return of the child. I was poor, tired of hard work and wanted money. I was told that there would be absolutely no danger.

"The Beauregards schooled me in the way to abduct the child. We had determined to take the first child that would command a ransom.

"I met Mrs. Beauregard in Central park. I would not let her take the child then, I so pitied its mother.

"On Sunday I met Mrs. Beauregard in the park again and she was so persistent that I let her take Marion from the baby carriage. We went to Brooklyn by the south ferry.

"That afternoon Mrs. Beauregard took the letter to the Clarks, she herself had written and gave it to a boy in New York to deliver to the Clarks. I knew Mrs. Beauregard wrote the letter.

"On Monday, when the abduction became public, the Beauregards and Marion and I, Mrs. Beauregard carrying the baby, went to Sloatsburg. I staid there until Friday and then went to the Beauregards' flat.

"Yesterday Mr. Beauregard came to see me, gave me $10 and told me to leave the city. I then went to my aunt's home at White Oak Ridge. I don't know why I did this, except I was ill and needed money."

BIG BIMETALLIST BANQUET.

Bryan and Belmont Entertain Ohio Valley Democrats at Louisville.

Seven hundred and sixty-nine bimetallists from all parts of the United States broke bread Friday night with William Jennings Bryan at the dollar banquet at Fountain Ferry park, Louisville, Ky. It was given by the executive committee having charge of the convention of the Ohio Valley League of Bimetallic Clubs. The supply of tickets, which were open to all, were early exhausted, and Fountain Ferry park, the largest pleasure resort in the city, was thronged with those anxious to obtain admission. The principal features of the occasion were speeches from Hon. W. J. Bryan and O. H. P. Belmont.

It was strictly a dry banquet, ice water and coffee being all that was handed down.

LITTLE ROCK KNOWS BARROW.

Kidnaper of Marion Clark Is Son of a Prominent Arkansas Lawyer.

A Little Rock dispatch says: Beauregard Barrow, alias J. A. Wilson, the man arrested in New York state charged with kidnaping little Marion Clark, is well known in Little Rock. He belongs to one of the most prominent families in the state, and the news of his arrest is the sensation of the hour. While the news created momentary astonishment at Barrow's audacity, there is but little lingering surprise at anything in which Barrow may become involved.

CRUISER IS SELECTED

To Transport Dreyfus To France From Isle of Devils.

The French cabinet council Sunday morning decided that the French second-class cruiser Sfax, now at Fort De France, Martinique, should proceed immediately and bring Dreyfus to France from the Isle of Devils.

The cruiser is expected to arrive at Brest about June 26th, when Dreyfus will be handed to the military authorities and lodged in the military prison at Rennes.

His conviction having been annulled by the united chambers of the court of cassation, his military rank and title are restored to him.

MAY BE MURDER.

Latest Theory Concerning the Probable Fate of John A. Benedict.

A Greenville, S. C., special says: When the full record of the disappearance of John A. Benedict is made up, it in all probability will be the story of a tragic death. There seems, now, to be the best of reasons for this belief and it is more firmly held by those immediately interested than it has been at any former stage of the search.

ISLANDS SOLD TO GERMANY

Spain Finally Disposes of the Caroline Group.

CAUSES SURPRISE AT CAPITAL

Queen Regent Disposes of Marianne, Caroline and Palos To Kaiser William.

A special from Madrid says: The queen regent opened the cortes Friday with the usual ceremonial and in the speech from the throne announced that Marianne, Caroline Palos islands were ceded to Germany by the late Spanish ministry. During the course of her speech her majesty said:

At the opening of the cortes all the sorrows which have wrenched our hearts through the disasters which have visited our country are re-awakened.

We must preserve sadness in order to derive experience thereform, but the woes of our country are of such a nature that reticence and silence avail better than complaints.

When peace with the United States was concluded, parliamentary troubles caused a changed of cabinet and the present cabinet was formed. Under the constitution, it belonged to me, to ratify the treaty by laying it before the chamber. There remained under our control the Carolines, Palos and most of the Marianne islands. But the former cabinet believed it useless for Spain to retain such minor appendage of our ancient empire and signed with German emperor a convention offering to cede these territories under the law which would be submitted immediately to the chamber.

Our foreign relations are cordial and friendly. We especially owe to the pope recognition of the many times he has given us his moral support.

The most important, most urgent and most difficult task before you is to balance the budget and liquidate the debts resulting from the war through ordinary and permanent sources of income. Thanks to the severely economic policy projected, the government will not ask fresh sacrifices of the country, except such as can be equitably divided among all classes.

With the ordinary budget will also be presented schemes to liquidate the charges created by the loss of possessions and colonial campaigns.

The queen regent then referred to the financial measures, and expressed confidence that the nation would show the same resignation during peace as it showed during the war, adding:

"For the times are critical, and it is impossible during the present session to do all that is necessary. But, during the next session there will be projects for the reorganization of the army and navy, based on obligatory service; for improving the public service, decentralizing the provincial and municipal administrations and reforming the penal code and electoral laws," etc.

The strategic value of this cession to the German interests in the Pacific is evident from the fact that the Ladrones and Palos and even the Carolines are in practicaily a direct line between Hawaii and the Philippines, and will form excellent points of supply for Germany. The American peace commissioners at Paris last December vainly sought one of the Caroline islands on account of its being in a line with Hawaii and the Philippines and its adaptability as a station for the proposed Pacific cable to connect the Philippines with Hawaii and the United States. Failing in that, however, the American flag was hoisted over Wake island, 1,700 miles east of Guam.

Of No Concern To Us.

The announcement at Madrid that Spain has ceded the Caroline islands and Palos and the Mariannes to Germany, was received with surprise at Washington. The cession marks the relinquishment of Spanish possession in the far east save the island of Fernando Po and dependences on the African coast.

CONFERRED AT MIDNIGHT.

McKinley, Meiklejohn and Corbin Hold Secret Meeting.

A Washington special says: Acting Secretary of War Meiklejohn and Adjutant General Corbin had a conference with the president after midnight Sunday night. They were summoned by the president, it is understood. What the nature or result of the conference was can only be conjectured as yet, as the parties to it declined to discuss it.

Mr. Meiklejohn said in response to all inquiries that there was nothing to make public and that the subject under consideration was not of a serious character.

CUBAN OFFICERS WANT PAY

For Services Rendered In Identifying Members of Cuban Army.

A special from Havana states that there is much comment over the fact that Cuban officers have been demanding $5 as compensation for identification of Cubans who have been applicants for the $75 allowed by the United States authorities to former soldiers of the Cuban army, who surrender their arms.

M'SWEENEY SWORN IN

New Governor of South Carolina Takes the Oath--Governor Ellerbe's Funeral.

At 11:15 o'clock Saturday night in the parlor of Wright's hotel, in Columbia, S C., M. B. McSweeney was administered the oath of the office of governor of South Carolina. The oath was administered by Chief Justice McIver and Associate Justices Pope and Gary.

Governor McSweeney said only a few words. He fully realized the responsibilities of the office, and he was going to be the governor of the whole of South Carolina; that was his aim. He sincerely regretted the death of Governor Ellerbe and most heartily sympathized with his family. He had been urged, he said, to come to Columbia weeks ago and assume the duties of governor, but he had not done so, knowing that it was the wish of Governor Ellerbe to die while actual governor of the state.

At the conclusion of his remarks the state officers present, in turn, assured the governor that he would have their hearty co-operation.

E. H. Ault, editor of The News and Herald, of Newberry, S. C., and president of the South Carolina Press Association, has been appointed Governor McSweeney's private secretary.

Governor Ellerbe's funeral occurred at Marion Saturday afternoon and was attended by all the prominent state officials.

The services, which were very simple, were performed by Rev. J. E. Beard, a Methodist preacher. There was no eulogy. There were probably 500 people present, chiefly neighbors of the governor. The interrment took place in the little family burying ground in a secluded grove.

During the day the statehouse, courthouse and dispensaries in Columbia were closed. It was the first time in the history of the state a governor had died in office.

OBJECTED TO DESIGN.

Committee of G. A. R. Tells Why Floral Tribute Was Rejected.

The Grand Army of the Republic posts of Columbus, O., received considerable notoriety on account of having refused to receive a floral tribute from ex-Confederates of the south, to be placed on Union graves in that city. The floral committee which rejected the emblem has prepared a statement explaining the matter. The report says:

"The chairman of the committee, in accepting the wreath, did not know what entered into the formation of the emblem. When it was learned that the design contained the emblem of the American flag supported by an arm clothed in the confederate gray above and arm clothed in blue beneath, many members of the Grand Army of the Republic entered their protests against the placing of the emblem upon the mound, and it was rejected."

NEW MINISTER GREETED.

President Cordially Receives Spanish Representative D'Arcos.

Diplomatic relations with Spain, broken off April 21, 1898, were formally resumed at 11 o'clock Saturday, when President McKinley greeted Duc D'Arcos, the newly accredited minister to the United States, in the blue parlor of the white house. Simultaneously in Madrid, if the program was carried out, Bellamy Storer, the new United States minister to Spain, was being presented to Christina, the queen regent.

It was a notable occassion in the world's history—the resumption of friendly relations beteewn two nations which had been at war and in the brief struggle had changed the map of the world. The speeches of the occasion were especially notable. They were plain spoken and devoid of the usual hazy diplomatic phraseology.

TUMBLED BY TORNADO.

House Turned Bottom Up, But Inmates Escape Serious Injury.

A special from Rock Rapids, Ia., says: A tornado Saturday night struck a house occupied by Adolph Juergensen and family, turned it bottom upward and entirely demolished it. The family miraculously escaped with but a few painful bruises.

The storm blew down barns and scooped up earth in several places as it passed on north into Minnesota. The path was only a few yards wide.

DREYFUS TRIAL ASSURED.

Work of the Court of Cassation In Paris Practically Finished.

The Paris correspondent of The London Morning Post says:

The work of the court of cassation is practically finished. Each of the judges gave his opinion today (Friday) and only formalities remain.

The councillors were almost unanimously in favor of revision, and the decision to be given tomorrow (Saturday) will be even more energetically in favor of Dreyfus than was the report of M. Ballot de Beaupre. It will declare that the "Canaille de D—" document is in no way applicable to Dreyfus.

PROMISES PROTECTION.

Germany Will Defend Spanish Coaling Stations In New Purchase.

A Madrid special says: Germany, it is announced, pays 25,000,000 pesetas for the Caroline, Palos and Marianne islands, Spain retains three coaling stations, one in each group, and Germany undertakes to defend these stations in case of war.

Germany, in addition, grants Spain the most favored rational treatment in Germany and in the colonial islands.

MOB MENACES LOUBET

SCENES WERE A DISGRACE

French President Was In Attendance On the Auteuil Races At the Time. Many Arrests Made.

A Paris special says: President Loubet, accompanied by the premier, M. Dupuy, and the chief of the military household, General McBaillereud, drove to the Auteuil races Sunday afternoon, closely followed by Madame Loubet in a second landau. As they drove along the avenue des Champs Elysee the crowd bowed respectfully, but on arriving at Auteuil they were met by a violent demonstration, evilently organized, and directed against the president.

There was a storm of hoots, calls and cries of "Panama," "abas Loubet" and "vive l'armee." A few of "vive Loubet" were drowned in the clamor.

A strong force of police kept order and arrested many of the disturbers, including a man who tried to force his way to the president's carriage.

During the second race the clamor increased to violence and was plainly directed by a committee of the League of Patriots, collected with their supporters, both before and behind the presidential stand, around which a formidable affray proceeded.

During the grand steeplechase many blows were struck, and several policemen were injured in their endeavors to prevent an invasion of the presidential stand.

At the crisis of the excitement, while shouts of "vive l'armes" and "vive de Roulede" were heard on all sides, Count Christiano rushed toward the president, brandishing a stick and directed a blow against him, striking his hat.

The crowd rushed upon Christiano, who only escaped severe handling by being taken under police protection.

President Loubet remained all the while quite unmoved, talking to the premier, while officers of his military household were defending him against violence. Finally, after thirty arrests had been made, the prefect of police ordered the republican guards to surround the presidential stand.

The principal leaders of the demonstration were Mr. Joseph Lasies, anti-Semite and nationalist, deputy for Geers, and M. Firmin Faure, anti-Semite and nationalist, deputy for Oran, Algeria.

A special cabinet council was summoned at 9 o'clock Sunday evening to consider the situation, and important measures were concerted to be submitted to the president at another council Monday for the preservation of order. The ministers who were in session until 11 o'clock, maintains strict reserve as to the nature of these measures, but a semi-official note has been issued, which says:

"The government will act with the greatest energy and will impose respect for the president and for the state."

Further accounts show that the whole race course, particularly the inclosure, witnessed scenes of the wildest excitement.

Comtesse Boni de Castellane, who was Miss Anna Gould, of New York city, placed herself at the head of the Jeunesse Royalists and marched up and down the lawn shouting "vive l'armee." Comte Boni de Castellane and his brother Jeane were arrested, but soon liberated.

Comte de Lion, when arrested, resisted and fought with his cane, smashing it on a policeman's head and causing the jeweled top to fly off, striking a journalist. He was detained in custody.

Altogether about 130 arrests were made, one being that of M. Dansette, deputy mayor of Armentieres.

MUNICIPALITY SOLD OUT.

Whole Town Placed On Wheels and Transferred To a Rival Burg.

The town of Mountain View, Okla., that was organized in a day, broke another record Sunday.

There has existed a rival town a mile and a half west and it was deemed advisable to consolidate them. Oakdale, the rival, was purchased outright for $34,380, placed on wheels and started on the road to Mountain View.

This is probably the first case of buying a whole town that the annals of the west records.

ORDER CAUSES KICK.

League of Civil Service Reformers Protest Against New Rules.

A New York dispatch says: The national civil service reform league in a statement just made public declares that the order of President McKinley of May 29th, changing the civil service rule, is a backward step of the most pronounced character.

The order, the League says, is a long succession of violations of both the spirit and the literal terms of the law and rules in various branches of the service.

REBELS WERE ROUTED.

Nine Insurgents Killed in An Encounter at Morong.

A cable dispatch from Manila says: Two battalions of the Washington troops under Colonel Whally, on board canoes, were towed from Pasig to Morong on Sunday and landed under cover of a well-directed fire from the "tin-clad" army gunboats Nappadan and Cavadonga.

The rebels, who were entrenched in the outskirts of the town, reserved their fire until the troops were ashore and in the open. The American artillery opened fire on the insurgents and drove them from their positions, killing nine of them and wounding five. The Washington troops then took the town, the rebels fleeing to the hills. While the Americans were on their way to Morong the insurgents opened fire from a short battery at Ancona, their first shot striking the Cavadonga's awning aft at a range of 3,500 yards. The Nappidan also was fired at.

THE SULTAN OF SULU ARMING.

He Has Secured Arms From Singapore and Is Raising a Force.

A dispatch from Hong Kong says:

The Sultan of Sulu, who it was supposed was favorably disposed toward the United States, it now turns out has imported a large quantity of arms from Singapore via Sandaken, with a view to resisting the Americans. These arms he has stored on the island of Siasi and he is raising a force of Sepoys at Singapore.

MANY HAVE DIED.

The Edmonton Route to Alaska a Scene of Death and Distress.

Another confirmation of the death and disaster on the Edmonton route is brought by J. F. Storey, of Ontario, a passenger on the steamer Dirago. Storey, with three others, started for Dawson seventeen months ago over the Edmonton route, but were unable to get through.

He says there is a section of country between Peace river and Nelson that was never traveled by a white man or Indian, and the country is one continuation of swamps and sloughs. For weeks he and his companions slept in clothes and blankets saturated with water. The twenty-one head of horses with which they started died, and they were compelled to retrace their steps.

At Liard they found thirty men suffering from frost bites and scurvey. Some had turned black as far as their thighs. At every camp they found sickness and distress. They gave out their provisions until they ran short themselves. For six weeks they lived on rabbits, which they shared.

On reaching Telegraph Creek, Storey reported the situation to the Magistrate, who at once started in a relief expedition. He says the number of people who have perished on the trail will never be known.

Jones and Altgeld to Retire.

John P. Altgeld not only confirms the report that he intends to resign from the ways and means committe of the democratic national committee, but makes the announcement that Senator James K. Jones is also thinking of severing his connection with the committee. When asked concerning his reported intention of resigning, he said:

"I am going to get out of the ways and means committee as soon as I can. The only reason why I wish to be relieved from the duties pertaining to that committee is that I have enough other work to do. I have my hands full with other affairs which I must attend to myself. Senator Jones is very much of the same frame of mind and if he thought he saw a chance of being relieved he would resign."

To Raise Price of Farming Implements

At a meeting of manufacturers of farming implements in Chicago Monday it was decided to make a general raise in the price of all agricultural implements. It is said that a general increase of from 15 to 25 per cent will be made.

A Distinguished Educator Dead.

Mrs. S. F. H. Tarrant, the distinguished educator, died in the city of Montgomery Sunday afternoon. Educational circles of Alabama have sustained a great loss in Mrs. Tarrant's death.

Shot From Ambush.

Sherman M. Reese, assistant superintendent of the Ducktown Sulphur and Copper Works, was shot from ambush by unknown parties and killed Monday afternoon near Isabella, Polk county, Tennessee. Reese was going to his home from the copper mines and was passing through a piece of dense wood.

THE CHRONICLE.

F. W. GIST, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

WE WANT FACTS, NOT OBJECTIONS.

The Montgomery Journal takes us severely to task in a recent issue on account of our mention of Governor Johnston's connection with the Montevallo school affair. The trouble with the Journal is that it is so influenced by its blind prejudice in the Governor's favor that it cannot recognize an impartial position taken by any paper. We have openly announced our belief that the change was the result of a political maneuver, and gave such facts as came to our view in support of that opinion. We are still of that opinion, though we may have been mistaken as to some of the facts. When we are convinced of our error by a plain statement of facts from the board of trustees we shall hasten to acknowledge it. The assertion of the Journal as to the facts is entitled to no more weight than our own, we having gathered our information from sources thoroughly entitled to credit until they are disproved by the board itself. If the trustees have been misrepresented they have an easy way of clearing their skirts. Until they do this they must rest under the odium which all the apparent circumstances have put upon them. No bare assertion of the Journal in its defense of its crowned sire of the executive office can alter the opinions of the people who are competent to draw their own conclusions from the facts before them.

The Journal seems not to realize that THE CHRONICLE has discussed this matter from an impartial standpoint. On the one hand we have made no charges against the Governor and his board of trustees which apparent facts did not justify. On the other hand we have not denied any of the charges intimated against Captain Reynolds, nor even attempted to defend him, except in that we thought him entitled to a hearing before conviction. We have gone so far as to demand an investigation of the charges and the proof, not knowing nor caring who it hurt. The interests of the school and the rights of the people demand the truth, and the personal advantage of no one should stand in the way of its revelation. The trustees alone have the power to give the facts, and if they do not choose to give them they must content themselves with what the people think for themselves. If the Journal thinks the Governor has been misrepresented, let it give an authorized statement of facts from him.

Until the truth comes from the proper source we shall feel entitled to our opinion, and the objections of the Journal to our expressing them will not be heeded.

DR. EAGER has again postponed his decision. The Doctor evidently thinks he is in the middle of a bad fix. We still hope he will decline.

SOME paper suggests that Johnston thinks he has the Democratic party in his vest pocket. We have seen men who thought that and got left.

WE direct the following question to The Advocate: Will you join THE CHRONICLE next year in an effort to have the county officers selected by a joint white primary? Please answer.

A GREAT deal of energy is being wasted by candidates for Governor at this early day. When the time comes the people will settle the matter, and some of the early birds may get left.

IF the corporations of this county were paying the proper amount of taxes the rate would not be so high. As long as the corporations control the negro vote it will be very hard to reach them.

The newspapers of the State are demanding that the Montevallo school matter be investigated.—Hot Blast.

Some of them are, while most of them prefer to discuss it from their own narrow standpoint of favor for or opposition to Johnston. If the Governor desires to prove the correctness of his position he will order an investigation.

WHAT with his passage of a stock law and the muddle he has gotten the county tax rate in, Mr. Sturdivant has proved himself thoroughly capable of misrepresenting the county. However, this is one of the natural results of sending nominees of negro conventions to the legislature. As long as the Populists and negroes fuse in this county we may expect to have incompetent officials.

WE see a statement from a prominent Republican that the negroes, assisted by good old-time white Republicans, are going to assert their rights, and either demand a division of the spoils of office or go it alone. There is nothing to hinder him from asserting his right to run for office. With the power of his vote he can demand his right, and we know some people who will recognize it before they will lose that power. His right to vote was recognized by the refusal to allow him disfranchised, and the right to vote carries with it the right to hold office. He who recognizes one must recognize the other, and we expect to see negroes and white men running on fusion tickets in this State—if a constitutional convention is not held very soon. There are enough negro voters in this county to command a place on a fusion ticket. When he decides to go out for it he will get it from those who are so careful of his sacred rights.

IN THE MIDDLE OF A FIX.

The Advocate does not like our criticism of its article of rejoicing a few weeks ago, and seems especially disturbed on account of our calling attention to their supreme anxiety in behalf of the negro. Of course we know that The Advocate hates to be prodded with its recent support of the nominees of a howling negro convention, and we also recognize the discomfiture which The Advocate feels on having its policy of petting the negro shown up, but we can not help it. We are sorry for our neighbor, and we wish we could consistently forbear calling attention to these things; but we know there are some very conservative readers of The Advocate who will not uphold the continued fusing of the Populist party with the negroes, and we feel it our duty to call attention to the attitude of the leaders along this line.

But The Advocate has the nerve to deny that it was throwing out sop to the negroes when it rejoiced over the defeat of a constitutional convention. Of course The Advocate feels secure in saying something nice to tickle the negroes and then denying it to pacify its white readers. It is fortunate in being able to play fast and loose with both wings of its supporters. The Advocate is a very versatile paper. In a State campaign it can support both the nominees of a white Populist primary and a negro convention and rare about free silver, and in the next few months support a gold bug for Congress. Of course a paper that can do those things don't mind a little thing like having its sop-throwing propensities exposed.

The Advocate asks us if we believe that the common people consists of the negro race. Most emphatically we do not. The common people of Alabama are that great mass of honest white men upon whose shoulders rest the burdens of church and State, many of whom are unfortunate enough to allow themselves deceived by the rantings of such blatherskite politicians as The Advocate has been supporting for office. In the recent Congressional election in this county about 1,400 of these common people cast their votes, while 900 of The Advocate's proteges did likewise. The Democratic candidate received 950 of the 1,400 white votes polled, leaving 450 white men who joined with 875 negroes in voting for the hybrid candidate of The Advocate. These figures will show a very good reason why The Advocate must keep the negro's vote from being lost.

The Advocate asks us next if we believe that a constitutional convention would have disfranchised negroes only. Yes: we know it. The Democratic party was pledged to it, and it has always kept its pledges in this State except when some traitor slipped into power. We can readily understand why The Advocate has no faith in anybody. The man it sent to the legislature, who, by the way, was the nominee of a negro convention, proved such a traitor to those good people who voted for him in Wilsonville beat that the faith of The Advocate is naturally shaken.

The trouble with The Advocate is that it is compelled to present a decent front to its white supporters and at the same time make the negroes believe it is their friend. Being in this straight betwixt two, it never can take a position and keep it. Another trouble with our neighbor is that it has too many editors, and they can't all keep together. We are sorry for The Advocate, but we are more sorry for the people whom it is trying to fool with its variegated politics.

THE snaps and snarls of The People's Advocate fall as harmless upon THE CHRONICLE as the spit of an adder upon a marble cliff. The Advocate has a score of editors, some of them Populists, some Republicans, some mugwumps, none of whom would know a grammatical sentence from an astronomical proposition or a logical argument from a geometrical axiom. All of them combined could not draw a conclusion from two simple political premises, and they cannot tell the truth because they do not know a fact when they meet it face to face.

FOR the first time in many years the county tax rate of Shelby County is up to the constitutional limit, and over it. The increase is caused by Mr. Sturdivant's road law, acting under which the commissioners levied a two-mill tax, without stopping to consider that it would leave them but three mills for general purposes. They then instructed the assessor to make up his book at the old rate of four mills. This he did, and now it appears that the county tax is six mills. Section 17 of the road law provides that the special tax shall be a part of that authorized by the constitution for county purposes. The constitution limits the county tax rate to five mills. There seems to be but one way out of the dilemma, and that is to reduce the tax for general purposes to three mills, as it is too late to rearrange the road tax. Even this will require a rearrangement of the tax books, which are already made out.

Take Simmons Liver Regulator to ward off disease and save doctor's bills. "My wife, daughter and self all took chills the same day. The doctor charged us sixty-five dollars but could do us no good. SOMETHING ABOUT TAXES.

There are in existence in Shelby County corporations whose capital stock aggregate $8,000,000. The law makes shares of capital stock taxable at their market value, which must be determined by information to be furnished by the officers of the company. From this value must be deducted the value of real and personal property, listed separately, and the remaining value must be assessed for taxation and paid on by the company. The stock of some of these corporations is worth par, while others may not be worth more than the property owned. Perhaps a fair estimate would place the value at 25 per cent, or $2,000,000. From this must be deducted the assessed value of property, which at the outside figure is not more than $500,000. In this way alone a million and a half of property is escaping taxation. This means a loss to the State for this year of more than $11,000, and to the county of more than $7,000. Under the back tax law this could be collected for five years back. To do so would be a gain of nearly $100,000 to the State and county, and a handsome salary to the back tax commissioner of something like $10,000. These figures we have given are no idle dream. They come from the record books of the county, and are there for the benefit of anybody who cares to examine them.

In addition to these there are several foreign corporations, not doing business here but owning immense quantities of land which is being assessed at less than half its actual market value. This fact is also apparent on the very face of the records.

In the meantime the tax rate is growing to meet the demand for legitimate expenses, and the small property owners are suffering the increased burden. The law is ample to cover all these matters, and we have heard a great deal of a business administration at Montgomery while here at home the party in power has been crying out against the soulless corporations. Both have been in office for nearly four years, and the rate has been growing higher, while the valuation is decreasing.

A back tax commissioner was appointed who started on the wrong track, and we have not heard of one since. Meanwhile the assessor takes the same old valuation year after year, and the commissioners let it stand. The coal mines and the iron furnaces and the saw mills and the other corporate industries flourish with McKinley prosperity, while the farmers get deeper in debt as they keep on voting for the two business administrations, both of which sit idly by and let the loss to State and county pile up.

We do not expect the publication of these facts to do any good, but we give them lest somebody might say they were left in ignorance. We have heretofore published the law. Above are the facts. The case is with the people as judge and jury.

THE CONDITION OF THE CROPS.

[Age-Herald.]

There is no evidence thus far that the cotton crop has been materially hurt by hot or dry weather. The dry spell has been broken in many places by showers, but of course a copious rain is needed in wide belts. The crop is still backward. Weather conditions are, as ever, controlling, and nothing has occurred to determine the nature of the crop.

The price of wheat is slowly advancing, as the probability of a smaller outturn of winter wheat is strengthened. Good judges now say the winter wheat crop may not exceed 250,000,000 bushels, as against 380,000,000 bushels last year. Expert Snow puts the crop at 275,000,000 bushels, although rust is doing much damage in the central vallies of the West.

The spring wheat crop is still very promising, but, like cotton, this crop has many vicissitudes of weather to encounter. The acreage was increased in some States, particularly in Oregon and Washington, and it was decreased in others by wet weather. Mr. Snow says it is a reasonable deduction that the present acreage and condition justify an expectation of 275,000,000 bushels. Last year the spring wheat crop was 295,000,000 bushels.

We think have a probable crop for the year of 550,000,000 bushels, as against 675,000,000 bushels last year. A safer estimate would perhaps be a reduction of 100,000,000 bushels from last year's crop. There is a good deal of old wheat on hand, and altogether this country will have wheat for export. As the crop in Russia, Roumania and Hungary is looking less and less favorable, the chances now are that wheat will sell above seventy-five cents in Chicago all the year through.

The corn acreage is absolutely unprecedented, and more acres are every day given over to the great crop. The stand is not as good as it has been in some years, and much of the crop will be planted late, and some of it may be cut by early frosts.

The crops as a whole are looking reasonably well, and there are no grounds at present for widespread complaints. The cutting of wheat is progressing, and that crop will at least soon be out of harm's way. The other leading crops have a long way to go before harvest overtakes them.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mummia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cet preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents said seed at 14 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household. Juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

Messrs. Leeper and Fox spent Sunday at the Springs.

G. W. Taylor, of Wilsonville, was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. J. W. Johnston is visiting at Talladega Springs this week.

Miss Alice Anchors is spending some days with relatives in the city.

Mrs. West, of Montgomery, was visiting Mrs. Armstrong, of this place, last week.

E. W. Chapman, of Montevallo, spent Sunday and Monday with his family here.

Rev. Sam Lester is in the city this week attending the stock taking at Lester, Mason & Co.'s

The ice cream supper at Mrs. Armstrong's Monday night was quite a success, being well attended.

Mrs. W. S. DuBose and her daughter, Miss Kate, are spending the summer at Barton, Ala., with relatives.

Correct headaches and despondency with Simmons Squaw Vine Wine or Tablets.

Mrs. S. N. Burns left Tuesday for an extended visit to relatives in Arkansas. She will be gone for several months.

To relieve sick stomach and tone up the system take Simmons Squaw Vine Wine or Tablets.

W. B. Browne was called to Montgomery last week, on account of the illness of his sister, but found her much improved.

The board of examiners of Confederate pensions is in session this week, and are passing upon the applications of a good many old soldiers and their widows.

At a meeting of the city council Monday the tax book was submitted, and the marshall was instructed to arrest all persons who fail to pay license.

Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine creates a good appetite, tones and strengthens the stomach and builds up the health.

Quite a number of teachers took the required examination here Monday and Tuesday of this week. No more examinations will be held until September.

The man who was "born tired" should use Prickly Ash Bitters. It makes work a necessity to give vent to the energy and exuberance of spirits generated by functional activity in the system. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

The Sunday school classes of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Weaver, with a few invited guests, spent yesterday at Shelby Springs in a basket-dinner picnic.

Misses Davidson and Dennis are visiting the family of Dr. Lovett this week. They are relatives of Mrs. Lovett, and live at Kempsville.

To permanently cure melancholy difficulty of breathing and swimming of head, use Simmons Squaw Vine Wine or Tablets.

J. W. Millstead, formerly with J. F. Pope at Wilsonville, was in the city yesterday. John is now a knight of the grip, representing a clothing house from Knoxville, Tenn.

Pure blood is full of life and vitality and carries vigor to the organs of the body. Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine creates rich, pure blood.

Dr. Lovett was smiling over the arrival of a fine boy, who came to his house Monday night. The Dr. received the congratulations of his friends, given with a hearty good will.

The Shelby County doctors met here Tuesday. Among them we saw Drs. Givhan, Wilkerson and Acker, of Montevallo; Gunn, of Calera, and Morgan, of Shelby Springs.

Restore all the organs to natural conditions so they will do their duty by taking Simmons Squaw Vine Wine or Tablets.

A little nectie party over in our neighboring county of Bibb was the result of the murder of a Mrs. Hubbard by two negroes. One of the negroes was caught and lynched; the other is still at large.

Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine has a national reputation extending over about sixty years, as a most successful Liver Regulator.

The commissioners are wrestling with the tax books this week. A knotty problem with them is how to keep the county tax rate within the constitutional limit and provide sufficient funds for expenses.

During summer we are liable to stomach and bowel troubles, such as diarrhoea, colic, cramps, etc., for which Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine is highly recommended.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. S. E. Falkner, of Sterrett, which occurred last Friday afternoon. She was the wife of W. H. Falkner, a well-known citizen of this county, and the mother of J. S. Falkner, of our town. She had been in bad health for some time. A more extended notice will appear next week.

Mrs. S. A. E. Jackson, Hurtsboro, Ala., writes: Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine aids digestion and readily relieves constipation. I find it far superior in strength and action to both Zeilin's Liver Regulator and Black Draught.

Just received a lot of fine apple syrup in half gallon cans: its good. Fresh meal, flour, grits, coffee, sugar, pearl rice, meat, Block's fresh cakes and crackers, candy, tobacco, cigars, cheroots. All at low prices for cash.

If a dollar bill hasn't the word "dollar" on it, don't take it for a dollar. If a package hasn't the word "Regulator" on it, don't take it for Simmons Liver Regulator. This must be clear to anyone, and in the matter of health one cannot be too careful. Therefore, before paying for a package of Simmons Liver Regulator, be sure you see the word Regulator on it.

Williams Bros. & Hall Drug Co. Columbiana Agents. A. H. Averyitt, Shelby Agent.

The commissioners court has just paid something over $300 as half of the expense of running the line between Shelby and St. Clair counties provided for by the legislature. We are informed that the survey gained for Shelby a good deal of land, but lost one or two of its most valuable plantations. There seems to have been no particular demand for the survey, and the cost was considerable. The bill was paid very reluctantly.

It seems strange after all that has been printed and said, a few people of this town have neglected to take Simmons Liver Regulator, and therefore continue to suffer with billousness, constipation, sick headache, malaria, dyspepsia and liver diseases generally. We cannot too highly recommend Simmons Liver Regulator and urge those of our fellow townsmen who have neglected to take the Regulator to begin at once if they wish to avoid further suffering.

Erasmus McLeod, of Wilsonville, a successful colored farmer of this county, was in town this morning. He has been suffering from paralysis for some months, and was receiving the sympathy of his friends, of whom he has many. 'Ras, as he is familiarly known, has solved for himself the problem which confronts his race. By hard work and honest conduct he has made him a home, a good credit and many friends. He looks upon the white people as his best friends and has always voted the Democratic ticket. There are few such characters, but they are all successful. If there were a majority of his race like him there would be no problem to solve.

FIRE AT CHILDERSBURG.

Southern Depot and Several Stores Destroyed Tuesday.

Childersburg, Talladega County, was visited by another disastrous fire Tuesday night.

All of the stores on one side of the main street, about one half of the total number, were destroyed by fire about a year ago and the fire Tuesday night got nearly all of the remainder.

The last fire originated in a little store near the Southern depot and before it had run its course the Southern depot and the stores of J. C. Alford, E. M. Ricks & Co., Mrs. L. Finn and several others had been destroyed.

The loss will no doubt run away up into the thousands of dollars but the amount of insurance could not be learned.—Hot Blast.

Harpersville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sparks, of Talladega, visited D. W. Kidd's family last week.

J. H. Martin, of St. Clair County, was in town last Saturday.

Professor Spinks spent last week at Childersburg. He has been called as pastor of the Baptist church there during the summer.

W. A. Gorman and his sister, Miss Kate, who has been teaching school at Childersburg the past two years moved back here last week.

Mrs. Doctor Cleveland is visiting J. L. Walthall's family.

The wheat and oat crop is being harvested and the yield is very poor.

Miss Natalie Walthall, who has been teaching school at Irondale for the past nine months, returned home last week.

We are pleased to state that Professor Spinks has decided to teach school for us again next year. Now let's all go to work and we will have one of the best schools in the county.

Mrs. Spinks has gone over to spend the summer at East Lake with her father.

Doctor Renfro Martin can roll a pill now as quick as any of 'em. Success to you, young man.

Joe Simmons has a job now in Munford. Joe is going to the Greensboro College this fall.

Alright, let us have Joe Wheeler for Governor. I make a motion that we elect him by acclamation.

Rev. Mr. Jones, of Montevallo, preached here at the Baptist church Sunday and Sunday night. His text at the morning service was Galatians 5:7. His congregation was very large and the best of attention given him. His subject at night was, "What shall I do with Jesus." Both sermons were very interesting, and he captured the attention of his audience on the start and held them to the finish. The church in conference unanimously elected him pastor for the remaining year and it is very probable that he will accept.

Earl Martin left here Monday for Nashville, Tenn., where he expects to enter a business college, and will be gone about four months. We wish him much success and a pleasant stay.

The Harpersville Literary Society is progressing finely and much good is being done. The subject last Saturday night was, "Resolved, That Alabama should have compulsory education." Splendid arguments were brought to bear on both sides, and after careful consideration the judges decided in favor of the affirmative. Yes, we need a compulsory school law for there are people in our county today who never send their children to school even if it be a free school. Some of them actually think more of their dog than they do their children, for they train their dogs and don't train their children. I know this is plain talk but, nevertheless, it is actually true and no one dares to dispute it. Make such a law. Give us longer schools and stop so many of these little socalled "professors" who have no more business trying to teach than a hog has in trying to practice law, and then Alabama will move up to the front ranks of the educational line, and not until then.

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

By Mrs. F. W. Gist.

With the thermometer registering 100 how can one get their brains cool enough to write anything fit to be read, especially the woman who must bake, boil and roast in the family kitchen, and must also see that the children are properly dressed from two to four times a day? We should like to comment on the Womens' Council and the approaching Alabama Press Association, which convenes in Birmingham on the 14th inst., but will have to defer comment until better servants put in an appearance. We can't sip our coffee from a greasy cup if the public never gets any edification from our "able and facile" pen.

***

The servant question in these quarters is a problem of much dimensions. There are awkward, gawky, green, black and dirty stalks galore. But decent people can't trust the reputation of their table and the health of their families with such inexperienced ignoramuses. Blessed is the matron who knows how to cook and has something good to cook, for her independence bringeth both her and her family untold happiness.

***

A small town in this county is recently thoroughly saturated with a genuine black and sickening scandal. Men who call themselves decent and righteous sit on street corners and hotel corridors and roll this sweet morsel under their tongues with a hearty relish that is appalling. Women blink and wink their virtuous eyes and say, "I guess 'tis so" or "I don't know," meanwhile a woman's name is being ruined, the happiness of a family household is being rent asunder, innocent children must be goaded with what, after all, may be only the product of a vile slanderer or the result of a rejected insult. Be it what it may, how can men with virtuous wives and tender family ties deliberately discuss with other men tales and scandals about their neighbors wives? Tomorrow, mayhaps, Mrs. Grundy may strike your own dear angel; then the charitable friend is the one you love. So would it be today with your neighbor in trouble.

SUPERINTENDENT ABECROMBIE

Urges all Teachers to Attend the Educational Association.

The following circular letter has been sent out to teachers all over the State by Superintendent of Education John W. Abercrombie, urging a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Alabama Educational Association which meets in Birmingham on June 27:

I wish to urge teachers and all others who are interested in the cause of education to attend the session of the Alabama Educational Association which meets in Birmingham on the 27th of June.

The benefits to be derived from these annual gatherings of the teachers can not be overestimated. The personal contact with teachers of prominence, the discussion of topics of interest to all who are engaged in the work of training the young, the social pleasures afforded, all combine to make these meetings of incalculable benefit to teachers who desire to be counted among the progressive educators of the State.

The programme arranged indicates a rich feast for those who attend. Topics of vital importance to our educational interests will be discussed by men competent to discuss them.

The executive committee of the association, and the local committees in charge of the meeting will do everything possible for the comfort and enjoyment of the teachers. The railroads have granted reduced rates and the hotels in Birmingham will do likewise.

I should like to see one thousand teachers at Birmingham. It would mean an awakening along lines of progress that would lift our beloved Alabama from the foot of the ladder to a much higher rung."

Don't Neglect Your Liver.

Liver troubles quickly result in serious complications, and the man who neglects his liver has little regard for health. A bottle of Browns' Iron Bitters taken now and then will keep the liver in perfect order. If the disease has developed, Browns' Iron Bitters will cure it permanently. Strength and vitality will always follow its use.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents or one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, if you send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in THE CHRONICLE.

There's something wrong!

Are you subject to colds on slight exposure, always tired and feverish, and have frequent attacks of Indigestion and Biliousness? Depend upon it, your liver is out of order. Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

Aim in Cultivating Soil.

A farmer's aim in handling his soil to the best advantage ought to be with the idea of maintaining proper moisture, and to cultivate sufficiently to prevent such free circulation of air as will dry out the soil, yet sufficient air should be allowed to enter the soil to permit the growth of roots. When he gets this happy medium he has struck it.

Mixing Cream of Different Cows.

Where many cows are kept and the milk is set for cream to make butter, loss often results from mixing cream that will not churn in equally short time. Of course when the first cream "breaks" there is no more churning, except the slow moving of the dash-board to gather the flakes of butter into one mass. The cream from a new milch cow and a farrow cow should never be churned together. The farrow cow may give very rich milk, but very little of its butter fats will be separated, while the butter from a new milch cow will all be separated from the cream in which it was covered.

Out Door Nests.

Of course in winter nests are made in the henhouse. Hens are not apt to be broody in cold weather, and the short time the hen is laying her daily egg does not cause vermin to breed in it. But so soon as warm days tempt the fowls out of doors they should be encouraged to nest outside. About this time too fowls will become broody, and if allowed to nest in the henhouse they will inevitably fill it with vermin. If the outdoor nest is made on the ground the moisture arising from the soil will keep the shell in good condition for the chick when hatched to pick its way through. Most hens if allowed any range will steal their nests, and generally bring off a larger hatch of chicks than those for which the poultry keeper has carefully set the eggs.

Best Methods With Potatoes.

My plan for the past six years has been to plant on run-out sward land that is naturally well drained. Plow deeply, work the ground well with a disk harrow and follow with a spring tooth, then furrow out about five or six inches deep and scatter in a good handful of potato fertilizer. Kick on some dirt and drop on one piece of seed and cover lightly. Hills may be about eighteen or twenty inches apart. Begin to stir the whole surface with a light cultivator or a weeder soon as the potatoes begin to break ground. Do this as often as every week, letting the cultivator throw in a little soil each time, then go through with hand hoe, destroying all weeds and filling in a little dirt, but making no high, round hill.

I select best potatoes for seed, cut into pieces of two or three good eyes. I use no barnyard dressing whatever, as it has a tendency to make potatoes scabby and to rot. Plant as early as practicable, so that they may make their growth early. Dig for winter use not until into September. By the above method I have nothing but smooth, sound potatoes and also a good yield.—G. B. Pierce in New England Homestead.

Reducing a Tree's Head.

One of the results to be gained by reducing the head of a tree or cutting back the limbs when it is transplanted is that it will afford less surface to catch the wind, and the tree will not be blown about or bent over before the roots get well established in the soil. In a large proportion of apple orchards, either young or old, one can tell at a glance the direction from which comes the most prevalent high winds, as all the trees lean away from it. It is almost impossible to entirely prevent this where there is no hill or wood to act as a windbreak to protect them, but by planting them leaning a little toward the windy point, and keeping the tops well pruned, the trouble can be lessened so that it will not amount to a deformity in the orchard.

When the new growth starts the branches will be thicker, and by a little care in pruning, or, better still, in rubbing off buds as they start, the shape of the tree can be made almost what it is desired to be, although it is not well to try to force it far out of its most natural form. An upright grower should still be upright, and a low, spreading tree should not be made to take the upright form. But they can be controlled so as not to be exaggerated specimens of their own type.

Two things should be always borne in mind when pruning or shaping the top of a tree, the convenience of spraying and of picking the fruit. Spraying properly at the proper times has become or will soon become an absolute necessity in our apple orchards, as those who do not practice it will find their fruit so much inferior to that offered by those who do spray as to almost unmerchantable in the years of plenty. If it increases the production of good fruit so as to reduce prices, it may be more to the benefit of the consumer than of the producer, but with better fruit and more care in assorting, handling and packing, the European demand will increase more rapidly than our average production increases for many years to come, while lower prices would stimulate and increase the demand in the home market.—The Cultivator.

Cultivating Sweet Peas.

It would be difficult to name a more popular annual than the sweet pea. Its dainty form, rich and delicate coloring, delicious fragrance and great endurance, are qualities, a single one of which should insure for this flower our fostering love. As a source of supply for cut flowers it is unsurpassed, its product being equally appropriate for the dining room, pulpit or cemetery; and a daily picking but increases the supply of blossoms. In fact, one must keep them picked if she would have the blooming season a protracted one, for the forming of even a few seed pods soon destroys the vitality of the plant; and it is better, in the end, to buy seed from the florist each year, than to injure the crop of flowers by allowing seed pods to form.

Sweet peas to attain, their highest excellence, must be planted as soon as the ground can be worked in spring. To wait until the soil is warm, is not only unnecessary, but unwise, for it invites a delay that will court injury during the summer drouth. Some advocate fall planting, and this is advisable where the ground does not heave badly. Seeds should be sown from four to eight inches deep, according to the heavy or light nature of the soil. The support can be much more firmly secured if supplied at the time of planting, before the ground becomes hard. Wire netting forms the best support, though even brush does very well.

Among the bewildering varieties now offered one may become confused, yet, after all, she cannot go far astray, for so many of them are good. If the purse is contracted, the mixed packet will be found the most economical. If some of the choice collections are chosen there is opportunity for care in securing a harmonious blending of colors. Thus at one end of the screen may be grouped, the reds, pinks, etc., gradually shading to pure white; while on the other side the various shades of lavender, blue and purple may be combined. This harmony in colors should also be borne in mind in the arrangement of cut flowers, several stems of each color being grouped together, being much more pleasing than a promiscuous mixing of individual florets.—The Epitomist.

Raising a Calf Economically.

I arrange to have as many of my calves come in March as possible, though a few come later and some in the fall. The first day or two they are left with the cow. After that day they are put in a large, well ventilated box stall, with plenty of light and dry bedding. They are not allowed out of doors until the weather gets pretty warm, and then only in the daytime, until accustomed to the change. Usually the calf sucks until five or ten days old, sometimes longer, preferring if practicable to teach several to drink at a time, as it is very little more work than to teach one. As a rule it is best to let the calf go without one meal before trying to feed, as by so doing it is apt to give up a good many foolish notions.

A mistake is often made in feeding too much at the start and the calf becomes a sipper instead of a drinker. Another mistake is in substituting gruel porridge, hay tea or some other sloppy mixture for new milk. It is sometimes possible to keep life in a calf when fed on such a diet, but very often it dies. My experience is, that it is best to feed the grain ration alone and the drink alone; let the calf do the mixing. I induce them to eat a little hay and grain as soon as they manifest a desire to do so.

If the calf has horns, it is a good time to kill them as soon as it gets to drinking well. If done before, its head being sore will interfere with drinking. It is generally use caustic potash. It is cheap and if thoroughly applied is good. The trouble is it is not usually applied properly. Horn forceps may be used, or the horns allowed to grow until the calf is ten or twelve months old, and then removed by sawing. Either way is all right and will produce a smooth head if the man has the tools and the skill to use them.

As long as new milk is fed care should be taken that each calf has the same cow's milk every time. When a substitute for whole milk is used the change is made very gradually at first. Just what is used in place of whole milk depends entirely on circumstances. With me it is usually skimmed or separated milk, though sometimes it is sweet whey, buttermilk or even water. The latter is used to dilute the buttermilk or as a filler when only a small quantity of new milk is fed. My aim is to feed bulky rather than concentrated foods. This practice tends to increase the digestive capacity. I begin feeding separated milk by mixing a small quantity with new milk, increasing the former as the amount of the new milk is diminished, until in two or three weeks no new milk is fed, but grain enough is eaten to take its place. The skimmed milk is fed cold, but not ice cold. If warmed at all it is done by placing over hot water or by steam, never by placing directly on the stove. One feed of overheated milk will cause an endless amount of trouble. How long skimmed milk should be fed depends largely on its cost. I pay ten cents per 100 pounds at the creamery. At that price it is a cheap feed all summer. A liberal amount of clover or mixed hay is fed, together with a grain ration consisting of oats or some feed rich in protein, until the calf is turned out to pasture, a yearling.—C. P. Haskins in Orange Judd Farmer.

Poultry Notes.

Close, damp quarters will breed roup.

Keep houses open as much as possible to insure dryness.

Don't put off hatching chicks, but set all the hens you can early.

Feed less corn, barley and wheat and more oats as the weather gets warmer.

Give your fowls the best of care in clean, pure water, wholesome food and dry quarters.

Be on the lookout for sudden changes in the weather, and see that stock is properly protected.

Be sure that there is plenty of dry dust in the dust bath. A little tobacco dust or slaked lime makes a good addition to the dust bath, and makes it more effective.

It does not pay to spend much time fussing and doctoring small chicks. You may keep them alive a week or so, but they usually die. Better kill them at the start of the sickness, and give the time and labor saved to doing better by the well chicks.

ODD FISHING IN CALIFORNIA.

Boy Angles on Horseback and Gets Pen and Ink From Fishes.

"Hi, there!" shouted a boy, very much out of breath, who had run up from the beach at San Diego, Cal., where the big rollers were piling in with a mighty roar.

"What is it?" yelled a stableman.

"Squids, millions of 'em; they're just in the surf. Can't you lend me a horse?" gasped the boy.

"Is that so?" said the man. "Why," looking around, "here's a couple of ponies waiting; jump on and I'll go with you," and forewith the two sprang into the saddles and dashed down to the beach.

"You can hook 'em right ashore," said the boy, and leaping off the pony he picked up from the beach, where he had previously laid it, a bamboo rod about nine feet long that had a large hook at the end. Thus equipped, he moved down to the water's edge.

It had been blowing a heavy southeaster, and great waves were coming in, piling up long black masses of kelp that wound away like serpents over the sand. Here and there, just on the borders of the waves, were strange uncanny-looking creatures, six or seven feet in length, with long finger-like tentacles and black, staring eyes. Some were high, dry and helpless; others were half in the water, waving their sucker-like tentacles as though imploring aid, while out in the waves others could be seen, either driven in by some large fish or beaten in by the sea.

"What good are they?" asked the stableman, who had never seen the animals.

"Good?" repeated the boy, "why, it's fun catchin' 'em, and I can sell the eyes and pen for fifty cents. Jest look at 'em, will you!" and, digging his feet into the reluctant broncho, he urged him into the surf, where, reaching down, he hooked on to something. A big wave splashed over his back, drenching him from head to foot, but he held on to the squid, and the broncho, though visibly alarmed at the hideous-looking creature, dragged it out high and dry on the beach, where it lay pumping ink and water, its long arms coiling about like snakes.

After various excursions into the surf the boy, having with the aid of the stableman hauled the animals above high-water mark, began to secure his treasures. Each squid had a pen—long, opal-tinted, translucent object, the model of a huge pen and holder eighteen or twenty inches in length. This was found extending from the tip of the tail to the neck of the animal, and served as a support, something like a backbone. But the squid is a squid, not a backboned animal. Next the huge eyes were taken out and the eyeball secured, which, after drying, resembled a pearl almost as large as a marble. Then the young fisherman produced a bag of ink from the body of the animal, which he said was India ink. This was true, and at one time this sepia was the only India ink known. The pen of some species of the animal is the cuttlefish bone of commerce, given to canary birds. These treasures the young fisherman later sold to tourists and curiosity dealers.

Cromwell the Boy.

There is an atmosphere of boisterous life about the youth of Cromwell, and royalist writers represent him as a terror to his neighbors. "He threw himself into a dissolute and disorderly course of life," says Sir William Dugdale," being more famous for football, cricket, cudgelling, and wrestling than for study." But football and cricket are not unpardonable sins in a youth, even if we add to them the further accusations of his enemies, that he was of a rough and blustering temper, unable to endure contradiction, and always ready to make those who objected to his words and ways feel the weight of his quarter-staff. If he really was of such a disposition, his early reformation was very creditable to him, for soon after he was twenty years of age the admonitions and entreaties of his mother—then a widow—prevailed over all other seduction. His sudden reformation drew on him a charge of hypocrisy, but the abrupt and absolute change of his life was only the natural consequences of an iron will that, having once determined on a change, makes it without hesitation, and with a thoroughness leaving nothing for future regret.—Amelia Barr, in Harper's Magazine.

The Fate of American Rulers.

Assassination of royal rulers seems to have been introduced into America in the first decades of this century, and the first to fall was a black man, Dessalines, who for a while had masqueraded under the title of emperor and was killed by his troops in 1806. The next to die was his successor, Christophe, sometimes called the first black king in America and who was crowned as Henry I. built a palace and castle and kept an executioner. He ran the gamut of royalty and then committed suicide to avoid death at the hands of his enemies, shooting himself with a silver bullet. He was the eminent creator of those now degenerate scions of nobility whose ancestors sported the titles of dukes and counts of Marmalade and Lemonade. As "Saint Henry" he now rests secure of fame in the Haytian chronicles. It became the custom, after that, to depose a Haytian ruler by rifle powder and poinard route, so that the chronicle becomes tiresome of those who took that means of exit.—New York Telegram.

An Anecdote of Tennyson.

The poet Tennyson was gifted with the grace of humility. His letters disclose his dissatisfaction with himself and his achievements. He pitched his ideals high, and he knew, none more clearly, when he failed to grasp what he had reached after. An anecdote contributed by the Duke of Argyle and quoted by Miss Cary in her volume, "Tennyson," exhibits the poet's humility.

"The first words I heard him utter," says the Duke, "remain indelibly impressed upon my memory. On being introduced to him at an evening party in the house of Lord John Russell, I said, perhaps with some emotion:

"'I am so glad to see you!'

"Not in the tone or voice of mere conventional reply, but in the accents of sincere humility, he answered:

"'You won't find much in me—after all.'"

What Groceries Cost in 1867.

A New York woman brought to light in a recent upheaval of household belongings consequent upon moving a tradesman's passbook that was in use when she first began housekeeping in 1867. It was an account with a New York grocer and the items were looked over with some interest as showing the greatest lowered prices that prevail nowadays for the same commodities. "A" sugar, which was the white coffee sugar formerly used, cost $1.75 for ten pounds; a cooking sugar, called yellow, was $1.55 for the same amount, and granulated sugar was charged at 19 cents a pound. A broom cost 65 cents, a bag of hominy 35 cents, a bag of salt 25 cents, table butter was 45 cents a pound and six pounds of oyster crackers were put down at $1.08.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

Ammonia as a Fire Extinguisher.

The frightful Windsor Hotel fire, followed as quickly by the sad loss of life at the Andrews home, and other disastrous blazes renders specially interesting the following paragraph from the National Druggist:

"Probably the best fire-extinguisher is aqua-ammonia, without any addition whatever. We have personally had experience with the almost marvelous power of this substance in this direction. In one instance, where fire had originated, probably from spontaneous combustion, in a pile containing several tons of cotton seed, and the interior of which was almost a solid body of live coal, a half gallon of ammonia completely smothered the fire. In another, which occurred at Savenay, France, the vapors of a tank containing fifty gallons of gasoline caught fire in the linen room of a laundry. The room was instantly a mass of living flames, but a gallon and a half of ammonia water thrown into it completely and almost immediately extinguished the fire. The ammonia was in a glass demijohn in an apothecary shop next door to the laundry, and was thrown into the room by the druggist as an experiment. So completely was the fire extinguished that workmen were enabled to enter the room almost immediately, where they found the iron tank of gasoline intact."

One Hundred Years of Electricity.

An exhibition is to be held at Come, Italy, from May to November of the present year, to celebrate the discovery a century ago by Volta of the primary cell. There have been few or no discoveries more worthy of being thus marked than that of the great Italian. Up to the day of his great discovery there was no knowledge of current electricity, the only form with which acquaintance had been made being the static, and the only source of electricity was the static machine, which is utterly insignificant as a generator of electrical energy. The voltaic cell furnished the first practical source of electrical energy, and in a form that enabled experiments to be made which culminated in that of Faraday—the base of all our present electrical development. Whether we gauge the discovery by what has sprung from it or by its originality or by its vastly greater importance over any previous discovery in electrical science, it stands forth as one worthy of centennial celebration even unto the end of time.—American Electrician.

Two Large Gas Engines.

Gas and oil engine development has not been encouragingly rapid, except where relatively small powers are concerned, and the large engine of 100 horse-power, and more, has been slow, indeed, in convincing the power user that it is the kind of engine which may reasonably be expected to work satisfactorily and, all things considered, economically. It is worth noting, therefore, that a plant of eight large gas engines, four of 260 horse-power and four of 210 horse power each, has been reported as about to be installed at the Lot's road pumping station of the London County Council, and will thus afford the latest evidence of the important work which engines of this class may be expected to successfully perform. The plant will probably be the largest one of the kind in existence.—Cassier's Magazine.

Exploding Ice Bubbles.

The intensely cold nights of Sibera, says a Good News contributor, produce a curious phenomenon that he has never heard of before.

Occasionally the silence is broken by a loud report, resembling the boom of a cannon. The noise is caused by the bursting of an ice bubble on a river. The streams coming from the hills are incased in ice six to nine inches thick, and as the water descends faster than it escapes through the river the result is a heavy hydrostatic pressure.

This first causes the ice upon the river to rise in mounds, often six or eight feet high. For a time they seem to yield elastically to the pressure, but finally can withstand no more, and burst with an explosive report. The water rushes out, soon freezing, however, and causing further explosions.

RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Women Everywhere Express their Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. T. A. WALDEN, Gibson, Ga., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before taking your medicine, life was a burden to me. I never saw a well day. At my monthly period I suffered untold misery, and a great deal of the time I was troubled with a severe pain in my side. Before finishing the first bottle of your Vegetable Compound I could tell it was doing me good. I continued its use, also used the Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, and have been greatly helped. I would like to have you use my letter for the benefit of others."

Mrs. FLORENCE A. WOLFE, 515 Mulberry St., Lancaster, Ohio, writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I was troubled with what the local physicians told me was inflammation of the womb. Every month I suffered terribly. I had taken enough medicine from the doctors to cure anyone, but obtained relief for a short time only. At last I concluded to write to you in regard to my case, and can say that by following your advice I am now pefectly well."

Mrs. W. R. BATES, Mansfield, La., writes:

"Before writing to you I suffered dreadfully from painful menstruation, leucorrhœa and sore feeling in the lower part of the bowels. Now my friends want to know what makes me look so well. I do not hesitate one minute in telling them what has brought about this great change. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is the greatest remedy of the age."

AMERICAN TROOPS SCATTER INSURGENTS

Lawton, Wheaton and Ovenshine's Men Swoop Down Upon Insurgent Trenches.

RESISTANCE STRONG, BUT THE ONSLAUGHT WAS SUCCESSFUL

Country Was Cleared From Manila To Bay Lake On the South--Two American Officers Killed.

A special from Manila says: At daybreak Saturday a force of 4,500 men under Generals Lawton, Wheaton and Ovenshine advanced from San Pedro Macati, sweeping the country between the bay of Manila and Bay lake, south of Manila. By noon the country had been cleared almost to Paranque.

The Americans lost two officers killed and twenty-one soldiers wounded.

The rebels resisted desperately at the stronger of their positions and left fifty dead in the trenches. Many more wounded were left behind by the rebels in their retreat. The heat during the day was overpowering and there were many prostrations of American soldiers from that cause.

General Lawton's force consisted of battalions each of the Twenty-first and Ninth infantry, six companies of the Colorado volunteers and a detachment of artillery. The Nevada cavalry was under General Wheaton and the Thirteenth and Fourteenth infantry, the Fourth cavalry and a detachment of light artillery were under General Ovenshine.

It was scarcely dawn when the troops, in a long, silent procession, wound up the hillside behind the American trenches and formed a skirmish line. Concealed in the jungle, the advance rebel outposts fired a few shots before being seen.

The opposing forces occupied two ranges of crescent shaped hills.

The artillery, the Colorado infantry and the Nevada calvary swung around the hill top on the left and opened the battle at 6:30 o'clock. The rebels made no response from the hills, and the Colorado men cautiously advanced through the thick grass until they were confronted by a trench, from which a few weak volleys were fired. A spirited response followed, and a charge into the trench found it to be deserted. In the meantime part of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth regiments formed in skirmish line, extending a mile to the right, and supported by the rest of the regiments, swept down the valley and up the hillside toward another trench. Approaching through the morass seriously hampered the Fourteenth, and the rebels taking advantage of this, poured a galling fire upon them for thirty minutes. The Fourteenth was twice compelled to withdraw for the purpose of finding a safe crossing in the swamp. Finally the trench was enfiladed on both flanks. The rebels fled to the woods and sustained severe loss.

General Lawton then pushed his entire command south, through the center of the isthmus, until a few miles south of Paranaque, when he swung around and halted on account of the heat.

During the march Americans were prostrated on all sides, owing to lack of water and exposure to the sun. It is estimated that 40 per cent of the troops were exhausted.

The double turreted monitor Monadnock and three other vessels shelled Paranaque, and the rebels promptly evacuated the place.

A dispatch received Sunday says: The Filipino occupation of the province of Cavite has been broken, and as the result of the present movement the Americans now control the important coast towns of Paranaque and Las Pinas, while a long line of insurgent trenches facing our south line has been cleared.

The insurgents have again proved their facility as dodgers, between 3,000 and 4,000 warriors who seemed destined to be captured having disappeared, the majority sliding away under cover of night, after fighting the Americans all day. Some others came to meet our troops with protestations of friendship.

The Thirteenth infantry lost one man killed and six wounded; the Ninth infantry, one man killed and five wounded, the Fourteenth infantry, three wounded, and the First Colorado volunteer agiment, eleven wounded. Saturday's work was the heaviest and hardest our army has seen.

Tho battlefield stretched across the entire isthmus from Laguna de Bay to the harbor. While the troops were advancing the army gunboat Rapidan, in the river near Taguig, shelled the enemy, killing several of them. The monitor Manadnock and the gunboat Helena shelled Paranaque and Las Pinas all day with the full power of their batteries.

The rebel sharpshooters kept in hiding until the American lines had passed, and then attempted to pot stragglers from the trees. Thanks to their poor marksmanship, this was without result.

The whole country proved to be a succession of small hills, with boggy ground between the high, thick grass and rushes in the hollows, which greatly added to the difficulty of the advance, but gave shelter that saved many from the enemy's bullets.

Our men threw away their blankets coats and even haversacks, stripping to the waist and trusting to luck for food. Water could not be obtained and there was much discomfort after the canteens were emptied.

At the outset the Colorados, the Ninth infantry and the Twenty-first infantry forced the line of insurgent trenches, wheeled to the left and drove the enemy toward the lake. During this maneuver, the Filipinos in concealed trenches on the right opened an enfilading fire, but the brigade, partly owing to the high grass, had few hit.

The Americans camped for the night south of the town, and in the midst of a heavy rain.

At 6 o'clock Sunday morning General Wheaton advanced upon Las Pinas with a troop of cavalry, the Twenty-first infantry, the Colorado regiment, part of the Ninth infantry and two mountain guns, crossing two streams and entering the town without firing a shot. He then advanced upon Paranaque.

The women and children, and, for that matter, many men remained in the town. No houses were destroyed, though many were torn by the shells from the warships. Everywhere the Americans found white flags flying. So far as can yet be ascertained, the Filipinos' loss is about fifty killed, about 350 wounded and twenty taken prisoners.

The whole country is net-worked with trenches, and the enemy scurried from shelter to shelter.

Dreyfus Goes Aboard.

A dispatch from Cheyenne, French Guiana, says: The French Sfax left the islands at 6:20 Saturday morning with Dreyfus on board. The latter embarked on the warship at 7 o'clock Friday morning.

General Wood Comes Home.

General Leonard Wood, military governor of Santiago, has been granted leave of absence in order that he may bring his family back to the United States.

MEDALS FOR NEGROES.

Four Members of Tenth Cavalry Rewarded For Bravery.

George H. Wanton, Fitz Lee, William H. Tompkins and Dennis Bell, all members of the Tenth cavalry, a negro regiment, have been awarded medals of honor for distinguished gallantry at Tayabacoa, Cuba, June 30, 1898, where, after a force had succeeded in landing and had been compelled to withdraw to the boats, leaving a number of killed and wounded ashore, they voluntarily went ashore in the face of the enemy and aided in the rescue of the wounded comrades, who would otherwise have fallen into the hands of the enemy.

LESS WHEAT SOWN.

Fourteen States Show Big Decrease Compared With Usual Amount.

Preliminary reports of the spring wheat acreage indicate a reduction of about 470,000 acres, or 2.5 per cent. Of the twenty states reporting 10,000 acres or upward in spring wheat, six report an increase aggregating about 245,000 acres and fourteen a decrease amounting to about 715,000 acres. There is a reduction of 7 per cent in North Dakota, five in Minnesota, eight in Iowa, three in Wisconsin, one in Nebraska and one in Oregon. On the other hand there is an increase of four per cent in South Dakota and of 6 per cent in Washington.

Forts Named For Officers.

By direction of the president two forts in Alaska have been named in honor of General John Gibbon and Colonel Henry C. Egbert. The latter was killed while leading his regiment in battle in the Philippines, March 26th.

To Take Place of Paris.

The American line has decided to build in this country a $2,000,000 ship equal to the St. Louis and St. Paul to replace the steamer Paris.

APPEAL BY NEGROE

Issued To Governors and Officials of the Southern States For Their Consideration.

A Washington dispatch says: The Afro-American council of the United States has issued an appeal to the governors, legislators and judicial officers of the southern states "to prevent lawlessness and to secure to all citizens the protection to which they are entitled under the laws."

After reference to the burning of Sam Holt, the lynching of Lige Strickland and the political riots in South Carolina and North Carolina, the appeal says:

"Since the first day of January there have been twenty-eight cases of lynching in the south and every one them colored. This is not only an unwarranted outrage upon them, but demoralizing to the white race. It terrorizes and unmans the former. It familiarizes the latter with lawlessness and crime, creating in them contempt for lawful authority and desire for mob rule. It is hurtful and destructive to the best interests of both.

"We deplore, condemn and denounce in unmeasured terms criminal assaults upon women, by whomsoever committed, and desire the apprehension and legal punishment of every criminal guilty of the crime. All we ask is that the regular machinery of justice be employed and the accused given a fair, impartial trial—the course pursued with white men charged with the same offense. In most of the southern states the white people are in a large majority and in all of them you are in absolute control.

"Every branch of the government—executive, legislative and judicial—is in your hands. The judges are all white men and the jurors are almost exclusively composed of white men. Colored offenders have little chance for escape when guilty of a petty offense and if guilty of a serious crime their conviction is certain. This fact is known to all men. There is, therefore, not the slightest excuse of justification for a resort to mob violence against colored criminals."

GERMANS DISGRUNTLED

Over Kaiser's Purchase of the Caroline Islands From Spain.

A Berlin dispatch says: The cession of South Sea Islands to Germany focused attention the past week. A curious feature was that while on receipt of the news the press as well as everybody at first expressed satisfaction, this changed rapidly as the week advanced, and the terms of the bargain became known. Not only did the radical and social press severely criticise the terms as exhoritant and far beyond the value of the islands, but a large portion of the press reflecting the views of other parties did the same. The Frankfort Zeitung says:

"The text of the agreement shows that Spain retains all the advantages of ownership, retains full liberty for the clerical orders; has a coaling station in each group of the islands and is put, commercially, on the same footing as Germany, while she merely cedes to Germany the onus of the cost of the administration and receives an exhorbitant price (seventeen millions) which probably no other power would have paid."

FITZ WAS FORTUNATE.

Though Defeated, the Cornishman Gets Big End of Purse.

Half of the receipts went to the Coney Island Sporting Club and half to the contestants. The amount taken in at the door was $85,270.

Half of the admission money amounted to $42,635. Of this Fitzsimmons received 60 per cent, or $25,581 and Jeffries 40 per cent, $17,054. The purse said to have been offered by the club was $20,000. In the event of Jeffries winning, this was to be equally divided, thereby making Fitzsimmons' total receipts $35,581, and Jeffries $27,054.

It is declared that Fitzsimmons would not make the match until he had been guaranteed the largest end of the purse and the gate money, owing to his reputation and position. Manager Brady accepted 40 per cent for his man, believing that in the long run such an amount and a decision were worth 60 per cent and a defeat.

LYNCHERS IN LIMBO.

Gov. Sayers Gives Out Report Concerning Killing of the Humphreys.

Governor Sayers, of Texas, made public Sunday the report of the assistant attorney general, Morris, who went to Athens, Henderson county, Texas, recently at the governor's instance, to investigate the lynching of the Humphreys brothers at that place.

The report reviews the entire situation attendant upon the lynching, and reports that the united efforts of the state and county officials have resulted in the apprehension of twelve persons charged with being in the mob, and that the apprehension of all those believed to be guilty will follow.

PROTECTION FOR LOUBET.

His Second Trip To the Races Was Reverse of the First.

President Loubet, of France, has had his revenge for the recent outrage at Auteuil. When he drove to Long Champ Sunday, to attend the Grand Prix, he was the hero of a great popular demonstration, expressed in one form or another, along the whole route from the Elysee palace to the race course.

JEFFRIES WHIPS FITZ

Championship Belt Is Now In New Hands.

THE BOUT WAS EXCITING

Both Men Fought Desperately, But the Boiler Maker Was the Victor.

James J. Jeffries, another sturdy young giant, has come out of the west to whip champion pugilists. At the arena of the Coney Island Athletic Club Friday night he defeated Robert Fitzsimmons, world's champion in two classes — middleweight and heavyweight—in eleven rounds of whirlwind fighting.

He came to the ring a rank outsider and left it the acknowledged master of the man he defeated. He was never at any time in serious danger and after the sizeup in the early rounds of the contest took the lead. He had the Australian whipped from the ninth round.

It was acknowledged that Jeffries would have an immense advantage in weight, height and age; but the thousands who tipped and backed his opponent to win were sure that he was slow and that he would in that respect be absolutely at the mercy of the past master at the science of fighting that he was to meet. He proved on the contrary that he was just as fast as the man he met and beat him down to unconscious defeat in a fair fight. He is a veritable giant in stature and marvelously speedy for his immense size.

Less than a year ago he appeared in New York a great awkward, ungainly boy. Today he is the lithe, active, alert, trained athlete. The men who prepared him for his fight worked wonders with him. They taught him a nearly perfect defense, improved his foot movement and instructed him in the methods of inflicting punishment. The transition since he appeared last has been little short of miraculous. At twenty-four he has defeated Robert Fitzsimmons, Tom Sharkey and Peter Jackson, and if he cares for himself he will probably be able to successfully defend the title for many years.

Jeffries fought from a crouching attitude that was hard to get at. He held his head low, his back was bent down and his left arm was extended. He kept jabbing away with the left and found no trouble in landing it. It was there his superior reach told. That giant arm served as a sort of human fender to ward off danger. He showed an excellent defense and the ability to use both hands with skill. He is game, too, for he never shrank from his punishment. It was a great fight to watch and commenced and ended amid scenes of intense excitement. It was all very dramatic.

Fitz Was In Good Form.

The defeated man was just as good as when on the crispy morning on the plains of far-away Nevada he lowered the colors of the then peerless Corbett. He was just as active, just as clever, just as tricky and just as fearless of punishment. He went unfalteringly to his defeat. He was the aggressor even at moments when he was bleeding and unsteady, and when stunned by the blows he received he reeled instinctively toward his opponent. He was fighting all the time and punished his opponent, but found him a different opponent from any he had met and a different man to fight.

The men fought before a crowd of 9,000 persons, and there was not a suggestion of interference from the police.

Fitz Dies Game.

The knockout blow came in the eleventh round when Jeffries assumed the aggressive and jabbed his left to head. A left on the jaw from Jeffries dazed Fitzsimmons, who stood in the middle of the ring. Jeffries looked at him for a second and when he had him at his mercy swung his right to the jaw and Fitzsimmons went down and out, relinquishing the championship to the Californian.

BANDIT CHIEF LYNCHED.

Enraged Cubans Take the Law Into Their Own Hands.

An official report from Holguin district, Cuba, describes the lynching of Antonia Garcia, a bandit chief, who was taken from the gendarmerie by indignant citizens and hanged. Holguin is one of the most lawless districts the island.

Several of Garcia's accomplices have offered to surrender to the American commander at Holguin, who cabled Major General Leonard Wood for instructions. General Wood's answer was:

"Make to terms with them; arrest the criminals."

Money in Something Besides Cotton.

Colonel Locke is preparing to raise celery and Irish potatoes in large quantities at his farm at Choccolocco Valley. Colonel Locke has 200 or 300 acres of good land and will try about ten acres in celery and thirty or forty acres in Irish potatoes this year. Celery has been and is being raised successfully in Anniston, and there is every reason why Colonel Locke should succeed in his venture.

WIPED OUT OF EXISTENCE.

The Village of New Richmond, Wis., Visited by Cyclone--Great Loss of Life.

The village of New Richmond, Wis., was almost wiped out of existence Monday afternoon by one of the most severe cyclones that ever visited that locality. It carried ruin and death in its path, and it is impossible to give even a partial list of those who are seriously injured. The estimated number of killed will reach 150, and several hundred wounded. Many of the houses were consumed by fire after the cyclone passed. Many people were killed while attending the circus which was showing there. The damage will run up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

A Tornado's Work.

A tornado Sunday evening struck two miles east of the little town of Salix, Ia., and killed three people outright and one more will die. The dead are: John Malloy, farmer; Mrs. Malloy, his wife; Marry Malloy, 16-year-old son. Miss Malloy, the 18-year-old daughter, had her skull fractured and is not expected to live

"KING OF HANGMEN."

Haunted by the ghosts of eighty-eight murderers and unable to sleep on account of his uncanny tormentors, George Maledon, the king of hangmen, is ending his days in poverty and misery on a little farm two miles south of Springdake, Ark. Maledon was for many years executioner at the Fort Smith Federal Court prison, where many of the most noted and desperate criminals that for years infested the Indian Territory were brought to trial before Judge Parker. In that capacity Maledon officiated at the hanging of eighty-eight men and won for himself the soubriquet of the "King of Hangmen." He has hung more men than any other officer in the history of the United States, and in his long experience became an expert in his line. He has at last fallen a victim to superstition or insanity.

KILLED HIS FRIEND.

Act of a Man Suddenly Bereft of His Reason.

News of a most horrible killing at Summerville, Grant county, has reached Pine Bluff, Ark. Sam Davis and Joe Hopper, two wealthy planters, were talking together when Hopper became suddenly insane, and picking up an ax he split Davis' head wide open, death resulting instantly. Hopper continued in his mad course and attacked several others, badly wounding them. He was finally overpowered and jailed at Hampton. Hopper said when jailed he was called of God to kill his friend Both parties are wealthy and have large families.

French Cabinet Resigns.

The French cabinet has resigned. President Loubet has accepted the resignations of the cabinet ministers, but has requested them to retain their offices until their successors are named. On leaving the chamber M. Dupuy observed to a group of deputies in the lobby: "We hand over the business to luckier, but not more courageous men."

Relics of the Red Man Unearthed.

While grading a country road near Ouchita river, seven miles from Hot Springs, Ark., several skeletons were unearthed, together with a number of pieces of antique pottery, one piece of which contained a sum of money in old silver coins. The relics were brought to the city and placed on exhibition. The opinion prevails that they are Indian relics.

Armed Brigands at Work in Cuba.

A dispatch from Puerto Padre, Cuba, says that a party of thirty men armed, sacked a store on the Marreri plantation at Palomas, securing a large sum of money. The rural guards pursued the outlaws, killed, Arauasio Diaz, and captured two, Belo and Citino, all Cubans and former members of the Spanish guerrilla forces.

Advices from Guanajay to the Associated Press and the local papers say that a party of twenty negroes, armed, but not mounted, attacked a plantation near Artemisa, killing the owner and carrying off a sum of money.

Result of a Shooting Affray.

The net result of a shooting which took place four miles from Dresden, Tenn., is one man dead, one dying and another dangerously wounded. Henry Fowler, a prominent farmer about 35 years of age, was instantly killed; John Fowler, his brother, is fatally wounded, and a man named Reagan is dangerously cut.

FATAL TEXAS FLOODS

Swollen Rivers Play Havoc Over Wide Area.

MANY PEOPLE DROWNED

Cattle Without Number Are Lost and Immense Damage Is Done To Farms and Crops.

Information received in Austin, Texas, Friday night from the flood-stricken district along the Colorado river to the northwest of the city, fully confirms former reports of loss of life and property. All telegraph and telephone wires are prostrated, while great tracts of wheat and corn have been devastated by the raging waters. Several people are known to have perished, and many more are unaccounted for at present.

The reports say the river rose so rapidly at San Saba that farmers and people living in the lowlands were unable to make their escape. H. H. Wells, a prominent farmer living a few miles north of the city, in attempting to rescue his family by boat, lost two daughters and barely succeeded in saving his own life and that of his wife and one small child. The body of one of the daughters, Lydia, was recovered during the day hanging from the top of a tree.

During the day something like 100 people, who had been swept away in the first flush of the flood, were rescued by means of volunteer parties in boats from their perilous position in tree tops. There are quite a number of these unaccounted for, and it may be that they have been drowned, although searching parties are still out looking for them.

The entire wheat crop was swept away by the flood, thus entailing a loss of thousands of dollars. Cattle, horses and hogs were drowned by the hundreds, and their carcasses have been washed away by the current. From all reports obtainable below San Saba, the entire country has been laid waste and the loss from the flood is almost beyond accurate estimate at this time, though it is thought to be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Friday at noon the water began receding very rapidly, and it is believed the worst is over.

During the flood a large number of houses were swept away, and many that withstood the flood are under water and their contents are wrecked.

There was no direct news from Manardville during the day, but indirect information via Llano is that the condition there is about the same as previously reported. The town has been badly devastated by the flood, and while no loss of life is assured, quite a number of negroes are reported missing, and it is presumed that they have been drowned. Here the river is falling rapidly, and it is believed that the flood has about subsided.

COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED

By President To Select Most Feasible Route For a Canal.

The president Friday appointed the following commission to determine the most feasible and practicable route for a canal across the Isthmus of Panama Rear Admiral John K. Walker, United States navy; Hon. Samuel Pasco, of Florida; Alfred Noble, civil engineer, of Illinois; George S. Morrison, civil engineer, of New York; Colonel Peter C. Haines, United States army; Professor William H. Burr, of Connecticut; Lieutenant Oswald H. Ernest, United States army; Lewis M. Haupt, civil engineer, of Pennsylvania; Professor Johnson, of Pennsylvania.

By the terms of the river and harbor act, under which this commission was appointed, the commission is to examine and investigate all the isthmus routes and report to congress upon two or more of them. Congress appropriated $1,000,000 to defray the expenses of the commission. Admiral Walker, who is at the head of the commission, says that he will call the members together at the earliest practicable moment.

TO DISTRIBUTE FRANCHISES.

War Department Will Arrange Concessions In Porto Rico.

The war department is considering the advisability of judiciously distributing some municipal franchises in Porto Rico for the construction of suburban trolley roads, electric and gas lighting systems and other public works.

The broader franchises for steam railroads and telegraphs will not be allotted yet.

Contrary to general belief, the Foraker resolution passed in congress forbidding the allottment of franchises applies only to Cuba, and not to Porto Rico.

MEDIATION IS SUGGESTED.

Transvaal Trouble May Be Settled By the United States.

The Westminster Gazette (London) says a rumor is current from a well-informed source that it has been proposed in a responsible quarter that the United States mediate between Great Britain and the Transvaal.

It is added that the suggestion is being considered and "it is even not improbable that such mediation may be undertaken."

ADVANCE IN WAGES.

Employes in Birmingham Rolling Mills Get an Increase of 25 Per Cent.

There is a feeling of much satisfaction in the ranks of the employes of the rolling mills in the Birmingham district over the signing of the scale by the committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and the Manufacturer's Association, which occurred Saturday evening in Detroit.

The many hundrod employes in the mills in Birmingham and the many thousand elsewhere will all begin work in July with an advance in their wages of no less than 25 per cent as compared with the wages they have been working at for some time. The employes seem to have been granted everything they asked for.

Massey Will Accept.

Governor Johnston and Dr. Eager went to Tuskegee Monday evening to see Dr. Massey and urge him to accept the presidency of the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo.

News has reached Montgomery saying that when the committee waited on him he signified his acceptance of the position.

Harry A. Brown, who suddenly disappeared about two weeks ago and was discovered to be about a thousand dollars short with Hobbie & Teague, for whom he was keeping books, was caught Monday in Austin, Tex., and an officer has left to bring him back.

Establishing Round Bale Compresses.

The American Cotton company, through its agent, T. W. Pratt, of Huntsville, has established about a dozen round bale compresses in Alabama within the past two months, presses having been placed at Springville, Demopolis, Selma, Montgomery and other cities in south Alabama, and will be placed immediately at Florence, Sheffield, Decatur, Scottsboro and Guntersville. Six compresses will be located this month in North Georgia and six more in East Tennessee.

Big Concerns at Huntsville.

The West Huntsville Land Company and the Huntsville Street Railway Company have been incorporated at Huntsville, Ala. Both concerns underwritten by DuPont, the powder man, and have each a capital of $100,000. The work of the street railway must begin in thirty days and cars must be running on over five miles of track in six months.

ALABAMA NEWS BREVITIES.

J. Q. Adams has bought the Abbieville Times. He was formerly associated with his brother, Joe H. Adams, of the Ozark Star.

Dr. J. P. Rorex having resigned from the board of confederate pension examiners at Scottsboro, Dr. E. R. Smith was appointed in his stead.

The Jasper Construction company has been awarded the contract to build two iron bridges for Walker county. One is to span Sipsey river at the point known as Ford's Bridge, and the other will be across North river, at Olive's Mill.

Mr. Jobe Williams, an aged and well known citizen of Walker county, was drowned at Ayers' mill, near Mulberry Tank. He was working at a fish trap and fell into the water beyond his depth. His son-in-law, Mr. Zach Taylor, did all in his power to rescue him, but Mr. Williams, being old and feeble, the attempt was unavailing.

Bland is Improving.

Mr. Bland's condition Monday night was encouraging. His pulse is stronger than for several days, and he has taken more nourishment than during any day since his collapse ten days ago.

Asking for Troops at Dunnellon, Fla

A special from Tallahassee, Fla., says: Four telegrams were received at the executive office Monday from the mayor of Dunnellon, a small mining town near Ocala, Fla., asking that troops be sent there at once. The negroes were reported to be in possession of the town, and walking about the streets heavily armed.

Governor Bloxham is in east Florida on a brief vacation, and Private Secretary Lang, being unable to ascertain the cause of the trouble, did not order out the militia.

Nitro-Glycerine Exploded.

At Marietta, O., an explosion of nitro-glycerine Monday destroyed the plant of the Marietta Torpedo company. Cal Harte, aged 45, and married, and Clyde Pottor, single, aged 21, were killed. No others were injured. Houses in the city, three miles distant, were shaken by the explosion.

Edward W. Ezell died suddenly at York Station, Ala., Monday.

THE CHRONICLE.

F. W. GIST, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

THE COURT PAPER STICKS TO ITS BOSS.

The Montgomery Journal is still inclined to criticise us for our views on the Montevallo affair, and in a recent issue undertakes to prove its position by referring to the opinions held by citizens of Montevallo on the subject. We beg to inform the Journal that we are aware of the animosities existing there between Captain Reynolds and some citizens of the town, and have known the situation much longer than our esteemed friend of the Journal has. The Journal takes the absurd position that because some citizens of Montevallo have said in a set of resolutions that they did not believe the change was a political one we ought not to think so. We have seen those resolutions, and they only express an opinion. The passers of the resolutions are entitled to their opinion just as we are entitled to ours, and we respect them. Such facts as they know and state we believe, but these do not cover the ground at all. These citizens of Montevallo were as much surprised at the change as we were, and only since the change did they pass the resolutions. It occurs to them to believe the Governor guiltless of political design and to believe Mr. Reynolds guilty of crookedness. Theirs is only a belief, so expressed in the resolutions, and prove nothing. On our part we believe the Governor guilty of political design, and we do not believe that the trustees had any facts before them to justify them in turning Reynolds out. As to Reynolds' guilt or innocence we have expressed no belief, and the Journal knows it. The charges were not made before the deposing of Reynolds, and they can not be set up afterwards as grounds of action.

However, an investigation is being made, and when the facts are made known we shall know whose opinion is best founded. The Journal is an inspired organ, but we repeat that its bold assertions are not self-evident truths, and we do not yet feel enlightened.

The Journal very facetiously remarks that "THE CHRONICLE seems to know less and affects to know more about the Montevallo affair than any daily or weekly in the State." If the Journal would read our entire article it would know that we have affected to know nothing. We have expressed an opinion, which we always do, and which, unlike the Journal's is unbiased by favor or prejudice, except in the interest of the school. The Journal has bothered itself very little about the school until the interests of the school and those of the Journal's political boss clashed, since which it has had a great deal to say, always waiting a good long while before it speaks even then, waiting, we presume, for inspiration from its fountain head. The difference between the Journal and THE CHRONICLE is that the former is the mouthpiece of the administration, while the latter reflects only the opinions of its editor. The former is inspired; the latter can only depend upon open circumstances.

THE TAX RATE.

The court of county commissioners at its meeting last week, fixed the county tax rate for the coming year at 4 mills. This, together with the tax already levied under the road law, makes the total county tax rate 6 mills. This is one mill above the limit fixed by the constitution on taxes for county purposes. Judge Longshore claims to have some decisions of the supreme court which uphold this excess. For general information we give the law on this subject.

Section 5 of Article XI of the State Constitution says:

No county in this State shall be authorized to levy a larger rate of taxation in any one year, on the value of the taxable property therein, than one-half of one per centum. Provided, That to pay debts existing at the ratification of this constitution, an additional rate of one-fourth of one per centum may be levied and collected, which shall be exclusively appropriated to the payment of such debts or the interest thereon. Provided, further, That to pay any debt or liability now existing against any county, incurred for the erection of the necessary public buildings or other ordinary county purposes, or that may be hereafter created for the erection of necessary public buildings or bridges, any county may levy and collect such special taxes as may have been or may hereafter be authorized by law, which taxes so levied and collected shall be applied exclusively to the purposes for which the same were so levied and collected.

Section 17 of the road law for this county provides "that the court of county commissioners of said counties shall levy a special tax of not less than one-tenth, or more than one-fifth of one per cent on all taxable property of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby Counties, to be assessed and collected as other taxes, and when paid into the treasury, it shall be kept separate from other funds and used only for the purpose indicated in this act; which special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the constitution for county purposes."

Taken in connection with the plain language of the constitution given above, this would indicate to the ordinary individual that the intention of the road law was not to run the total tax above one-half of one per centum

The legality of the levy will doubtless be tested, and if it proves to be illegal no end of trouble will ensue. If it stands the people will bear a tax burden which will be quite heavy for them.

VIEWS OF A CONGRESSMAN.

Hon. Gaston A. Robbins, of Selma, Ala., who was unseated in the Fifty-fourth Congress as the result of a contest on the part of Hon. W. F. Aldrich, is at the Wellington. Mr. Robbins never believed that he was fairly deprived of his membership in the house, and last fall ran again as the Democratic nominee, his opponent again being Mr. Aldrich, who was apparently distanced in the race, but who will again contest the claim of Mr. Robbins to represent the district. The latter does not fear that he will be unseated this time. Being questioned as to the political status in Alabama, Mr. Robbins said: "Our State at present can be set down as strongly in favor of the renomination of Mr. Bryan and of the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, with some additional planks, one of which will be the severest arraignments of trusts that can be framed in the English language. Our next legislature will enact an anti-trust law as rigid as the recent legislation of Arkansas and Texas on the same subject. But I am free to say that there is no anti-imperialistic sentiment in Alabama. On the contrary, our people are strong believers in territorial expansion, at least so far as this hemisphere is concerned, and in commercial expansion that will include the habitable universe. We see that this is the policy that will foster our industries and make of Alabama one of the richest States in the Union. You can't preach inti-expansion to a people who are exporting coal to Central and South America, iron to England, and sewer and water pipe to China and Japan. We are in hot competition for the markets of the world and with unlimited resources and unrivaled advantages are certain of not being left behind in the race."

Mr. Robbins is eminently correct in his views except as to the anti-imperialistic sentiment. In this he is very properly influenced by his great faith in the future commercial and industrial importance of his State, though he is somewhat in error as to there being no anti imperialistic sentiment among our people. He is right on the subject of the Chicago platform and trusts, especially the latter. The sentiment against trusts is growing, and there will be a determined effort to uproot this great evil.

THE investigation of the Montevallo affair is in progress. Now let public have the unvarnished facts, and then let the school go on to success.

WE have had just three years of Populist control of county affairs, and the tax rate is just double what it was when they went into power. The people will wonder why is the wherefore of the thusness.

THE unfortunate affair at Calera is most likely the result of too much talk by people who knew nothing of facts. Madam Grundy always manages to make trouble for everybody but herself.

WHEN the affairs of this county passed out of the hands of the Democrats in 1896 the tax rate was 3 mills, and the balance in the treasury was $1,889.10. It has now been under Populist control for three years, and the tax rate is 6 mills, with a balance in the treasury of $7,557.27 on the first of January last. A goodly portion of that amount must have been exhausted that the commissioners found it necessary to fix the tax rate above the constitutional limit for the next year.

By Mrs. F. W. GIST.

Shelby Springs is the center at present of a large circle of brilliant club women from different sections of the State. At times the music and dancing and even dinner itself is half forgotten, when the club women get deep into discussions about their various clubs at home, their topics of study, rules and regulations, and especially when the meeting of the Federation at Mobile is mentioned. At this juncture there is on every face a look of inquiry and consternation, then a little embarrassment, and more amusement when someone says Mrs. so and so were you there? "Oh, no, and I'm so glad I was not there." We have not yet met a club woman in the State who did not attend but expresses gratification that she did not. Sometime since a friend and very prominent woman wrote us, "You have much to learn about that Federation." Well, my dear, we are "learning." We have talked with lots who attended and scores who did not, and with al have found none who have read more about it than ourself. Among the bright club women here are Mrs. Quarles, Mrs. Storey, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Vaughn, Miss Gertrude Shoaf, Mrs. Pond and many others. We have conceived an idea of trying to secure Mrs. French or some other authority on parliamentary law to come over and teach a class of club women at the Springs this summer. There is too much hitching and hanging, however, on the matter of parliamentary law. One bright woman said the other evening, "No matter what I think on a matter under discussion at our club I always keep quiet, for I am no parliamentarian and am afraid to rise or speak for fear I will commit a breach." In this remark she no doubt voiced the feelings and actions of scores who, mayhap, conceive the brightest of ideas but are afraid to express them, because our women are getting to be such fine parliamentarians.

***

Womans' Work in its new appearance as "Official Organ" comes in for its share of comment and endorsement. In discussing the matter with Mrs. Will Reynolds at Montevallo, we were much impressed with her enthusiasm. When such women as she, with her usual reserve and timidity, bursts forth with the exclamation, "We must put our shoulders to the wheels that engineer "Womans Work" and make it a success!" The word fail must be a stranger to our club women else we are lost and disgraced.

PURE POPULISM

Is to be the Battle Cry Next Year.

Some days ago a representative of THE CHRONICLE had a conversation with a prominent Populist of this county who was inclined to be talkative, and he favored us with an outline of the policy to be pursued by his party in this county in the campaign of next year. As an excuse for his communicativeness he mentioned the fact that THE CHRONICLE had been assiduously calling attention to the evils of fusion, and especially of the power the negro is fast gaining in the politics of the county. This gentleman said in substance:

"There will be no fusion of the Populists in this county next year. There has been one or two conferences of the leading members of our party, and they are agreed that there shall be none but straight middle-of-the-road Populists put upon the ticket for county officers next year. We realize that no party can long bear the odium which attaches to fusion in a Southern State. We know that the Republican party is dominated by negroes, and that the white men who affiliate with them are not to be relied upon. We further realize that there is a wide difference in our political views, and that when we receive them as our allies we sacrifice just so much of our principles. In the second place we realize that the men whom the Republicans force upon us are not acceptable to the good people of the county, and that when we take them up instead of some of our own good men we are the sufferers. The real Populists we have elected in this county are fairly good, honest and competent men, but we can not claim so much for the Republicans we have put in office with our votes.

"For these reasons we have decided to put out a ticket next year composed of good and clever men and everyone of them will be a Populist, without any taint of Republicanism in his political views. The negroes will not be asked nor allowed to take any part in the naming of candidates as they have been heretofore. We will put up a ticket of white men, nominated by white men, and it will be elected by white voters. We expect to get the support of all the Johnston Democrats for such a ticket as this, and our own people will rally to the support of such a ticket, which they have not done for the last two tickets put out on the fusion plan.

"We will be forced to do this for the safety of our own party. The Republicans, flushed with their success, are beginning to seek to dominate our party councils. In a large measure they are controlling the policy of our paper, and altogether we see the danger of their getting us under their complete control. The Democrats will not have the opportunity of chiding us with negro domination in the future."

We were frank enough to say to the gentleman that such a course would relieve his party of much of the bad reports that always attaches to dickering with the negro in politics. He gave us the name of some of the men who will be nominated. Among them are John S. Pitts, the present tax assessor, and R. F. Cox, of Bridgeton, who will be a candidate for sheriff.

The Sabbath Day.

MR. EDITOR:

I have been thinking for some time that I would say something about the convenience that is being made of the Lord's Day. The writer is a citizen of your city and has been since the 18th of September 1872, and I am sorry to say that I have been one of your Sabbath breakers, but have been brought from darkness to light by the kind providence of Almighty God. I know that custom has a great deal to do with the way and manner in which we live. I have seen people in our city who make it a practice to transact all their business on the Lord's Day, that is not in direct violation of the laws of our land, when they know it is a violation of God's law, yet they go on premeditatively and with malice aforethought, damning their own souls and pulling the rising generation down to perdition with them.

There are heads of families in your city, members of your various churches, who allow their children to stay away from Sunday school and only occasionally go to hear a gospel sermon preached. In my humble opinion the younger generation are not chargeable with the neglect of duty so much as the mothers and fathers. The plans are made all through the week for a parade on Sunday by the young people and the mothers and fathers furnish the horses, buggies, bicycles and money that their children may have a big time out of Sunday school and church on Sunday. Then they say "we have never seen a time that we needed a gracious revival in our midst as we do now." This seems to me to be inconsistent. A tree is known by its fruit.

A few days ago there was a young lady visitor in our city attending a social gathering who was asked by one of our prominent young men to see her to her home. She declined on the grounds that he was slightly intoxicated. We want more of this kind. The young ladies of our city could, if they would, be a power for good if they would cease to recognize any young man who patronizes the blind tiger or is ever known to drink or to swear an oath.

Give us better home government and we will have fewer street bummers on Sundays and a better attendance at our Sunday schools and prayer meetings and better behavior during services.

What we want is more religion and less politics, more right and less wrong, more church-going people and better ones, more love and less hatred, more sacrifice and less selfishness. In all pursuits of life, ask yourself the question, What would Jesus do?

WEEKLY ADVERTISER. 50 CENTS A YEAR.
(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)
CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better that it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

The Alabama Fertilizer
Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.
It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.
The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mummia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cet preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE
Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.
One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.
The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 15 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.
The Journal does not guarantee results, but the result of the test at the Experiment Station make it worth a farmer's while to try these seed when they cost him nothing.
The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.
THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

SHOOTING AT CALERA.

Railroad Agent Gets a Bullet in His Shoulder.

RESULT OF DOMESTIC TROUBLE.

Lively Scrimmage for a Few Moments While Bullets Flew.

Frank Turpen, the agent of the Southern and L. & N. Railroads at Calera, was shot in the shoulder by Will Wade at Calera on Saturday last about 11 o'clock. John Wade took a hand in the shooting, and all three are under bond for their appearance at circuit court.

As to all such affairs there are two stories told about the shooting and the circumstances leading up to it. For some time the town of Calera has been in somewhat of an uproar over a supposed case of domestic trouble in which Turpen and Mrs. Wade figured. On his side Turpen claims that Will Wade and wife have been attempting to blackmail him. The details of the affair cover a period of some three months back, beginning with what Turpen claims to have been nothing more than indiscretion on the part of Mrs. Wade and himself, and leading up to a demand on the part of the Wades for a money settlement of the trouble. On the other hand Mrs. Wade claims that Turpen attempted to criminally assault her, and has circulated the story of attempted blackmail to justify himself. There are many details given by each side which would make spicy reading, but which we refrain from repeating.

The trouble culminated Saturday in the shooting, and there are also two stories concerning that.

The story given by Wade is to the effect that Mrs. Wade proposed that they go to Turpen's place of business and see if he would repeat to them what he had been talking to others. They started to the freight depot, where Turpen had his office. Arriving there they started to the door of the office, and when Will Wade had reached the door Turpen thrust his pistol around the door facing and fired upon him, burning his hand and face but missing him with the bullet. Turpen then slammed the door in his face, when he drew a pistol and fired, the bullet going through the door. A general fusilade followed, Wade standing out on the platform and Turpen being down on his knees on the inside shooting through doors and windows, while Mrs. Wade stood screaming on the platform and the freight clerks on the inside were calling lustily for someone to come and stop the row. Tupen was hit by one bullet in the shoulder. In the meantime John Wade, hearing the shooting came up from his store and took a hand.

Mr. Turpen is said by the Wades to have fired the first shot, and he was arrested Monday on a warrant charging him with assault with intent to murder. He waived a preliminary examination and gave bond in the sum of $1,000. He was carried to Birmingham Monday to have the bullet extracted, and at last account was resting easily.

It is claimed by Turpen that Wade came to the door with a pistol in his hand, and fired on Turpen as the latter stepped behind the door. Both the Wades have been arrested on a charge of assault with intent to murder, and are also charged with carrying concealed weapons and in the mayor's court with disturbing the public peace.

The affair is a very unfortunate one, and before the trials are over will develop into a series of charges and countercharges revolting to the public. Mr. Turpen has been a highly respected citizen of Calera, and was a prominent member of the church. He was a widower, his wife having died a few months ago. Mrs. Wade was a Miss McElroy, and was highly esteemed in Calera as a quiet girl and good woman. Will Wade has been there for a number of years, while his brother is a new comer.

None are so blind as those who will not see. We learn that a few of our friends who neglected to profit by our advice and take Simmons Liver Regulator are still suffering in consequence. We regret to learn that anyone in town could make such a mistake, and therefore again urge upon you the necessity of taking Simmons Liver Regulator if you wish to avoid billousness, constipation, dyspepsia, headache, malaria and all liver diseases.

RESOLUTIONS OF REGRET

Passed by Masonic Lodge on Loss of Two Members.

Death has again invaded our ranks and removed from among us a beloved and faithful Masonic brother, Isaac D. Mason.

In his death we are sorely bereaved. We have lost from our lodge and fraternity and from the community a man faithful in all the relations of life and under all the trying conditions to which are commonly exposed. He was a brother true to all his Masonic obligations; illustrating most beautifully the noble tenets of our ancient and honorable order by the many virtues and excellent qualities which he possessed and exhibited during his entire life of usefulness and activity. Zealous and careful in all he engaged; honorable and upright in all his dealings with his fellow men, and more especially with a brother Mason; sincere in his attachments of friendship and brotherhood; and warm and unaffected in his associations with his brethren, he abundantly manifested the beauty, simplicity and moral excellence of the sublime tenets of Free Masonry.

Be it therefore resolved, That while we mourn his death and feel ourselves greatly bereft we bow submissively to this sore dispensation of a gracious and all-wise Providence.

2. That our sincere condolence be, and is hereby, tendered to the sorrowing family and friends, with the earnest prayer that He who is a Father to the fatherless and a Husband to the widow may bountifully comfort and sustain them in this time of their sorest grief.

3. That the thanks of Shelby Lodge No. 140 are due, and they are hereby offered, to the brethren of Corinthian, Calera and Wilsonville lodges for their hearty and prompt response to assist in the funeral rites.

4. That these resolutions be spread on our minutes and that a page in the records of Shelby Lodge No. 140 be appropriated to his memory, on which shall be inscribed his name, age and date of his death; that our members wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days and that the altar be draped for the same length of time.

5. That these resolutions be furnished The Chronicle and People's Advocate for publication, and that a copy of the same be sent to the family of the deceased.

What Shall we Do?

A serious and dangerous disease prevails in this country, dangerous because so deceptive. It comes on so slowly yet surely that it is often firmly seated before we are aware of it.

The name of this disease which may be divided into three distinct stages, is, fiast, Kidney trouble, indicated by pain in the back, rheumatism, lumbago frequent desire to urinate, often with a burning sensation, the flow of urine being copious or scant with strong odor.

If allowed to advance, this reaches the second stage, or Bladder trouble, with heavy pain in the abdomen low down between the navel and the water passage, increasing desire to urinate, with scalding sensation in passing, small quantities being passed with difficulty, sometimes necessary to draw it with instruments. If uric acid or gravel has formed, it will prove dangerous if neglected.

The third stage is Bright's Disease.

There is comfort in knowing that Dr. Kilmer, the great kidney and bladder specialist, has discovered a remedy, famous for its marvelous cures of the most distressing cases, and known as Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root.

It is sold by all druggists.

As a proof of the wonderful virtues of this discovery, Swamp Root, a sample bottle and a book of valuable information will be sent absolutely free by mail on application to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in The Chronicle.

CORPS OF TEACHERS FOR THE YEAR

Investigation of Reynolds' Accounts Now In Progress.

Dr. John Massey, for many years the head of the Alabama Conference Female College, Tuskegee, was named as the president of the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo at a meeting of the board of trustees at Birmingham Saturday.

Dr. Massey accepted and afterwards declined the position. His latter action is regretted, as he is a man of excellent character and great ability.

Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, of Montevallo, was elected college physician.

The following from the Montgomery Journal gives the status of affairs at present and the prospects for the future:

The following teachers for the ensuing scholastic year have been agreed upon by the board of trustees:

Principal—Mrs. Mary C. Babb.

Mathematics—Miss Callin, of Dallas, and Miss Mary G. Stallworth, of Monroe County.

English and History—Miss Annie Kennedy, of Bibb County, and Miss Sophie Fitts, of Tuscaloosa.

Pedagogy—Miss Elizabeth M Haley, of Walker, and Miss Harwell, of Escambia.

Assistant in English—Miss Vernon Nix, of Montgomery.

Music—Miss Laura Dale, of Wilcox. Miss Sallie Crumpton, of Conecuh. Miss Edna Bush, of Mississippi, Miss Sampey, of Escambia, Miss Pearl Wilson, of Clarke, and Miss Maud Sherman, of Mobile.

Telegraphy—Miss Florence Hudson, of Perry County.

Cooking—Miss Nellie Evans.

Stenography and Typewriting—Miss Thompson, of West Virginia

Elocation—Miss Granbery, of Escambia County.

Millinery and Dressmaking—Miss Barney Mae Wade, of Montgomery, Miss Burke, of Lowndes, Miss Sanders, of Shelby, Miss Mary Bibb, of Montgomery.

There are several departments yet to be filled by the board.

It is the intention of the board of trustees during the next session to erect three additional dormitories and also an administration building, the chapel of which will accommodate about 600 students. A number of departments will then be added, for instance, a school for kindergarten instruction, photography, printing, dairying, and certainly not least but that which is dear to every feminine heart—a school of floriculture. It is the further hope of the trustees to have completed within the next six months such a conservatory that the students of the school may cull their flowers with practicability coupled with their floral poesy from their own flower beds at the school.

The board of trustees also hope by the time the next session of this school opens to have provided for the girls a full equipped hall of calesthenics and physical culture and a completed natatorium.

The patrons, especially the mothers and sisters of those attending the school may always consider themselves welcome guests, and when they visit the institution they will find a glad welcome and a parting "come again" when they go.

The Girls' Industrial School of Alabama is now the pride of the people of the State. Its trustees seem to be determined to see that its honor remain untarnished and whatever lies in their power will be done to further the best interests of the girl students of the State.

An investigation of the accounts of Captain Reynolds is in progress now, being conducted by the finance committee, aided by a State examiner. Captain Reynolds is represented by Cecil Browne, of Talladega, and we will probably know the facts in a short while.

Later information is to the effect that the State examiner, after having his authority denied by Reynolds attorney, took the first train home. Mr. Bloch, of the finance board, after having notified Captain Reynolds to file his May account, called on him for his whole account from beginning to end of his control. Captain Reynolds replied that all his monthly accounts and vouchers were in the hands of the committee and that he had nothing else to offer. He then filed his account for May, which leaves the school indebted to Mr. Reynolds in something like $4,100. Mr. Bloch is in charge of the school at present.

Sterrett Locals.

Several of the old soldiers went to Columbiana Monday to see about their pensions.

Mrs. Emma J. Baxley, of Tyler, Tex., is visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.

An old gentleman named Garrett, who lived at Sterrett Lumber Co.'s mill and who had suffered some twenty-five or twenty-six years from a cancer, died and was buried here the first Sunday.

Death has relieved another aged and long afflicted woman, Mrs. Caroline White, wife of James W. White. She had suffered many long years, being an invalid for several years of the time, but God has called her hence and she is at rest. She died Friday and was buried Saturday afternoon. Rev. S. V. McGinnis conducted the funeral services. She was one of our oldest citizens. She leaves her husband, several children and friends to mourn he demise.

The angel of death has again visited the home of W. H. Falkner, claiming this time as its victim his wife, Mrs. S. E. Falkner, who after two years of pain and suffering, was called home to that haven of rest, on June 2, at 2.30 p. m. She was calmly helpless for over three weeks before death relieved her; but through it all she bore her afflictions without a murmur. She longed to be with Jesus but said, "The Lord's will be done." Deceased was a devoted christian and a member of Beulah Baptist church, being the last member left that went into its constitution in 1852. She was 65 years of age, lacking only seven days. The funeral services were conducted on Sunday by Rev. S. V. McGinnis, assisted by the pastor, Rev. M. Butts, of Childersburg. She leaves a sorrowing companion and two sons, J. H. and J. S. Falkner, also other relatives and friends to mourn her departure, and has gone to join her sainted daughter in singing the praises of Jesus throughout the ages of eternity. Grieve not for mother, for

Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

Manure for Early Potatoes.

It is hardly possible to make land too rich where the early crop of potatoes is to be planted. The rich soil insures early growth of the plants, and that they will come up with thick, vigorous stalks, which is the unfailing sign of a good crop. Too much manure will cause rot in potatoes late in the season, but with early potatoes the crop is generally harvested before it has time either to mature or rot. Generally the early potato crop may be got off in time to plant cabbage for a late crop, and there will be richer soil for the cabbage roots than there was while the potatoes were growing.

Feeding Sitting Hens.

A hen does not know much at the best. If she once begins to sit, even though it be on an empty nest, her attention will be so entirely devoted to the business she has undertaken that she will remain on the nest without taking time to take necessary food and drink. Such a hen very quickly runs down in flesh, and is also probably permanently injured for egg production. Nature cannot sustain life without food, and if other food is not provided, it is quite probable that what eggs she has in her ovum that are not forward enough to lay will be absorbed, and aid in keeping up the hen's vitality, such as milk may be when a cow is partially starved. At least once a day the hen should be pulled off the nest, and not allowed to go to it until she has taken both water and grain. The best grain of all for a sitting hen if you want to cure her sitting fever is wheat. We have usually found that if hens were fed wheat while sitting, and after their chickens were hatched, that they would not remain with their chickens longer than to give them time to learn to roost before they would begin to lay eggs again. If a hen is too old to break up thus, she is too old to be longer kept for profit.

The Best Silage Crops.

The principal crops available for silage are corn, clover, oats and peas, millet and soy beans. Corn is the leading silage crop of America. It can be grown upon a greater variety of soils, and in greater ranges of climate than any other forage plant. It will also produce a larger amount of food constituents than any other of the common fodders. Fifteen to twenty tons of green fodder per acre is a fair yield, although twenty to twenty-five are not uncommon. There is great choice in varieties, but few being specially suited to the climate of New England. Mammoth Ensilage and Leaming are two of the most desirable kinds. The best variety for any locality is one that will give a large proportion of ears and yet mature before frosts are likely to occur. The most valuable part of the fodder is found in the ears and leaves, so that the largest growing kinds do not always give the greatest food value.

Clover, if well stored, makes an elegant silage, but has not been widely used for this purpose. It is much more valuable, pound for pound, than corn silage. Owing to the fact that it is rich in nitrogen and protein, certain forms of fermentation may go on quite extensively, and bad smelling silage is sometimes the result. This condition has been observed especially in clover stored for a few weeks in the summer and fed during the hot weather of August. To make the best silage, this crop should be harvested when fairly succulent, perhaps before full bloom. It should be finely cut, solidly packed, and after placing in the silo, be at once heavily weighted.

Oats and Canada peas may be stored in the silo during July. Like clover, this crop has a larger amount of the more valuable food constituents than corn. Yields of ten to twelve tons per acre are readily obtained. Millet has also been successfully grown as a silage crop, although light yields have been a common objection. A new variety, known as the Japanese millet, gives considerable promise as a forage crop for silage. It produces very heavy yields, often as high as fifteen tons of green crop per acre.—Professor C. S. Phelps of the Connecticut Experiment Station.

Grafting and Budding Trees.

The proper season for grafting or budding trees is when the buds begin to open upon the stock to be grafted, but it is better that they should not have started on the scions, which is the reason for cutting the scions in winter and keeping them in a cool place until wanted to retard their growth. We have successfully set scions cut the same day, but they were from trees not as far advanced as the stock, either by reason of being a later variety or growing in colder soil, but as a rule would have scions cut in winter, but when not frozen.

As so many trees have been injured by the weather the past winter many may desire to graft seedling trees to set in place of those killed, or to convert old trees of undesirable varieties into better sorts. They may be grafted at almost any age after one year old, and for young trees where the scion and the stock are nearly of the same size, splice or whip grafting is the best method. After the stock is two inches through, and upon limbs of that size in old trees, cleft grafting is usually done. We have seen limbs much larger, cleft open, and two or more scions put in, taking pains of course to match the bark of the scion with that of the stock or branch in which it is set. In such case usually all are cut away the next spring, but the most thrifty one, though sometimes two are left to form a crotch in the tree, but such crotches are more liable to be weak and split down than one formed naturally by a branching limb.

In grafting branches of old trees do not cut away more than one-third of the old limb in one year, as the loss of so much foliage may injure it. If it is desired to change the character of the whole tree, it is better to take three or four years for the work.

We do not like to graft a late apple or pear into the stock of an early-ripening variety, or a sour apple into a sweet, as we think the character of the fruit is often, of not always, affected by the character of the stock. And we would not set a rapid-growing sort into a slow-growing stock or any into a sort liable to early decay, as when the scion outgrows the stock it is a deformity, and if stock dies young the branches must die. Not all orchardists or nurserymen would sustain us in our opinion upon the first named points, but we were never convinced that we were wrong, though we have seen three or four kinds of apples grafted and growing well upon one tree. As a curiosity it was a success, as the apples varied in size, color and time of ripening, but it is desirable only where one has not room for as many trees as he desires to have varieties.

Some growers often prefer budding to grafting, and it is quite as easily done if undertaken when the sap has started enough to allow the bark to separate readily from the wood that the bud may be inserted. It is most usually practiced on all stone fruits, though some succeed well in grafting the plum trees. Apples and pears are not budded as frequently as they are grafted, but it is sometimes done, and we know of no objections to it. It may be less difficult than splice grafting on trees two or three years old.

A sharp knife and a good quality of grafting wax or waxed cloth are the main requisites in either grafting or budding, after, of course, having good stocks and good scions. In cleft grafting a chisel or other tools to split the stock, and a wedge to hold it open until the scion is in, are needed unless the knife is a strong one.

After grafting, when the buds on scions have started well, loosen the bandage, that it may not be too tight, and see that the wax is covering all the wound. After budding, in the next spring or often in the fall, the branch of the old tree should be cut off above the bud to allow the new branch to come up into place.—American Cultivator.

Expert Cheese Making.

Have a good set of scales and a nice clean strainer in a clean vat. Examine each can of milk as it is emptied into the weighing can. Have a sample tested and pay according to test. As the milk is being weighed, the temperature should gradually be raised to 85 degrees. The milk should be stirred gently to keep cream from rising and to insure an even temperature. Add coloring if wanted and stir to mix it in thoroughly. Do not apply rennet for 10 or 15 minutes after steam has been turned off unless milk is overripe. Add good rennet (diluted with water) enough to coagulate it fit for the knife in 30 minutes. Then cut lengthwise with horizontal knife, commencing before the curd is hard, moving very carefully not to disturb the mass. Then cut crosswise, with perpendicular knife, then lengthwise. The curd will be about the size of dice. Turn the curd with the hands very carefully, going twice around the vat. Loosen particles at sides or bottom of the pan, then turn curd over carefully with hands, going twice around the vat again before applying the heat. It pays to be very careful in handling while the curd is soft. After heating, stir constantly, keeping all the particles of curd separate, raise temperature say two degrees per hour until the curd is cooked, never above 98 degrees, or 96 degrees in dry and clear weather.

Run off the whey until there is just enough to cover the curd, which I would stir so as to expel the whey and get it well and evenly cooked. When the curd is fairly firm and shows one-eighth inch of acid by the hot iron test, the whey should be drawn off and the curd dipped into a sink and stirred until fairly dry. One of the fine points is to know just how much moisture to leave on the cheese at this stage. If the acid is developing fast the curd will need to be stirred drier than otherwise. Spread the curd evenly over the racks in the sink about five inches deep, being careful to have it the same depth at the sides and ends as in the middle. After it has matted, cut with a thin-bladed, dull pointed knife into strips about eight inches wide, turn over, doubling the pieces at the ends of the sink. In about 15 minutes, cut through the centre and turn again, putting the outer ends in and doubling if the acid is developing slowly, but if fast, do not double. Sometimes it is necessary to pile. An even temperature of all the curd is important. When sufficient acid is developed (one inch by acid test to two inches on cool day) cut into pieces about five inches square ready for the curd cutter. After milling, stir well. When it has a nice cheesy flavor, cuts smooth and close and shows butter when squeezed in the hand, apply the salt, 2 1-2 pounds to 1000 pounds milk, well stirred in. After standing 15 minutes it is ready for the press. All cheese should be uniform in make and size and finish. Put to press at 84 degrees, increasing pressure gradually at first. Take out in 45 minutes, pull bandage and leave no wrinkles. Put on cap cloths nicely, then put back in press, adding pressure gradually but not too strong. Turn cheese in the press in the morning and leave under pressure until the press will be needed for next batch in the afternoon.

An even temperature of about 70 degrees is important. In summer doors and windows should be open in the evening after sundown and early in the morning and closed shortly after sunrise, to keep out the heat. An ice box is good. On cool days, leave shutters and windows open on shady side of building. Plenty of light and air is good, but keep it out of direct draft and out of direct sunlight. In cooler weather, a stove or steam heat may be used to keep the temperature up to 70 degrees. The whole curing room should be clean and in order, and the shelves need to be dusted every day when new cheese is put upon them. Turn every day until three or four weeks old, when this will be fit to ship.—Thomas J. Dillon in New England Homestead.

TEN CENTS A HUNDRED MILES.

What It Costs a Tramp to Travel by Railroad—An Interstate Nuisance.

Mr. Josiah Flynt's article on "The Tramp and the Railroads" in the Century embodies his experience in investigating the tramp nuisance on a single road. He estimates that ten thousand tramps ride free on American railroad trains every night of the year.

To-day it is the boast of the hoboes that they can travel in every state of the Union for a mill per mile, while in a number of states they pay nothing at all. On lines where brakemen demand money of them, ten cents is usually sufficient to settle for a journey of a hundred miles, and twenty cents often secures a night's ride. They have different methods of riding, among which the favorite is to steal into an empty box car on a freight train. At night this is comparatively easy to do; on many roads it is possible to travel this way, undisturbed, till morning. If the train has no "empties," they must ride on top of the cars, between the "bumpers," on one of the car ladders, or on the rods. On passenger trains they ride on top, on the "blind baggage," and on the trucks.

It is no exaggeration to say that every night in the year ten thousand free passengers of the tramp genus travel on the different railroads in the ways mentioned, and that ten thousand more are waiting at watering tanks and in railroad yards for opportunities to get on the trains. I estimate the professional tramp population at about sixty thousand, a third of whom are generally on the move.

In summer the entire tramp fraternity may be said to be "in transit." The average number of miles travelled daily by each man at this season of the year is about fifty, which, if paid for at regular rates would cost, say, a dollar. Of course one should not ordinarily pay so much to ride in a box car as in a passenger coach, but the ordinary tramp is about as comfortable in one as in the other, and, on the dollar-a-trip basis, he and his 59,999 companions succeed in getting out of the railroad companies sixty thousand dollars' worth of free transportation every day that they all travel. Multiply this figure by a hundred, which is about the number of days in a year when all trampdom "flits," and you have an approximate idea of how much they gain.

Another serious loss to the railroads is that involved in the disappearance of goods undergoing transportation, and in claims for personal injuries. Some tramps steal, and some do not, but every year considerable thefts are made from freight cars, and tramps, or men posing as such, are generally the guilty parties. Professional thieves frequently become tramps for a time, both to minimize their guilt and elude capture, and the probability is that the majority of the greater thefts are committed by them. Tramps proper are discouraged thieves, and I have seldom known them to steal anything more valuable than fruit from freight cars and metal from idle engines. In a year's time, however, including all the thefts committed by both tramps and professional thieves, a very appreciable loss results to the railroads, and I can recall, out of my personal observation, robberies which have amounted to several thousand dollars.

Britain's Oldest American Settlement.

St. John's should possess a special interest for the British people on several grounds; it is the oldest settlement in North America; it is the chief town of their most ancient colonial possession; it is the spot where their adventurous ancestors first set foot when their daring spirit prompted them to seek new lands beyond the sea; it is the center of the region which saw the beginning of England's navy; it sheltered the men who scoured the Spanish Main, sank the Armada, and carried "the meteor flag" into every clime. Gilbert, Raleigh, Drake, Hawkins, Cook, Rodney and other noted figures in marine annals were associated with its early days.

St. John's now has a population of 30,000, all of British stock, the sons of English, Scotch and Irish emigrants who flocked here in the past, when it was the half way house to the Western Hemisphere. They form a race of brave, hardy, generous people, who, in their isolation, have preserved the noblest virtues of the race from which they sprang, unsullied by contact with the great world outside. The isolation—almost unique in English-speaking peoples—forms one of the great charms of the place for the visitor. The inhabitants are simple in their habits, frugal in their lives, daring and healthy from the very nature of the arduous avocations they pursue. They and their kindred have been fishermen for generations, the Viking blood is in them, and whether in their frail boats seeking for codfish off the coast, or treading with undaunted spirit the yielding ice floes in quest for seals, they are equally at home.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Unearthed An Old Chest.

A few days ago laborers engaged in excavating in the Fort Du Galet at Cherbourg, France, unearthed what they thought to be an oaken log covered with mortar. They were using this log as a fulcrum for the levers applied in removing part of the foundation walls, when the top of the log unexpectedly caved in, revealing to their astonished sight a number of old coins, medals and parchment. proved to be an old oaken chest containing four medals bearing the effigy of Louis Philippe and the date of 1840; one of them bore engravings relating to the death of the duke of Orleans. The chest contained furthermore a number of new silver coins bearing the effigy of Napoleon I., emperor of France and king of Italy. Historians say that the chest is doubtless the identical one which was placed there at the laying of the corner-stone of the fortress by Louis Philippe himself, and that all records of it were lost in the ensuing turbulent years. The chest and its contents are to be exhibited at the world's fair next year.—Chicago Record.

Woman Lawyers.

The New York University has just turned loose four dozen women lawyers. Of course they will succeed. Most of them can certainly out-talk their legal brethren, and will necessarily have the last word. A peculiar feature of this class of feminine barristers is that about one-fourth of them are married. This makes it interesting to about a dozen husbands. There is no reason possible why women should not enter the profession; their influence is ripening and elevating, and the law, and incidentally the lawyers, might be largely reformed and refined by such professional association.

A Suspicion Justified by Science.

Nearly a century and a half ago the farmers of Massachusetts suffered severely from wheat mildew. Their observations led them, without exactly knowing why, to suspect that there was some connection between barberry bushes and the fungus which destroyed their crops; so the legislature passed a law requiring people to destroy such bushes in order to protect the wheat fields. In England, too, farmers acted upon a similar suspicion, and the mildew disappeared in proportion to the thoroughness with which they exterminated the bushes in various localities. The Microscopical Journal says that there are good scientific reasons for the farmers' action, as the mildew (Puccinia graminis), is one of several parasitic fungi that require two or more species of plants as hosts. Accordingly, as Massee says, "to effect a cure for the disease, it is only necessary to remove from the vicinity one of the two host plants essential to its existence." The pea mildew (Uromycespisi), not only infests our garden plant, but also lives parasitic on the spurge (euphorbia cyparissias) and in its brief life goes through five different spore relations, the maximum known to science.—From Success.

Most Magnificent Tomb.

The most magnificent tomb in the world is the Taj Mahal, in Agra, Hindustan. It was erected by Shah Jehan to the memory of his favorite queen. It is octagonal in form, of pure white marble, inlaid with jasper, cornelian, turquoise, agate, amethysts and sapphires. The work took 22,000 men twenty years to complete, and, though there were free gifts and labor was free, the cost was $20,000,000.

FIRST INFERNAL MACHINE.

It Was Built in the Seventeenth Century by the English Government—Invented by a Frenchman.

In 1693 the English decided to revenge themselves upon the corsairs of St. Main, who had long been preying on their commerce. At first they tried to bombard that port, but finding that their shots had little or no effect, they devised a machine which was intended to utterly destroy the town at a single blow. A special boat was built for this purpose with a carrying power of forty tons. It was filled with all kinds of destructive material and such combustibles as pitch, resin and chopped straw. There was over five hundred bombs and shells, with four openings so as to throw projectiles in all directions. This great hulk was towed at high tide by three shallops close to the walls of the town of St. Malo. Some of the sentinels saw the manoeuvre, but before they could give notice the vessel struck a rock about a pistol shot away from the walls of the town. It was badly injured by the shock and the fire caught earlier than had been intended. The first thing that was heard was a bomb shot by the English as a signal, and then all at once, as if the fire had caught in two or three magazines at the same time, the most terrific explosion followed. Flames flashed over the sea, the windows rattled as if from an earthquake shock, the inhabitants of the town rushed out of doors, expecting to see their houses fall to pieces. Strange to say with the exception of the breaking of a few window panes, not the least damage had been done in the town. The English were not so fortunate. At least a hundred and fifty of the men on board the shallops were blown to pieces or drowned by the premature explosion of the machine which had proved so infernal to its inventors. The individual who had arranged the whole plan and built the boat was a recreant Frenchman named Flournier and he was one of the victims of the disaster. So ended one of the most famous attempts to use an infernal machine, and had it not been for the accident of striking on the rock, it is certain that much of the town of St. Malo would have been destroyed by the explosion, while the English would have escaped in safety. An attempt with a similar machine was made against Dunkerque by the English at a later date, but with like results.

"Your Vegetable Compound has made me feel like a new person. Before I began taking it I was all run down, felt tired and sleepy most of the time, had pains in my back and side, and such terrible headaches all the time, and could not sleep well nights. I also had ovarian trouble. Through the advice of a friend I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and since taking it all troubles have gone. My monthly sickness used to be so painful, but have not had the slightest pain since taking your medicine. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too much. My husband and friends see such a change in me. I look so much better and have some color in my face."

Mrs. Pinkham invites women who are ill to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is freely offered.

REBEL LEADER HEADED FORCES

Another Big Battle Takes Place In the Philippines.

AGUINALDO LEADS THE ATTACK

Force of Insurgents Said to Have Numbered Five Thousand. Slaughter Was Great.

A special from Manila says: After cutting the railroad and telegraph at Apalit, several miles south, for the purpose of severing connection, the rebels attacked General MacArthur's lines at San Fernando at 4:30 o'clock Friday morning. They met with an unexpectedly warm reception, and were repulsed with a loss of seventy-five men, thirty prisoners and many wounded.

The rebels' force is estimated to have been 5,000 men. They advanced stealthily from the jungle north of the city and then divided, with the evident purpose of surrounding the Americans.

The outposts of the Iowa regiment discovered the enemy and retired to their lines, where the entire division awaited in an intrenched position. The Iowa regiment and the Kansas regiment received the first shock of the attack. Reserving their fire until the enemy was within 600 yards, the first volley of the Americans hit the rebels, who returned the fire wildly, the rest of their line failing to advance. The Americans, who thoroughly enjoyed the novelty of the situation, awaiting the attack, sallied forth and the insurgents thereupon turned and fled into the jungle. Our loss was fourteen men wounded, and the majority of them are only slightly hurt.

General Funstan's brigade of Kansans and Montanans; General Hale's brigade, the Seventeenth regiment and the Iowa regiment constituted the force engaged.

Aguinaldo is reported to have personally conducted the attack and preparations were made for several days to bring forward troops from Candababa, and others from Dagupan were transported by rail.

Along the front of the Kansas regiment thirty-nine dead were counted. The first news of the Filipino advances was reported by a telegraph operator, who was sent to the bridge at Apalit to ascertain the cause of a break in one of the wires. He was compelled to beat a hasty retreat under fire.

A Spanish officer who has been a prisoner in the hands of the rebels, and who was released by Aguinaldo, has come through our lines to Manila. He claims to have been a witness of the assassination of General Luna.

According to his story, the relations between the two Filipino leaders had been strained to the breaking point because of Luna's attempts to assume control of affairs, and the final rupture was forced by Aguinaldo issuing secret orders to the provincial governments.

Otis Sends News of the Assault.

MANILA, June 16.—Aujutant General, Washington: Northern insurgents concentrated large force near San Fernando and early this morning attacked MacArthur's troops; enemy quickly repulsed and driven, leaving over fifty dead on field and large number wounded; enemy in retreat. Our casualties fourteen wounded, mostly very slight. Preparation for this attack in progress several days, believed to be under personal direction of Aguinaldo.

Two Million People In Chicago.

Chicago's population, according to Chief of Police Kipley, has finally passed the two million mark and is now 2,088,042. The figures are a result of the census taken by the police force.

FEVER CASE IN HAVANA.

Marine Dies of Yellow Jack—Dr. Brunner To Resign.

A special from Havana says: A marine who was on duty at the Machina wharf developed yellow fever on Thursday and died Friday. There are no new cases. The marines sleep in a small barracks on the wharf, where they breathe the foul air of the harbor.

Dr. W. T. Brunner, chief sanitary officer in Havana, will probably resign his position this month, the city of Savannah, Ga., having offered him a tempting salary to take charge of sanitary affairs there.

SHERMAN AGAIN ILL.

Has Recurrence of Lung Trouble, But Sickness Is Not Serious.

A dispatch from Mansfield, O., says: Ex-Secretary John Sherman is suffering from a recurrence of the lung trouble with which he was affected while on a trip to the West Indies.

On June 8th he contracted a cold, which developed into a mild but annoying affection of the lungs. His condition is not, however, regarded as serious.

MAYOR IS SCORED.

Preacher Broughton of Atlanta Delivers a Scathing Sermon.

At the Tabernacle Baptist church in Atlanta, Sunday night the pastor, Rev. Dr. L. G. Broughton, took his text from Isaiah lviii, 1: "Cry aloud and spare not."

The principal feature of his sermon was an attack upon the conduct of Mayor James G. Woodward, which was a severe arraignment from start to finish, and concluded by calling for the impeachment of the mayor.

This feature of his sermon was built around the following statement, which was accompanied by applause by the congregation of nearly two thousand persons present:

"Yes, I am ashamed of our mayor. Our mayor is a libertine. Our mayor is a sot. These facts are all known to the council and need not have me to declare them. The time has come for the council to act. There is not a single decent man in the city, in my judgment, who does not repudiate our mayor and desire his impeachment."

It was at this point the applause occurred. Dr. Broughton did not let the vehemence of his arraignment subside at any time, referring to "a worse and more disgracefnl occurrence of which I cannot even make mention from my pulpit."

Mayor Woodward, when informed of the severity of Dr. Broughton's sermon as directed at him, made the following statement:

"You may just say for me that I regard Dr. Broughton's charges as absolutely ridiculous. I ask the public to suspend judgment until I can be heard. I will speak at the proper time."

BLAND'S BODY ENTOMBED.

Funeral of Missouri Statesman Was Largely Attended.

Congressman Richard Park Bland was laid to rest at Lebanon, Mo., Saturday with befitting honors.

The town was overcrowded and thousands of personal friends were present to honor his memory.

The funeral services were participated in by the ministers of all denominations which are represented in Lebanon.

The discourse was delivered by Rev. Mr. W. K. Collins, of the Methodist Episcopal church, and was followed by the ritual of the Knights of Templar and Masonic fraternities. Hon. W. J. Bryan had a seat on the stage, but delived no eulogy owing to Mrs. Bland's request that ouly ministers take part in the services.

The cortege was the longest and most impressive ever seen in southeastern Missouri.

Saturday night President McKinley wired Captain Farris as follows:

"It is with the deepest regret I hear of Mr. Bland's death. He was a man of honest convictions, and a monument to the growing nation. Express my sympathy to Mrs. Bland and the family."

IMP WON SUBURBAN.

Black Mare Distanced the Favorites At Sheepshead Bay.

Saturday was a gala day at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., and it seemed as if all the town saw Imp win the sixteenth running of the great suburban handicap, an event worth $10,000. Contrary to the usual custom of coming late to the races, the people were on hand early, and when the time came for the big suburban the crowd was the largest seen at Sheepshead Bay in years, fully 25,000 being present. Bannockburn got second money, while Warrenton secured third place.

JAPAN'S FAST BOAT.

The New Torpedo Destroyer Makes Thirty-One Knots On Trial.

A London dispatch says: The new Japanese torpedo boat destroyer Akebono, claimed to be the fastest ever built, was tested Saturday by a three hours' run to the Nore and return.

The new boat attained a speed of 31 knots, which is a knot ahead of the fastest destroyer in the British navy.

FAMOUS ISLAND SOLD.

A dispatch from Port Clinton, O., says: Johnson's island, Lake Erie, which was famous as a prison for confederate soldiers during the civil war, has just been sold at auction for $45,000,

The island lies in Sandusky bay, a few miles from the city of that name.

Southern Mining and Manufacturing Company to Start Up New Purchase.

The Southern Mining and Manufacturing company, of Georgia, is making preparations for opening its iron and coal property in Dade and announce that they will soon put their furnace at Rising Fawn into blast. This furnace has been idle for several years.

The company is also preparing to put the old Chattanooga furnace in blast. This property, which was bought a few days ago, has been idle for a number of years. It is to be completely overhauled and brought up to date.

WHEELER AND MILES

Invited to Big Fourth of July Celebration In Huntsville, Ala.

The Huntsville, Ala., chamber of commerce has wired invitations to General Nelson A. Miles and General Joseph Wheeler to visit that city on July 4th and deliver addresses.

A big celebration will be held on that day to commemorate not only the declaration of independence, but also the victories achieved by north and south in the Spanish war.

MINERS IN A DEATH TRAP.

GAS EXPLOSION AND SUBSEQUENT FIRE CUTS THEM OFF.

ELEVEN BODIES ARE RECOVERED.

There Were One Hundred Diggers In the Pit at the Time of Accident—Scenes of Horror Ensue.

Advices from North Sidney, B. C., state that the most appalling disaster in the history of Cape Breton coal mining occurred at the Caledonia mine at Glace Bay, the principal colliery of the Dominion Coal Company, Friday, when two explosions caused the death of eleven men, including Thomas Johnson, the underground manager of the works, and brother of the assistant manager of the Dominion Coal Company. Up to noon eleven bodies had been recovered.

The explosion occurred in the west pit at a depth of about three-quarters of a mile and was caused by gas which had accumulated in the old workings. The full force of men employed in the mine at night is about 150, but the night shift had just stopped work and all but about sixty had left the mine. There was scarcely an intermission between the concussions. The first was a dull boom. Then there was a rumbling noise like an earthquake, succeeded by a deafening, prolonged and awful roar, which reverberated among the hills for miles and the shock of which shattered glass in every direction in the immediate vicinity of the disaster.

The meaning of the sound was well understood through the mining district, and anxious people flocked to the mine entrance. Before they arrived suffocating volumes of coal smoke began to pour out, showing that fire had followed the explosion.

The officials of the mine were among the first to reach the shaft. A tally of the men showed that some three score were missing, but a moment later some of the miners appeared, having escaped by a slope. There were about twenty-five in the company who were able to report their presence to the anxious friends at the shaft, but several others who had managed to get out of the slope had fallen, overcome by exhaustion or the fumes which they had inhaled. When these had been numbered it was evident that at least twenty men, and possibly thirty, had been cut off by the explosion.

Of the incidents attending the explosion the survivors were for a long time too confused to give an intelligent account. There was no apparent danger at midnight nor up to 2 o'clock a. m., when the underground manager, Thomas Johnson, now missing, last reported.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the watchman detected the smell of gas and burning wood and Manager Thomas Brown was notified. He opened the shaft just as the explosion occurred. The alarm was given and work of rescue was promptly undertaken by a large number of miners.

The rescue party was confronted with many difficulties. Men, women and children hung about the opening of the slope, weeping and distracted. Down below a pitchy darkness prevailed, lighted by occasional brilliant bursts of the conflagration raging through the pit.

Bodies Brought To Surface.

After a brief time a body was brought up, then another and another until eleven had come to the surface. None of them were mangled, but all were blackened. The bodies were laid side by side in the large room in the office building. Men and women crowded into the place and the identifications were accompanied by most pitiful scenes.

FIGHT TIN PLATE TRUST.

Capital Is Combining To Give a Combine a Hard Tussel.

Senator W. A. Clark, of Montana; Charles Edwin Miller, of New York, and J. E. Shawhan, of San Francisco, had a consultation at Chicago Friday looking to the formation of a combination to fight the tin plate trust. It is proposed to establish a plant at Joliet, Illinois, with a capital of one million dollars.

EXPLOSION IN POWDER WORKS.

Six Buildings Are Demolished and Four Employes Are Killed.

The United States Smokeless Powder Company's factory, situated on Point San Pedro, four miles from San Rafael, Cal., was the scene of a disastrous explosion Saturday. As a result four employes were killed and three seriously injured, while six buildings were demolished by the shock and the resultant fires.

To the sudden ignition of the powder contained in the grain room the disaster is due. A second explosion quickly followed the first, and soon four of the mixing houses were in flames and were quickly consumed.

IRON ADVANCES IN PRICE.

Product of Southern Foundries Goes Up Fifty Cents a Ton.

A Chattanooga dispatch says: Price of southern foundry iron has been advanced another 50 cents on the ton. The price here now is $14.50, and in the Birmingham district $13.75 and $14.00 per ton. The latest advance will probably be followed by an advance of 2½ cents per ton in the price of coal mining in the furnace district of Alabama, affecting 8,000 miners.

THE JOB DECLINED.

Poincare Failed To Form French Cabinet. Task Goes To Waldeck-Rousseau.

A Paris special says: Senator Pierre Waldeck-Rousseau has accepted the task of constructing a cabinet, M. Del Cassee having declined. It is believed that strong pressure was brought to bear upon M. Waldeck-Rousseau to induce him to undertake the task.

M. Poincaire, who was first selected to form the cabinet, complained bitterly that he offered every possible concession to the radicals, but they wanted, he says, to have everything in their own hands. He declares that he has had enough of cabinet making and will not be in a hurry to return to the task.

M. Poincaire called at the Elysee palace Friday evening for the purpose of informing President Loubet that he declined to form a cabinet. The reason for his declination is understood to be due to the objection of radicals to the presence of Ribot and Barthou in the cabinet, while Poincaire wished them to join him in the ministry.

LONG SENTENCE FOR KIDNAPERS.

George Barrow Sent Up For Fifteen Years For Baby Stealing.

At New York Friday George Beauregard Barrow, the principal in the kidnaping of the infant, Marion Clarke, was sentenced to fourteen years and ten months' imprisonment.

The trial, which was begun on Wednesday, when Carrie Jones, the tool of Barrow and his wife gave her evidence for the state, was concluded with testimony intended to establish the previous good character of the defendant.

The summing up of counsel was very brief and the case was given to the jury with a few words of instruction from the bench.

The jury, after being out about twenty-five minutes, rendered a verdict of guilty and sentence was passed as above stated.

Carrie Jones, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced to four years' imprisonment.

The trial of Mrs. Barrow, as her husband's accomplice, will follow.

TRIAN IS HELD UP.

Train Crew Covered and Express Car Robbed Three Men Arrested.

Friday the south-bound passenger train on the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railroad was held up by three masked men near Shady, Indian Territory. The train crew were covered by guns and the robbers went through the express and mail cars, securing considerable booty

A special from Paris, Texas, says that Joe Tate, John Burns and John Peterson have been arrested at Poteau, I. T., after a running fight of half a mile, for complicity in the robbery.

MOLASSES COMBINE PROPOSED.

Forty Houses Are Considering the Formation of a Trust.

It is reported in Wall street, New York, that another attempt to organize a combination of the leading concerns interested in the molasses trade is being made.

Representatives of forty houses have been invited to take the matter under consideration.

It is proposed to bind the members of the organization to a thirty-year agreement and to locate the central headquarters and the chief distributing point in New York city.

HEAVYWEIGHTS MATCHED.

Jeffries and Sharkey Will Go Together In October.

Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey have been matched to fight a twenty-five round battle for the heavy-weight championship of the world. The match will take place before the club offering the largest purse, the winner to take all. The match will take place about October 23d.

Bids for the fight must be submitted by September 1st.

"GOD NOT RESPONSIBLE."

Queer Assertion of Wisconsin Preacher Regarding Cyclone.

In the nine pulpits at Eau Claire, Wis., Sunday the New Richmond cyclone was the subject of the sermons.

The general sentiment expressed was that it was a mysterious dispensation of Providence, but the Rev. Joseph Moran, of the Episcopal church, said it was the devilish work of an unknown power, and not the work of God.

PRESIDENT ON TOUR.

Leaves Washington on Special Train For Points In Massachusetts.

President McKinley and party left Washington on a special at 5:30 oclock Friday afternoon for Holyoke, Northampton and other points in Massachusetts.

The train went over the Albany route and was scheduled to reach Holyoke at 10:30 Saturday morning and will leave Adams, Mass., the point in the intinerary, by the 28th instant, returning directly to Washington.

CUBAN BANDITS AT WORK.

They Raid a Town In Guamo and Are Chased By Cavalry.

Advices from Santiago de Cuba state that a strong party of bandits raided Guamo, a small town west of Manzanillo, on Thursday last. A detachment of gendarmerie arrived on the scene and attacked the outlaws, but were repulsed and seven of the guards were killed and several wounded. The bandits then withdrew in the direction of Lunas with a platoon of the cavalry in pursuit.

CURRENT ALABAMA NEWS

Topics of the Day Briefly Summarized for Hasty Readers.

BIG DEAL IN COAL AND IRON PROPERT

The Sheffield Property to Be Conveyed to the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co.—Col. John Tanner Dead—Advance in Pig Iron—Enlisted Volunteers.

Iron Property Deal.

The New York Times Saturday printed the following:

"An important transaction is reported in southern coal and iron properties, by which the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company will acquire from the Sheffield Coal, Iron & Steel company large bodies of coal and mineral lands and important manufacturing plants. The price is not stated, but the transfer is understood to include all of the property of the Sheffield company. No definite or final announcement has yet been made, but a director of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company said that he had understood for several weeks that the executive officers of that company were negotiating with the late E. W. Cole, and subsequently with his executors and associates, for the turning over of the Sheffield Coal, Iron and Steel company. He added: 'Should the negotiations be successful, the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company will get three modern furnaces, two of which are in full blast, 70,000 acres of coal land, 300 coke ovens, all supplies and other valuable acquisitions.'"

Col. John Tanner Passes Away.

Athens suffered the loss of her oldest and one of her most prominent citizens in the death of Colonel John T. Tanner, which occurred Friday, after an illness lasting for the most part of two years and a half.

Colonel Tanner was 80 years of age and has lived all his life, with the exception of a brief stay in Louisiana, in Athens, where he has been a prominent figure in both the financial and social world. He was for many years a local banker, representing some of the largest institutions in America, and was collector of internal revenue under Andrew Johnson, and for years was treasurer of the Nashville & Decatur road. He was one of the original leaders of the prohibition movement, and was once the nominee for governor of Alabama on that ticket, and was later prominently mentioned for vice president on the same ticket, but declined the nomination.

Pig Iron Advance.

Pig iron has advanced $1 on the ton in the Birmingham district within the past few days. No 1 founday, which was quoted at $13.50 a few day ago is now selling at $14.50. An advance of 50 cents per ton was expected because of the raise in freight rates announced to take effect on the 21st, but a dollar advance was not looked for. It is stated that the furnaces in the district have sold practically their entire output for the year. The demand is said to be in a feverish condition, and another advance in prices is looked for very soon. There is even some talk of $20 pig iron. Small buyers can scarcely be accommodated at all. Iron at this time is higher than it has been before in ten years.

Thirty Men Have Enlisted.

Captain C. L. Steele, the recruiting officer of the United States army who had an office open in Birmingham for a month or two past, has just had a very busy week, having enlisted during that time over thirty men in that city and in Montgomery. All of them were Alabamians, and all were enlisted for regiments now serving in the Philippines. The remaining four will go to Cuba. The recruits intended for the Philippines will leave at once for San Francisco, from which place they will be sent across the Pacific.

Johnston Will Attend Anti-Trust Conference.

Governor Sayres of Texas has received a letter from Governor J. F. Johnston, of Alabama, saying he would attend the anti-trust conference to be held in St. Louis September 20.

One Thousand Miners Idle.

Practically all the 1,000 miners employed by the Robertson Mining company at their Ishkooda ore mines are now out on a strike. Two days ago about seventy-five men struck, and it was thought at that time that that would, perhaps, be the extent of the strike, but since then others have steadily quit work, until now practically all are idle.

Dr. Meek is Dead.

Dr. Benjamin F. Meek, professor of the English language and literature of the University of Alabama, died at 7 o'clock Friday evening after an illness of less than forty-eight hours.

Dr. Meek had been in ill health for several months, but remained at his post with a rare degree of fortitude. He died as he desired—in harness—in the university faculty, where he had served since 1863. Though ill during a greater part of this term, he had not missed his classes, and his work for the present year was completely rounded up. He had even held his examinations as usual.

Dr. Meek was born in Tuskaloosa September 20, 1836, and was graduated from the University of Alabama in 1854. The degree of L.L. D. was conferred upon him by the University of Mississippi in 1879. He was connected with the state university as assistant professor of ancient languages from 1863 to 1865. From 1868 to 1870, inclusive, he was professor of ancient languages in Wesleyan university, Florence. He accepted the present position in the University of Alabama in 1871.

Opelika Wants a Cotton Factory.

The question of the building of a cotton factory in Opelika is being urgently and seriously agitated. The business men of Opelika realize the fact that some such enterprise is necessary for the future prosperity of the city, and that something must be done, and they are determined that something shall be done. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held last Friday night at the court house to discuss the matter and devise ways and means to bring about the enterprise. A number of committees were appointed, consisting of some of the foremost and wealthiest citizens of Opelika.

Distinguished Guests Invited.

The Huntsville chamber of commerce invited General Nelson A. Miles and General Joe Wheeler to speak there July 4th. A big celebration will be held on that day to commemorate not only the declaration of independence but also the victories achieved by the north and south in the Spanish war.

Propose to Hold Reunion.

The local camp of Confederate Veterans at Montgomery is considering the advisability of holding, during next October, a state reunion. At a largely attended meeting of the camp a resolution prevailed to the effect that the major-general of the state division be requested to confer with the various brigades in the state relative to the proposed reunion.

WILL FIGHT TRUSTS

Tammany To Inaugurate Campaign Battle Cry.

MASS MEETING TO BE HELD

Fourth of July Will Be Made Occasion For Beginning of a Vigorous War On Corporations.

The New York World says Tammany is going to array itself against the trusts. Its Fourth of July celebration this year will be mainly devoted to sounding the anti-trust war cry for the campaign of next year.

The two principal speakers of the celebration will devote their eloquence to marking the line of battle in the national fight. They are J. J. Willard, ex-chairman of the democratic state committee of Alabama, and Congressman Carruth, of Kentucky. Both men, who are famed in their respective states as orators, will talk about the evils of trusts.

W. J. Bryan has been invited to attend the celebration and make a speech. He is not expected to come. Neither is ex-President Cleveland nor David B. Hill, both of whom have been asked.

Admiral Schley says he will come if he can, but he will not make a speech. Arthur P. Gorman and Edward Murphy have been asked, too.

The short talkers will be Herbert E. Bissell, of Buffalo; Congressman Fitzgerald, of Massachusetts; Congressman Daly, of New Jersey; J. W. Ridgeway, of Brooklyn, and perhaps Congressman De Armond, of Missouri.

DEFENDS TRUSTS.

A special from Madison, Wis., says: Two thousand students and town people heard the baccalaureate address delivered Sunday afternoon by President Charles Kendall Adams to the graduating classes of the University of Wisconsin. His subject was "Irresistible Tendencies," and his remarks on trusts and on the imperial policy of the United States and the colonizing European states were somewhat unexpected and sensational. He said regarding trusts:

"This great fact has been universally recognized, that in every free country combinations have been the distinctive feature of modern industrial life, and they have been a result in no country but a free country. The tendency has been irresistible because it has been the logical sequence and outgrowth of individualism and invention. For example, within a few years after the invention of the telegraph there were 100 companies, and a dispatch from the seaboard to the Mississippi had to pay tribute to a dozen different corporations. A law to prevent their combination would not only have done violence to the principles of individual liberty, but would also have continued to levy and unwarranted tax upon the community."

SAYERS GETS ENCOURAGEMENT.

A dispatch from Austin, Texas, says: Governor Sayers is much encouraged with the prospects of a large attendance of governors and attorneys general at the anti-trust conference to be held in St. Louis September 20th. Up to this time seventeen governors have responded to his invitation to attend the proposed conference. Of that number thirteen are outspoken in favor of the anti-trust legislation. Governor Sayers received a letter Saturday from Governor Robert B. Smith, of Montana, as follows:

"I heartily indorse your action in calling a meeting of the governors and attorneys general of the several states and territories for the purpose of discussing the subject of trusts and of state legislation that will tend to do away with the evil. God being willing, I will be with you at the meeting in September, and I will try to persuade our attorneys general to attend."

The replies so far received by Governor Sayers are about evenly divided between democratic and republican governors.

LIST OF DEAD INCREASED.

More Bodies Are Found Near New Richmond, Wisconsin.

Reports brought to New Richmond, Wis., show that about nine persons heretofore unheard of were killed by the recent storm. The dead are families of farmers living along the Burkhart road between New Richmond and Burkhart. About 200 farm houses and adjoining buildings along nine miles of that road are more or less wrecked.

Three members of G. Lacey's family are reported as among the nine killed; also three members of a family named Ellis; also Mr. L. M. Hurd and two or three others.

Mysterious Disease Among Horses.

There is a mysterious disease now prevalent among the horses in the section around Courtland which is very fatal. The horses which have been attacked have all been taken immediately after a day's work, and have died in a short time. The disease has all the symptoms of ordinary colic at first, but in a little while more alarming and violent symptoms appear, and in almost every instance the horses have died.

THE CHRONICLE

F. W. GIST, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

THE Advocate evidently gets its figures out of a last year's almanac, if we are to judge by their correctness.

THE Advocate referred us to the records. We went. What we got makes The Advocate a willful falsifier of facts. We can't help it. They did it.

THE Advocate has tackled us a time or two on figures. It may learn after awhile that we always make it a rule to load our gun before we go to shoot, when the records are concerned.

WHEN a Populist paper gets defeated it always cries "fraud;" when it gets cornered in an argument it always bawls out "lie." Poor things; they are to be pitied in their ignorance.

THE Advocate seems to be worried on account of some big words it has found in our editorial columns. We are sorry the half dozen editors of the piebald sheet can not comprehend plain English, but we know no remedy for self-inflicted ignorance.

THE Huntsville Tribune says not fifty people in North Alabama ever heard of Montevallo or know where it is. Brother Lane ought not to expose the ignorance of his section that way. But, then, we expect the ignorance is his, and not the section's.

THE Advocate in one place admits that the road law is the product of Populists and in another repudiates our attempt to saddle it on them. This is the result of having two editors. They ought to compare notes before they speak.

"THE tax rate has never been as low as 3 mills in this county," says The Advocate. The minutes of the commissioners court for the July terms of 1894 and 1895 say it has. Will The Advocate please explain? Will it acknowledge its error, or will it say the records lie?.

THE Advocate is always worrying about political affairs in Dallas County but we notice it has nothing to say about certain tax affairs in Shelby. If The Advocate will expend some of its energies in trying to bring about a better condition of financial affairs at home and let Dallas County take care of itself it will accomplish more good for its people.

THEY do say that when a Populist writes for The Advocate it is submitted to the Republican editor, and when a Republican writes it is submitted to the Populist editor. In this way the only sensible thing they manage to get in the paper is the weekly extract from the American, which we suppose is selected by the mugwump editor.

THE name of Chappel Cory has been mentioned in connection with the Montevallo School presidency. We are for him. He is young, able, progressive, and would not be hampered by any set ideas the remnant of other days. The Girls' school needs a man of the times, not one who is bent in the old ways of teaching. Chap Cory would make a most excellent president. For one we hope he will be selected.

THE Selma Times says Dallas County will present another candidate than Mr Robbins for Congress next year The people up in this end of the shoestring think that Dallas has had enough of the honors in this district to rest for awhile and give some of the other counties a chance.—Republican.

Dallas County tried presenting another man a few years ago and the result was that another county bore off the honors. However, the field will be open, and when the time comes all may enter who will.

THE Director of the Census has announced that no negro supervisor or enumerator will be appointed in any Southern State. Governor Merrian has done a wise thing in this, and he is entitled to the thanks of our people for it. It would be very unpleasant to have negro enumerators going about over the country armed with authority to enter all households in quest of knowledge. It is well that these particular officials will be, whether Democrats or Republicans, white.

THERE are three kinds of friends. First, there are those who laugh when you laugh, weep when you weep. Second, there are those who when you laugh are too busy with their own affairs to laugh with you, but when you weep they steal noiselessly to your side and mingle their tears with yours. The third class are those who laugh when you laugh, but at the first sound of your weeping leave you for some other smiling face. The whole of friendship may be summed up in this classification. We leave it to you, dear reader, to pick out your choice.

IN a conversation with Tax Assessor Pitts he informed us that he has called on every corporation in the county for the information required of them by the revenue laws, and that only one of them has ever complied. He gives it as his opinion that a raise of valuation could be sustained in this county of $750,000. This would yield a revenue to the State and county of $10,000, or one-fourth of the total amount now collected, which would reduce the tax rate for next year more than one mill. A large per cent of this amount is in the nature of escaped taxes, and could be collected for five years back, which would yield another $10,000 [illegible]

LET THE FIGURES SPEAK.

The Advocate takes issue with us on the tax rate question in this county. We only desire to reply to one or two of its assertions, the most of its statements being too silly to notice. The Advocate of this week says in one place, "that the tax rate in this county has never been as low as 3 mills."

We give the following information, which appears of record on the minutes of the commissioners' court:

At the July term, 1892, the tax rate was fixed at 4 mills by R. W. Cobb, J. E. Dykes, R. F. Johnson, D. C. Davis, and T. B. McCluskey, four Populists and one Democrat, with a balance of $8,000 in the treasury.

At the July term, 1893, the rate was fixed at 4 mills by John S. Leeper, James McGowen, R. J. Griffin, R. H. Walker, and A. M. Jones, all Democrats, with a balance of $12,000.

At the July term, 1894, the rate was fixed at 3 mills by the same court, all Democrats, with a balance of $16,000. (This is the lowest rate and largest balance attained in the county since the Populist party was heard of, and this was after two years of Democratic rule.)

At the July term, 1895, the rate was fixed at 3 mills by J. S. Leeper, Jas. McGowen, R. H. Walker, W. C. Powers and D. C. Davis, three Democrats and two Populists, with a balance of $9,000.

At the July term, 1896, the rate was fixed at 4 mills by the same court, with Judge McMillan, after a donation of $5,000 to the Montevallo school in December before, and with a balance of $2,000.

At the June term, 1897, the rate was fixed at 4 mills by D. R. McMillan, J. E. Dykes, W. C. Powers, D. C. Davis and Pleasant Shaw, four Populists and one Democrat, after an expenditure of $3,250 for waterworks by the same court, and after having borrowed $5,000 in May preceding, with a balance in July of $2,000.

At the June term, 1898, the same court fixed the rate at 4 mills, with a balance of $4,000 in July following.

In January, 1898, with four Populists and one Democrat in the commissioners' court for two years, and with a Populist collector and assessor for the same length of time, the treasury balance reached its lowest stage. There was at that time only $133 in the treasury.

At the January term, 1899, a special tax of 2 mills was levied by the present court, four Populists and one Democrat, in obedience to a law passed by a Populo-Republican legislator, and at the June term the same court fixed the county rate at 4 mills.

These are cold facts, taken from the records to which The Advocate referred us, and they show that The Advocate is grossly ignorant of the facts which it undertakes to discuss. They also show that The Advocate states a falsehood when it says:

> In four years the Democrats had squandered that $9,000, and notwithstanding the fact that they had raised the tax rate from 3½ mills as established by the Populist commissioners, Dykes, Johnson, McClusky and Davis to 4 mills.

The four commissioners named, when they went out of office in 1892 left the tax rate at 4 mills, which their successors reduced to 3 mills in the second year of their administration. Now, we ask the great statisticians of The Advocate sanctum, Who has lied?

The Advocate in another place attempts to explain why the tax rate is double what it was three years ago, and has a lot to say about the State tax rate, old soldiers and education. We said nothing about the State tax rate, and The Advocate shows itself unable to stick to the question. It admits, however, that the Populists are responsible for the road tax, while its contributor, J. E. D., puts it on the Democrats.

When The Advocate and its satellites get mixed up with figures and facts they get miserably lost, and can only wander out of the wilderness by walking blindly over the truth. We are inexpressibly sorry for a paper with a half dozen editors, none of whom know anything about the conditions in their own county.

SENATOR MORGAN is to-day one of the greatest living Americans, and many who are friends to Governor Johnston want to see the grand old man die as a representative of Alabama in the Senate, yet they do not feel disposed to follow the lead of men who are trying to help one of their friends in order to help kill another whom they like equally well.—Republican.

Our esteemed friend of the Republican had better put the question to himself in a different light: If Johnston is bending every effort, including all officials acts, to defeat Morgan then the friends of both must choose whom they will serve. Has Johnston so aroused the gratitude of the people for some supposed service that as between the two Morgan must go down before the ambition of Johnston? As between these two, with most of us it is, "Not that we love Johnston less but Morgan more." If one must fall which shall it be? The Republican had best to look at it from this standpoint; it may have to ere long.

MUCH of the growth of Populism is due to just such ignorance and willful misrepresentation as The Advocate is guilty of this week. The great body of that party depend for their information on such blatherskite sheets as The Advocate, and as a consequence never know the truth. The false statement of financial conditions contained in The Advocate will be accepted as truth, though they do not conform to the recorded facts. We have proven them false, but it will not suit the purpose of The Advocate to correct them, and its readers will vote in ignorance to continue the same [illegible]

WE KNEW IT WOULDN'T.

The Chronicle asks the Advocate if we are willing to have a white primary to nominate county officers. We answer, yes: if you will allow only those to vote who are white inside. —People's Advocate.

In other words The Advocate believes that a negro who votes the Populist ticket, though he may be totally unqualified for discriminating between right and wrong in politics, is a more worthy political associate than a Democrat of any kind. In other words The Advocate would be willing to leave the selection of county officers to white men if none but Populists are allowed to participate, for of course we understand The Advocate when it says "white inside" to refer to its own people, as they are, of course, the only honest people on the globe. But The Advocate does not answer our question. We do not blame it. It is ashamed to acknowledge that it prefers to support for office men nominated by negro conventions than to let all the white people of the county come together and make a choice. On the other hand it is afraid to say that it will consent to a white primary because that might make some of its negro politicians mad. We are sorry for The Advocate. In the very height of its glory, at the very time its party is in total control of local affairs it is beset on all sides by conflicting interests. It owes its existence to Populists and pretends to be a Populist paper, and at the same time its editorial policy is dictated by Republicans who will not let it come out for anything that is right and decent.

While THE CHRONICLE has been calling attention to needed tax reforms and the burdens which are oppressing the people The Advocate has remained silent. Why? Because it owes a large part of its support to some of the corporations of the county who are escaping taxation and these corporations in turn control a large element of the negro vote. It cannot afford to uphold the principles of Populism, which if they mean anything cry out for tax reform.

The Populist party has from its very inception demanded relief for the farmers from the burdens of taxation, and for the equitable taxation of corporate wealth. Yet with the Populists in full control of the county's affairs the tax rate is double what it it was under Democratic rule, with the corporations paying less than half what they ought to pay. And The Advocate, the great apostle of reform, openeth not its mouth, except to abuse Democrats for an imaginary violation of the election laws in another county and to defend the negro in his right to vote.

The reason is plain. The Advocate is controlled either by the people who are escaping taxation or by those who represent them in politics. And it declines to join us in an effort to have county officers selected by an unbiased and untrammeled white primary, which would select men for their worth rather than their power to control votes. We do not believe The Advocate represents its Populist constituency in its miserable position, but if it does we are sorry for the poor tax ridden people of Shelby County.

THE Montgomery Journal wants to know who authorized the expenditure by Captain Reynolds of $2,500 in securing the passage of the land bill through Congress, and of $100 for lobbying in Montgomery. If the Journal knew as much about the Montevallo school as it ought to know it would not have to ask this question. We beg to enlighten the Journal. The board of trustees, or a prominent number of them, assured Captain Reynolds that all the expenses necessary to secure the passage of the land bill should be reimbursed to him. Acting on this assurance he expended $2,500 and got 25,000 acres of land—or 10 cents per acre for mineral land that if we mistake not the Journal has intimated ought to bring $40 per acre. The $100 item was passed on by Mr. Bloch once, he no doubt understanding very clearly the necessity for the use of money in passing laws through the legislature, though now he denies having passed upon it. Is the Journal sufficiently enlightened?

THE Mobile Register has the following from Judge Austell, whose name has been mentioned in the connection aluded to. The paragraph also contains some information.

> I note in your paper of this date that you mention my name in connection with the vacant presidency of the Girls' School at Montevallo. It will be an honor to any citizen to be elected to fill that place and I feel quite flattered that you have suggested myself for the position; but allow me to make it known at once that I cannot consent to allow my name to be offered and could not accept if elected. The trustees have on file the applications of several good men, experienced in that line, who will accept and who will continue to manage the great school successfully. One of these will no doubt be elected in a short time. A full faculty has been heretofore chosen and the school will reopen at the appointed time.

SUMMER RESORTS.

Many delightful summer resorts are situated on and reached via Southern Railway. Whether one desires the sea-side or the mountain, the fashionable hotels or country homes they can be reached via this magnificent highway of travel.

Asheville, N. C., Hot Springs, N. C., Hale Springs, Tenn., Roan Mountain, Tenn., and the mountain resorts of East Tennessee and Western North Carolina—"The Land of the Sky" Tate Springs, Tenn., Oliver Springs, Tenn., Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Monte Sano, Huntsville, Ala., Lithia Springs, Ga., and various Virginia Springs; also the seashore resorts, are reached by the Southern Railway on convenient schedules and very low rates.

The Southern railway has issued a handsome folder, entitled "Summer Homes and Resorts," descriptive of nearly one thousand summer resorts, hotels and boarding houses, including information regarding rates for board at the different places and railroad rates to reach them. Write to C. A. Benscoter, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, Chattanooga, Tenn., for a copy of this folder.

ANENT THE TAX LEVY.

We do not like to take the time to reply to articles in The Advocate of the current week, but we do so on this occasion on so important a question as that of county taxes referred to in The Advocate of this week by a writer who signs himself J. E. D.

This gentleman takes the position that the commissioners court has the right to levy a "special" tax for any purpose, though it put the total rate above the constitutional limit of 5 mills. He quotes the constitution, and founds his claim on that particular phrase, which says: "Provided, That to pay any debt or liability now existing against any county, incurred for the erection of the necessary public buildings, or other ordinary county purposes." This provision, in language that is unequivocal, refers to debts "now existing," that is at the time of the ratification of the present constitution, and does not extend to debts created subsequent thereto. Then the constitution goes on to provide, "or that may be hereafter created for the erection of necessary public buildings or bridges, any county may levy and collect such special taxes, etc." Our position is that this provision only applies to the liquidation of indebtedness on account of the erection of public buildings and bridges, and not to the creating of a fund for the general purpose of working the public roads, especially when the road law itself plainly confines the tax to be levied thereunder to "a part of that authorized for county purposes by the constitution."

If this position is incorrect we ask the gentleman why it was necessary for the city of Birmingham to get an amendment to the constitution before it could increase its assessment beyond the constitutional limit? Why did it not have a simple law passed by the legislature allowing it to levy a special tax?

The gentleman further says that the road law is a bad one, but that it was passed by the Democrats. We dispute the latter statement, and the facts sustain us. The road law was framed by four Populists members and put through the legislature by them, and they alone are responsible for it. The road law is constitutional and the levy made under it is constitutional, but we do not believe the levy of 4 mills on top of it is constitutional. The latter levy was made over the protest of the only Democratic member of the commissioners court, and the Populists are responsible for that. We called attention to the law before the levy was made, and if ignorance is the cause of it that ignorance is alone chargeable to the members of the commissioners court. They may be correct. We do not think so, and we are upheld in our opinion by some of the ablest lawyers of the county.

Parsnip Complexion.

It does not require an expert to detect the sufferer from kidney trouble. The hollow cheeks, the sunken eyes, the dark, puffy circles under the eyes, the sallow parsnip-colored complexion indicates it.

A physician would ask if you had rheumatism, a dull pain or ache in the back or over the hips, stomach trouble, desire to urinate often, or a burning or scalding in passing it; if after passing there is an unsatisfactory feeling as if it must be at once repeated, or if the urine has a brick dust deposit or strong odor.

When these symptoms are present, no time should be lost in removing the cause.

Delay may lead to gravel, catarrh of the bladder, inflammation, causing stoppage, and sometimes require the drawing of the urine with instruments, or may run into Bright's Disease, the most dangerous stage of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, is a positive remedy for such diseases. Its reputation is world-wide and it is so easy to get at any drug store that no one need suffer any length of time for want of it.

However, if you prefer to first test its wonderful merits, mention THE CHRONICLE and write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y., for a sample bottle of this remedy and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER. 50 CENTS A YEAR.
(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)
CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better that it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

Several cases of sickness are reported this week. The cool nights and hot days of the past week have been quite conducive to sickness.

Messrs. Ollie Tinney and Alfonzo Verchot, accompanied by Misses Bessie and Atta Robertson and Onzelle Verchot, visited Shelby Springs Sunday afternoon.

Our genial hotel man, J. R. White, had one of his finest cows killed last week, and the same day another cow found twin calves. He is ahead in numbers, but behind in value.

Tax Commissioner Oliver was up Saturday making preparation to look into the matters complained of by THE CHRONICLE in regard to taxes. We hope he will succeed in remedying some of the evils.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve sherbet, icecream, etc., with cake, at the residence of W. G. Parker, on next Tuesday night from 6 to 10 o'clock. There will be an abundance of it for all who attend. We invite all. 10 cents per saucer.

The family of E. W. Chapman left the city this week for their new home in Montevallo, where Mr. Chapman has established a successful business in his line. We regret to lose so interesting a family, but the good wishes of their many friends go with them.

Mrs. Harrison and her daughter, Mrs. Cawthon, of Selma, Miss Marie Burch, of Montgomery, and Miss Myrtle Swain, accompanied by Dr. Law and Mr. Elsberry, were up from the Springs Tuesday to see the city. Needless to say they saw and were conquered.

Have you noticed the big Red Z on fences and other spaces around town? They were posted by the representative of Simmons Liver Regulator on his recent visit. It is necessary to be cautious when you ask for Simmons Liver Regulator, as the popularity of this well-known remedy has brought forth many fraud preparations made to sell on the reputation of Simmons Liver Regulator. See that the word Regulator is on the package and you cannot be deceived.

What Shall we Do?

A serious and dangerous disease prevails in this country, dangerous because so deceptive. It comes on so slowly yet surely that it is often firmly seated before we are aware of it.

The name of this disease which may be divided into three distinct stages, is, Bright's Kidney trouble, indicated by pain in the back, rheumatism, lumbago frequent desire to urinate, often with a burning sensation, the flow of urine being copious or scant with strong odor.

If allowed to advance, this reaches the second stage, or Bladder trouble, with heavy pain in the abdomen low down between the navel and the water passage, increasing desire to urinate, with scalding sensation in passing, small quantities being passed with difficulty, sometimes necessary to draw it with instruments. If uric acid or gravel has formed, it will prove dangerous if neglected.

The third stage is Bright's Disease.

There is comfort in knowing that Dr. Kilmer, the great kidney and bladder specialist, has discovered a remedy, famous for its marvelous cures of the most distressing cases, and known as Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root.

It is sold by all druggists.

As a proof of the wonderful virtues of this discovery, Swamp Root, a sample bottle and a book of valuable information will be sent absolutely free by mail on application to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in THE CHRONICLE.

"I always recommend Simmons Liver Regulator, as I know what it has done for me. It saved my life back in 1879; the doctors said I had consumption. I was very thin, my face was covered with large pimples and I was in poor health. I had just started to work in a drug store, and the druggist advised me to take Simmons Liver Regulator. It proved in every way satisfactory and worked a complete cure in a short time."—C. V. Roll, Druggist, Anderson, Indiana.

The Alabama Fertilizer
It is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.
It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.
The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Munnsa Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the perfect preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer actually interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS
COTTON SEED FREE
Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.
One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.
The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 789 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 14 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $7 77 per acre.
The Journal does not guarantee results, but the result of the test at the Experiment Station make it worth a farmer's while to try these seed when they cost him nothing.
The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.
THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton seed for only $1.75

Sarsaparilla
ADMITTED
READ RULE XV.
"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition."
Why was Ayer's Sarsaparilla admitted? Because it is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, nor a secret preparation, not dangerous, not an experiment, and because it is all that a family medicine should be.

ADMIRAL DEWEY HOMEWARD BOUND.

Life Story of the Hero of Manila.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Admiral Dewey will arrive at New York about October 1. This information was received by Secretary Long a few days ago, and was immediately announced by the officers of the Navy Department.

Two or three days before Secretary Long cabled Admiral Dewey at Hong Kong asking him to state about when he would arrive in the United States. Admiral Dewey was informed that he was to govern himself entirely by his own wishes in the matter of coming home. The Department desired that he feel no official restraint whatever. The hero of Manila Bay was to take his time, if he desired, and stop wherever he wished. Of course the official despatch to Admiral Dewey conveyed this information very briefly, but enough was said to let him feel that he was to govern himself according to his individual desires.

Soon after the Admiral cabled from Hong Kong the announcement that he would stop at various places on his way home. Lieutenant Ward, of the Navigation Bureau, then made the following official announcement:

"Admiral Dewey telegraphs that he will stop at various places on his way to the United States and will reach New York about October 1.

George Dewey—the man who in one day made his bare name bigger than all the titles that could be fastened to it and whose home-coming the entire United States are now awaiting with feverish impatience—is a strictly American product.

For nearly ten generations, covering the greater part of three centuries, the blood that feeds his cool, clear brain has drawn its vigor from Yankee soil.

He is an American, and that is enough. Just as his name needs no official flourishes, his fame has no use for heraldic tinsel; and the pedigree cranks who profess to trace back his lineage through English barons and mediæval kings even to the pagan gods, will do well to carry their wares to a cheaper market. George Dewey is no proper subject for trifling of this sort.

The lively baby who was destined some sixty years later to smash the bubble of Spain's pride was born at Montpelier, Vt., December 26, 1837.

His father was Julius Y. Dewey, a physician of Montpelier, and one of the founders of the National Life Insurance Company. He was a fine, dignified specimen of an old school New England gentleman, very scrupulous about small things. He was one of the first communicants of Christ Episcopal Church, in Montpelier.

George Dewey's mother died when he was five years old. His inseparable companion and closest confidante from infancy was his sister, now Mrs. Mary P. Greeley, of Montpelier.

The affection between George and his only sister, Mary, is touching. They are of about the same age—only some eighteen months apart—and were constant playmates during their whole childhood. When George got up a "show" in his father's barn, with a buffalo-robe for a drop-curtain, Mary was the "leading lady," whose duty it was to fall on her knees and weep when George "shot off the pistol." It was Mary who would glory when George was victor in a fist fight. It was Mary who would go along to bait the hook when George went fishing in Onion River or Dog Creek. This same sister, now Mrs. Greeley, a cultured widow, is living in Montpelier.

Like Nelson and Lord Clive, George Dewey was a very bad boy at school. He used to be known in Montpelier as "That naughty Dewey boy." He was a recognized leader among the boys of his age in the town.

He could stay under the water of the Winooski River longer than any of them. He could skate and swim and run as no other boy in Montpelier could. But at the little old district school where he learned to read and write and multiply, he was a thorn in the flesh of any one who had the misfortune to try to teach him. Teacher after teacher left the school in disgust. "That Dewey boy runs the school," was the complaint of all of them.

But the Dewey boy found his match and his master at last in Z. K. Pangborn, his teacher, who is now prominent in the politics of New Jersey.

Mayor Pangborn once when George was unusually bad licked him within an inch of his life. Says the Mayor, describing the incident:

"I escorted George home to his father that day. He looked at the rawhide and at the cuts on his son's face. 'Well, Mr. Pangborn,' he said, sternly, 'I don't care what you've done, if you've only made him mind you.'"

And George Dewey did mind after that. At a meeting many years afterward with his former teacher and disciplinarian he said:

"That rawhide came just at the right time. It made a man of me."

The Norwich Military Academy was the successor to Pangborn's school. Here George learned the manual of arms and prepared for the Naval Academy, the one goal on which all his boyish hopes were centred. Through the influence of Senator Foote, of Vermont, he was appointed to Annapolis in 1854.

He graduated in 1858, and his public career since then is found in the books of the Navy Department. As a lieutenant he was detailed to the Mississippi, one of Farragut's fleet in the West Gulf squadron. The Mississippi took part in the capture of New Orleans.

It was when Dewey was thirty years old and stationed at the Kittery Navy Yard, off Portsmouth, N. H., that he first met Miss Susie Goodwin and fell desperately in love with her. She was the daughter of the fine old fighting Governor of New Hampshire, Ichabod Goodwin. Commander Rhind, of the Navy Yard, who outranked Dewey by a good many numbers, was also deeply attached to Miss Goodwin, and for a long time all Portsmouth wondered which of the two navy officers would be Miss Goodwin's choice. Dewey won and Commander Rhind sailed on a fine old ship, the Narragansett, just about the time that Susie Goodwin and George Dewey were married, October 24, 1867.

The great sorrow of George Dewey's life came in 1872. While on his first cruise on the European station as commander of a ship, the news came that a son had been born to him. Five days later Dewey received the saddest cable message of his life. It told him that his wife was dead. For a long time Dewey was inconsolable. More than one of his friends thought his career had ended with the cablegram announcing his wife's death.

His son, who is now in New York, was named George Goodwin Dewey in honor of his father.

From 1872 to 1876 he superintended the Pacific Coast survey. He was made a captain in 1884 and chief of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting in 1889. From that time up to 1897, when he went to Hong Kong to assume command of our Asiatic squadron, the greater part of his time was spent in Washington.

No one in all Washington was more sought after in clubs or a greater favorite in society than the quiet, kindly, gentle man of the world, George Dewey.

He had a suite of apartments in the Metropolitan Club at Washington, and was for years a member of the House Committee. He was scrupul-

Smooth Foreheads Are Rare.

A pretty forehead is a possession to value, as much of the character of the face depends upon it. Any forehead must and can be free from irregularities and wrinkles to be attractive. Care should be taken in youth to avoid the straight long lines on the forehead which are brought on by elevating the eyebrows. Look at the middle-aged faces you meet each day and mark the prevalence of these lines just over the temples. In nine cases out of ten the remainder of the face will be smooth and youthful, but those lines tell the tale of age. This lifting of the eyebrows is a senseless trick, which is thought to give expression to the face. It is on a level with the many other so-called tricks of expression, really nothing more than contortions of the facial muscles. It is rare to find a woman who can carry on a conversation with an even countenance and without nods and wags of the head.

Even the Rope Was Insured.

The business of insurance seems to embrace nearly every imaginable risk. A youth who stood watching three giants hoist a piano into the third story of a house with a block and tackle remarked to the languid man who bossed the job: "I'd laugh to see that rope break." "So would I," replied the man. "The rope's insured. Every week an agent inspects it. If it ever breaks the insurance company pays for what is smashed. So you see it's nothing to me whether the old thing breaks or not. In fact, I'd like to see her break with a good, valuable piano like this in tow. I've paid so blamed much money into these insurance companies I'd like to make them fork over a little of it some time or other."—Philadelphia Record.

Feeding Bottles.

Most people are of opinion that feeding bottles for babies must be an invention of modern times. According to Prof. J. N. Mosby, noted English antiquary, however, this is not the case. This gentleman, who was lecturing recently before an antiquarian society, stated that it was the custom among the Greeks for the nurses to carry a sponge full of honey in a small pot to stop the children from crying. The professor went on to say that there are two Greek vases in the British Museum, dated 700 B. C., which closely resemble the feeding bottles used subsequently by the Roman Cemetery of St. Sepulchre, Canterbury, England, a feeding bottle of bright red polished ware was dug up in 1861, and Professor Mosby came to the conclusion that this bottle must have been buried with the little Roman child to whose wants it had ministered during lifetime.

An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, SYRUP OF FIGS, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

What Can a Woman Do?

Over half a century ago Mrs. Williston, the wife of a preacher who had been obliged by failing eyesight to abandon the pulpit for merchandizing, in looking over the stock, conceived the idea of covering some wooden buttons with cloth. This she did so well that they attracted the attention not only of their own customers, but of neighboring towns and cities, and became so popular that the demand was far greater than handwork could supply. Mrs. Williston and her husband invented machinery to cover buttons with cloth and her modest beginning with thread and needle grew into an immense manufactory that turned out over half the covered buttons of the world. The half blind ex-preacher, through the bright idea of his wife, left an estate worth several millions. What can't a woman do?

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

Prof. Blondel, the French scientist, is a recent paper on the theory of wireless telegraphy, states that it can no longer be considered as due to Hertz waves produced at the spark gap, owing to the fact that a connection with the earth and a vertical wire, as used by Marconi, so greatly increases the distances through which waves are transmitted. The vertical conductor and the earth are to be treated as the plates of a condenser, connected with an oscillating current, and the spark passes across an air gap formed by two balls, which are the terminals of the conductors. The oscillating electromotive forces produce displacement currents, which are concentrated about the vertical conductor by the Hertz waves, which they produced around the conductor, spread out into space. The chief point made is that the oscillations in the wire are not of themselves useful, but they produce others which disturb the surrounding ether. The vertical conductor serves to increase the volume of disturbed ether, and the higher the conductor the greater the effect. The vertical conductor also directs the magnetic lines of force in the direction to produce the maximum effect on the parallel conductor at the receiving station. The magnetic lines of force are horizontal circles, concentric with the conductor, and expand horizontally into space till they strike the receiving conductor at right angles, and generate oscillations in which the coherer at the base of the conductor responds.

A fireproof material has recently been devised and is made of granite chips finely pewdered, moulded into form, and then fused together at a temperature of 3,000 degrees Fahr. It has a very high resistance, and is used for insulation on electric railways. It may be heated red hot, and then immersed in cold water without injury while it will resist the action of both acids and alkalis. It has been found frost-proof by tests with liquid air at a temperature of 350 degrees below zero, and it required 56,600 volts pressure to penetrate a piece a half-inch in thickness.

The United States coast survey has completed the geodetic survey across the continent on the thirty-ninth parallel, and the results are shortly to be published. An elaborate system of triangulation was employed and so accurate has been the work that the distance, which is about 2,625 miles, has been fixed within an error of 100 feet, or less than one-half inch to the mile. This survey has been in progress for nearly fifty years, and will afford accurate data for carrying on secondary triangulation throughout the country.

The Paris fire department has recently been provided with an electric wagon which will carry eleven persons in addition to a supply of ropes and ladders. The vehicle was recenty tested with a full load of passengers and equipment, and succeeded in maintaining a speed of fifteen miles per hour.

How the Indian Plague Travels.

Animals spread the disease by their evacuations, by poisoning with the germs such water as is used by them and human beings, and—in all likelihood—by means of the insects which are common to them and men, or to them and the houses of men. Surgeon-Major Dimmick, of Bombay, an expert, declared the methods of infection to be by the secretions of patients or infected animals, by rats, and perhaps by insects. In the neighborhood of a plague patient, dark, overcrowded, unventilated rooms were the main site of the retention of the poison, and also underground drains. The over-crowding of people in such places, he said, was the main means of plague distribution.

Col. Adams, a medical officer, declared it proved that the infection is carried a long way in clothing, and to a limited extent by rats. Another medical officer swore that where he had studied the plague the natives called it "the rats' disease." Dr. Underwood, of Bombay, said that the plague is spread by over-crowding, re-breathed air and aerial stagnation. He declared that rats were found in larger numbers during the plague than before. "They were migrating from one place to another, appeared to be in a state of intoxication, and would not notice human beings when they came across them." A singular bit of testimony, by Capt. Wilkinson, of the Indian medical service, was of a single case of plague in a village where no native communicated with the patient. The only other victims of the disease were rats. A sanitary inspector in the Punjab knew of a case where plague-stricken rats dropped into a well and infected its water.—Julian Ralph, in Harper's Weekly.

Blindness in Spain.

The large proportion of blind people in Spain has attracted attention since the beginning of the present century. The subject is again brought up by an article by Privy Councilor Hirschberg, in the German Medical Weekly, giving the results of his recent observation in Spain, where he attended the Hygienic Congress. He says the streets of Madrid swarm with blind beggars; the further south he went the more blind he met. The proportion in Spain as given in the census of 1860 is 11 to 10,000, against 8 to 9 in Germany, France and England, but that is considered undoubtedly false by continental authorities. More recent figures give 14.8. The chief causes of blindness in Spain are inflammation of the eyes of infants, granulation and smallpox. The widespread fatalistic attitude of the sick, the lack of governmental oversight, and the small attention paid to disease of the eye operate to increase the number of blind in Spain. There is not a single public eye hospital in Spain, according to Dr. Hirschberg, only wards in general hospitals and private institutions.

STORIES OF RELIEF.

Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. JOHN WILLIAMS, Englishtown, N. J., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot begin to tell you how I suffered before taking your remedies. I was so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without falling. I had womb trouble and such a bearing-down feeling; also suffered with my back and limbs, pain in womb, inflammation of the bladder, piles and indigestion. Before I had taken one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great deal better, and after taking two and one-half bottles and half a box of your Liver Pills I was cured. If more would take your medicine they would not have to suffer so much."

Mrs. JOSEPH PETERSON, 513 East St., Warren, Pa., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered with womb trouble over fifteen years. I had inflammation, enlargement and displacement of the womb. I had the backache constantly, also headache, and was so dizzy. I had heart trouble, it seemed as though my heart was in my throat at times choking me. I could not walk around and I could not lie down, for then my heart would beat so fast I would feel as though I was smothering. I had to sit up in bed nights in order to breathe. I was so weak I could not do anything.

"I have now taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and can say I am perfectly cured. I do not think I could have lived long if Mrs. Pinkham's medicine had not helped me."

How Old She Looks

Poor clothes cannot make you look old. Even pale cheeks won't do it.

Your household cares may be heavy and disappointments may be deep, but they cannot make you look old.

One thing does it and never fails.

It is impossible to look young with the color of seventy years in your hair.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

permanently postpones the tell-tale signs of age. Used according to directions it gradually brings back the color of youth. At fifty your hair may look as it did at fifteen. It thickens the hair also; stops it from falling out; and cleanses the scalp from dandruff. Shall we send you our book on the Hair and its Diseases?

Chickens EARN Money

IF YOU GIVE THEM HELP.

You cannot do this unless you understand them and know how to cater to their requirements; and you cannot spend years and dollars learning by experience, so you must buy the knowledge acquired by others. We offer this to you for only 25 cents.

YOU WANT THEM TO PAY THEIR OWN WAY,

even if you merely keep them as a diversion. In order to handle Fowls judiciously, you must know something about them. To meet this want we are selling a book giving the experience of a practical poultry raiser for twenty-five years. It was written by a man who put all his mind, and time, and money to making a success of Chicken raising—not as a pastime, but as a business—and if you will profit by his twenty-five years' work, you can save many Chicks annually, and make your Fowls earn dollars for you. The point is, that you must be able to detect trouble in the Poultry Yard as soon as it appears, and know how to remedy it. This book will teach you. (Only 25c.

It tells how to detect and cure disease; to feed for eggs and also for fattening; which fowls to save for breeding purposes; and everything, indeed, you should know on this subject to make it profitable. Sent postpaid for twenty-five cents in stamps.

THE GRIM REAPER CLAIMS HENRY B. PLANT

President of Famous System of Railways Passes Away Suddenly.

DEATH OCCURRED AT HIS NEW YORK HOME FROM HEART FAILURE

Had Unlimited Confidence In the South and the People of It and Did a Great Work.

Henry B. Plant, president of the famous Plant system of railways, steamships and hotels, and of the Southern Express Company, died Friday afternoon at his home on Fifth avenue, New York, at 2:45 o'clock. The immediate cause of his death was heart failure, brought on by a general state of debility. No one was with him at the last hour but his wife and family physician.

Mr. Plant had complained of feeling ill the day before, but went to his office at 12 West Twenty-third street, and attended to business with his accustomed interest and alertness. In the evening several friends called on him and he chatted with them in his usual good-humored way. During the night, however, he was taken sick and his physician was called. Dr. Durant staid with him to the end, Friday afternoon, as did also Mr. G. H. Tilley, secretary and treasurer of the Southern Express Company. His only child, Mr. Morgan F. Plant, was not present, being on a pleasure trip on his private yacht off the coast of New Jersey.

HENRY B. PLANT.

Head of the Great System of Railroads Which Bear His Name, Who Died Suddenly in New York.

Mr. Plant had not been sick since last November, when, on returning from a trip from Florida, he was suddenly seized in his private car in the Jersey City railway station at which time his life was depaired of, but he revived and went back to Florida, where he has been able to attend to his various business interests during the winter season. His death was so sudden as to have surprised even those closest to him.

Brief Sketch of His Life.

Mr. Plant was a native of Connecticut, and was born at Branford on October 27th, 1819. He came of a long line of Puritan ancestors, and among the forefathers were men who fought for the independence of the country in which they all became factors more or less prominent during their days.

His ancestry came from England in 1639, and nearly everyone occupied some position of honor and trust. On his grandmother's side he was descended from Joseph Frisbee, who was a major in Washington's army, the same family that gave Harvard its professor, Levi Frisbee. Through the Frisbees he was related to Sir William Pepperell, Bart, and the same strain gave him a kinship with the late Senator Hoar, whose middle name was Frisbee. Like the maternal side of his house, Mr. Plant's paternal ancestry figured prominently wherever they were known.

For over two hundred years the Plants resided at Branford, and on the lands which were given them by the crown their descendants still reside, and all, like the late railroad king, are men prominent in the section of the country in which they reside. Mr. Plant's father died while he was quite young, and at the time of that death Mr. Plant was himself quite ill, so ill that he was not informed of his father's death until several days after it occurred.

Why He Came South.

In 1853 Mrs. Plant was seized with congestion of the lungs, and the family physicians ordered that she be taken to Florida; and this was the inception of Mr. Plant's connection with the south and the work he has accomplished in this section. In March, 1853, he left New York with his invalid wife on a steamer, and after touching at Charleston and Savannah, landed at Jacksonville. At that time the Florida metropolis was made up of a dozen huts, and Mr. Plant found it hard work to secure accommodations for Mrs. Plant.

The day after reaching Jacksonville Mr. Plant secured a home with a Floridian six miles from Jacksonville, and during the winter Mrs. Plant's health improved so much that he was able to return north with her the next spring. But during that time Mr. Plant had found the great health-giving qualities there were in the climate of the Peninsula State, and within less than a year he had again invaded the state and made some investments, which later turned out to have been judicious.

About this time the Adams Express company was more fully organized in the east, with some of the leading capitalists of that section as stockholders, and Mr. Plant had a connection with the company. On his trips south he found a new and large field for the work of the company, and in a short time had extended the business over the lines into many southern cities, where an express company's work had never been heard of. The leading cities of the south were brought into the territory of the Adams Express company, and no more profitable territory was to be found than that discovered by Mr. Plant.

The entire southern field was under his direction, and when the civil war came on the directors of the company decided to dispose of the southern territory, believing that the work of transmitting valuables and packages could not be carried on with safety. Then it was that Mr. Plant showed his great and unlimited faith in this section and the people of it. He knew the character of the people among whom he had cast his lot, and as soon as the old company was out of the way he organized the Southern Express Company and was elected its first president.

During his residence in the south he had won the confidence, esteem and respect of all, and none were slow to come to his support in the new enterprise, notwithstanding the fact that it was generally known that Mr. Plant's sympathies were against secession. In a short time after the new company was formed the seat of the Confederate government was at Montgomery, and there President Davis and his cabinet were located. M. Plant was always open and frank. There was nothing of the deceptive nature him, and before entering upon the duties of a public carrier in the new government he decided to let the head of that government and his advisers know just where he stood.

By an attorney he presented his views and ideas to President Davis in the presence of the entire Confederate cabinet. Mr. Plant was known to each of the gentlemen personally or by reputation, and when his position had been defined he was told to go ahead with the work, and that the government had every confidence in his honesty and integrity.

After the war Mr. Plant continued the express company and was again and again elected its president, never being out of that office from the time of its creation up to the time of his death.

In the later seventies and early eighties Mr. Plant made two or three trips to Europe, and it was while on one of these trips that he conceived the idea of building palace steamers for his lines. How he carried out those plans the thousands who have ridden on his steamers know well enough.

Along with his steamboat lines, Mr. Plant projected a system of railroads which today reach far and wide. All Florida is touched by some of his lines, either a branch or a main stem tapping sections of the entire state. Few roads are better equipped and few employes find themselves so well cared for as those on the Plant system.

It was not until 1879 that Mr. Plant became interested in Florida railroads and laid the foundation of the great system bearing his name. The first railroads purchased by him were the Atlantic & Gulf, now known as the Savannah, Florida and Western, and the Charleston and Savannah.

Since then many lines have been acquired and numerous connecting links constructed, now all embraced in the corporation chartered by the legislature of Connecticut as the Plant Investment Company. Supplementing the railroad properties are several steamship lines, the most important of which is that running from Tampa and Key West to Havana, which has been in operation since 1884.

ENGLAND STILL WARLIKE.

Troops Are In Readiness To Embark For South Africa.

A cable dispatch from London says: The Shropshire regiment has been ordered to hold itself in readiness for immediate embarkation for Capetown.

The order, which was given Friday afternoon, creates the most intense excitement, and the talk of war with the Transvaal is now absorbing all attention.

"TEDDY" IS PATRIOTIC.

Governor of New York Offers To Furnish All Volunteers Needed.

Governor Roosevelt, of New York, telegraphed President McKinley Friday, informing him that in the event of a call for volunteers being made New York was prepared to furnish all the men the government might ask for, and asked that an opportunity be given New York state to do so.

ROUGH RIDERS IN REUNION.

Gov. Roosevelt's Quondam Troopers Give Him Enthusiastic Welcome.

Governor Roosevelt arrived at Las Vegas, New Mexico, Saturday afternoon, to attend the first annual reunion of the Society of Rough Riders. The popular colonel was greeted as he stepped off the rear car with tremendous cheering from 5,000 people massed around the depot. The noted New Yorker was clad in his Rough Rider uniform and was easily recognized by the crowd. He was almost lifted bodily from his feet by the press of persons anxious to grasp his hand. He looked in excellent health and seemed to appreciate the hearty enthusiasm of the people who greeted him. As he walked down the depot sidewalk a line of Rough Rider veterans saluted and joined in the general ovation.

When Colonel Roosevelt came opposite the line of Rough Riders he began shaking hands with the troopers and gave them a most cordial greeting.

During the reunion meeting Governor Roosevelt was elected an honorary president of the association for life. Colonel A. O. Brodie, of Prescott, was elected president, and Lieutenant Dame, of Cerrillos, secretary for the ensuing year; Captain W. H. H. Llewellyn, first vice president; Lieutenant Goodrich, second vice president.

The governor was ordered to be brought before the meeting, was apprised of his election and responded in an eloquent address. There was quite a spirited contest for the selection of the place to hold the next annual reunion between Oklahoma City and Colorado Springs. The former city had decidedly the best of it, the vote standing 89 to 121.

Memorial services was the first thing on the rough riders' reunion program Sunday. They were held at 11 o'clock a. m., at the Duncan opera house and Rev. Thomas A. Uzzelle, pastor of the People's tabernacle, of Denver, preached the memorial sermon.

COLORED EDITOR KILLED.

A General Fight In Tampa, Fla., Causes Great Excitement.

At Tampa, Fla., Saturday afternoon M. J. Christopher, colored, editor of the Union Labor Record, was shot and killed.

Several days ago Christopher published a scurrilous article about Policeman W. W. Woodward, who had some trouble in arresting a negro woman. Since the publication, Christopher had been hiding out, but Saturday he and Woodward met. A few words ensued and then came a general fight.

Christopher was armed, and had several armed negroes with him. A number of white men were close by, and ran in, while Woodward was beating the negro, and a shot was fired, which resulted in the death of the negro. No one knows who fired the pistol, but it is said that Policeman Woodward did not.

After the fight several thousand negroes thronged the streets, and many of them were armed. They made threats, and a large posse of determined white men was placed on duty armed with rifles. The police force was doubled. Peace will be maintained if possible.

Christopher was custodian of the large government warehouse at Tampa, and as such government officer it is claimed that the affair will be reported to Washington and the department asked to take a hand in the investigation.

CLEVELAND STRIKE SETTLED.

Cars Will Resume With Nearly All of the Old Hands Reinstated.

An agreement between the big Consolidated Street Railway Company of Cleveland, O., and its striking employees was reached Saturday evening.

The agreement provides for the hearing of grievences and a resort to abitration in case the men and the company cannot agree and it also provides for the reinstatement of practically 80 per cent of the old men at once, the remainder except those who have been guilty of violence, being placed on the waiting list.

Spanish Bank Report.

The Bank of Spain's report for the week ended June 24th shows the following changes: Gold in hand, increase 5,063,000 pesetas; silver in hand, increase, 3,773,000 pesetas; notes in circulation, decrease, 1,120,000. Gold was quoted Saturday at 23.22.

RIVER STEAMER SINKS.

Boat Is Supposed To Have Struck a Snag--One Man Was Drowned.

The steamer Apalachee, one of the finest vessels plying the Chattahoochee and Chipola rivers, between Columbus, Ga., and Apalachicola, Fla., went to the bottom Saturday afternoon opposite Wewahitchka, Fla., in twelve feet of water. The Apalachee had on board a large list of passengers bound for different Florida resorts. Meager reports of the catastrophe stated that four persons were drowned, while in fact only one person perished.

It is supposed that the vessel was out of her regular course, and struck hidden obstruction.

MUCH FEVER IN CUBA.

New York Health Officer Thinks Reports Are Suppressed.

Dr. A. H. Doty, health officer of the port of New York, is of the opinion that there is more yellow fever among the troops in Cuba than is reported by the war department. Within six months he says 6,000 soldiers have returned from Cuba and more than 6,000 more will arrive in New York within the next two months. He proposes to make special precaution.

KENTUCKY REAFFIRMS CHICAGO PLATFORM

Action Was Taken at State Democratic Convention In Louisville.

WATT HARDIN WITHDREW FROM THE RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Platform Adopted Scores the State Republican Administration, Favors Bryan and Endorses Blackburn For Senator.

After a week of wrangling and ten ineffectual ballots, the Kentucky democratic state convention in session at Louisville took an adjournment Saturday until Monday. It was a few minutes before midnight when the motion to adjourn was declared carried, and every man in the convention hall was heartily glad that a day of comparative rest was in sight.

The first feature of the day Saturday was General Hardin's sensational withdrawal from the race. At a highly interesting stage of the morning's proceedings, when the tension was great, and there was much talk of the probability of the Hardin forces withdrawing because of the rulings of the chair and the adverse decision of the credentials committee, General Hardin suddenly appeared, and in an impassioned speech declared that he would withdraw from the race.

Harmony and the party's good were, he declared, more to him than his personal ambitions, and to prevent the trouble impending he would withdraw. Whether this was done in good faith or not is open to conjecture, but it was so taken until the Stone people saw that Goebel would surely be nominated. Then they rushed a lot of votes to Hardin and drew a lot of Hardin men from Goebel, preventing the latter's nomination.

Nine other ballots were taken after that, the dreary sing song of the roll call and answer being up until about 11 o'clock. On the tenth ballot the vote stood: Stone, 376; Hardin, 365; Goebel, 346.

Stone had led on most of the ballots, with the other two alternating in second and third places. There was, however, very little difference between the real strength of the three men, a few votes being scattered about each time, in the hope of creating a diversion.

The Platform Adopted.

The platform adopted by the convention for the presidential campaign of 1900 reads in part as follows:

"The democrats of Kentucky in convention assembled, reaffirm, without the slightest qualification, the principles and policies declared in the democratic national platform adopted at Chicago in 1896.

"Our faith in bimetallism is vindicated by events. The necessity for the restoration of the double standard was acknowledged by the president and congress in 1897 when a commission was sent to Europe to entreat other nations to aid in establishing bimetallism, and the failure of the commission to secure European co-operation confirms the friends of free coinage in their belief that relief can only come by the independent action of the United States. The present legal ratio of 16 to 1 is the only ratio at which bimetallism can be restored and opposition to it is confined to those who oppose bimetallism at any ratio and those who misapprehend or ignore the reasons which led three national conventions to adopt it.

"We denounce the present republican national administration for its reckless extravagance in the conduct of public affairs; for its cruel and inhuman neglect in its treatment of our soldiers and sailors during the Spanish war; for its complete subordination to the interest of organized wealth; for its protection and encouragement of trusts and combinations, and especially for its appointment and retention in office of an attorney general devoted to the interests of trusts and combinations.

"We call attention to the incompetency of the present republican administration in Kentucky; to the abuses in scandals in the management of penitentiaries and assylums while under republican control, and we commend the wisdom of the last general assembly of Kentucky in the enactment of laws which secure the wise and economical administration of the penitentiaries and other public institutions of the state under democratic control.

"We believe the trust is the result, in a large measure, of the policies adopted and pursued by the republican party, chief among which are the demonetization of silver by which the volume of currency has been kept below the demands of business, and the enactment and enforcement of vicious, unwise and unpatriotic legislation, such as the protective tariff laws known as the McKinley and Dingley bills, whereby there is a discrimination in favor of corporate wealth and against individual enterprise.

"We favor the destruction of the result as well as the removal of the causes. The re-establishment of independent bimetalism at 16 to 1 and the repeal of the protective tariff laws would do more to cripple and destroy the organiztion and operation of the trusts than any other laws.

"We believe the law in Kentucky known as the anti-trust law should be so amended as to make unlawful any agreement, combination or arrangement by corporations or indiviuals under which in the carrying on of any business the prices charge should thereby be fixed, controlled or regulated.

"We indorse the amendment to the state election law passed by the last democratic general assembly of Kentucky over the veto of a republican governor. We declare the amendment to the law to be in the interest of fair and honest elections. Its faithful enforcement will render impossible the commission of such frauds and robberies as were perpetrated in this state in 1896 whereby the will of the people was overthrown and the state lost to William J. Bryan.

"We indorse the provision of the bill passed by the democratic general assembly of Kentucky to prevent extortionate, unfair, discriminating and ruinous freight rates by transportation companies, which bill was vetoed by a republican governor; and we likewise indorse the provisions of the bill passed by said general assembly to insure competition in the sale of school books for the use of the children of this state, the purpose of which bill was to destroy the extortionate and oppressive prices now maintained by the school book trust in this state--and we pledge the democracy to such revision or amendment as time or necessity may show is beneficial to the school children of this state.

"We hereby express our continued confidence in William J. Bryan and favor his nomination for the presidency of the United States by the democratic national convention of 1900.

"We recommend to the democracy of Kentucky J. C. S. Blackburn as the successor of William Lindsay in the United States senate.

"We indorse the war carried to success for the freedom of the enslaved Cubans; and we appreciate and honor the courage and heroism of our soldiers and sailors therein engaged. But we declare the conduct of the present national administration as to the Philippines to be repugnant to every line of the bill of rights, the constitution and the declaration of independence."

Kruger Buys Rifles.

A London special says: The government of the South African Republic, according to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Rome, is ordering large quantities of rifles from Italian firms for immediate shipment.

SANTIAGO FEVER REPORT.

So Far There Has Been Thirty-Three Cases and Five Deaths.

Thirty-three cases of yellow fever with five deaths have been officially reported at Santiago since the beginning of the present outbreak. One of the deaths occured in the Fifth infantry. The other four fatal cases were civilians.

Captain Fabricus, a popular medical officer, died Sunday.

For three days the Cubans the past week conducted a patriotic demonstration, the festival of San Juan, in honor of the victory won there by the American troops over the Spaniards.

RAY STARTS FOR ALASKA.

Popular Soldier and Three Hundred Men Go To Yukon.

The transport St. Paul sailed from San Francisco for St. Michael Saturday with 300 soldiers, under Colonel Ray, who are going north to relieve the troops now upon the Yukon.

They will be stationed at various points, Colonel Ray making St. Michael his headquarters.

Customs Receipts of Havana.

Acting Secretary of War Meiklejohn announced Saturday the customs receipts at Havana for the week ending June 17th, exceed those of any previous week for 1899 by $9,600.

PLENTY OF RECRUITS.

Legal Maximum Number of 65,000 Men Has Been Reached.

Recruiting officials at the war department say the work is progressing with pleasing rapidity. Recruits have been received at the rate of 1,000 per week for the past three weeks and there are now at San Francisco about 5,000 recruits awaiting transportation to the Philippines.

The army is now practically recruited up to its legal maximum of 65,000 men, but it is understood that the recruiting at the present rate will be kept up for some time, or at least till the department receives further advices from General Otis.

CUBANS FORM SOCIETY.

Membership Is Being Made Up From Army Men and Civilians.

A special from Havana says: The Society of Veterans of Independence, organized by the leaders of the former military assembly, continues growing and enlisting all who are willing to work unitedly. It is composed of three classes—members of the army, civilians who acted as agents in the Cuban cities during the war and those who were deported by the Spaniards. Headquarters will be established in the various provinces.

CHARGES AGAINST REYNOLDS.

Late President of Montevallo School Said to Have Misapplied Funds.

The finance committee of the Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo, composed of S. D. Block, S. W. John and C. W. Thompson, has made its report to the governor.

The committee say that Capt. H. C. Reynolds, late president of the school, refuses to deliver the day book, ledger or stubs of receipts issued to pupils for money deposited on board and when summoned by State Examiner Cowan refused to recognize the right of the examiner to compel him to produce the books, papers, etc.

The committee intimates that mandamus proceedings will be instituted to compel Captain Reynolds to produce these accounts and without them no accounts against the late president can be stated accurately.

Captain Reynolds is preparing to appeal to the courts to recover a claim of $4,403.01 for past services, $2,500 of which is for services in securing the gift of public lands to the school by congress, which last claim the trustees refused to consider until it was properly itemized.

The committee said that it was the uniform method of Captain Reynolds, upon receiving from the pupils the required money to immediately convert this money to his own use by turning it over into the business of H. C. & W. B. Reynolds, with the result that a large sum went to them annually, and for which the school has received no benefit in any way.

His method of paying laundry bills was to issue to every pupil a printed blank, which, when dated and signed by the pupil, became a receipt for clothes and an order to pay bearer for washing the same. These checks had no sum written on them, but they were given and accepted in every instance as 25 cents, and, while they were not addressed to any one, yet they were issued and received with the understanding that they would be and were, in every instance, paid by said firm, H. C. & W. B. Reynolds, in their store. It is well known, the trustees say, how profitable such a course of dealing is.

He credited himself $25 per month for pumping water and $20 per month for a fireman, when Reynolds got water for his residence, claims the whole system and gets all the rents, when it is the property of the school.

He drove a tenant out of one of the cottages who was paying $4 a month and put his brother in there, who said he was to have it for repairs put on it. The tenant run off offered $8 for the house.

He cut down trees in said lot and sold the wood therefrom, which he appropriated to his own use. Reynolds, the trustees allege, has withheld large sums of money for which no account has ever been given. There was, the trustees say, a piano transaction of profit to the late president and many like transactions are referred to.

Steps are to be taken at once to get the books.

A GENERAL MEETING CALLED

Of Southern Industrial Representatives at Huntsville on September 4.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at Huntsville, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, The greatest problems that confront the people of the south are those pertaining to her industrial growth and development, and no higher obligations exist today than the speedy and wise solution of those problems, possessing resources unequalled by any other section on the globe, and with natural advantages that should make these resources the easiest developed of any other; and,

"Whereas, Every interest of our country, both north and south, demands that at least an effort should be put forth; be it

"Resolved, by the Huntsville Chamber of Commerce, That a meeting of those deemed most able to effect the foregoing purposes be and is hereby called to meet in the city of Huntsville, Ala., on Monday, September 4; that the Governors of all southern states, commercial bodies, mayors of cities, editors of all newspapers, periodicals or other publications, prominent educators and ministers of the south be and are hereby invited to co-operate in this movement."

Steinhart Is Supervisor.

It is announced that Colonel Albert Steinhart, of Greenville, has been appointed at the instance of Congressman Stallings to be supervisor of the federal census for that district. The job is said to be worth about $2,500.

Shot in the Hip.

Thomas J. Countess, a well-known planter, was shot at Meridianville by Peyton Powell, son of ex-Sheriff Powell. Countess and the ex-sheriff had a difficulty over a trifling matter and Powell, who was in a very weak condition, was abused. Peyton Powell met Countess the following morning and shot him in the hip, inflicting a serious wound.

ALABAMA PRESS ASSOCIATION

At a Special Meeting Held in Cincinnati Return Thanks for Favors and Courtesies.

At a special meeting of the members of the Alabama Press association who went to Niagara Falls, which was held in the parlors of the Grand Hotel, Cincinnati, June 21, over which First Vice President Yerby presided, some interesting business was transacted.

I. A. Levy, of The Eutaw Mirror, on behalf of the association, in a neat and most complimentary eulogy, presented Secretary J. A. Rountree with a handsome silver service as a token of appreciation of services in an official capacity. Mr. Levy's presentation was loudly applauded by every member of the body.

Mr. Rountree in appropriate words gave his heartiest thanks for the high compliment paid him and the magnificent gift presented to him.

Junius Pierce, of The Citronelle Times, on behalf of the ladies of the party, presented Mrs. J. A. Rountree with a handsome set of cut glass goblets.

The following resolutions were introduced and unanimously passed, many of them by a rising vote:

By C. H. Greer, of The Marion Standard:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Alabama Press association be and are hereby tendered to the Young Men's Business association, Chamber of Commerce and the local press of Cincinnati for courtesies extended during our short stay in their city on our return from our annual outing; that we appreciate doubly this special reception, as it was spontaneous and unexpected; that we appreciate the commercial ties which link our state with this progressive city.

By J. A. Rountree, of the Dixie Home and Manufacturer—Whereas, we, the members of the Alabama Press association, feeling a deep personal sense of appreciation, individually and as a body, to the Louisville & Nashville railroad for the special train and many courtesies extended to us, therefore be it

Resolved, That we deeply appreciate and return thanks for courtesies of Col. J. M. Faulkner, district attorney of the Louisville and Nashville, for personal favors, and also for his forethought in deputizing his assistant, Mr. George W. Jones, to accompany us from Birmingham to Niagara Falls.

Resolved second, That the heartiest thanks be returned to Mr. Jones for his kindness and thoughtful attentions shown us on the trip, and that we will ever remember him with delight.

By G. W. Price, of The Bessemer Herald-Journal—Resolved, That the special thanks of the Alabama Press Association be tendered to Mr. George C. Maltby, general manager of the Celoron New York Amusement company for his kindness and attention while visiting his resort.

By H. S. Doster, of the Prattville Progress—Resolved, That the Alabama Press association is greatly indebted to Mr. M. W. Partridge, the efficient manager of the Kent House, Lakewood, N. Y., for his successful efforts in entertaining us while visiting his popular resort, and we assure him we will ever remember with pleasure our visit and his kind treatment and also the grand ball in honor of the association.

By Rev. J. G. Snedecor, of the Southwestern Presbyterian—Resolved, That the Alabama Press association was delighted with its visit to Chautauqua, and hereby returns sincere thanks to Bishop J. H. Vincent for courtesies shown us during our charming visit to these famous old grounds.

By Rev. S. P. West, of the Alabama Christian Advocate—Resolved, That the Alabama Press Association return its sincere thanks to Mr. Holabird, assistant general passenger agent of the Erie Railway, and Mr. F. H. Garfield, district passenger agent of the same road, for the kind attention and special courtesies to us while en route from Cincinnati to Niagara Falls and return.

At the request of the ladies—Resolved, That the ladies of the Alabama Press Association tender their sincere thanks to Mr. J. M. Darling, the efficient and popular conductor of the Pullman Palace Car Company, for his many courtesies.

By H. S. Doster, of the Prattville Progress—Resolved, That the members of the Alabama Press association publish these resolutions in connection with what each member may write regarding this itinerary and send a marked copy of these papers to the names embodied in the resolutions offered.

Met Death in a Horrible Manner.

George Robinson, a white miner at Blossburg, met a horrible death while at work in the mines with his brother and brother-in-law. The three men were engaged in pulling down pillars left by the regular miners to support the roof, when a heavy piece of slate fell directly upon Robinson's head, crushing him to the floor and inflicting injuries from which he died in ten minutes.

THE CHRONICLE.

TIME TO ACT.

The Montevallo School matter has gone far enough. It has now been talked about too much for the good of the school. It has reached that stage when the questions at issue between Captain Reynolds and the trustees can be satisfactorily adjusted only before a court of competent and unbiased jurisdiction and the school is suffering. A president is needed, a good, progressive man, of executive and scholarly ability, who will take up the burdens of the school and push its interests forward. It is time that the work of preparation for next session were being pushed, and by the man who is going to conduct the school in future and one who will have the interests of the school and not his own in view. There are scores of such men in Alabama; let the trustees select one of them at its meeting next Monday, one who they know will accept. Let the work of the school be put under headway, and then if they desire to settle the questions of dispute with Captain Reynolds let them proceed in order and before a properly constituted tribunal. At the present time the affairs of the school is in the hands of a man who is totally unfit to conduct the most unimportant detail, and it is high time the trustees were forgetting their political debts or their desire to reward or avenge, time they were getting down to business. The interests of the poor girls of Alabama rest on them; let them beware how they tamper with them. There is work to be done; let them put a man there to do it. And let them be sure he is a man.

SOME MORE FIGURES.

Since we have gone into the business of hunting figures we have come to like it. Hence we keep it up. A reference to the State Auditor's report shows the valuation of property from 1897 to 1898. For the State at large they show a gradual increase, while for Shelby County a decrease is shown. The following are the figures for Shelby County:

1893	$4,262,717
1894	4,008,050
1895	3,970,829
1896	3,893,598
1897	3,905,856
1898	3,887,924

We all see the outward signs of increase in wealth, but when we examine the tax books the values take a downward shoot. As long as valuations fail to keep pace with the natural increased cost of government expenses, the tax rate will grow.

UNDER the head of "some suggestions" in this issue will be found some truths. Modesty and personal interest prevents us from making any comments. We print it simply because it is truth, and some of our people need to know it.

THE noise kicked up by THE CHRONICLE anent escaped taxes is bearing fruit. The commissioner is at work, and the corporations are preparing to settle. Others will be compelled to raise their valuations of their property to the proper amount. This paper began calling attention to these matters a year ago, and is highly gratified that its efforts have accomplished some good for the small and needy taxpayers. It is quite willing that others should reap the reward of its labors of investigation. It has only to insist that everyone be made to share alike, and that those who are paying their just proportion be let alone.

THERE are other tax valuations in this county than those of the resident corporations which need some attention. We find upon reference to the tax books that there are three nonresident land owners who own 66,412 acres of land assessed at $49,777, or a fraction less than 72 cents per acre. It is well known that not an acre of this land can be bought for less than $5, and $10 has been offered for some of it and refused. There are other tracts of less acreage, known to be valuable, assessed at $1 per acre, and some individual mill companies are assessing at that price, while others are paying on $3 to $5 for the same class of lands. We believe in corporations paying what the law requires: we believe in nonresident land syndicates paying fair valuations: we believe in private individuals doing the same thing.

THE esteemed Montgomery Journal a few days since contained an article from the pen of W. H. Sturdivant, of this county, in eulogy of Governor Johnston. The article was of such value to the Journal that it was given a six-deck head, in which the Hon. William is made to voice the sentiment of myriads of people whom he has met in his travels. The Hon. William has no doubt traveled from Dogwood to Bamford, and gathers his inspiration from the denizens of his native forests, the political complexion of whom is like unto his own sadly mixed. The Journal is hard up, indeed, to go into ecstacies over the praise of the Governor from the pen of a man who was taken up from his seclusion among Cahaba hills and nominated for legislature by a convention of thick-lipped, howling negroes. If the Journal can find no better source of approval for its political boss than this it had better leave him to the mercy of oblivion.

MORE ABOUT TAX RATES.

While on the subject of tax rates for this county, we have taken occasion to go back for a good many years, examining the records from 1870 up. We give some information found therein for the benefit of the people generally and for The Advocate in particular.

Up to and including the year 1878 the tax rate for this county was 5 mills, beginning with 1873. This was the period following reconstruction, and that the results of carpet bag and Republican rule were wiped out with so low a rate was a source of congratulation.

In 1879 a court composed of Judge J. T. Leeper, J. A. Grimlin, E. F. Vest, E. H. Sawyer and A. M. Posey, all elected as Democrats, reduced the tax rate to 4 mills, and in 1880 made a further reduction to 3½ mills.

In 1881 it was put back to 4 mills, where it stayed until 1888. In 1884 an Independent court of commissioners was elected, composed of Ben Cardwell, J. E. Dykes, Burr Nabors, and Wm. Leonard, of which The Advocate spoke last week, saying: "When the Independents assumed control of the county in 1884 they found the county badly in debt. By good management that indebtedness was paid off and the tax rate reduced to 3½ mills." The Advocate evidently made this assertion on some of their numerous editors' recollection, as the records show no such thing. There was a balance in the county treasury in August, 1884, of $6,000, put there by the painstaking administration of Judge J. T. Leeper and other Democratic officials. Ta s court was presided over by Judge Leeper till his death. At the July term, 1884, the tax rate was fixed at one-fourth of 1 per cent, or 2½ mills, with a balance on hand of $7,000 in September. About this time there was a general raising of valuation by the commissioners, which made the low rate possible.

In 1889 the court, composed of Judge Cobb, Messrs. Dykes, McCluskey, Davis and Johnston, one Democrat and four Populists, fixed the rate at 3 mills, with a balance of $6,000, after an appropriation of $3,000 to the public schools of the county. This was the beginning of Populism in the county, and we may note that two of the Independent commissioners who made the lowest tax rate the county has ever had, have never affiliated with the Populist party. So that the Populists found a balance of $7,000 and a rate of 2½ mills when they went into power in 1898. Now watch the evolution:

POPULIST.

In 1889, 3 mills and $6,000.
In 1890, $4,000 but no record of tax rate.
In 1891, 4 mills and $5,000.
In 1892, 4 mills and $8,000.

DEMOCRATIC.

In 1893, 4 mills and $12,000.
In 1894, 3 mills and $16,000.
In 1895, 3 mills and $9,000.
In 1896, 4 mills and $2,000.

POPULIST.

In 1897, 4 mills and $2,000.
In 1898, 4 mills and $4,000.
In 1899, 6 mills, present balance not known.

With all these figures the fact remains that after three years of Populist rule the tax rate for county purposes is higher than it has been at any time in twenty-five years. It is also an undisputed fact that the corporations are not paying their just share of the taxes, and that nothing is being done about it. It is also apparent on the face of the records that two big land syndicates are assessing their lands at less than one-fourth of the value they put them on the market for sale, and the commissioners are not raising them.

WHILE The Advocate has been abusing Democrats, filling the minds of its readers with ungrounded prejudice and the heads of the negroes with the idea of their importance, THE CHRONICLE has inaugurated and, without a word of encouragement from any of the reform howlers, prosecuted a crusade against delinquent taxpayers that ought to net the county $25,000.

A false impression has been created in the minds of Alabamians who think that Simmons Liver Regulator is put up by any one named Simmons. This is not true. Simmons Liver Regulator is owned exclusively by J. H. Zeilin & Co. and no one else knows how to make it. Numbers of cheap substitutes abound, but if you will be careful and see that the word Regulator is on the package you cannot be deceived.

Parsnip Complexion.

It does not require an expert to detect the sufferer from kidney trouble. The hollow cheeks, the sunken eyes, the dark, puffy circles under the eyes, the sallow parsnip-colored complexion indicates it.

A physician would ask if you had rheumatism, a dull pain or ache in the back or over the hips, stomach trouble, desire to urinate often, or a burning or scalding in passing it; if after passing there is an unsatisfactory feeling as if it must be at once repeated, or if the urine has a brick dust deposit or strong odor.

When these symptoms are present, no time should be lost in removing the cause.

Delay may lead to gravel, catarrh of the bladder, inflammation, causing stoppage, and sometimes require the drawing of the urine with instruments, or may run into Bright's Disease, the most dangerous stage of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, is a positive remedy for such diseases. Its reputation is world-wide and it is so easy to get at any drug store that no one need suffer any length of time for want of it.

However, if you prefer to first test its wonderful merits, mention THE CHRONICLE and write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y., for a sample bottle of this remedy and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

On account of meeting of B. Y. P. U. A. at Richmond, Va., July 13-16, the Southern Railway and A. G. S. RR. will sell tickets from points on its lines to Richmond and return at rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold July 11, 12 and 13, limited to return until July 31, 1899. An extension of final limit may be obtained to leave Richmond not later than August 15, provided tickets are deposited with joint agents at Richmond prior to July 31 and on payment of fee of 50 cents. For further information call on Southern Railway or A. G. S. RR. ticket agents.

THERE WILL BE FUSION.

The interview with a prominent Populist which we published a few weeks ago evidently stirred up a hornets' nest in the Republican portion of The Advocate's household, for in last week's issue there appeared a reply to it which indicates that the Republican side of the editorial tripod is very mad.

In the first place The Advocate says that the man we interviewed is no Populist. We can not say whether he is or not. He says he is, and we know nothing to the contrary. He is not a Democrat, to our certain knowledge, and, judging from his feeling toward Republican officeholders, we do not think he is a Republican. If he isn't a Populist, we do not know what he is.

The Advocate also disputes the proposition of this gentleman that the Republican officeholders are not as good as the Populists. Well, that is a matter of taste. So far as we are concerned, one is as good as the other, and as The Advocate seems to think likewise we congratulate it on its good judgment in this one particular, though we differ with it when it says Shelby County has the best set of officers she ever had. However, we are glad to see The Advocate acknowledge that a Republican is good as a Populist. We have always thought it had no choice, and since it says so, we must believe it.

In reply to the charge that the Republicans are controlling The Advocate, we read thus: "We are responsible for every item that goes in The Advocate, etc." It does not appear who "we" are, but that assertion is a denial of the charge. It only shows the shrewdness of the Republicans that they succeed in throwing the responsibility for their utterances upon the editor (?) of The Advocate.

The disclaimer winds up with this strong language:

He is one of those men that is paid by the Democrats to be a Populist and do dirty work for the benefit of the Democratic party, for no true man can do as dirty work as a traitor. The Chronicle is only making a cats paw of him, and poor thing he is not able to see it. Cowards always shoot from ambush and then run for other hiding places just as has much interviewed Populist has done.

If the gentleman chooses to rest under that charge we have no objections. His views were given to us unsolicited, with no ban of secrecy, and while we do not intend to disclose his name, we will inform The Advocate that he is not the man it supposes. He has never been in the employ of the Democrats, nor even in their service of his own volition.

The only thing we gather from The Advocate's dissertation is that there will be, notwithstanding this other gentleman's assertions to the contrary, fusion between the Republicans and Populists next year; that the Populists will again endorse the nominees of a negro convention for the benefit of the negro vote. The only thing we don't know is whether those Populists who don't like such fusion will support it. Six or eight hundred of them did not support it last year; it remains to be seen whether there will be any further falling away on this account.

TROY NORMAL COLLEGE.

Feels the Heavy Hand of the Political Boss.

The following statement was furnished us by one of the Alumni of the Troy Normal College, and we publish it, as another evidence of the use of educational institutions for political purposes:

The Board of Trustees of the State Normal College at Troy at their annual session, June 20, 1899, elected Prof. E. M. Shackleford president of the college. In taking this step they dispense with the services of Dr. L. R. Eldridge, who has been president of the institution for eleven years. When he took charge the school was young, on an unstable footing, with a meager appropriation and only one Normal School man in the faculty.

From the very first new life was infused into the school. The number of students has increased year by year and the appropriation has been increased from time to time in the face of opposition from many sources.

Students have been brought from nearly every county in the State through the tireless efforts of Dr. Eldridge, who has devoted his entire time to the interests of the college. He has lectured, held institutes and summer schools in various parts of the State, and his ability, qualifications and eminent fitness as an educator are known and appreciated in every section of the State. He inaugurated the extension course plan which has been adopted by the leading institutions of the land. His extension course being the only one in the State, if not in the whole South. This year the enrollment in all departments has been over one thousand. The college has never been in such a prosperous condition.

It being rumored that a change in the presidency was in contemplation the people of Troy and the surrounding towns rose in arms, and by petitions, resolutions and protests to the Governor and Board of Trustees made known the fact that they believed the removal of Dr. Eldridge would mean the death-knell of the college. The students and members of the Alumni Association also sent in vigorous protests, but all to no avail. No one could give any plausible reason for his removal, but the political slate had been fixed in the appointment of the new members of the Board, and they would but turn a deaf ear and do the work contemplated in their appointment.

The Board convicted themselves by the passage of a resolution of endorsement and "assurance of confidence in his integrity and official faithfulness." This shows plainly that Dr. Eldridge's removal was purely to pay a political debt.

SOME SUGGESTIONS.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

I desire to call the attention of Democrats to some things that have come under my observation, and I hope that your sense of modesty will not be allowed to interfere with the publication of what I may say. They are matters which concern Democrats as members of a political party, and at the same time concern THE CHRONICLE and its editor. I refer to the patronage of the opposition paper by Democrats and to the appointment by Democrats of men who have not only been lukewarm in the support of our party, but have actually voted against the candidates of the party.

I have been impelled to the discussion of this practice by the recent appointment by a Democratic official of this county as his assistant of a man who voted and worked in the last election on the Populist ticket, and who has been rewarded for doing so with a position in the office of the probate judge, upon whose recommendation, I am informed, he was given the recent place as deputy by the aforementioned Democrat. He was appointed as such deputy in preference to a man, fully as competent and whose efforts for the party have been freely and effectually given, and whose Democracy is unquestioned.

I lay down the general proposition that in such a case as this, when a place is to be given by a Democrat, and there is no question of competence that it is the duty of the official to give it to one to whom not only the party but himself is indebted. To say the least of it, common gratitude would impel him to do it; and certainly the contrary practice is not conducive to Democratic success. If our enemies are to be rewarded and our friends ignored, we can expect neither to do us service. Fortunately for us our friends do not complain at this kind of treatment, but it is not our fault that they do not. We have to acknowledge them better Democrats than we are who withhold from them our support, or else they would have us to depend upon those enemies whom we reward for their enmity.

I refer again to the open patronage which I see given by Democrats to the opposition paper. Democrats advertise in The Advocate and Democrats subscribe for it. I see in its columns legal notices with the names of Democratic attorneys attached. Perhaps these people do not stop to think what they are doing. In patronizing the advertising columns of The Advocate merchants and business men, well-known Democrats, are aiding financially a paper that seeks in every issue to make its readers believe that all Democrats are thieves, liars and scoundrels. If it is successful in making you such in politics, the impression will ruin your business character as well. You are aiding to disseminate doctrines which you consider harmful to the country's interests and to your own, and you only excuse yourself on the ground that you are reaching a class of people that otherwise you could not reach. I deny that. Confine your patronage to the paper that fights your political battles, and it will find a way to put your business before all the people.

In subscribing for the opposition paper Democrats give unquestionable endorsement to and aid in the circulation of false impressions, the dissemination of untruthful information that your own paper with its meagre support can not overcome. There are in this county 1,200 Democratic voters, and I learn that three-fourths of them do not encourage the organ of their party by subscribing for it.

I conclude with this proposition for the consideration of all our Democrats. A Democratic ticket will never be elected in this county so long as our enemies are supported financially by our own people by giving them work which we could just as well give to Democrats, by patronizing a paper that devotes its whole time to proving us thieves and liars, and by failing to support the paper that bears the whole brunt of our political battles. I believe that it is not only our duty to hold up the hand that labors for us but necessary if we would have that labor accomplish its mission. Populists do not give places to Democrats neither do they patronize THE CHRONICLE. They reward their friends and ignore their enemies. We reward our enemies and ignore our friends. They win; we lose. This tells the tale.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER.
(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)
CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better that it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

EX-PARTE VERDICT

Of Finance Committee of Girl's Industrial School.

The finance committee of the Girls' Industrial School have made an ex-parte report of the result of their ex-parte examination of Captain Reynolds accounts, and the following is a summary thereof taken from the Birmingham News:

The finance committee of the Girl's Industrial School at Montevallo, composed of S. D. Bloch, S. W. John and C. W. Thompson, has made its report to the Governer.

The committee says that Capt. H. C. Reynolds refuses to deliver the day book, ledger or stubs of receipts issued to pupils for money deposited on board and when summoned by State Examiner Cowan, refused to recognize the right of the Examiner to compel him to produce the books, papers, etc.

The committee intimates that mandamus proceedings will be instituted to compel Captain Reynolds to produce these accounts and without them no account against the late president can be stated accurately.

Captain Reynolds is preparing to appeal to the courts to recover a claim of $4,403.61 for past services, $2,500 of which is for services in securing the gift of public lands to the school by Congress, which last claim the trustees refused to consider until it was properly itemized.

The committee said that it was the uniform method of Captain Reynolds, upon receiving from the pupils the required deposits, to immediately convert this money to his own use by turning it all over into the business of H. C. & W. B. Reynolds, with the result that a large sum went to them annually, and for which the school has received no benefit in anyway.

His method for paying laundry bills was to issue to every pupil a printed blank, which, when dated and signed by the pupil, became a receipt for clothes and an order to pay bearer for washing the same. These checks had no sum written on them, but they were given and accepted in every instance as 25 cents, and while they were not addressed to anyone, yet they were issued and received with the understanding that they would be and were in every instance paid by said firm, H. C. & W. B. Reynolds, in their store. It is well known, the trustees say, how profitable such a course of dealing is.

He credited himself $25 per month for pumping water and $20 per month for a fireman, when Reynolds got water for his residence, claims the whole system and gets all the rents, when it is the property of the school.

He drove a tenant out of one of the cottages who was paying $4 a month and put his brother in there, who said he was to have it for repairs put on it. The tenant run out offered $8 for the house.

He cut down trees in said lot and sold the wood therefrom, which he appropriated to his own use. Reynolds, the trustees allege, has withheld large sums of money for which no account has ever been given. There was, the trustees say, a piano transaction of profit to the late president and many like transactions are referred to.

Steps are to be taken at once to get the books.

Captain Reynolds was in the city yesterday, and in response to an inquiry from THE CHRONICLE said: "I have nothing to say at this time. The jury was packed against me, and I have no reply to make to them. When the matter can be and is brought before an unbiased jury I will make a reply that will be entirely sufficient."

In the meantime there is no official head to the school. The trustees will meet next Monday to elect a president. Col. Murfee, of Marion, and Mr. Peterson, of Greensboro, are mentioned, but it is not known if either will accept.

The account presented by Hon. John McQueen, of Birmingham, for services as Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Girls' Industrial School at Monvallo, two-thirds of a year, has been refused endorsement by the Governor, who has written Mr. McQueen as follows on the subject:

"I have your letter enclosing account for your services as Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Girl's Industrial School for two-thirds of a year; that is, from September 1, 1898, when you were last paid, to May 1, 1899, and amounting to $66.65. You request me to certify that this 'account is correct and should be paid.' At the last meeting of the Board your successor delivered the book of minutes together with a letter from you. The book showed that the minutes of the Board since September 1, 1898, had not been written up, and it was stated in your letter that you had not attended a single one of three meetings of the Board that were had from September 1, 1898, to the time of the writing.

"Not having attended any meeting and never having written up the minutes from the memoranda furnished you by the temporary secretaries, I am unable to certify that the 'account is correct and should be paid,' as I am unable to see that you have, during the period mentioned, rendered any service whatever to the Girls' Industrial School as Secretary."

"Two Sweethearts of Mine."

This song was received by us from the publishers a few days ago, and the melody and words were so melodious and pretty that we can not help but reprint the chorus for our readers:

One has hair of silvery gray,
The other just like gold.
One is gay and youthful
While the other's bent and old.
But dearer than life are both to me,
And from neither would I part.
One is my mother, God bless her I love her.
The other is my sweetheart.

This song complete, words and music, will be sent to any address for 20 cents in silver or stamps, by the Greene Music Publishing Co., 32 E. Fifth Street, Cincinnati, O.

The two Mormon elders, who were circulating in our beat last week, failed to get a house to preach in, and even if they had succeeded in getting a house I am satisfied that they would not have had many hearers, for our people are too refined to listen at any such doctrine as they teach and preach.

E. B. Teague, Jr., of Redlawn, attended the icecream festival here Saturday night. Now, if he will agree to treat to a dozen of Hammond's best cigars I won't tell that he visits Harpersville every few days. You can guess the rest.

The stock law is being talked of again now. The Populists say that the Democrats had the law passed, I suppose by that that Senator Deans and Representative Sturdivant are Democrats, as they are the gentlemen who had it done.

The literary society gave a free icecream supper Saturday night. The boys furnished the icecream and lemonade and the girls furnished the cake. There was quite a large crowd and everything passed off very nicely and all seemed to have enjoyed themselves very much. But, as usual poor Jake was forgotten again, and if we had been there we could have probably said more about it. I have been informed that it was a success in every respect and the best of order prevailed; but then it being at Harpersville it could not have been otherwise.

Miss Zemma Samuel and Messrs. Tandy Key and Edwin McGraw, all of Vincent, were here among their many friends Saturday night.

The fourth act of the Merchant of Venice will be repeated here Saturday night. While I have not been authorized to invite the public I feel safe in saying that a hearty welcome will be extended to all those who may wish to come.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Munsell Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cent preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $44 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4.77 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address and 1 pounds of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

INDEPENDENCE DAY

We'll have the biggest Fourth this year
We've ever had before,
And flags will fly and drums you'll hear,
And firecrackers roar.

For we can celebrate to-day
The gallant victory
Of soldier boys who sailed away
To fight for liberty.

We'll celebrate Manila fight
And Santiago Bay.
We'll march to left and file to right,
With starry banners gay.

Upon our bugle horns we'll blow,
And toot and toot and toot,
And firecrackers as we go
We'll shoot and shoot and shoot.

How Jack Boyer Saved the Powder Mill, July 4, '77.

AWAY they went with drum and horn, down the quiet street of that sleepy old town, "Toot—toot! Rub-a-dub-dub!" The noise would have startled the peaceful hamlet on any day except the glorious Fourth. But every youngster in it had been awake since day-break, and the boom, boom of the toy cannon and the fizz, fizz of the firecracker had roused every older inhabitant long before the usual breakfast hour.

Bob and Ray and Dick Boyer had had a glorious time, and before breakfast was ready had worked so industriously that more than half the powder and crackers were gone.

After breakfast the first thing on the programme was a procession. There were only three of them, to be sure, but they felt as big as a brigade. Bob had a new drum, and he thought he could play "Yankee Doodle" in great style. Ray blew the horn and carried the flag, while Dick marched along carrying his wooden sword as he imagined his father did at the head of the regiments when he was in the war.

With swelling hearts the little heroes marched till they thought it was nearly time to get ready for the picnic, then they filed in through the big iron gate and drew up in front of grandpa and gave him a military salute.

"Well, my little soldiers," said grandpa, smiling, as he laid down his paper, "do you know what day you are celebrating?"

"Fourth of July!" they shouted in chorus.

"Well, what is the Fourth of July?" asked grandpa.

"Why—why—" said five-year-old Ray, stammering and looking puzzled—"it's firecracker day."

Grandpa laughed so hard he must have thought it very funny.

"You are more than half right, little man," he said. "But come, Bob, it's your turn."

"It's a great big holiday, grandpa, when we have the very jolliest time in the year."

"Now, Dick, what do you say? Grandpa's big boy ought to have a very wise answer."

Dick straightened himself up and looked very important.

"Why, sir," he replied, "on the Fourth of July, 1776, we signed the Declaration of Independence and then we whipped the British."

"And you know a good deal about those times, Dick?"

"I ought to, grandpa, when you fought in the war, and mamma's a daughter of the Revolution, and had four grandfathers fighting in the Revolution!"

"Never mind, Dick, I won't ask you to tell us about it. I was only going to ask if I had ever told you how my grandfather, Jack Boyer, kept the British from taking the powder-mill?"

"Oh, no! Do tell us!" they cried.

"All right. Sit down. It's a short story, but it will keep us quiet till the carriage comes," said grandpa.

When they were all ready grandpa began his story.

"You remember the ruins of that old mill I showed you the day we drove over to the Brandywine last summer? Yes? Well, that mill used to belong to my great-grandfather in Colonial days, and he made gunpowder for the King and the people in the colonies. But when we declared our independence John Boyer was one of the first to join his fortunes to the patriotic cause. Now the little powder mill ran night and day, making powder for the Federal Army. Delaware and New Jersey were right in the heart of the battle ground, but by some good providence the British never succeeded in destroying the mill.

"But they would have done so at able to make out very well what he intended to do. General Greene and Lord Stirling were around there, too, with a great many troops; but no hard fighting was done very close to his home. About the last of June Lord Howe withdrew his troops from that once if my grandfather, Jack Boyer, had not been a boy of rare pluck and wit. I've heard him tell about it a dozen times, and always with pride.

"During the spring and summer of 1777," he said, "Lord Howe had been marching around that part of the country, and General Washington had been watching him, and hadn't been part of the country and General Washington left also.

"The most of the time there had been a guard of 5000 men near the mill; but as there seemed to be no immediate danger, the usual guard was taken away, and only a corporal with twenty men left in charge. For several days there was no disturbance, and just before the first anniversary of the Fourth of July my great-grandfather went to Philadelphia and brought home a beautiful silk flag. There were but few of them then and they were highly prized. The people of the country round-about intended to celebrate the first anniversary of the Independence in fine style. There was to be a barbecue, and speaking and music from the grandstand, over which the new flag was to float.

"On the evening of the third the arrangements for the fete were completed, and a great time was anticipated. But just as the Boyer family were at supper, a terror-stricken old colored man burst into the room, his eyes starting from his head, and his teeth chattering with fear.

"'Oh, Massa Boyer, dey's comin'! dey's comin'!'

"'Who?' cried everyone, starting from the table.

"'You're dreaming, Mose,' said my grandfather, 'Lord Howe and the whole kit of them cleared out a week ago.'

"'Yes, massa, but Cap'n Audrey he done tahin' fro' de country an' he see me an' he say, "'Mose, tell Massa Boyer a whole regimen' o' red-coat cabalry am comin' to blow up de powder mill! Tell him I'se goin' to rouse de country.'"

"Great was the consternation on the Brandywine that night. By midnight a hundred men gathered by Captain Audrey, were at the mill desperately resolved to defend it. But what were a hundred men against an unknown number of British cavalry!

"My grandfather, Jack Boyer, was a lad of ten.

"He did not realize the horrors of war, and he was very much in love with the new flag, which at that moment was floating over the grandstand, five miles away on the road to Newcastle. While others were in a state of terror over the fate of the powder mill, Jack was wild at the thought of the red-coats getting the beautiful flag. He finally made the heroic resolve to rescue it, and long before the early dawn he was on his way to do so as fast as his nimble young legs would carry him.

"He climbed the pole, cut the rope with his jack-knife, and pulled down the flag. He gathered it up in his arms and started on the run for home. Meeting two British officers he said he was carrying the flag to Greene's troops who were below the bend with four cannon.

"'I don't believe a word of it, you lying little rebel. I've a notion to kill you.'

"'I'm not lying,' and Jack looked the British officer unquailing in the eye.

"The officers consulted earnestly together and finally concluded that their small detachment of cavalry didn't stand much of a chance in a conflict with a regiment of Greene's patriots and four cannon.

"The officer who had first spoken to Jack held up the flag, thrust his sabre through it in half a dozen places and then threw it at Jack, saying, 'Here, take your rag; you are a plucky little rebel, anyway.'

"Jack snatched the flag and fairly flew toward home, while the British horsemen wheeled about and clattered down the road to Newcastle.

"That's the way, my boys, my grandfather, Jack Boyer, saved the powder-mill July 4, 1777.

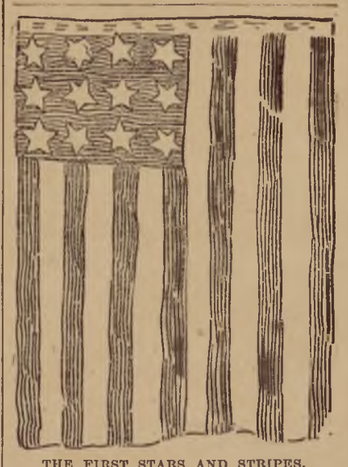
"But here's the carriage. Let's be off to our barbecue."

"Oh, grandpa," said Dick with a sigh, "if there would only be a war, so I could do something glorious!"

THE FIRST STARS AND STRIPES.

Paul Jones's Flag From the Bon Homme Richard Now Government Property.

The ensign of the Bon Homme Richard, Paul Jones's famous frigate, which was presented to the Government recently for permanent exhibition in the National Museum, is believed to be the first American flag bearing the stars and stripes, as it is undoubtedly the first national colors ever hoisted over the American war vessel and the first that was ever saluted by a foreign naval power, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune. This flag was received by President McKinley and Secretary Long from Mrs. Harriet R. P. Stafford, of Cottage City, Mass., to whom it had descended from her ancestor, James Bayard Stafford, and with it she gave the Government convincing evidence of its authenticity.



THE FIRST STARS AND STRIPES.

The flag is of English bunting, about two and one-half yards long and two yards wide. It was originally about fifteen feet long, but in the last century of its existence two yards has been appropriated piecemeal by patriotic relic hunters. It is sewed with flax thread and contains twelve stars in a blue union, and thirteen stripes, alternately red and white. The stars are arranged in four horizontal lines, three on each line. The omission of the thirteenth star is explained by the fact that Georgia had not joined the confederation at the time it was made.

The evidence shows that the flag was made by the Misses Mary and Sarah Austin, under the supervision of General Washington and Captain John Brown, Secretary of the United States marine, the design being taken chiefly from General Washington's family escutcheon. These women presented it to Captain John Paul Jones, who raised it on a small vessel, and sailed up and down the Schuylkill River to show it to the assembled thousands of Philadelphia. Then he placed it on the Bon Homme Richard and went out privateering. In the English Channel, off Flamborough Head, 120 years ago, he was assailed by the British ship Serapis, and in that memorable conflict this flag, which was floating at the masthead, was shot away and fell into the sea. Stafford, then a young lieutenant on the Bon Homme Richard, plunged overboard, recovered the flag and nailed it to the masthead. After the fight Paul Jones transferred the flag to the Serapis and subsequently took it with him to the Alliance. When the Alliance was sold in 1784, the naval authorities presented "Paul Jones's Starry Flag," as well as a boarding sword and a "musquet captured from the Serapis," to Stafford in recognition of his meritorious services through the war.

Value of Patriotic Celebrations.

It is sometimes hard work and a good deal of expense, especially in small and not well-to-do communities, to get up a Fourth-of-July celebration; but every gathering of this sort pays the largest kind of interest on the investment in the cultivation of the spirit of patriotism and the proper education of boys and girls in the theory and practice of Fourth-of-July celebrations and similar observances that shall mean more than a simple good time.

LITTLE COLUMBIA'S FOURTH OF JULY SPEECH.

To Washington, the great and true,
And all his brave, victorious host,
We homage pay with glad acclaim,
And in their memory make our boast.

Thus on this day of all the year
Columbia's brightest stars may shine
To tell of Independence won,
While low we bow at Freedom's shrine.

"Durability is Better Than Show."

Lunatic Indians.

The government has purchased at Canton, S. D., a site upon which is to be erected an insane asylum for the Indians. The occupants of the institution will all be half-breed Indians, but the number of patients is comparatively small for an Indian population of 256,000. It is said that there was never a case of insanity known in any tribe until after the mixture of the white and Indian races. Not only is this given out as a scientific fact, but it is well known that diseases of various kinds are producing very great mortality even among the best-cared-for and richest Indian tribes. As evidence of this the Osages, in Oklahoma, are cited. There are about 16,000 Indians in the nation, which has to its credit in the United States treasury, drawing interest, something like $9,000,000. The Osages, it is said, live in luxury while young, but the men grow fat, contract consumption and die early in life. On the other hand, the Sioux, numbering about 20,000, are increasing in number, for the tribes have no money upon which to live in laziness; the members work for their living and it seems to agree with them. It is an established fact that those Indian tribes which are thrown upon their own resources and engage in manual labor thrive, while those which are wealthy and live in their youth in ease are doomed to perish by the diseases that are fatal alike to whites and Indians.

It is further reported by the government that the working Indians are also making the greatest advancement along educational lines, and the old idea that education proves injurious to the Indians is denied. Statistics show that 76 per cent. of the educated Indians lead correct lives upon being returned to the reservations.

The Canton asylum will cost $45,000 and the appropriation will be available July 1, at which time the work of its erection will be commenced. Upon completion all the insane Indians in the United States will be sent there, and it is the design to open the asylum during the fall.

Stalest Bread in the World.

A loaf of bread 4,500 years old was found in the tomb of Mentuhotep, who died in Egypt 2,500 years before Christ. It is now in the royal museum of Berlin, being one of the most interesting studies of modern times. This loaf of bread or cake is dark brown in color. Inside are many large holes. Probably this part of the bread long since fell into dust, but much of the bread still remains in the shape of whole kernels and pieces of grain. Examination proves that this bread was made of barley, and that the grains were only rudely crushed and not sifted. This proves that barley bread was one of the earliest kinds ever made, and that it was baked and covered with twigs and leaves of the sycamore tree.

The process of preparing the grain for bread is to be gathered from a wall inscription which has been discovered at Thebes. It is a graphic picture of the entire process. This picture shows that at that early period even the hand mill was not yet invented. The flour was, of course, far from fine, and the bread resulting was of the kind found in the tombs. It was not baked in ovens like our bread, but after being kneaded into dough, by the addition of water, was baked by being placed between two heated stones, or was put on a plate and laid upon the redhot coals.

Denominations of English.

It begins to look as if our descendants would not need to bother themselves about phrase books when they travel abroad. The English tongue is gaining ground yearly. According to estimates by Mulhall, it was spoken in 1801 by 20,520,000 people, while French was the mother tongue of 31,450,000, with German, in one or another of its forms, coming natural to 30,320,000 of the world's population. In 1890 English had advanced to a record of 111,100,000, while the record of French only footed up 51,000,000, while German had passed it, but stopped at 75,200,000. English is rapidly taking the place of French as the "polite language" of Europe.

Curious Umbrellas.

Many curious umbrellas are made. One seen can be taken apart and put into one's pocket. The stick is of wood about an inch in diameter. The cover can be turned inside out and folded into a small bundle. By touching a spring the ribs come off, straighten out and may be placed in the hollow of the stick, which is then a presentable walking stick, says the Woman's Home Companion. It is found very convenient by its owner, who is a drummer.

Depth of the Ocean.

How deep is the ocean? This is an interesting query and one possessed of perennial vitality, as new records are constantly being made. A British ship which has been taking soundings in the South Pacific reports a depth in three places near the Tonga islands of over 30,000 feet, which breaks the record by 3,000 feet. The deepest holes are not in the middle of the ocean, but within 100 miles of land. Their depth is greater than the height of any known mountain.

HUSKIES OF THE NORTH.

Dr. Gale Says These Great Alaskan Dogs are the Only Objects Which Demand Respect in That Arctic Country.

Dr. Alex Gale, who has just returned to his home in New York city from a two years' visit to the gold fields of British America, describes the Alaskan dogs (the "huskies") of that country as the only objects that to any degree meet the expectations of the traveler, or command his respect.

"Everything else wanes as one advances northward, and the mercury sinks," said Dr. Gale. "The whole land is a great silent waste. In winter it is submerged in snow, and in summer a deep sponge-like moss, the lair of untold billions of voracious mosquitoes, lies over all, like a witch's blanket.

"But the 'huskies' are a joy forever. They are great, vigorous fellows, half wolf, and weigh a hundred pounds often. They are cheerful and playful, too, and live on one meal a day, given them at evening. Upon being released from their heavy sledges, after having dragged them through the snow for thirty or forty miles, they would invariably go to romping. After being fed they would curl themselves up like kittens, place their bushy tails over the tips of their noses and go to sleep.

"The 'huskies' never bark. If excited or troubled about anything, they turn their noses up to the sky and whine, very much as a wolf does. But the strength and endurance of these dogs amazed me most. Two of them would easily drag a man on a sledge all about, while a team of eight were equal to really prodigious tasks. Such a team sold on the coast for $2,000 once, while I was there. Every one soon grew to learn that they were the only kind of animals to depend upon. Horses soon became fagged, and had to be abandoned before the interior could be reached.

"One American brought several huge Newfoundlands up with him, thinking to train them to toil with the 'huskies' of his team. They proved utter failures, giving out the first day and sitting down in the snow. Their more sturdy companions waited until they were detached and then took the sledge on themselves. Their only shortcoming lies in a tendency at times to be lazy. Sometimes it is absolutely necessary to whip one or more of them for shirking their work. This is always a painful duty, because of their keen, and often pathetic, intelligence. The victim was nearly always conscious of his guilt and would set up a half-human whine at the first sign of the lash."

"According to popular belief, the 'husky' is half wolf and half Scotch collie. According to tradition he dates back to the time when the trappers for the Hudson Bay company overran the country in the last century. A Frenchman named Marnot, having made friends with an Indian, awoke one morning to find that he had been robbed of his dog, a faithful collie. He searched in vain for traces of them, and gave them up. A year later he suddenly came upon the thief by the side of a river. A battle ensued and Marnot killed his adversary. Upon entering his hut he found his lost dog tied to a stake. She was surrounded by several shaggy puppies, from whom date the present race of 'huskies.'"

The Military Salute.

You've undoubtedly noticed during a military review the officers salute while passing the reviewing stand by bringing the hilt of their swords to their faces. It is a custom which dates back to the time of the Crusades.

When the Crusaders were on the march to the Holy City, the knights were in the daily habit of planting their long, two-handed swords upright in the ground, thereby forming a cross, and before this they performed their morning devotion. On all military occasions they kissed the hilts of their swords in token of devotion to the cross.

The method of saluting by bringing the hand to a horizontal position over the eyebrows dates back to the tournaments of the middle ages, when, after the Queen of Beauty was enthroned, the knights who were to take part in the sports of the day, marched past the dais on which she sat, and as they passed, shielded their eyes from the rays of her beauty by placing their hands horizontally to their foreheads.

Russian Hospitality.

Hospitality in Russia is heartier, more generous and brighter than elsewhere. In fact, it diverges so much in degree as almost to differ in kind. Rich and poor practice it with the same zest, and it is enjoined by unwritten secular laws and customs, which have the force of religious precepts. In those vast regions of the interior where there are no hotels, the wealthy land owners receive respectable guests in their spare rooms, and disreputable tramps in their kitchens and out houses—hospitality, like the sun, cheering good and bad alike. The traveler is welcomed with a letter of introduction, seated at the family table, asked no embarassing questions, and taken at his own estimate. A Russian will cheerfully ruin himself rather than treat a guest to rough fare, or deny help to a hungry man. "Money has not earned us; it is we who have earned the money," says his proverb. —London Telegraph.

Greater Speed of Travel.

Today, without the slightest inconvenience, one may travel from sixty to ninety miles an hour, and even more; and it is probable that in a comparatively short time, by the introduction of electricity and the perfection of the steel highways over which our people will be transported, we shall be able to travel with perfect ease and comfort at a speed of from 125 to 150 miles an hour, and ultimately considerably higher. This is the conviction of the most advanced engineering minds, who have given the subject careful consideration.—Independent.

A Cruel Custom.

The German Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has long been trying to abolish the custom, so prevalent in Berlin, of using dogs as beasts of draft. In winter the poor animals suffer extremely through having to tread in the salt scattered on the tram rails to get rid of the snow, and through their feet getting no firm hold on the wet asphalt. In summer they are easily overcome by the heat.

The Summer Bath.

Nothing is more refreshing and invigorating in summer than a daily bath. But to have it effectual soft water and good soap must be used. Ivory Soap is the best for the purpose; it is pure, dissolves quickly, sweetens and purifies the cuticle, gives a healthful glow, and leaves the skin soft and white. Early morning, or just before retiring at night, is the most favorable time for bathing. ELIZA R. PARKER.

State Senator Stout, of Menominee, Wis., who was largely instrumental in establishing with his own means a system of traveling libraries in that state, purposes to build several pieces of practical road in his county this summer, at his personal expense, in order to furnish an economic object lesson to the farmers.

PLANS FOR ENLISTMENT OF VOLUNTEERS.

Twenty-five Thousand Dollars for Sale of Public Lands to Be Paid to Alabama's Governor for School Purposes. Yellow Fever Increases.

A Washington special says: In raising the additional men for the Philippines, the same plan as adopted in raising the immune regiments will be followed. They will be enlisted in the various states, according to their population, recruiting officers will be sent into the state to enlist so many men.

General Corbin said that one regiment will be enlisted in Georgia and Alabama jointly. No officers will be taken except those who served in the last war.

The war department has nearly perfected the details of the project for the enlistment of volunteers under the terms of the act of the last congress. There is no details in the nature of a call, but as heretofore stated, the soldiers will be obtained in the regular method through the efforts of the United States recruiting officers stationed in the various large cities.

Money for Public Lands.

Auditor Youngblood Monday audited and certified to the payment of $25,000 to the governor of Alabama This amount arises from the sale of public lands, and, according to the law, will be distributed only to the agricultural and mechanical colleges or schools in the state of Alabama.

The president has promised Representative Clayton to appoint young William K. Armstrong, son of Colonel Clay Armstrong, the head Mason in Alabama, to a second lieutenancy in the regular army.

YELLOW FEVER INCREASES.

But the Death Rate Decreases at Santiago Cuba

An increased number of new cases of yellow fever and a decrease in the death rate are striking features of the situation at Santiago. There have been ninety-four cases up to date, of which seventeen cases have proved fatal. Eleven out of the first fourteen attacked succumbed to the disease Nearly all were camp followers of the drinking sort. Eliminating these, the death rate has really been small.

Fired Upon by Hostile Natives.

Reports have been received at Manila of an outbreak on the Island of Negros incident to the departure of the California regiment for home. Some hostile natives, seeing a company of soldiers at one of the small posts preparing to depart, thought the Americans were evacuating the island and a party of 250, mostly Bolomen, attacked the troops and killed one man and wounded another belonging to company E. They were easily driven off.

COAL MINERS' WAGES AGAIN ADVANCED.

Deal in Furnace Property Reported. Wheeler Will Not Go to Philippines. Murderer Captured After Many Years—Miners' Wages Signed.

Another advance in the wages of Alabama coal miners became effective Saturday. The advance is 2½ cents on the ton, making the price 52½ cents per ton, the highest that has been paid in the Birmingham district in years.

Furnace Sold.

The reported sale of the Philadelphia furnace in Florence to the Sloss Iron and Steel company of Birmingham, has been confirmed. The Sloss company also gets with the Philadelphia furnace the two Ensley furnaces in Sheffield. Neither of the three is in blast at this time.

Wheeler Will Not Go to Philippines.

A special from Washington, D. C., says that the announcement is made there that General Joseph Wheeler will not be ordered to the Philippines, but will soon be mustered out. The special says that with this announcement is coupled the statement that the general will make the race for governor of Alabama. All of the candidates for governor in Alabama and all of their friends are on the tiptoe of expectation to learn whether the little general will be in the race.

Murder Will Out.

After eluding the officers successfully for seventeen years, Charles Adams, a negro, who is wanted in Huntsville for the murder of Policeman William Street, has been captured at Paris, Tex. Adams had an accomplice in the crime, who was taken from the Madison county jail three days after his arrest and hanged to a tree in the court house yard. Nothing was heard from Adams until recently. Shortly after leaving this state he married, and during the honeymoon confided in his wife and told her he had killed a man in Huntsville. After many years the couple quarreled, and the woman revenged herself by notifying the Texas authorities of her husband's crime.

Miners' Scale Signed.

After a prolonged conference of ten days, the coal miners of Alabama and the mine operators have come to an agreement in regard to the scale of wages to be paid during the coming year. Both sides made some concessions and the scale adopted was a happy compromise, this all-important question being settled without a strike. The main features of the scale are as follows: The minimum rate to be paid is 45 cents, with iron selling at $8 and under; the maximum rate is 55 cents, with iron at $11 and over. The day laborers in the mines get an advance of 10, 12, and 15 per cent, varying according to advances received several months ago. The idea is to give them a 25 per cent increase altogether over the wages they were receiving a year ago, when iron was selling for $7.10 and under. The laboring day will remain as at present, ten hours.

Blue Creek gets an advance of 2 cents in its scale.

The new scale went into effect July 1, and it is expected that iron has so increased in price during the last month that the miners will be entitled to another raise of 2½ cents. This will make their wages 52½ cents per ton, the highest ever paid in the Birmingham district.

National Guard Officers.

The orders for election of field officers in the three Alabama regiments of infantry has been issued by the adjutant-general. The election in the Second regiment will take place Friday, July 14, and will be the first. It will be for colonel, lieutenant-colonel and one major. The present colonel, H. B. Foster, of Tuskaloosa, it is believed, will be re-elected without opposition. As yet no one has announced for the lieutenant-colonelcy, but it is understood that Col. A. A. Wiley, of Montgomery, will be tendered the place in the event he would accept.

Killed by a Falling Limb.

News reached Montgomery of a terrible accident near Jackson's Lake. In a storm a white man and two negro men and a negro woman in a wagon took refuge under a tree. A limb fell and killed one of the negro men outright, breaking the other's leg and so injuring the woman that she has since died. The white man escaped unhurt.

AN IMMENSE DEAL.

Eastern Capitalists Plant $5,000,000 in Alabama.

Messrs. John E. Searles and Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, and some of their leading New York and Boston associates, the International Trust Company, of Baltimore; Messrs. Middendorf, Oliver & Son, of Baltimore; John L. Williams & Sons, of Richmond, and others, have just succeeded in arranging one of the most important coal and iron consolidations ever effected in the south. A syndicate with a capital stock of $5,000,000 has been organized, all of which has been underwritten, and has purchased the Clifton Iron Company, one of the most noted iron properties of Alabama, owning 30,000 acres of land and two furnaces; the Standard Coal Company, a regular dividend-paying coal property, owning 32,000 acres of coal land; the Mary Pratt furnace in Birmingham; the Gate City properties adjacent to Birmingham—which were purchased some months ago by Baltimore and Richmond interests—and the Gadsden furnace and large ore properties in connection therewith.

The consolidated properties will cover about 70,000 acres of land, four furnaces and several hundred coke ovens. Repairs on some of the furnaces, the building of 400 or 500 coke ovens and the trebling of the coal output are now under way, and will be completed within about four months, when the company will have an aggregate capacity of 180,000 tons of pig iron per year and a daily output of over 2,000 tons of coal.

STATE BREVITIES.

The state supreme court rendered a decision Friday declaring the act under which the recent court house election in Calhoun county was held to be constitutional.

Frank Cook, a 23-year-old negro, was hanged in the county jail yard at Birmingham Friday for the murder of John Blackburn, a Southern railway conductor, at Avondale, May 14, 1898. Cook died denying his guilt.

A building permit has been issued in Birmingham for a new theatre to be erected by Messrs. [illegible] Smith. The permit was issued to T. H. Molton, as agent, and it was for a $30,000 building.

The semi-annual interest on Alabama bonds held in New York amounting to $225,000, is now in the proper banks of New York city, and was transferred from the state treasury without the expenditure of a cent by the state. Heretofore the transfer of such an amount to New York has cost the state over $500.

Mrs. J. O. Hixson, the wife of one of the best known ministers in the state and the mother of Colonel J. Courtney Hixson, died at her home in Union Springs, from the effects of a painful fall sustained by her last winter.

Rev. E. Nelson Barr, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Decatur, and for a number of years of the First Presbyterian church of Huntsville, died in Decatur last week, after a short illness. He was married only a few weeks ago to Miss Carrie Matthews, of Huntsville.

The University of Alabama—Its Progress During Past Two Years.

A distinguished Southern educator, who is familiar with the educational movements of the day, writes:

"I am delighted with the progress the university is so rapidly making. It now has a faculty of young, progressive university men. The University of Alabama has made more progress during the last two years than any university in the country."

That should be gratifying intelligence to all Alabamians.

Constant Fear of Trouble.

A special from Fort Smith, Ark., says: The strike at the coal mines is not yet settled. The Kansas and and Texas Coal company is filling its mines with imported negroes, and the Western Coal and Mining company is filling up with white non-union men. Another car of negroes arrived Saturday, and there is constant fear of trouble. Sunday deputy United States marshals went with writs for contempt to arrest six striking miners who are charged with severely beating a non-union man and with intimidating others who wanted to work.

Alex Hill Will Hang.

The trial of Alex Hill, the negro who murdered Mrs. Hester Hubbard on June 5, in Bibb county, ended at 2 o'clock Saturday, when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree and fixing the punishment at death. The negro was sentenced to be hanged on the 4th day of August.

RIOTERS SHOT DOWN

Bloody Conflicts Occur In Valencia, Spain.

TROOPS TAKE POSSESSION

Mob Barricades Thoroughfares and Are Fired Upon By the National Soldiers---Hundreds Wounded.

According to advices of Sunday very serious disturbances are in progress at Valencia, Spain. Under the orders of the captain general of Valencia, General Molto, the troops occupied the streets Saturday morning and now hold all the strategic points. At the beginning of the riots the mob placed obstacles on the street railway tracks and stopped the cars, stoning the gendarmes when they tried to remove the barriers. Finally the troops charged and the first shots were fired. Several persons were wounded. In one case a bullet passed through a shop and killed a man within. As the day advanced, disorders increased.

Troops were stationed at some points and the artillery was held in readiness. The rioters thereupon erected barricades which the cavalry captured only after fierce fighting, in which many were wounded.

At 8 o'clock in the evening the mob attacked a monastry and the brother who was acting as gate porter was obliged to defend himself with a revolver.

They then moved upon a jesuit house, which had a narrow escape from being burned to the ground, the troops arriving just in the nick of time to prevent the mob from setting in on fire.

An enormous number of arrests have been made. It is not known how many were wounded.

At a late hour the generals held a conference and decided to continue the military occupation of all points of vantage.

The mayor of Valencia issued a proclamation calling upon the people to cease resisting the law.

The rioters stoned the gendarmerie in barracks. It is reported that a captain of the gendarmes was severely injured by flying missiles.

PRESENT TO M. CAMBON.

Ambassador Receives Costly Loving Cup From President McKinley.

President McKinley has presented to the French ambassador, M. Cambon, a superb silver loving cup in recognition of the ambassador's friendly services in the negotiations which restored peace between the United States and Spain. The beautiful testimonial was sent by Secretary Hay to the French embassy, accompanied by a note from the secretary in which, speaking for the president, he expressed sincere appreciation for M. Cambon's considerate and disinterested service, and tendered the loving cup as an evidence of the esteem felt for him.

The cup is of massive proportions and chaste design and the international significance of the gift is shown in the blending of the French and American coats of arms. It stands about two and a half feet high, with the top of the bowl about ten inches across. The outer service is silver, richly embossed, while the inside is of hammered gold. Around the outside of the bowl, in raised old English text, is an appropriate inscription.

NEGRO RAPIST HANGED.

Will Ables Expiates Dastardly Crime On the Gallows.

Will Ables, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Edgerton, was hanged at Baxley, Ga., Friday and died in seven minutes.

Everything was done in order. Ables' nerve was good. He wanted to talk to the public. He confessed that he was guilty of the crime, and wanted to thank the sheriff and his captors for protecting him so as to allow a trial. He blames no one but himself for his fate.

MRS. SOUTHWORTH DEAD.

Well Known Authoress Dies At Her Home In Washington.

Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth, the authoress, died at her residence in Washington Friday night, after an illness of several weeks. About a month ago Mrs. Southworth was prostrated by the heat and the infirmity of advanced age, she being in her seventy-ninth year, rendering her unable to recuperate from the attack.

She lived for many years a retired life in a picturesque mansion of the old-fashioned type, located on a hill in west Washington, overlooking the hills of Virginia.

DEMOCRATS ISSUE CALL.

National Executive Committee Will Meet In Chicago On the 20th.

A call for a meeting of the democratic national committee, to be held July 20th, at the Sherman house, Chicago, was issued Sunday by former Governor Stone, of Missouri, and Acting Secretary Johnson, of Kansas, representing the committee.

The call was issued in accordance with the decision of the recent conference held in St. Louis.

BOY'S HEINOUS CRIME

Murders Father, Mother and Elder Sister.

ONLY THIRTEEN YEARS OLD

Crimes the Most Revolting In Annals of the State of Alabama---Youthful Demon Makes His Escape.

News of a terrible tragedy reached Athens, Ala., from the interior of the county, remote from telephone and telegraph connections. A few months since a thirteen-year-old lad by the name of Thomas, while following his father from the woods with a loaded gun on his shoulder, shot his father in the back, death resulting almost instantly. The father was not able to tell how it happened and the boy claimed that it was an accident, but was not believed by the neighbors.

The facts were laid before the grand jury, but the jury hesitated to indict the boy from the testimony, it appearing that the state could not convict.

The neighbors were so wrought up over the matter that the widow and her children had to move from that neighborhood. Since that time the boy, it seems, has ruled the home, working when he chose. The older sister, a rather prepossessing young woman just entering womanhood, had the largest share of the farm work to do to protect the widow and little ones from want.

Last Friday evening she insisted that the boy take his share of the work and so persistent was she that the boy flew into a rage and drawing a keen knife flew at her, slashing her fearfully, severing her breast wide open and otherwise gashing her to such an extent that she died in a short while. The aged mother rushed to the girl's assistance and the lad turned on her. With a demon's fury he slashed her with terrible effect. The first cut disemboweled her. She fell and died before aid could be summoned.

The triple murderer then alone with the smaller children with no one to needed and fled before the neighbors could be summoned by the frightened and terror-stricken children.

DEATH OF MONTGOMERY FOLSOM

Most Versatile Writer In the South Passes Away Suddenly.

Montgomery M. Folsom, one of the best known newspaper men in the south, died suddenly at his residence in Atlanta, Ga., Sunday morning, after an illness of only a few hours.

Saturday morning Mr. Folsom was apparently in his usual good health, and left his home in unusual good sprits. He returned home about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and complained of feeling bad. At 3 o'clock he had a violent sinking spell and was soon unconscious. He remained in that condition until death relieved him.

The immediate cause of his demise was apoplexy, superinduced by an affection of the heart, from which he had been a sufferer for the past two years.

Montgomery Morgan Folsom was one of the most brilliant and prolific writers in the south, and his literary productions were widely read and copied. He wrote prose and poetry with equal facility, and his acquaintance with men and affairs was extensive. He was an indefatigable worker, and one of the most productive newspaper men in Atlanta. He is survived by a wife and five children.

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT

At Close of Fiscal Year 1899 Amount Reached Over a Million Dollars.

A Washington dispatch says: The statement of the public debt at the close of the fiscal year 1899 shows that the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,155,320, which is a decrease as compared with June, 1898, of $13,571,172. This decrease is accounted for by a corresponding increase in the cash on hand.

LYNCHERS GO TO PEN.

Six Men Convicted In Virginia Court and Get Heavy Sentences.

In the county court of Patrick county, Va., Saturday, C. J. Thompson, L. D. McMillan, Madison Montgomery, Jr., H. I. Montgomery, Robert Montgomery and W. M. Branch, all white, were convicted of murder in the second degree in lynching Lee Puckett, white for attempted criminal assault on a young lady.

Puckett was a discharged lunatic. Thompson was given six years and the others five years each.

The jury was out only thirty minutes. This is said to be the first case of its kind in Virginia.

ARTICLES WERE REVISED.

Isthmus Canal Company Eliminated Objectionable Features.

The American Isthmus Ship Canal Company filed at Trenton, N. J., Friday, articles of incorporation, leaving out that part of the orginal papers in reference to the increase of the capital stock, which met with the disapproval of the attorney general and which were turned down.

The authorized capital stock in the papers filed is placed at $30,000.

MISS WHEELER GOES TO MANILA.

She Will Do Service as a Volunteer Nurse in the Army.

Miss Annie Wheeler, daughter of General Wheeler, who has just returned to Washington, after a visit to Lyndhurst, at Invington-on-Hudson, where she was the guest of Miss Helen Gould, will shortly go to the Philippines as a volunteer nurse. If her father is assigned to duty there, Miss Wheeler will accompany him.

It is not true, as has been stated in several papers, that she has applied to the war department for a position as an army nurse, but it can be said upon good authority that she has made other arrangements looking to the same end. Miss Wheeler will go to Manila as a volunteer nurse, under the patronage of the most prominent women philanthropists in the United States, and will also have the support of a number of women's patriotic organizations.

The date of her departure has not been definitely determined. During her stay in Washington, preparatory to her departure, a beautiful jewel casket will be presented to her in the name of the women of Montgomery, Ala., in testimony of their love and admiration, in recognition of the services rendered by her to Alabama soldiers during the war with Spain.

PROF. PETERSON CHOSEN.

Board of Trustees of the Montevallo School Fill the Vacant Presidency.

Professor Frank Peterson, of Greensboro, was elected president of the Montevallo school Monday. Professor Peterson, in all probability, will accept the position, and it is thought that the difficulty about electing a president, which created so much comment throughout the state, is at last settled. The names of twelve candidates were placed before the board, and several ballots had to be taken before an election was had.

During the session Ex-President Reynolds submitted a proposition to arbitrate the matter against him. This the board declined unless Reynolds would first turn over all the books. Reynolds retired to consult his attorney as to what action he will take.

WILL HOLD CONVENTION.

Commissioners of Agriculture of the Cotton Growing States.

The convention of commissioners of agriculture from the cotton growing states of the south, which was agreed upon at a recent conference between Commissioner O. B. Stevens and President J. Pope Brown, of the Georgia Agricultural Society, will be held, unless the present arrangement is abandoned, in New Orleans on or about September 1.

The object of the convention will be the thorough discussion of the cotton question, with the view of recommending uniform legislation in all the Southern states that will be for the betterment of the cotton growers as a class. The plan of Commissioner Stevens to invite the different commissioners from the cotton growing states to meet at a central point for the purpose of discussing a uniform law to govern the classification of cotton, has matured.

Ten Stills Run to Earth.

The revenue officers have reported the destruction of ten small "stills" in Clarke and Crenshaw counties, Ala., and the arrest of a number of persons charged with operating them. The illicit plants were all "pot stills," and differ from the big copper stills of the North Alabama manufacturers in that their product is intended mostly for home consumption. The raids were made by Deputy Collectors Tutwiler and Kennemer, assisted by deputy marshals and informers.

Booker Washington Lectures in London.

Booker T. Washington, the colored founder and principal of the Normal Industrial institute at Tuskegee, Ala., lectured Monday in Essex hall, London, on the "Negro Problem in America." The chair was taken by Jos. H. Choate, United States ambassador, who introduced the lecturer.

Judge Caffee's Successor.

Hon. C. P. Rogers, Sr., was elected without opposition as senator from the Sixteenth Alabama senatorial district, comprising Lowndes and Autauga counties, to fill the unexpired term of Judge A. E. Caffee.

Crushed to Death.

Another victim of "deadheading" the Louisville and Nashville railroad was gathered up in fragments along track in Athens, Ala., Monday morning, and when gotten together it was found that the dismembered body was that of Leuter Hanserd, of Elkmont, who was trying to make Athens from Elkmont. This is the third negro killed in this place in the past year from deadbeating.

DREYFUS LANDS AT QUIBORON

The Noted Exile Is Once More Upon His Native Soil.

EXCITEMENT DIES AWAY

Prisoner Is Transferred To Jail Under a Strong Guard.

A cable dispatch from Rennes, France, states that Captain Dreyfus landed at Quiboron Friday and was conveyed by train to Bruz. There he entered a landau, accompanied by the chief of detectives and the prefect in the afternoon and was driven to Rennes, where twenty-five gendarmes waited his entrance into the town. Ten of the gendarmes entered a wagon and followed the carriage. The rest followed on foot. The party arrived at the prison without incident. A large crowd assembled and witnessed the arrival in silence and without manifestation.

The authorities had arranged a secret landing at the little village of Moulin Blanc, about four miles from Brest, but the vigilance of the newspaper men led to a change in the arrangements and Dreyfus was disembarked at Quiboron, in Britanny, near L'Orient, where the telegraph office closes at 9 p. m., thus rendering it impossible to telegraph to Rennes the fact of his arrival.

It is also said that the government had advices from Azores, when the Sfax passed Fayal, that the health of Dreyfus was precarious. This is held in some quarters to explain the anxiety to prevent the public seeing him.

The Parisian public is rather listless about his arrival, and there was no excitement at Rennes, although the railway station there was full of reporters awaiting the coming of the famous prisoner.

NEGRO MINERS AMBUSHED.

Train Load of Them Met By Strikers With Winchesters.

A special from Marion, Ill., says: Friday, as the train on the Illinois Central, carrying a coachload of negroes from Pana to Brush's mines, one mile north of Cartersville, stopped at the Fredonia mine, three miles northwest of Cartersville, a large number of striking union miners [illegible] killing [illegible] others.

The miners numbered fifty, and were armed with rifles, and were hidden in grass behind the country depot. When the train stopped, the leader, who was an Italian, got on the platform and commanded the negroes to get out. Conductor Bryan interferred, but was stopped by a revolver in his face. The train began to move, and the miners poured in a withering fire. Conductor Bryan yelled to the negroes to throw themselves on the floor. All escaped serious wounds save the woman, who was killed instantly.

When the train reached a point one mile north of Brush's mine the negroes were unloaded and marched across the country to their destination. It is said that a majority of the rioters were negroes, whom Brush brought from the south about a year ago, and have since joined the union.

There is great excitement in the neighborhood of the Brush mine, and a battle between the working negroes, who are well armed, and the strikers, who are on the ground ready for a fight, may be precipitated at any moment. Superintendent Brush wired for Sheriff Gray immediately after the riot, and asked for protection. The sheriff went at once to the scene, but he took no deputies with him. He had no guns to arm them.

NEW FEVER REMEDY

To Be Tested In South As Preventive of Yellow Jack.

The New York Herald has presented three hundred bottles of samarelli serium for yellow fever to the Louisiana state board of health. Experiments of particular interest and value to southern cities will be conducted this summer to test the value of serium as a preventive and cure in case yellow fever appears.

ANXIOUS FOR PROTECTORATE.

Schurmann Has Been Sounding Inhabitants of Philippines.

A Manila special says: Professor J. G. Schurmann, of the United States advisory commission for the Philippines, returned to Manila Sunday from a three weeks' tour of the southern islands. He takes an entirely hopeful view of the general conditions there. The intelligent and substantial citizens desire an American protectorate. The masses are awaiting the settlement of the war in the island of Luzon before declaring themselves. They are chiefly anxious to be undisturbed.

STEAMER TARTAR CHARTERED.

Will Be Used As a Transport Between 'Frisco and Manila.

The war department Saturday chartered the steamer Tartar, now at Vancouver, B. C., to be used as a transport between San Francisco and Manila. She is very large, capable of carrying 1,500 men. It is expected that she will be at San Francisco in five or six days and be ready to sail for Manila by the 20th, perhaps carrying the Nineteenth infantry.

THE CHRONICLE.

F. W. GIST, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

FINALLY CLASSIFIED.

We prefer a black friend to a white enemy. No, sir; we can not fuse with the brainless editor and his gang. We prefer to cast our lot with honest people.—Advocate.

We are gratified that we have finally forced The Advocate to show its true animus. The first sentence of the above, followed out to its full significance, means that The Advocate would support a negro for office against a Democrat; that it would prefer the combination of Populists and negroes to going into a white primary and letting a majority of the white people of the county choose the officers.

In the second sentence it misconstrues our idea. We had no idea of proposing fusion with the Populists. Fusion, as we consider it, means to make up a ticket from two or more parties. We would not be willing to do that. But we would be willing to have a primary election, participated in by white voters only, before which Populist, Republican and Democratic candidates should stand for endorsing, letting the candidates who received the greater number of white votes be elected without opposition. If there are a majority of white Populists, then Populists would be elected; if a majority of white Democrats, then Democrats would be elected. Does The Advocate understand this? If so, we ask it, will you agree for the white people of the county to thus say who shall control the affairs of the county? The Advocate knows that negro holds the balance of power. Is it willing to eliminate him, and let the white voters choose the candidates, honestly, fairly and untrammeled?

But the third sentence above answers the question in advance. "We prefer to cast our lot with honest people." Does The Advocate mean that the negroes are the only honest people, or does it just consider them more honest than Democrats? If the former, then The Advocate is indeed under the control of its Republican editor; if the latter, then we are sorry for some of our Democratic friends who seem to be depending on The Advocate for a great deal of help these days.

Taken all in all, the above paragraph is a bold, impudent stab at the white people of Shelby County; a declaration that the negroes are superior to a majority of the white men in point of honesty, ability and virtue. In making such a declaration The Advocate puts itself below the level of common decency and on a par with those miserable specimens of humanity, ignorant and vicious negroes and dare white men to help themselves. Cast their lot with honest men, indeed! They prefer to rest their case with negroes, whom they can buy, wheedle, cajole. Of course they do. White men can not be fooled by such flimsy principles as they advocate, so they must turn to the poor benighted negro for their salvation. Well, we will let them alone. They are joined to their idols. They, with all men of their stripe are welcome to all the fusion with negroes they want. We only wanted to get them to declare themselves. They have done so. We are satisfied.

THE Chronicle man has nothing to do these days but to look over the records. Shelby County would never have known what she had lost if he had never come to the county. —Advocate.

If it had been left to The Advocate to produce the facts the corporations and land syndicates would still be paying nominal taxes, while the small farmers bear the burdens. We congratulate ourselves that while The Advocate has been laboring to help elect the nominees of negro conventions, and furthering the cause of tax dodgers we have stirred up a small storm that will bring practical results. It would have been a cold day in August before The Advocate or any of its crowd would have called attention to the amount of escaped taxes due by the Hon. Wm. F. Aldrich. As it is if the tax commissioner does not get $6,000 out of that honorable gentleman it will be because the commissioner and the courts do not do their duty. Let it be understood that The Advocate has had no part in getting these just dues of the State and county, and the same can be said of the officers when The Advocate brays on.

LET's see. The Montevallo Coal and Transportation Company is capitalized at $300,000. Its stock is worth par. It pays taxes on $30,000 worth of property. That leaves $270,000 of property which has been escaping for five years. At the present rate of $1.30 the amount gained for the current year will be $3,510. For the past four years at the $1.00 rate the amount will be $10,800, a total of $14,300 to the State and county, with 10 per cent added for the commissioner. It is not at all strange that the Hon. Wm. F. could spend his savings to buy a seat in Congress. The people have paid the bill for him. It remains to be seen whether the above amount will be collected out of him now. And, then, there are others.

WE are inclined to think there is a good deal of buncombe in some people's professions of fidelity to silver. There are at least too many leaders and not enough to follow.

A TEST OF FAITH.

We notice that the Montgomery Journal is still trying to create the impression that all the opposition to Governor Johnston comes from the Palmer and Buckner Democrats, and that the demand for a constitutional convention came from the same source. The Journal knows that this is untrue, and its effort to make it appear so is an injustice to some of the best silver men in the State. The Journal knows that the demand for a constitutional convention came from the great body of white men throughout Alabama who, from their close relation to home affairs, are beginning to fear that white supremacy can not and will not always prevail under present conditions. That a few of the much dreaded gold-bugs joined in the general demand was a proof of their loyalty to local interests, rather than that they sought to steal unawares into control of the party. Perhaps the Journal does not know, but if it moved among the old fashioned Democrats it would soon learn, that the opposition to Johnston is because of his action in so openly pandering to the Populists in his efforts to defeat the convention, and because it is generally understood, whether rightly or not, that he is seeking to use his official power to bring about the defeat of John T. Morgan for the Senate. The Journal seems to forget that in its strictures upon the opposition to Johnstonism it includes many of the ablest men of the State, who have made a record in behalf of the silver cause which can not be equalled, much less excelled, by Governor Johnston in a life of service.

Will the Journal tell us when Johnston ever did anything and what in behalf of silver that entitles him to a higher respect from its advocates that is already due and given for the services of Morgan and Pettus; Bankhead and Wheeler; Clayton and Robbins; Tomlinson and Cunningham and hosts of others whom we might mention? The same comparison might be made among the newspapers of the State, some of whose editors have followed the lead of Morgan and Pettus in days when the present editor of the Journal could not be altogether counted upon. We regret to make these comparisons, but the Journal's incessant efforts to place Johnston upon the silver throne while it casts all those who do not worship him into outer darkness compels us to do so in righteous defense of the truth.

If the Journal would have us to know that its political prince is the friend of silver that it sets him up to be, let it announce that Governor Johnston is not and will not be among Senator Morgan's opponents for re-election. The Journal stands close to the throne; it knows whether Johnston desires or intends to defeat Morgan. Let it say and keep it so that to silver to oppose the election of so able and unquestionable a champion of silver as Morgan, and its profession of sincerity will be believed.

Will the Journal thus prove the friendship of itself and its patron saint? If so, let it speak now and see how much of opposition to Johnston will vanish into the air. If not, it must be content to have its master abused for every action which gives a suspicion of his intention to defeat the ablest champion of silver the Senate contains to-day.

Governor Johnston can not link his destiny with that of Mr. Bryan. If he does the State will be lost to both. There are others who are for Mr. Bryan, but there are also others than Mr. Bryan dear to the hearts of our people and who hold their highest sympathy and gratitude. If Johnston insists that none but him shall ride the crested wave with Bryan in Alabama waters, then both must sink. If Johnston is a friend to Bryan and silver let him prove it by declaring his fidelity to Morgan, and Bryan will not be hurt, while the silver cause will be in hands that have been tried and not found wanting.

We are not so close to the court as the Journal, but we do not yield to it one whit in our faithfulness to the Chicago platform; and since it is evident that the Journal fain would make Johnstonism the test of faith we feel at equal liberty to say to it that we believe no man worthy of confidence as a silver advocate who opposes the reelection of Morgan.

Governor Johnston can prove himself sincere, and stop all unjust criticism, with five words. Let him do it.

SOMEBODY—we don't know who—has sent us a copy of the New Orleans Item containing an interview with Hon. W. H. Sturdivant, written by Joe Manning, the Alabama representative of that paper, in which the Hon. William is made to call Johnston the political Moses of Alabama, and to pass other bright encomiums on the Governor. It is hard to tell which is the most unreliable—the interviewed or the interviewer—Sturdivant, the nominee of a negro convention, or Manning, who has hired himself out to every species of political work known in the catalogue. Governor Johnston is in good hands when his praises are being sung by this brace of birds. He ought to pray to be delivered from his friends.

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

By Mrs. F. W. GIST.

Who among us does not delight to bask in a hammock or on a green lawn and peruse a summer magazine? Yet how vapid and shallow are most of our popular magazines for several months past. History and sketches of the Hispano war go largely to fill up the recent issues of nearly all the standard magazines. It is positively obnoxious and calculated to bore beyond toleration all that class of readers who have read accounts of this character almost an hundred times during the past year. If our magazine proprietors have decided upon publishing a series of text-books for the use of present and future generations of history students then they are a success. Even the favorably and well known Frank Leslie's has given itself up to war, war, and nothing but war. An ordinary twelve-year old child ought to fill up a magazine with more interesting matter than is contained in Frank Leslie's June issue. The Ladies Home Journal continues to captivate with its pictures and advertisements and its stories that are to the mind like watered milk to the taste, and most of it all is war. Even the Youths Companion is filling its columns with war. The reading public is getting surfeited with war.

Alabama journalism is at a low ebb, overstocked with too many cheap, good-for-nothing newspapers. Half the editors in the State ought to buy or rent (for few of them could buy) a farm and try making a living more independently than the average Alabama editor is doing now. It is now time for a newspaper trust to come along and buy up the whole business and give the editorial field a good weeding, leaving those worthy the appellation of editor in localities where the people appreciate a good newspaper. Country newspaper editors trying to exist on air and their own conceit and a few patent medicine advertisements would find themselves happier, more independent and consequently more repected, tending truck patches and milking the cows. Politics in Alabama are rotten. Politicians cater to the newspaper man, paying him in smiles and compliments on his last editorial. There is altogether a bountiful sufficiency of readers for every newspaper in the State, and to every ten readers there is possibly one who pays for what he reads. Advertisers have to be begged for. So with it all our editors had better take to the woods and hunt game or run the plow. It requires both money and brains to run a newspaper, and few editors have sufficient of both these to succeed.

How to Find Out.

[illegible] if your urine is cloudy, has a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents or one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, if you send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in THE CHRONICLE.

On account of meeting of B. Y. P. U. A. at Richmond, Va., July 13-16, the Southern Railway and A. G. S. RR. will sell tickets from points on its lines to Richmond and return at rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold July 11, 12 and 13, limited to return until July 31, 1899. An extension of final limit may be obtained to leave Richmond not later than August 15, provided tickets are deposited with joint agent at Richmond prior to July 28 and on payment of fee of 50 cents. For further information call on Southern Railway or A. G. S. RR. ticket agents.

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER.

50 CENTS A YEAR.

(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)

CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better than it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

Address,

THE CHRONICLE,
Columbiana, Ala.

10 CENTS IN SILVER pays for your name in the American Farmers' Directory, which goes whirling all over the United States to publishers, etc., and you will get hundreds of free sample copies of agricultural journals, magazines, newspapers, etc., for two years or more. You will also get free copies of books, catalogues, circulars, etc., of the latest improved farm implements and machinery, and be kept informed upon the latest improved implements. You will get more good reading matter than you could purchase for many times the small cost of 10 cents. We want every farmer's name in the United States in our Directory at once. Address, FARMERS' DIRECTORY CO., P. O. Box 325, Birmingham, Ala.

SUMMER RESORTS.

Many delightful summer resorts are situated on and reached via Southern Railway. Whether one desires the sea-side or the mountain, the fashionable hotels or country homes they can be reached via this magnificent highway of travel.

Asheville, N. C., Hot Springs, N. C., Hale Springs, Tenn., Roan Mountain, Tenn., and the mountain resorts of East Tennessee and Western North Carolina—"The Land of the Sky"—Tate Springs, Tenn., Oliver Springs, Tenn., Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Monte Sano, Huntsville, Ala., Lithia Springs, Ga., and various Virginia Springs; also the seashore resorts, are reached by the Southern Railway on convenient schedules and very low rates.

The Southern Railway has issued a handsome folder, entitled "Summer Homes and Resorts," descriptive of nearly one thousand summer resorts, hotels and boarding houses, including information regarding rates for board at the different places and railroad rates to reach them. Write to C. A. Benscoter, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, Chattanooga, Tenn., for a copy of this folder.

We Are Happy on the Way.

Four thousand Veterans, women and children are expected at Campbranch on the 3d and 4th of August to witness the soldiers reunion, grand parade and the only sham battle that has ever been fought in the county since the Civil war. Every Veteran is expected to be on hand fully armed and equipped for the occasion. Something good to eat will be on hand if the good women can get their husbands to get a move on themselves and catch the chickens, dress the sheep, kill the goat, fatten the pig and go to mill. The finest brass band in the State is engaged for the occasion. Look out, Campbranch, we are coming sure.

G. B. Espy, Alaga, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine many years. It cures sour stomach, constipation and disordered liver. There is great difference between it and the Black Draught I used, which griped considerably and did not have the same effect as Dr. M. A. S. L. M., which is mild and thoroughly cleanses the stomach and bowels.

On Saturday night next Louis Spencer Daniel, the celebrated humorist and entertainer, will appear at the Academy, under the auspices of the ladies of the Baptist church. Mr. Daniel's repertoire includes "Colonel Charlotte of Charlottsville," "Romance of Two Bachelors," "Lend me Five Shillings," "'Ole Ash' and Dialect Stories," "Les Miserables," "A Country Courtship," "Cyrano de Bergerac," "Romance of a Glove," selections from Riley and Dickens and scores of short stories from best authors. Admission, 25 cents; children, 15.

The University of Alabama advertises in another column. No Institution in the country offers equal facilities for so small an outlay. Moreover University Alumni are and are to be leading men in all walks of life. Equal strength acquired elsewhere or in an institution of less prestige would be far less valuable in a practical sense.

For a clear complexion, bright sparkling eye and vigorous digestion, take Prickly Ash Bitters. It puts the system in perfect order. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

A two-year-old-baby of Mr. John Porter, of Bloeton, was buried here Sunday, having died quite suddenly. Mr. Porter and wife received the sympathy of their many friends here. They spent several days this week in our midst.

SCHOOL HAS A PRESIDENT.

F. M. Peterson will preside over Montevallo Institution.

The Board of Trustees of the Montevallo School met on Monday last and elected Prof. F. M. Peterson, of Greensboro, to succeed H. C. Reynolds as president. The following from the Advertiser is an account of the meeting, and a biography of the newly elected president:

Out of twenty-six applicants Prof. F. M. Peterson was elected. He has signified his acceptance, and will assume charge at once. Miss Ethel McMath, of Montevallo, was elected clerk and typewriter to the president. Other matters of detail considered not given out.

The president of the Montevallo School is the youngest son of the lamented Dr. F. M. Peterson, who for years ranked among Alabama's most distinguished physicians.

Prof. Francis Marion Peterson was born in Greensboro, Ala., on the 29th day of October, 1854. He is, therefore, 45 years old, in the very prime of life. He was reared in the place of his nativity, and has spent the greater portion of his life there. He was educated at the Southern University, in Greensboro, and graduated with the degree of Master of Arts from that institution when its curriculum was among the highest in the South and its faculty composed of learned educators whose names illumine the State's history.

Upon leaving the college he entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He developed rapidly, and after being from the halls of his alma mater only a few years, he was, by reason of his scholarly attainments, called to a chair in the Southern University, where he has remained up to the present. During his connection with this college he has filled every chair in it, and in every instance with credit and distinction. He has at various times been the acting president and financial agent of the institution, and in this way has demonstrated his executive and administrative ability.

The newly elected president is a man of pleasant address and polish, of broad culture and scholarly attainments, of great strength of character, and above all is a christian gentleman and a man of deep piety. His long and successful experience as an educator makes him eminently qualified to occupy the position to which he has just been elected.

Hon. E. S. Lyman is said to have to have been slated for the position of financial agent, but we have not learned whether he was elected. Mr. Lyman is an excellent gentleman, and we would be glad to see him connected with the school in that capacity.

The election of Professor Peterson is an exceedingly wise one, and we are sure the school will be in good hands.

Shelby Springs Shot Drops.

The tackey party at the pavilion one evening last week was the most enjoyable and laughable occasion of the season. Some of the most absurd costumes were worn. Miss Susan's and Mr. Straw hats were as numerous as ridiculous. Miss Lizzie Law, who is naturally tall and graceful, was amusingly conspicuous in a much trimmed riding coat, short skirt and turban hat. Mrs. Vaught, Annefranc Bazemore and Murphee Baker won the prizes. The sensation of the evening was brought out in the appearance of Mr. Law, proprietor of the Springs, as "Aunt Jerusha" at a country ball. The jigs and antics of "Aunt Jerusha" with her superb bustle and graceful, tight fitting motherhubbard, caused convulsions of laughter that was calculated to make people hungry as bears. If the old adage "laugh and grow fat" be true, there must have been the fatest set of people on earth right here at Shelby Springs the next morning after the tackey party. Tiny little girls in train dresses and high-knotted hair with tall women in short costumes, beside men in knee pants and white socks, boys in overalls and bare feet, marching to the well-timed music was a scene long to be remembered.

A sad, though it is hoped not serious, accident occurred last Tuesday night, when Tommy Catchings, of Birmingham, who has been a popular guest here several weeks escorted a young lady home and upon turning to depart down the steps of the high veranda, he missed the steps and fell hard and abruptly to the ground, cutting a gash over the left eye and inflicting very painful bruises on other parts of the body, principally on the pit of the stomach. Dr. Jones and Dr. Morgan, who were on the grounds, were summoned immediately and everything that physicians could do was done for him. At this writing he is resting fairly well.

Tuesday evening was an extraordinary gala at the Springs. There were ten couples with their chaperones up from Calera on a magnificent hay ride. Calera furnishes some of the best dancers that visit the Springs from season to season. A better dancer than Tommy Francis probably never glided over Shelby Springs floors. We heard the remark Tuesday evening "that though raised in the country we Southerners will learn to dance."

The following guests have arrived since July 1: LeRoy Smith and wife, Percy Clarke and family, Misses White, W. L. Brock and wife, Misses Brock, Col. J. T. Murfee, Miss Ella Wilkerson, Miss M. Darby, Mrs. P. J. Laughlin and family, Mrs. Weaver and family, Mrs. Wilkerson, Mrs. Pitts and family, Gilmore Swanson, Mrs. Staton, Dr. J. P. Jones and wife, N. E. Arenson, D. P. Boyer, J. A. Dodd and wife, S. L. Conn, H. F. Jarrett, V. H. Hanson and wife, Mrs. Gaillard and son, M. J. Elkin.

Mrs. R. E. L. Neil, of Selma, is visiting Mrs. Pond.

Miss Lizzie Slaton is visiting Professor Slaton's family.

Ollie Leeper and his charming sister, Miss Lucy, are guests of the Springs.

The Fourth passed of very quietly here and but little work was done. The negroes seldom ever work on that day, and they look forward to the Fourth of July as being a grand day. Some of them say they were freed on "dat" day and if they work they will be put back under bondage. Poor ignorant people, but yet they can walk up to the ballot box and with their vote elect men to office who are not fit for anything at all. How long will such things continue?

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mummia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cet preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.

The Journal does not guarantee results, but the result of the test at the Experiment Station make it worth a farmer's while to try these seed when they cost him nothing.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

The Value of Manure.

Facts about stable manure, or rather freshly stated conclusions, form an important part of Bulletin 58, Massachusetts experiment station, C. Wellington. Of the three common conditions of barnyard manure, half rotted manure is the most valuable, and well-rotted manure the least, because of their relative amount of nitrates. Manure should be kept packed away from the air as tightly as possible, and if rotted should be plowed under just before planting, otherwise several months before that time. The more litter used in the manure, the greater liability to loss of nitrogen. The use of bedding material free from decomposable organic matter is a means of protection against loss of nitrogen. As a matter of fact many intelligent farmers long since reached the conclusion that manure is never worth any more than immediately after it is voided, and that the sooner it can be got onto the land the better. Of course the sooner this is done the less the liability to loss of nitrogen irrespective of the kind of bedding used.

Trees for Small Grounds.

For grounds of small dimensions the dwarf classes of ornamental trees should receive more attention, leaving those that attain greater height to more spacious grounds. If but one, two or three specimens are to be set, there is no objection to such large trees as the cut-leaf birch, purple beech, scarlet maple, or even to the more common sugar maple, chestnuts, elms, etc., though when these trees reach maturity there will be little room for plants or shrubs without overcrowding or at the expense of lawn.

One of the most desirable of low-growing trees for small grounds is the Japan maple, Acer polymorphum. In reality it is but a large-growing shrub. The foliage is feathery, with small, deeply lobed leaves of coppery green. The growth is graceful, compact and dense, and the tree hardy. The varieties of the flowering thorn (Crataegus) are among the best of small trees for the lawn. They are compact, low, and bloom abundantly during the summer. They are, moreover, hardy, cleanly and do well in dry soils, where some other classes would not succeed. The variety Carriereii is one of the best of the class. The foliage, is deep, green and glossy, the flowers large, white and followed in the fall by scarlet fruit that remains nearly all winter. Paul's double scarlet thorn is an old variety, but one of the best for small grounds, especially where bright color is needed. The tree is of good form, and attractive foliage and the brilliant scarlet flowers, very often double, are borne in great profusion.—Chicago Record.

How to Be Sure of Good Layers.

Much has been written regarding egg type or the picking out of layers from their shape. We believe there is something in it. We believe that a bright, active hen, with a rather long deep body, is a better layer than a sluggish acting, compact or a round bodied one. Yet there is far more in breeding than in selection. If we want layers we must breed from noted layers. "Like will beget like," and a noted layer will be more likely to produce layers than a poor layer. So the only way to be sure to get good layers is to breed them. Not only must the hen be a good layer but the cock must be from the same strain. This will necessitate in-breeding somewhat, but with good judgment and unlimited range, this will not hurt the strain unless persisted in too long. It is best to use two flocks that are not related at the start.

There is a vast difference in the laying of individual hens. A person who is observing can usually tell which are the best layers. These should be separated and penned with the best cock, and all the eggs. Mark (with a punch through the web of the foot) all these chicks, and next season select only the best of them for that year's mating. Be sure that the cock is very strong and active, for in-breeding is risky business to the beginner, and nothing but the very best and strongest birds should be used. When it becomes necessary to to introduce new blood—say every other year or once in three years—get cocks from someone who is working on the same lines, if possible.—R. W. Davison in the Epitomist.

Irrigating a Small Farm.

To irrigate 20 acres in truck and small fruit I use a four-horse power gasoline engine attached to pump of a capacity of 60 gallons per minute, by which I can handle 40,000 gallons of water, elevating the same 62 feet, which is the highest spot on the place. The water is thus elevated from the pond or pump, in a 2-inch water pipe and from there distributed to all parts of the field in narrow, shallow ditches or in cloth hose made of heavy ducking. It is thus run direct on the growing crop. The land, however, is not overflowed, my land being rather heavy and inclined to crust or bake. To avoid this we open narrow furrows between the rows with a "shooter" plow and in it we turn the water in such quantities as not to overflow. The rows for irrigation having been laid at a gentle incline, the water thus running gently down the incline without washing the soil. Where land is light and sandy and no danger of baking, overflowing does not injure the land, but benefits it, as the water will become more evenly distributed; and especially is this true where the subsoil is open and permits water to sink freely, but where land is heavy and holds the water near the surface it should not be allowed to overflow.

In this way and with our pumping outfit and the amount of water at our command it takes one and a half and sometimes two days to thoroughly saturate an acre with water during a severe drought. This is sufficient to keep the crops in a good growing condition for 10 days or two weeks, according to condition or humidity of the atmosphere. The land is constantly worked; that is, after every application of water and as soon as the land gets dry enough to work it, the cultivator is run through the rows and the little furrows opened for the reception of water is thus leveled. As soon as more water is needed the "scooter" is used and the same operation is gone over.—Charles Deckner in Southern Fruit and Truck Grower.

Summer Feeding of Pigs.

Pigs should run with the dam until they are ten or twelve weeks old. Let them eat with the dam, for by so doing there will be no sudden change of food when left to themselves, nor any harmful setback, unless unwholesome food is given them. When weaned put on a pasture. When on a good pasture, especially if of clover or peas, the task of summer feeding and care will be a light affair; and to the pigs it will be an invigorating, healthgiving feast. Every hog raiser should have a few acres sown to grass, oats, rye, clover, or peas, on which to turn his pigs in the summer season. For summer feeding the pea pasture is par excellent. The pasture should always be provided with plenty of clean water and shade.

When pigs are confined their food should be greatly varied, to avoid the results of gorging and surfeiting them, whence, together with the ill effects of confinement, arise most disorders, especially stomach troubles. As soon as symptoms of such disorders appear the pigs should be turned on open ground, and, if possible, on pasture. The change will quite soon have a good effect. But if turned upon a barren lot, give them soiling food, and feed some soft cotton, small, boiled, cold potatoes and skimmed milk; in a word, any wholesome swill or food. Unless the disorder has reached a serious stage, the pigs will soon recover health and vigor.

It is better not to feed pigs too exclusively on unground grain. Far better results come from feeding mixed rations of ground peas, barley, oats, wheat middlings, etc. Besides, pigs so fed, are the sooner made ready for the pork tub. Farmers too often overlook the necessity for variety in the diet of their pigs. All domestic animals require a great variety of food to supply all the wants of the system. We have no doubt but that confinement to one kind of food for a long time is the frequent cause of disease in pigs. Green clover in summer, besides giving bulk and lightness to the food, furnishes a large quantity of muscle-forming material and phosphate of lime for the bones. In winter, when green soiling food cannot be had, the best substitutes are beets, carrots, turnips, etc.; and when these are not to be had, short cut clover, or other hay, boiled with meal, answers the purpose, and will be eaten greedily. Several different kinds of grain should be ground together to give variety.

Variation in Cow Weights.

At the beginning of each month for two months, the dairy herd of the Kansas State Agricultural college has been weighed for three consecutive days and the weight of each animal determined by averaging the results of the three days' weighing. During the first weigh period the herd did not have access to water until they were weighed, but during the second period they were allowed to run to the watering trough in the yards before weighing. To one unaccustomed to the fluctuations in animal weights the following results may appear astonishing:

Cows giving milk—The average weight of thirteen head was 1,048 and 1,065 pounds respectively for the first and second weigh periods. During the first period the minimum variation of any one individual was four pounds, and the maximum variation sixty-five pounds, with an average for the lot of twelve pounds. During the second period, where the herd had access to water, the minimum variation was five pounds and the maximum ninety pounds; but during this period certain individuals gained at the same time that others lost, so that the average variation for the lot was only five pounds, the same as the minimum variation of any one individual. In both periods the greatest variation took place with animals that weighed 900 to 950 pounds.

Dry cows—The average weight of twelve head was 1,113 and 1,125 pounds respectively for the first and second weigh periods. During the first period the minimum variation of any single individual was seven pounds and the maximum variation thirty-two pounds, with an average variation of seven pounds. During the second period the minimum variation was four pounds and the maximum forty pounds, with an average for the lot of five pounds. In the first period the greatest variation was with a 960 pound cow, and in the second period with a 1300 pound cow.

Young stock—This lot consisted of five head whose weights ranged from 400 to 600 pounds. During the first weigh period the minimum variation was seven and the maximum thirty-nine pounds, with an average for the lot of twenty-three pounds. During the second period the minimum variation among the individuals so balanced each other that the average variation for the lot was only two pounds.

Calves—In four calves weighing from eighty-five to 165 pounds the variation was from two to five pounds, the average for the lot for both periods being about 2 1-2 pounds. The greatest variation, however, was the smallest calf.

Bull—This pure blood Guernsey had an average weight in the first period of 1342 pounds, with a difference between his highest and lowest weight of forty-two pounds. In the second weigh period his average weight was 1355 pounds with a variation of nineteen pounds.

The above notes show that a considerable variation may take place in consecutive daily weights of the same animal without any apparent cause. When a person is particular about getting an accurate weight of an animal it should be done by averaging at least three daily weighings.—D. H. Otis in Farm, Field and Fireside.

COURTS PROTECT ENTERPRISE.

Important Decision in Regard to Reputations Built up by Advertising.

In the United States Circuit Court in San Francisco, Cal., a decision has been given that is of great interest to manufacturers of proprietary articles and to publishers. The case in question was the suit of the California Fig Syrup Co. to obtain a permanent injunction, which was granted, enjoining a large non-secret manufacturing concern and others from using the name "Syrup of Figs," or "Fig Syrup," and ordering the defendants to pay costs and damages. The decision proves that the courts will protect the valuable reputation of an article of merit, built up by probity of word as well as by extensive advertising, so that the owner may reap the full benefit. The overwhelming evidence presented, as to the merits of the company's laxative, could not be gainsaid by the defendants, and the injunction was the result.

Empress Charlotte of Mexico recently celebrated her sixtieth birthday at the Chateau de Bonchoto, where she is confined. Although she does not look her age, her mental condition is as hopeless as ever. It seems that she is able to amuse herself by playing on the piano and by copying miniatures, but the least noise alarms her, and she is frequently seized with fits of terror, in which she is under the impression that she sees enacted before her the dreadful death of her husband, the Emperor Maximilian.

Device for Reducing High Temperature.

A recent inventor has devised a scheme for sprinkling a town with the help of balloons, which carry up into the air long hose pipes connected with the fire plugs on the ground. This is for the purpose of engendering coolness, and the same object is sought by another genius, who proposes to erect in various parts of the city very tall skeleton towers, to the tops of which large bombs filled with carbonic acid will be run up for explosion by an electric spark. Of course the carbonic acid, expanding in the form of vapor, will chill the surrounding atmosphere, thus giving relief to the heat-oppressed community below. An idea that is even now used in many factories to cool the air in the buildings, is to throw a spray of cold water into a room until the air is supersaturated, and then to force the air thus cooled through the other rooms.

Ancient Gold Mines in Africa.

Many interesting evidences of ancient mining are being discovered in the South African gold fields. These ancient miners used metal tools for working soft grounds, and the remains have been found of small furnaces for sharpening their tools. They also understood the use of fire for disintegrating the gold-bearing rock, but their knowledge of mining was extremely limited, especially when contrasted with the scientific methods of the present day.

TEDDY ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH M'KINLEY

Chief Executive of New York Calls At the White House In Answer To Invitation.

HIS VISIT AT THE PRESENT TIME SETS AFLOAT VARIOUS RUMORS

Conference Was Held To Discuss Prospective Commissions and Promotions In the Army.

Governor Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, was the guest of the president at the white house Saturday night. He arrived in the afternoon from Oyster Bay in response to a telegraphic request from President McKinley to come to Washington for a consultation.

Governor Roosevelt was met at the depot by the president's secretary, Mr. Cortelyou, and driven direct to the white house, where he was received by the president. There was a short conversation between the two distinguished men before dinner. Afterwards, together with Secretary Hay, Secretary Long, Attorney General Griggs and General Corbin, they sat upon the western veranda of the executive mansion for a long consultation.

His visit set afloat various rumors; among them that he had been called to Washington to be tendered the office of secretary of war, to be given command of a brigade in the Philippines and to designate an entire regiment for service there. He declined to discuss these, protesting the president's purpose was merely to consult him regarding the organization of the new volunteer army, especially the personel of the officers. He was asked in so many words whether the president had tendered him the secretaryship. He replied to this question only with a laugh.

The governor's best friends in Washington say that regardless of the facts as to the president's tender or failure to make one, the governor would much prefer his present position as of the Empire state to a fractional term in the war department, and his treatment of the question renders this theory as to his attitude most plausible.

Governor Roosevelt dictated the following interview to the Associated Press:

"The president has told me that he wished recommendations based upon the efficiency of the men recommended, and that he will heed no others. The president's attitude in the matter in the face of the terrific political pressure to which he is and will be subjected is such as to intitle him to the support of all men who feel that politics has no place in the army, who feel that it is, in a peculiar sense, the property of the whole country, and that in the giving of commissions and promotions alike absolutely no consideration should enter outside of the merit of the men as soldiers.

"My own recommendations will be limited to the men I had under me, or saw in action, and to the members of the New York volunteer regiments of whose merits I have, as governor, not merely official knowledge, but also the knowledge gained from personal inquiry among their superiors."

Referring to the general situation in the Philippines and the policy of the administration with reference to those islands, Governor Roosevelt said:

"Of course any American worthy of the name must stand behind the president in his absolute purpose to bring the insurrection in the Philippines to an end. I have no question that by the beginning of the dry season General Otis will be in shape to stamp out all resistance. Then the president can and will see that the reign of absolute law and justice follows. It cannot be too clearly kept in mind that the whole trouble is due to the men who for two months prevented the ratification of the treaty of peace and to those who declined to give the president the troops he needed upon the terms he asked. Those who took part in the first movement to oppose the treaty have on their souls the guilt of most of the bloodshed both of our own troops and that of the natives of the Phillippines; and the would-be traitors who have since been encouraging Aguinaldo and his followers to the limit of their small capacity share the guilt so far as their feeble powers permit.

"Those who opposed giving us the forces we needed thereby showed themselves enemies of their country and of the flag. Every man who so voted in the senate may have the satisfaction of knowing that he has done all that he could to bring discredit on the flag and disgrace upon our arms. It is all the more to the credit of the administration that it has steadfastly pursued the path of national honor and steadfastly upheld the interests and the good name of the nation as a whole, in spite of the way it has been hampered by those who sought to betray the nation. We have a right to demand the support of every true American for the administration's policy in the Philippines, and every American who is far-sighted and patriotic should join in denouncing alike the men who strive to give aid and comfort to the foes not only of America but of civilization in the Philippines, and also those other men who would prevent our army's being made equal to the national need."

LIVES CRUSHED OUT.

Six Members of One Family Are Mangled At a Railroad Crossing.

All but one of the seven members of the family of William Reinhard, of Columbus, O., were killed and the remaining one badly injured by a passenger train Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard and their five children, ranging in age from nine to fourteen, were out for an afternoon drive in a surrey. They were crossing the tracks just as the westbound passenger train, due at 3:15 p. m., came along. The vehicle was knocked into splinters and Mrs. Reinhard and Arthur and Karl were killed outright. Edward and William were so badly wounded that they died after being removed to a hospital. Clarence sustained a fractured collarbone and other lesser injuries, but it is believed he will recover. The horse which was attached to the surrey was literally ground to pieces.

The crossing has long been regarded as a dangerous one, the view of incoming trains being obscured by a high fence around the fair grounds. The train was running at a high speed.

LOCK-OUT IN TAMPA.

Four Thousand Cigarmakers Idle In Florida City.

Twenty large cigar factories in Tampa, Fla., closed Saturday afternoon on account of labor trouble.

Four thousand men are thrown out of employment and already many threats are being made and incendiary talk is being heard. The large majority of the men belong to the Latin races, being Cubans, Spaniards and Italians.

Some twelve weeks ago there was a strike in the Ybor Manrara factory, 400 men going out because the filler tobacco was weighed. All efforts to settle the matter was futile and at last it became known that the cigar makers had designs upon other factories as soon as this one was over with. This caused the manufacturers to form an association and settle the matter by a lockout. This means that a cash weekly payroll of over $80,000 will be cut off until the affair is settled.

MANY BEREFT OF HOMES.

Texas Has Now Nearly 45,000 Destitute Flood Sufferers.

Governor Sayers, of Texas, has stated to an Associated Press correspondent that judging from all the reports he had received officially from the flooded district, there had been great loss of property, both personal and corporate; that hundreds of people had been bereft of their homes and belongings, and that at present there were in the neighborhood of 45,000 people, the majority of them being negroes, who were dependent entirely upon public charity for sustenance. The suffering of water-bound refugees has been very great.

The governor figures the reports out to show that the loss of life has been comparatively small, not exceeding fifty persons. The heaviest farming losses will fall upon the owners of the big plantations in the bottoms, who have lost all their crops and much of their physical property and are not being protected in the distribution of charity, which is being expended only among the poor.

WAS NOT A GIFT.

Bryan Explains the Widely Discussed Watermelon Episode.

A Lincoln, Neb., dispatch says: W. J. Bryan denied Sunday that the carload of melons sent him by J. D. McEachern & Co., of Morven, Ga., was intended as a gift. He was merely asked to place them on the market in Lincoln. He turned the car over to a merchant, who sold the melons and paid the freight bill.

BRYAN IN COLUMBUS.

Nebraskan the Chief Guest and Speaker At Big Dollar Banquet.

About 1,000 people attended the dollar dinner given by the Young Men's Democratic Club of Columbus, O., in that city Friday night. It was the largest banquet which the local democracy has had since that given in honor of the seventy-seventh birthday of the late Judge Allen G. Thurman in the same hall ten years ago. The affair was strictly democratic in its simplicity, all classes being represented.

The chief guest was Colonel William J. Bryan, at the table with whom were also seated Hon. C. T. Callahan and George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts; Judge Tarvin, of Kentucky; Hon. Allen W. Thurman, of Columbus, the toastmaster, and a number of others prominent in state politics. The entrance of Colonel Bryan was greeted by an outburst of applause which lasted until after he had become seated.

Hon. Christopher T. Callahan, of Massachusetts, was the first speaker, responding to the toast "The Issues." He dwelt particularly upon imperialism, trusts and free silver as the leading issues in 1900.

When Colonel Bryan was introduced there was another outburst of applause that continued for several minutes. When quiet had been restored Colonel Bryan launched upon a discussion of the issues of the day in response to the toast "Democracy." His speech was a great effort and was wildly applauded.

LUNA'S SLAYERS ACQUITTED.

When Placed On Trial They Entered Plea of Self-Defense.

A cable dispatch from Manila says The trial at Cabanatuan of the slayers of General Luna, the Filipino leader, who was assassinated by the guard of Aguinaldo's residence, resulted in the acquittal of the defendants. They pleaded self-defense. The testimony showed that there was a conspiracy on the part of Luna and officers to kill Aguinaldo and make Luna dictator. Luna's death seems to have strengthened Aguinaldo's leadership for the time. Luna's supporters are now outwardly loyal to Aguinaldo. The members of the Spanish colony here are now lionizing the survivors of the Spanish garrison at Baler, on the east coast of Luzon, [illegible] ed to Manila Thursday [illegible] the Spanish commissioners sent to treat with the Filipinos for the surrender of of the Spanish prisoners.

A dozen banquets have been arranged in their honor and a subscription has been started for their relief. Lieutenant Martin, the only surviving officer of the garrison, denies the story that he killed Captain Morenas, the Spanish officer who commanded at Baler, because he tried to raise a white flag. Martin says the captain died of berri-berri.

The transport Churruca is to take General Bates to the Sulu islands on a diplomatic mission. The general will endeavor to arrange the basis for a friendly understanding with the sultan of Sulu, who claims to be friendly to Americans. Under the sultan's treaty with Spain, he received a subsidy.

General Wheaton is to take command of General Hale's brigade at San Fernando. General Hale is returning to the United States with the Colorado regiment.

BAR ASSOCIATION ADJOURNS.

Meeting of Georgia Lawyers At Warm Springs Was Big Success.

After the most prosperous year in its history, the Georgia Bar Association adjourned sine die at Warm Springs, Friday evening, and Judge Hamilton McWhorter, the retiring president, turned over the office to his successor, Hon. J. R. Lamar of Augusta.

There has been a larger audience than ever before and in all respects this session of the association has been a magnificent success. Harmony and enthusiasm have marked the proceedings—harmony in the working of the organization and enthusiasm over the excellent papers that have been read.

The address of Hon. Wilson, former congressman and cabinet minister, and now president of the Washington and Lee university of Virginia, was the event of chief interest.

M'LEAN WILL ACCEPT

Nomination For Governor of Ohio Subject To Action of State Democrats.

A special from Columbus, O., says: An interesting feature of Friday's convention of the Ohio Association of Democratic Clubs was the announcement that John R. McLean would accept the nomination for governor, which is believed to signify the formal beginning of his candidacy.

When questioned as to whether he would be a candidate for the nomination, Mr. McLean made this statement:

"If the democrats of Ohio give me the nomination and my friends ask me to take it, I will accept."

MRS. DICKENS BURNED.

Fatal Accident Befalls Wife of a Prominent Naval Officer.

A Washington special says: Fire and explosion in the residence of Captain Dickens, of the United States navy, at 10:45 Friday morning resulted in the death of Mrs. Dickens, who was fearfully burned, and died before medical assistance could reach her. Other persons about the house were severely but not dangerously wounded.

THE ATHENS TRAGEDY A FABRICATION.

General Wheeler Directed to Report to General Otis at Manila—Charter Issued for a New Railroad in Southern Alabama.

The Athens Tragedy a Hoax.

Thomas White, the boy who confessed to the brutal murder of his father mother and sister, is still in the city prison at Montgomery, but according to the advices received from the sheriff of Limestone county, no such deed as has been reported has occurred at all in that county. The boy says the police made him confess to the commission of the horrible butchery under threat of putting him into a dark cell if he did not do so. He further says that his name is not Thomas White at all, but that it is John Brown, and that he came from Clanton on Saturday. He heard the woman with whom he was boarding reading from some of the state papers Sunday in which was an account of the alleged tragedy at Athens, so when he was arrested he gave the officers his real name, and says they made him say afterward that he was the murderer of his father, mother and sister and that his name was Thomas White.

He also says that the story of the man named Lawson is false and that he doesn't know anything of such a man, but so straight was his story of the whole matter for a boy of 13 years to tell, the police still think there is something wrong with the youngster.

Gen. Wheeler on His Way to Philippines.

General Wheeler Friday received orders from the war department to report to General Otis at Manila, and he is now speeding away across the continent to go on board the first transport leaving San Francisco. General Wheeler, in answer to a question as to whether he would resign his seat in congress, and decline to enter the gubernatorial race, said:

"Until my position in the Philippines becomes definite, I cannot tell what I will do. At the present time the department expects me to return by the winter, and my own present expectations are to be in Washington by the time congress convenes in December. On my arrival, if General Otis gives me a command, and there is fighting to be done there—but I had better make no suppositions. If you say anything as to my future movements, simply let it be the statement that I expect to be in Washington by December, and such are the department's intentions regarding my movements."

Charter Issued to New Railroad.

The secretary of state Saturday issued a charter to the Chattahoochee and Gulf Railroad company, which proposes to build at once a railroad from Columbia, in Henry county, to Flomaton, which is on the Florida line in Escambia. The line will, therefore, traverse about three-fourths of the southern portion of the state, passing through the counties of Henry, Dale, Covington, Conecuh and Escambia. The capital stock of the corporation is $1,000,000. The preliminary papers were filed last March, and the declaration of incorporation was taken out Saturday by Secretary H. V. Johnson, of Savannah, who went to Montgomery for that purpose. Most of the stockholders reside in Savannah.

Appleton Named.

The governor ended the contest for the probate judgeship of Cherokee county Friday. C. P. Appleton was the successful contestant. Mr. Appleton is at present register in chancery of Cherokee, having been recently appointed by Chancellor Kelly. He is a lawyer and resides at Center.

Gen. Wheeler Writes a Book.

General Joseph Wheeler has written a book on the operations of his cavalry during the civil war, and it is to be published for the benefit of the Wheeler cavalry camps throughout the south.

Saw Mill Burned.

Mr. Bowers' saw mill, located about ten miles from Tuskaloosa, on the Watermelon road, was burned to the ground a few days ago. The grist mill in connection was also totally destroyed. The loss is estimated at $1,500, with no insurance. The suspicion is entertained that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

Engineer Assassinated.

E. W. Weatherford, engineer on the branch of the Southern railroad between Florence and Tuscumbia, was assassinated while asleep in a passenger coach at the latter place at an early hour Saturday morning. About 3 o'clock some one climbed on to a stock car that stood near the coach, stuck a pistol through the window and shot Weatherford through the head while he slept.

The murdered man was about 60 years of age, and was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, a Pythian, and a man of considerable means. He was one of the best known and most influential citizens of Tuscumbia and had many friends. The deceased had no family, except a son, John W. Weatherford, Jr., who is an engineer on the Southern.

Bloodhounds took the scent and traced it to the home of John Weatherford, son of the murdered man. The trail was followed into young Weatherford's sleeping apartment. The sheriff arrested him soon afterwards. When taken into custody a revolver with one exploded shell was found on his person. He stoutly denied having committed the crime and asked the officers to protect him.

Escambia Farmers Swindled.

A gang of slick swindlers have recently taught some citizens of Escambia county a good moral lesson. One of the swindlers came among some of the farmers who had cashed in their crops and exhibited specimens of counterfeit money, which are said to have been finely executed, and explained that he would furnish $100 of it for $10, and in like proportion up to $10,000. A number of residents bit at the snare, got together less than $1,000 and selected one of their number to go to Chattanooga with the fakir to deliver the money and secure the bad. The swindler carried his dupe up the steps into a tall building, knocked at a door and bade him remain outside until he entered, exchanged the money and returned. The poor fellow tarried at the door for an hour or two and upon investigation learned that the bunco man had proceeded down the rear step with the good money of the poor Alabama victims and was gone.

Efforts to Get Armor Plate.

The Birmingham Commercial club has set about in earnest to try again to land the government armor plant, if the construction of one is authorized, for Birmingham. At the regular meeting of the club Congressman Underwood made an address in which he expressed confidence that such a plant would be authorized by the Fifty-sixth congress because of the developments which had taken place in the matter since congress adjourned in March, notably the refusal of the private manufacturers to supply armor within the limit of price set by congress. The Commercial club, after listening to this speech adopted a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee of thirty-one to take the matter in hand and press it.

Steel in the Pittsburg District.

Matthew Addy & Co., of Cincinnati, have concluded a contract with the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company, of Birmingham, for the delivery of 15,000 tons of steel billets in the Pittsburg district. The first delivery will be 5,000 in September, to be followed by a like quantity in October and November. The company's mills are nearly completed at Ensley, and this contract will absorb its first output.

Erecting Another Furnace.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company is now busily engaged making preparations for erecting a fifth furnace at Ensley. The old furnace which the company owned at Cowan, Tenn., and the smaller of the two furnaces at Florence, which was recently purchased by the company, are being removed to Ensley, and the two will be combined into a furnace of about 200 tons capacity per day.

Governor Johnston has signed a contract for the republishing of the Alabama supreme court reports. The late general assembly authorized this action.

The Governor's Denial.

Governor Johnston denies that he wrote Captain H. C. Reynolds a note telling him if the constitutional convention bill was passed he would not consent to an appropriation for the Montevallo school, and challenges him to produce the note. He did say if school appropriation was made $600,000 he would veto all extraordinary appropriations.

OIL IS CONFISCATED

State of Georgia Seizes Nearly 20,000 Gallons.

ORDER GIVEN BY STEVENS

Stuff Is Stored In Eight Cities of the State---Severe Penalty For Sale of Bad Oil Is On Statute Books.

A special from Atlanta says: Nearly 200,000 gallons of illuminating oil have been confiscated in Georgia as a result of the order of Commissioner Stevens directing inspectors throughout the state to seize all supplies that fail to come up to the standard by law.

This statement was made authoritatively at the office of the commissioner of agriculture, and is taken to indicate that the fight on illegal and dangerous oils, which the report of State Chemist McCandless showed abounds in the state, is on in dead earnest.

In eight cities in Georgia, the names of which are withheld by the officials, large supplies of oil have been tested recently and found to burn at a point below the limit of 120 degrees Fahrenheit, below which oils are declared dangerous and illegal by the law of the state.

It is the opinion of officials that should the names of the cities at which large confiscations have been made be given out, a panic would in all probability be caused, and this the department of agriculture has studiously avoided. In order to give protection to the citizens at the places where oil supplies have been seized, inspectors at these points have been notified in every case by telegram to take charge of the oils and hold them until directed what disposition to make.

No Appeal From Order.

Assistant Commissioner Wright was notified by a state inspector Friday morning that two tanks of oils amounting to about 12,000 gallons, and located in one of the largest cities of the state, had been found to be below the standard, having burned in the Tagliabue tester below 120 Fahrenheit. Inquiry was made of the department whether the agent of the oil company at the place would be permitted to make the bulk of the oil in the tanks good by the addition of higher grade oil that would considerably raise the standard of the fluid and thus put it within the limit of the law.

It is interesting to note that the code privides that any person who sells oil below the legal standard shall, upon conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and subject to a fine of not less than $250, or to a sentence of not less than one year, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Heretofore, it is understood, oils that have failed of the test in some cases have been added to by permission of the authorities with higher grade oils, to bring them up to the standard. Under the ruling made Friday and with the knowledge that a large portion of the oil in the state is below the standard, it is evident that the department has determined to follow the letter of the law and hold the oil concerns doing business in Georgia up to the tacit agreement they made when they established agencies in the state.

Many inquiries have been made as to the punishment provided by law for those persons who put oils on sale in the state that are regarded as dangerous.

The reply was made at once that the state would enter into no such agreement; that the oil condemned as dangerous must stand as it is, in the control of the state's inspector until he is notified what disposition to make of it.

It is also provided that one-half of the fine shall go to the prosecutor in the case, and the other half to the common school fund of the state. And any person sustaining damages as a result of the sale of illegal oil shall have recourse upon the person who sold the oil.

New Tester Demanded.

Following the report of Chemist McCandless—which showed the utter want of reason in the recent method prescribed for testing oils—it is certain that the present method will be abolished, authority being given the commissioner of agriculture to adopt any other well defined test. Should the tester now in use in New York state be chosen, which is the recommendation of the state chemist, it will then be necessary to do away with the present law prescribing a fire point at 120 degrees Fahrenheit.

It has been proposed to adopt a flash point at 100 degrees Fahrenheit, below which oils will be illegal. If it is found upon consultation with the attorney general, who is at present out of the city, that such a change can be made, it is certain that the additional recommendation will be adopted and put in force by the commissioner of agriculture.

HELP FOR SUFFERERS.

The New York Life Insurance Company Donates $5,000 To Texans.

On Friday, the New York Mutual Life Insurance Company, through its president, Richard A. McBurdy, telegraphed to Governor Sayers of Texas, to draw on that company for the sum of $5,000 in aid of the sufferers of the Brazos river floods.

SOLDIERS' BUNKS OVERHANG WATERS

The Rainy Season Is Now At Its Height In the Philippines.

DISCOMFORT EXPERIENCED

Many Companies Are Cut Off By Swollen Streams.

Advices from Manila under date of July 10 state that it has been raining and storming to such an extent that the country along the American south and bay lines is literally flooded. The soldiers are suffering great discomfort.

The Thirteenth infantry at Paray is in the worst position, being practically surrounded by water. The bridges that were used for getting supplies have been washed away, and some of the companies are now separated by streams six feet deep. In many cases the men are sleeping with three feet of water beneath their bunks, which are elevated on cracker boxes. The company cooks, when preparing the meals, stand knee deep in water.

Some of the roads leading to Paray are simply impassable, and the rice fields on all sides are one great lake. A high wind blew over several tents of the Second Regiment hospital.

Manila bay is impossible of navigation by either launches or canoes and no vessels are leaving the harbor.

The United States transport Centennial is ready to sail for San Francisca with discharged soldiers, but the latter have to sit around the water front all day, drenched to the skin, waiting for a launch to take them to the steamer.

The river Pasig and all the other streams are swollen, and the city streets at low points are covered with water.

Friendly Filipinos in Manila have been the medium of communications between the American authorities and the military leaders of the insurrection in Cavite province, which for some time promised to result in bringing over a prominent general and several hundred of his followers, with their arms. If the negotiations had succeeded the outcome would have had a great moral effect, for other defections doubtless would have followed.

Were the general's name given it might lead in his case to a fate similar to that which has befallen other Filipinos suspected of freindliness towards the Americans. He had foreseen the failure of the insurrection and advised Aguinaldo to make terms, but it is understood that he has sent word to the Americans that having sworn to support the insurrection, he must remain loyal to the end.

Similar negotiations are said on good authority to have been conducted with a member of the cabinet of the so-called Filipino government, who himself took the initiative. Some form of money consideration figured in the discussion with his friends.

GENERAL WALKER ACQUITTED.

Cleared of the Charge of Shooting With Intent To Kill.

A dispatch from Bristol, Tenn., says: The jury in the case of the commonwealth of Virginia against General James A. Walker on a charge of shooting with intent to commit murder rendered a verdict of acquittal at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, after having been out only twenty-five minutes. In response to the verdict General Walker said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, allow me to express my sincere thanks to you. I had no doubt of your verdict from the time I first heard that I had an honest jury from Montgomery county."

ONLY POSTPONED JUDGMENT.

Admiral Cervera Was Only Technically Acquitted By Courtmartial.

It is now said the courtmartial at Madrid did not actully acquit Admiral Cervera and the other officers tried in connection with the destruction of the Spanish fleet off Santiago de Cuba July 3, 1898, by the fleet under the command of Admiral Sampson, but postponed judgment and released them, which is regarded as equivalent to an acquittal.

FATAL FEUD AT PICNIC.

Tennesseeans Engage In a Desperate Fight With Pistols and Clubs.

Near Pikeville, Tenn., at a picnic Saturday, a battle occurred in which eight men were fatally wounded. On one side were three Hoge brothers and Eas Hankins; on the other Carroll Seals, two brothers and his son.

Ed Seals was fatally wounded in the breast, Corroll Seals was shot in the shoulder and leg, Ervin Seals is hit in the thigh, while Eas Haskins is wounded in the head fatally. A man named Willard had his head fractured with a club.

WILL SAIL THIS MONTH.

General Wheeler Will Not Resign His Seat In Congress.

A special to the Chicago Chronicle from Washington says:

"General Joseph Wheeler will leave the city so as to sail from San Francisco on the Tartar on July 20th. He will not resign his seat in congress, it is understood, even if he remains in the Philippines all winter.

"Should General Wheeler survive the campaign he will seek the democratic nomination for governor of Alabama next year."

THE ADVOCATE'S FIGURES.

The effort of The Advocate to deal in figures, and to draw conclusions from them is really ludicrous. It goes over the same ground that we have covered no less than three times and produces the same figures, except that it gets its balances from the treasurer's book at the time of a change of officers, while we took ours from the semi-annual report of July in each year. But in its article it makes several statements that are untrue.

It says that the Democrats had kept the tax rate up to 4 mills for twenty years prior to 1884. The facts are that prior to 1873, as we stated, the county tax rate was determined by the State rate, and it does not appear what the percentage was. Beginning with that year the rate was 5 mills to 1878, in which year the rate was reduced to 4 mills, and in 1880 to 3½.

Next it says that the Independents are now Populists, which is untrue. Three members of the 1884 court have never acted with the Populists.

The Advocate fails to state for the information of its readers that the Populist court of 1889 raised the rate to 3 mills and in 1891 to 4 mills. It also fails to state that the rate was next reduced by Democrats, while the money increased in the treasury.

It also failed to state that while a Democratic assessor returned $4,262,717 in 1893, during the financial panic, the Populist assessor last year only returned $3,887,924, a decrease of a half million in values.

The Advocate asks us what the Democrats did with the big balances? That's easy. They paid the expenses of the county with the surplus and reduced the tax rate.

The Advocate says that when the Populist ticket was elected in 1896, the county owed $5,000. If it did it was for a donation of that amount to the Montevallo School, which has already resulted in an increase of $60,000 in tax valuations in Montevallo precinct.

The Advocate makes a great out with figures, and every time it tackles them it gets hurt.

It is awful to contemplate. Little Billy Brandon is going to beat Bankhead for Congress. So he says. If Billy can beat him, then he ought to be beaten.

We hear that the Board of Trustees of the Montevallo School contemplate mortgaging their 25,000 acres of land for $20,000. If they do that is all they will ever get for it.

In Cherokee County the Governor appointed as probate judge a man whom the Populists endorsed, instead of one whom the Democratic committee endorsed.

Editor Frank Gist of the Columbiana Chronicle should rush back to Montevallo and get another interview with Capt. Reynolds.—Montgomery Journal.

Be patient, Brer. Hood; another one will come, and then—but we are anticipating.

They do say that Stallings is Johnston's candidate for Governor. But we notice that Stallings repudiated Bryan. Mr. Willett repudiated both Bryan and silver, and he is said to be a Johnston leader. Yet Johnston is said to be the sine qua non of Bryanism in this State. Somehow or other all this don't fit.

In December, 1895, the commissioners court, composed of D. R. McMillan, James McGowen, R. H. Walker, W. C. Powers, and D. C. Davis, donated $5,000 from the county treasury to the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo. The assessed value of property in that precinct for that year was $200,590. In 1897 it had increased to $234,222. There was paid back to the county that year $134.50, in 1898 $138.75, and this year the gain will be $360, to say nothing of the increase in State taxes, which for the present year alone will be $420, there being already an increase of $60,000 in tax values. The income of the present year amounts to 7 per cent to the county and 8½ to the State. A pretty fair investment, which will continue to grow.

We refrain from comment at this time on the discussion in progress between Capt. H. C. Reynolds and the Governor. The facts are not all out, and until they are comment would necessarily be incomplete. The Chronicle is in possession of most of the facts, which would make a long story of unbecoming conduct on the part of the Governor. Some of these facts will admit of such construction as either side chooses to put upon them, while there are some that admit of but one construction and that positively damning to the Governor. This is not the time to give them, but when they do appear it will be readily seen that in the first place his enemies have not misjudged him, and in the second place that he has gone the wrong way when he decided it suited his purpose to break with Captain Reynolds. The Governor is evidently bent upon a course of political conquest, in the prosecution of which he stoops to anything that serves his purpose. Should he continue his course it will be necessary to tell all the truth. We hope it will not be.

REV. WILLIAM IS MAD.

We can hardly be expected to reply to such language as is used in a card of W. H. Sturdivant in this week's Advocate, though he will probably expect it. It is the language of a man who, failing in ability to reply to decent criticism in kind, must needs resort to the invective of thugs and to relieve his mind of the spleen which he evidently mistakes for indignation. Had we known that the Rev. William was incapable of replying to our criticism in the language of a gentleman, to say nothing of what might be expected of his cloth, we should never have done him the unkindness to lead him into making so ridiculous an ass of himself as his card shows him to be.

The trouble with this combination of cloth and bile is that we called attention to the fact that he was nominated by a negro convention, and while he does not deny it he does not like to be told of it. We do not blame him for that, but if he can not justify himself he ought to have the good taste to keep quiet instead of letting the world know that the truth hurt him so badly that he forgets the dignity of his position as a legislator and a minister and rushes into print with language that would do justice to a racetrack or barroom tough.

He evidently intends his card as an insult, and doubtless, with the instincts of his nature, expects it to be taken as such. In this he will be disappointed. The editor of this paper is already to reply to argument, but not to billingsgate; and such an attempt as the one in question always fills our heart with supreme pity for the weakness of the author, rather than resentment of language which falls harmless or strikes back into the character of him who uses it. In fact, we are more inclined to think we owe Mr. Sturdivant an apology, not for what we said, but for having been the cause of his thus lowering himself and his position in the estimation of the respectable people of the county, as his card must do.

However, if Mr. Sturdivant does not like to have it told that he was nominated by a negro convention let him deny it or justify himself. If he can do either his objections will be entitled to consideration. If he can not he ought to have the decency to keep quiet and the common sense to hide his chagrin and the emptiness of his brain. Mr. Sturdivant is evidently mad. We are not. Truth is what makes men lose their temper, and until he presents some to our consideration he will have to bear the discomfort of his madness alone.

We feel impelled to answer one of his questions, which partakes somewhat of the nature of argument. He asks, "Does he charge or imply that I was elected by the —— negroes?" We charge it, and we furnish the proof. In the election Sturdivant received 1,576 votes and Lyman 1,272. Careful estimates of the returns show that 900 negroes voted. Out of this number the Democratic ticket received about 175. Thus Sturdivant received 725 negro votes. The vote compares as follows:

STURDIVANT.

White	851
Negro	725
Total	1,576

LYMAN.

White	1,097
Negro	175
Total	1,272

WHITE VOTE.

Lyman	1,097
Sturdivant	851
Lyman's white majority	246

There is the charge and there is the proof. If Mr. Sturdivant is not satisfied we will take pleasure in going over the records and getting the exact figures for him. If he desires to reply to this charge or to justify himself we suggest to him that if he will confine himself to the language of a gentleman, a scholar and a minister, all of which he claims to be, he will make a better impression, though his usual method of expression does not at all cause us any inconvenience. We are really glad to see him get mad. It serves our purpose admirably. It shows his true character more forcibly than we could ever hope to do.

THE DEADLY PARALLEL.

The Governor convicts himself by his own words. In one statement he says one thing; in the next he says something different. Read the following:

FIRST STATEMENT.	SECOND STATEMENT.
The plain reason was that the treasury could not bear all the appropriations, and if I had to choose between them I would stand by the common schools and cut off all others. This was stated by me to the members of the finance committee and fully to all others inquiring.	As to the school appropriation it is well known that I did actively oppose the appropriation as the bill first passed taxing the treasury $2,0.000 additional without providing any way to meet the appropriation. I so informed the author, Mr. Bulger, and he then introduced a new bill levying a special tax to meet the appropriations, and I promptly approved the same.

In his first statement he would stand by the common schools and cut off all others, and stated to all inquirers. But Mr. Reynolds says he and Captain Plowman were told to accomplish the defeat of the common-schools bill and their special bill would be signed. Thereupon the Governor says he actively opposed the common-school bill.

The Advocate says we went back to 1884 and stopped. We went back to 1873, and gave the figures as we came to them. The Advocate only published such figures as suited its case. The truth is entirely sufficient to show the Democrats in a good light, and we never skip. The Advocate might [illegible] exact.

JOHNSTON v. REYNOLDS.

The Governor Prodded into a Reply and Challenge.

REYNOLDS FURNISHES THE PROOF.

Shows a Despicable Use of the Executive Power.

In rapid succession has come the report of the finance committee of the Board of Trustees as to Capt. Reynolds methods of conducting the affairs of his office, Reynolds reply thereto, and a denial from the Governor of certain charges brought out on him. The first two of these are lengthy, and deal in generalities. The Governor's reply is relative to a matter of his own personal concern.

The following is what the Governor says:

Reynolds says in his card: 'After the legislature met and the bill for $15,000 was introduced, I went down to see after it. Standing in the lobby of the house, I was handed a note from Governor Johnston stating that if the constitutional convention bill was allowed to pass he would not consent to an appropriation for the School.'

I never wrote any such note, and challenge him to produce it. Had I entertained such views I could easily have vetoed the bill. Many of my friends voted for the bill that I never made a request of in that matter. I did not oppose the passage of the bill: I doubted the policy at the time, and subsequent events confirmed my doubts.

He says I held up the appropriation for the School after the bill passed, that he came to me and that I notified him that I would not approve it if the bill appropriating $600,000 for the common schools passed. This is pretty near the truth. I stated to Reynolds and many others that if the appropriation for common schools was raised to $600,000 without any tax being laid to produce the revenue, that I would veto practically all extraordinary appropriations for the Montevallo School, the University and other institutions.

The plain reason was that the treasury could not bear all the appropriations, and if I had to choose between them I would stand by the common schools and cut off all others. This was stated by me to the members of the senate finance committee and fully to all others inquiring.

The editor of The Chronicle was in Montevallo Monday, and asked Capt. Reynolds if he was prepared to substantiate the truth of his charges against the Governor. He said he was, and was ready to give his proof to the public. We give below the letter referred to by Capt. Reynolds, together with a statement as to the receipt of it, both of which is necessary to arrive at the real meaning of the Governor's message.

The following is the letter which the Governor says he never wrote:

STATE OF ALABAMA,
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.
December 13, 1898.

DEAR SIR:

I have your letter, and am gratified at the account you [illegible], and the progress reported.

To this date I have been unable to get such amendments to our revenue laws as seem to me essential.

It looks as if the constitutional constitutional convention will be called, that will cost us next year something like seventy-five thousand, and unless the general assembly shall provide additional revenue, it will be impossible to meet any new appropriation. I can not consent to legislation, that will create another deficit.

Jos. F. JOHNSTON,
Governor.

Mr. H. C. Reynolds, President, Montevallo, Ala.

This letter was in reply to one from Reynolds containing a report to the Board of Trustees, sent one day before the above was written. The following is Capt. Reynolds statement of the circumstances surrounding the receipt of the Governor's note:

On the same day I sent out the letters, of which the above is a part, I went to Montgomery. While standing in the lobby of the house with my son, W. B. Reynolds, Capt. Plowman and Dr. Eager, I was approached by Mr. Cory who either handed me a letter, or told me that there was one for me in the Governor's office. When I opened the letter I found the above. I read it and handed it to the parties with me; they read it and one of them remarked that it meant we must fight the convention bill to win our own appropriation. I went at once to the Governor's office and asked him what I was to understand by his letter; he said to me unreservedly: "If the constitutional convention bill passes, I will veto your school bill, as the convention will cost from $75,000 to $125,000." I plead with him that he was not fair in making such a contingency, but he was positive and immovable. I then related these facts to Representative McQueen, who said in substance, "We will pass both bills; if he vetoes yours, we will pass it over his head." I showed the above letter the same day to the editor of the Advertiser who begged me then to let him publish it as an indication of the Governor's position on the constitutional convention, which nobody had been able to find out up to that time. I refused to let him publish the letter.

W. B. Reynolds gave the following statement in relation to the common school bill, which the Governor attempts to turn to his own account:

While my father was in Washington I received a telegram from Capt. Plowman who was in Montgomery, saying: "Come at once; mischief is to pay." I went down immediately, and was met by Capt. Plowman with the information that the Governor had informed him that he would veto our bill which had passed both houses, and was then in the Governor's hand unless the bill appropriating $600,000 to the common schools was killed in the senate. We went the next morning to the Governor's office, and appealed to him to sign our bill, which was at that time lying on his desk. He said, "he would not sign our bill as long as that $60 0.000 bill was before the senate." Capt. Plowman then said, "Governor, tell us frankly what you would have us do." The Governor replied, "I want that bill defeated in the senate." Capt. Plowman asked him how we could accomplish that purpose. The Governor said, "Go up and get a change of reference of the bill from the educational committee to the finance committee, then have the consideration of it postponed indefinitely, and I will sign your bill." Capt. Plowman replied, "You are putting a considerable task on us, but we will do all we can in the matter." We left the Governor's office and went up to look for some of the members of the educational committee, to see if we could have it done. My recollection is, and I think the records of the senate will bear me out that the change of reference was effected, and that the bill was reported adversely by the finance committee. Later on the bill which finally passed creating an additional tax for the support of common schools was introduced in the house, and the $600,000 bill was lost sight of in the senate.

Capt. Reynolds detailed other occurrences of like nature, which if occasion arises, will show the real attitude of the Governor. Some of these things disclose an outrageous system of trading and dictation from the Governor's office, and if all the facts were known about the Governor's connection with the legislation for the Girls' School, all his past known record would be eclipsed. Capt. Reynolds has the air of a man who is loaded for bear, and is particularly fond of that species to which the Governor belongs. We are of the opinion that if the Governor would preserve his own equilibrium, he would do well to graze in other pastures than this.

The Governor has replied to the above interview, and attempts to explain away its force. But he does not scarcely touch upon the common school matter, not referring to the incident in which Captain Plowman figured. On this point the Governor says:

As to the school appropriation it was well known that I did actively oppose the appropriation as the bill first passed taxing the treasury $250,000 additional without providing any way to meet the appropriation. I so informed Mr. Bulger, the author, and he then introduced a new bill levying a special tax to meet the appropriations and I promptly approved the same.

This is a plain contradiction of his former explanation published above in the last paragraph of his first reply. Putting these two paragraphs side by side convicts the Governor by his own words.

But the worst feature of the whole matter is that the undisputed facts prove that the Governor did seek by holding up one bit of legislation to control another. This he does not, cannot, and will not deny.

The Journal thinks Captain Reynold's memory is bad. We refer the Journal to Tuesday's Age-Herald for a sample of that gentleman's memory.

When the taxes of this year are collected the county will be again out of debt, with money in the treasury. The Populists know how to get a county out of debt.—Advocate.

It remains to be seen whether the first part of the above is true. In the last six months the county has spent $3,567 more than it took in. Most any old party can get a county out of debt by raising the tax rate, but the Populists can not do it without raising it.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER. 50 CENTS A YEAR.

(MONTGOMERY, ALA.

CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better that it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

Address,

THE CHRONICLE,
Columbiana, Ala.

10 CENTS IN SILVER pays for your name in the American Farmers' Directory, which goes whirling all over the United States to publishers, etc., and you will get hundreds of free sample copies of agricultural journals, magazines, newspapers, etc., for two years or more. You will also get free copies of books, catalogues, circulars, etc., of the latest improved farm implements and machinery, and be kept informed upon the latest improved implements. You will get more good reading matter than you could purchase for many times the small cost of 10 cents. We want every farmer's name in the United States in our Directory at once. Address, FARMERS' DIRECTORY CO., P. O. Box 326, Birmingham, Ala.

MONEY To PATENT Good Ideas may be secured by our aid. Address, THE PATENT RECORD, Baltimore, Md.

SUMMER RESORTS.

Many delightful summer resorts are situated on and reached via Southern Railway. Whether one desires the sea-side or the mountain, the fashionable hotels or country homes they can be reached via this magnificent highway of travel.

Asheville, N. C., Hot Springs, N. C., Hale Springs, Tenn., Roan Mountain, Tenn., and the mountain resorts of East Tennessee and Western North Carolina—"The Land of the Sky"—Tate Springs, Tenn., Oliver Springs, Tenn., Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Monte Sano, Huntsville, Ala., Lithia Springs, Ga., and various Virginia Springs; also the seashore resorts, are reached by the Southern Railway on convenient schedules and very low rates.

The Southern Railway has issued a handsome folder, entitled "Summer Homes and Resorts," descriptive of nearly one thousand summer resorts, hotels and boarding houses, including information regarding rates for board at the different places and railroad rates to reach them. Write to C. A. Benscoter, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, Chattanooga, Tenn., for a copy of this folder.

The Famous Atlanta Optician,

Direct from the home office of this great Optical House, or one of his practical opticians, and will remain at the store of his agents,

LESTER, MASON & CO.,

3 DAYS ONLY, BEGINNING JULY 26.

This will give the citizens of Columbiana and vicinity a rare opportunity of having their

EYESIGHT TESTED FREE by one of the most renowned and successful, as well as reliable, opticians in the United States. Mr. Hawkes has the modern appliances for scientific adjustment of glasses to the eye. There is no optician in the United States who enjoys the confidence of the people more than Mr. Hawkes. This firm was established in 1870, nearly thirty years ago.

EYE STRAIN is often the cause of headache, dizziness, nervousness and dimness of vision. This can be cured in many cases by the correct fitting of his crystalized lenses to the eye.

CALL EARLY he positively remains but three days, as he has other engagements for later dates.

CAUTION.—I would caution the public against buying spectacles from peddlers going from house to house with a lot of spectacles, representing them to be Hawkes's, or selling the same grade of goods. Hawkes's spectacles are never peddled. Many of the inferior glasses that flood the market are positively injurious to the eye.

HAWKES RECEIVED GOLD MEDAL highest award diploma of honor for suderior lens grinding and excellence in the manufacture of spectacles and eyeglasses. Sold in 11,000 cities and towns in the United States. Most popular glasses in the United States. Established 1870.

WAIT FOR HAWKES and not only get glasses scientifically adjusted to your eyes, but secure a pair of his Crystallized Lenses, the most brilliant spectacle lenses in existence.

A MORNING BLAZE.

Barn Burned in the Wee Sma' Hours.

Tuesday morning at 2.30 the alarm of fire was given, and the boys turned out on a dead run—and they found it a long run before they got there. Fire was found to be on the premises of E. D. Hall, and the first arrivals found his barn almost burned to the ground.

Considerable mystery attaches to the cause of the fire. Mr. Hall was up at 1 o'clock, and saw no sign of fire. About 2.15 he was awakened by the roaring of the flames and found his barn in full blaze. The barn and contents was valued at $185, and was a total loss.

Harpersville.

Miss Edna Nelson, of Columbiana, is visiting Dr. Nelson's family.

Miss Della Thompson is attending the Chautauqua this week.

Messrs. T. J. Martin, J. F. McGraw, and G. W. Wheeler have been appointed trustees of the Harpersville School by Superintendent Williams. Their appointment will give entire satisfaction to all.

Colonel Murphy, of the Marion Military Institute, was in our town one day last week looking up boys for his school, which is one of the best in the State.

Mr. Hamett had the misfortune to get a fine mule killed and his wagon broken to pieces one day last week by a falling tree. He was engaged in the cross tie business and a green tree fell against a dead one, which resulted in the above.

Mr. Law, of Birmingham, came over Saturday evening and spent Sunday with his children here.

The young people of our town enjoyed themselves very much at the hospitable home of Dr. Nelson Friday night. Refreshments were served and all had a good time generally.

Sometime ago we stated that Professor Spinks had decided to teach school for us again another year. Well, he did, and the school patrons thought of nothing else, but he has since declined. We are now without a teacher, but are expecting fifty applicants this week.

Wilder, Taylor, Smith, Davis, Warlick, Caldwell, Fox, Hunter and Company ordered ten foxes from Missouri last week, and are expecting some fine races in a few days. So listen for their horns and dogs and be ready to come up.

Prof. C. H. Florey, of Vincent, spent several days of last week down here at his old homestead. The Professor loves to visit the old farm and parental roof, especially when such fine crops are growing on the farm as is this year.

THE CHRONICLE deserves much praise for its stand in regard to taxes and is endorsed by all of our law abiding people. As you say the poor farmer has the heaviest burden to bear of them all. No wonder such men as Aldrich can buy their seats in Congress, buy Populist votes, vote the negro as they please, and do a good many more unbecoming things when they leave their taxes unpaid.

Messrs. Fulmer and Ledbetter visited their old home in Elmore County last week.

Walter Wheeler commenced teaching a summer school at Wheeler's Chappel Monday last.

Miss Etta Mallory left here last week to spend the summer in St. Louis, Mo.

Messrs. O'Hara and Holland's thrasher was in our community last week separating the seed from the straw and making glad the hearts of our farmers.

Rev. Joe Simmons preached at Wheeler's Chappel last Sunday evening, after which he organized a Sunday school. Joe was but very recently licensed to preach by the Methodist Conference. We wish for him much success in his high calling.

JAKE.

Shelby Sittings.

W. R. Averyt has been quite sick for the past week, but we are glad to see him out again.

The Literary Society meets at the residence of Dr. Clarke next Thursday evening.

A. E. Carter, the efficient clerk of the Shelby Iron Co.'s store, is off on a two weeks vacation.

It is with deep regret that we learn of the retirement of Dr. Eldridge from the presidency of Troy Normal College. The school under his management has been one of the foremost in educational progress and culture. The best wishes of his many friends in Shelby go with him.

Ora Jones, of Kentucky, is visiting his uncle, G. W. Crossett.

Miss Mabel Eldridge, of Troy, who has been visiting at the palatial residence of A. H. Averyt returned home Tuesday. She is one of the foremost leaders of society in Alabama, a young lady of high culture and rare attainments, and it was with deep regrets that her many friends bade her farewell.

AMICUS.

Crops are very sorry on account of the drouth. If it doesn't rain soon there will not be enough corn made in this section to fatten the hogs.

Rev. Mr. Lowery filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday, delivering a very interesting sermon. He will protract the services at next appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Richardson, of Columbiana, visited relatives here last week.

G. D. Baldwin opened school Monday at Mt. Chapel schoolhouse.

Thomas Farrell, of Pelham, visited his father's family Sunday.

Miss May Baldwin, of Harpersville, is attending school here.

Some of the boys while out hunting one day last week caught a young wild cat and killed to more.

A LITTLE BOY.

The people of Alabama have been deceived and imposed upon. They have always wanted and supposed they were getting Simmons Liver Regulator, when in fact frauds and imitations have been shoved upon them. Beware of imitations bearing parts of the name or resembling Simmons Liver Regulator in shape, size or style of package. Make sure you see the word Regulator. This printed on the wrapper is positive evidence you are getting Simmons Liver Regulator.

Confederate Vetorans Reunion.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

There will be a reunion of the Confederate Veterans at Camphranch church on the 3d and 4th of August, and it will require some money to defray the expenses.

A fine brass band has been secured for the occasion. All patriots are earnestly requested to contribute a small amount for the purpose of paying the charges of the band and some other small expenses. Send your contributions to J. W. Johnston, at Columbiana.

We especially appeal to the sons of Veterans to aid in making the reunion a most pleasant and profitable one. See that the old soldiers are provided with transportation.

We are the sons of a noble ancestry who fought through four immortal years in defense of constitutional principles. The last days of these old Veterans should be spent in peace. The hand of penury and want should not be laid upon them. The reunion can be made the means of providing for the necessities of those whom the bloody hand of war made dependent. It is the duty of their sons to administer to their wants with a kind and generous hand in these the last few days of their pilgrimage to that immortal reunion beyond the River.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mummia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cent preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The Alabama Fertilizer Company

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 789 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 789 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS A FAVORITE DISH WITH THE ONONDAGAS.

An Odd Scene Upon the Indian Reservation Near Syracuse—The Children Gather the Pupae—How Prepared for Food.

Whether the "seventeen-year locust" (Cicada septendecim) actually hibernates in the ground for seventeen years before reappearing again in the treetops to mangle and torture the peaceful summer air with its stridulous call has been a mooted question, says the Syracuse Post-Standard. Frequently quoted authorities on the subject say it is "supposed" to do so. The people out in Onondaga Valley say they know it. Seventeen years ago this very summer, as the memory of every inhabitant old enough at that time to remember anything doth attest, the trees about the valley were full of the noisy creatures; visitors, unaccustomed to the noise of the locust, could not sleep o' nights, and for one happy summer the songbirds, chickens and Onondaga Indians lived like gourmands.

Every summer at the valley has seen a few straggling locusts of this variety, but this summer, seventeen years from their last previous appearance in hordes, the cicadas are present again by the million. The trunk of every tree whose bark is rough, its bare branches as high as the eye can distinguish, every bush and shrub that lines the highways and rail fences, the fences themselves and the walls of buildings, even the very grass in the meadows—all are decorated with the empty, beetle-shaped husks from which the locusts have emerged, the newly reincarnated cicadas all in white drying their flabby wings, and the adult insects in black and green, with little red beadlike eyes, fiddling away as if the perpetuation of their species depended upon the noise they made. Indeed, the proposition is not improbable, for the strident, rasping noise the locust makes is believed by many who have watched their habits to be in the nature of a love ditty, or the call of the insect to its mate.

A representative of the Post-Standard went bug hunting in the cicada district, and saw more seventeen-year locusts in two hours than an expert accountant could enumerate in two years if he counted them in blocks of fifty. Along the public roads on both sides of the valley the empty shells from which the locusts have emerged can be seen by thousands, clinging with skeleton feet to the bark of trees and other rough objects. Further south in the bottom lands of Onondaga Creek, near the Onondaga Reservation, they are more numerous. The ground is fairly honeycombed with the holes which they have burrowed in coming to the surface. The grass of the meadows bends beneath the weight of three or four of the huge insects, half as large as a humming bird, clinging to each spear, and their discarded pupa shells form a heap around the base of every tree.

In some orchards it would be difficult to find a space big enough to lay one's hand upon the bark of any tree that had not already been appropriated by the cicadas. Farmers ploughing in the bottom lands crunched beneath their feet at every step numbers of the pupae that had not yet made their way to the surface. The whole underlying soil seemed to be full of them, as well as the trees and grass above ground.

Upon the Indian reservation children with baskets gather the pupae as they emerge from the ground. In this stage, and just before transformation into the insect stage, the circadas are about one inch long and as large in diameter as a lead pencil. They look a trifle like an ochre-colored bumblebee without wings. When they emerge from the ground they are soft and easily crushed, but the outside shell hardens after the cicada has emerged. The pupae are gathered in quantities and eaten by many of the Indians, who esteem them a great delicacy. In preparation for the table they are dropped whole into boiling grease and crisped like a doughnut in an instant. The reporter didn't eat any, but could see no reason in fact why they should be more repulsive than shrimps or soft-shelled crabs, which are recognized delicacies.

An Indian said the Great Spirit lived on locusts and that the Indians themselves regard them as a heaven-sent delicacy. This, possibly, may be a tradition of the aborigines or an idea gained from the "Christian" Indians, who have heard in Sunday school about John the Baptist eating locusts and wild honey. The Indians had never eaten honey on their locust fritters, but thought it might be good.

When the pupa of the cicada emerges from the ground, which it usually does at night, perhaps because the dew attracts it to the surface, it immediately looks about for something to climb, appearing to have as strong proclivities in that direction as the average small boy. Its ambition seems to be to climb as high as possible before its back splits open, for all the world like the seat of juvenile trousers engaged in like occupation. When the shell bursts, climbing stops. Some of the pupae get almost to the tops of the trees, others but a little way up the trunk, while others still have only time to hurry half way up a dandelion stalk.

When the cicada feels his coat beginning to rip, he plants his front claws firmly and resigns himself to the inevitable. With a cut, as clean as if made by a sharp knife, the entire back of the shell splits open, and from it at length emerges an insect nearly twice as long as the discarded case. As it leaves the pupa the cicada is a creamy white, except for its little red, beadlike eyes. Its wings are draggled and it can scarcely crawl. But a few hours in the morning sun work a wonderful transformation. The body of the insect becomes a shining black, the wings become transparent, except for ribs of bright green. The red eyes retain their color. After one hour of sunshine the cicada is ready to fly up into the tree tops and commence fiddling.

The farmers at the valley say they have not yet observed any damage done by the locusts. Seventeen years ago they stripped many trees of their foliage, and will probably do so this year, as they seem far more numerous than seventeen years ago. An authority on locusts says: "Cicada septendecim, the North American seventeen-year locust or harvest fly, is said to appear in special abundance every seventeen years, though they probably appear in some parts of the country every year. The males apparently eat nothing and die early. The females deposit 500 eggs each on the twigs of tree and die immediately after this has been accomplished. The larvae drop and bore their way into the ground, where they are supposed to remain for seventeen years, sucking the juices of the roots of trees and plants. During that period the larvae grubs are transformed into pupae or beetles, and at its end they emerge to the surface for the final transformation into insects. The noise they make is created by rubbing together the joints of the thorax."

PHILIPPINE AGRICULTURE.

Expert Hayne Says the Agricultural Prospect Is Gloomy.

The Agricultural Department, Washington, has received from Manila an interesting report by Lieutenant A. P. Hayne, of the California Heavy Artillery, on agriculture in the Philippines.

Lieutenant Hayne, who was a professor at the University of California when he entered the volunteer service, had not been able to make personal observations beyond the American lines, but he transmits the translation of an article prepared for him by Senor Manuel Del Busto, chief of the agricultural experiment station in Manila.

The most remarkable feature of the report is the almost hopeless picture presented of the conditions prevailing in the islands.

The great fertility of the soil is pointed out, and it is said that only in a few restricted areas where three crops a year have been gathered without interruption for several centuries, is there any apparent need of fertilizers.

In spite of all this, all attempts at colonization have failed, either through the poor class of emigrants secured, the financial instability of the various companies, or the corruption and oppression of the Governors and Government Agents. The result is that the middle and lower classes in the islands are almost of the worst possible type.

In addition to this primary difficulty in securing reliable labor, the agriculturist is confronted at the start with the necessity for an immense amount of work in clearing new land. When this is accomplished and a luxuriant crop is raised, it is at the mercy of the first typhoon.

Besides the typhoon, there is to be feared in certain provinces the "daguido," or dry land wind which dries up and destroys vegetation. Diseases, so far hardly known to European doctors, result from the turning up of the virgin soil. According to competent medical authority many of these strange disorders cause death within a few hours, while by others, even if the patient recovers, he is condemned to a wretched and lingering existence.

Another of the great difficulties in the way of agricultural development is the utter lack of roads and shipping points. The native Filipino is unable to do any large amount of work and cares to do less. He is indolent and given to gambling. All these vices have to be taken into account in any undertaking where labor is employed.

The lack of credit is another serious handicap to enterprise. The minimum cost of money in the Philippines, regardless of security, is twelve per cent. At present the Filipinos are cursed by a well organized body of the worst sort of usurers.

The price of nearly all crops is steadily falling, as the production retrogrades in quantity and quality.

Lieutenant Hayne, in transmitting this interesting document, states he would strongly recommend special quarantine measures against Philippine plants, as there exists an immense number of very injurious parasites in the islands, and many private parties in the United States are already preparing to import botannical specimens.

Blinded by Sugar Fumes.

Several members of the crew of the British ship Aladdin, which arrived from Tagal and Cheribou with 7,458 bags of sugar, in command of Captain Rutter, are affected with a peculiar blindness at night, which is thought to have been caused by the fumes arising from her cargo. When in the tropics under the powered rays of heat the sugar steamed considerably, and to this is ascribed the peculiar affection. This, however, is not Captain Rutter's opinion, as he claims it to be the result of the excessive use of strong tobacco. Be this as it may it is nevertheless a fact, that physicians are puzzled over the cases, which are the first that have been brought to their attention. In the daytime the affected sailors can see perfectly, but at night everything is shut off from their vision and they are helpless in the way of handling the ship.

It was when in the vicinity of the equator that the eyesight of several of the crew became so peculiarly affected, and Captain Rutter and his officers have since spent many days of extreme anxiety in fear that all hands would become similarly stricken.

These men when walking about at night would stumble over hatch combings or anything else that might lie in their way, so blind had they become, but the instant the sun arose their sight was restored.

Those familiar with the subject of deep sea ships say that while the experience of the crew of the Aladdin is somewhat novel, it is not without precedent, and that it is due wholly to the poisonous fumes that arise from the sugar when the vessels carrying it are in the heat of the tropics.—Philadelphia Press.:

A Remarkable Elephant.

Elephant intelligence is about "up to the limit" in animals, and an Englishman tells of one that was accustomed to receiving pennies that it would drop into a slot for a biscuit If given a half-penny the elephant would throw it back contemptuously, but one day a boy gave it two half-pennies at the same time. For several minutes the animal held them in his trunk as though pondering over their value. At last he dropped the two together into the slot, with the result that he got the biscuit. He appeared to know that he had made an unusual discovery and frisked around in the greatest delight.—Detroit Free Press.

A Word in Season.

Hugh Montgomery, whose father owns a large ranch in the fertile San Joaquin Valley, came up to town the other week and paid a brief visit at the house of a clerical uncle.

This divine, who is one of the best and most hospitable of men, follows the custom of having prayers before breakfast. In connection with this service each member of the family circle is expected to recite a verse of Scripture. Hugh, who has habitually a very healthy appetite, became decidedly sharp set before the amen was said When his turn came to recite a verse he significantly repeated the familiar words:

"How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, while I perish of hunger."

The reverend uncle listened with twinkling eyes and there was a speedy adjournment to a well-spread table.—San Francisco News Letter.

Automobiles in War.

Automobiles dragging machine guns to the firing line and hauling troops from place to place as the vicissitudes of battle make necessary, may be one of the strange sights of the early part of the next century. General Miles is of the opinion that the automobile will play an important part in future wars.

"The automobile will be useful in war and in many respects," he says. "It can carry men rapidly from one point to another. It can be used for the transportation of light artillery, such as machine guns. It can transport rapidly telegraph and telephone machinery. It can be utilized for the transportation of equipment, ammunition and supplies; for taking the wounded to the rear, and in general for most of the purposes to which the power of mules and horses is now applied.

"Improvements are so constant, and the development of electrical appliances may be such that no one can speak with accuracy of the possible accomplishments of this great invention, either in domestic use or on the battle field of the future."

Electricity in Religion.

According to the New York Times, a collector of old and rare books, recently came across a peculiar book bound in metal with what seemed to be an electrical appliance at one end. The volume was a copy of the Protestant Episcopal Book of Common Prayer, translated into the language of the North American Indians of Dakota.

The covers of the book had been carefully re-enforced with substantial plates of nickeled brass, firmly fastened with five rivets on each side. At the top of each cover was an appliance for the insertion of an electric wire.

According to the story told by the seller of the book, the work was used in its present form by a missionary to the Indians in connection with an electric battery. While the unconverted brave, whose soul the missionary desired to save, held the prayer book on both covers, thus forming an electrical circuit, the lattor would surreptitiously turn on a gentle current which sent mild but appreciable thrills through the frame of the savage. These he believed to be manifestations of the newly found religion.

Photographing Growth.

The agricultural department at Washington has pressed the moving picture machine into the service of science. The division of vegetable pathology now has a device of this sort in operation in one of the greenhouses, photographing the growth of a small oak tree. The machine works automatically, taking a picture each hour.

At night an electric light has been arranged to assist in the exposure. The machine has been running about two weeks and will be kept going about two weeks longer on its present subject. When the series of pictures is complete it will reproduce the growth of the plant from the first sprout which appeared above ground.

While the oak tree pictures are purely experimental to develop the capacity of the machine, it is intended to use the serial photographs in watching the growth of plant diseases, insect parasites, blights and the like.

Roof For the Haystack.

In the building of haystacks in the old time way, a considerable amount of hay is always lost by reason of the action of the weather. For a depth of about three feet from the top of the rick the hay is rendered absolutely useless, except that the top of the old rick is often utilized as the covering for the new one. Wastage of this nature is entirely dispensed with by means of the separable and portable roof. The roof consists of a series of sheet metal plates curved in cross sections. Across their width are metal strips having hooks on one end and loops on the other, by means of which any number of these hooks may be locked to form a roof of any desired size. After this roof is in place it is drawn down hard and tight by means of cables and pulleys fastened to pins driven in the ground. The edges of these metal strips overlap in such a way that it is impossible for moisture to penetrate.

A Clever Invention.

In the line of refrigeration on the rail, the newest and cleverest invention is a car, that by the motion of its own wheels, compresses ammonia gas to a liquid, which, in expanding again through pipes, produces the cold required to preserve the perishable products transported in the vehicle. What the newly discovered liquid air may accomplish in the branch of enterprise no man can say, though astonishing things are predicted for it, but already cold in this intensely concentrated form is on the market and may be bought by the gallon. Very possibly, in the near future, carts may go from door to door in cities with cans of cold, i. e., liquid air put up in suitable receptacles each morning for the day's supply and taking away the "empties." A little of the stuff in the family refrigerator will keep the provisions sweet, while what remains may be utilized for cooling the air of the house, a spoonful being deposited here and there in a saucer.

The gross expenses of the state of New York in the year 1899 will, it is computed, amount to $25,000,000, of which nearly 10 per cent. will be necessary to pay the deficits of departments which exceeded in 1898 or in previous years the appropriations made for them.

In prowling through some obsolete territorial statutes the other day, Assistant Attorney-General West, of Kansas, came across a law which required that whenever a public thoroughfare crossed a stream the township overseer should fix a gauge showing the high water mark. The law provided that on the top of each such gauge should be a sign reading, "When this is under water the ford is dangerous."

A young man of Ellsworth, Me., recently allowed himself to be mesmerized by a traveling hypnotist, and for twenty-four hours he lay asleep in the show window of one of the principal stores in the town. For this he was to receive $10. Meanwhile the tax collector, having found that the sleeper was a delinquent, filed the necessary legal claim for the $10, and the young man awoke to find his poll tax for the past three years paid.

Lion's Love of Music.

While Rev. W. J. Davis was living in Africa his little son, John, a boy of 4 years, went too near a chained lion in a neighbor's yard. It was called a pet lion, but was so wild and vicious that no living thing was safe within the radius of its beat. There was great consternation among the bystanders, but none were able to deliver the child. His governess, seeing the peril of the child, ran upstairs, seized an accordion and hastened to a window which looked out upon the lion. There, with a shout to arrest his attention, she began playing a tune. The lion at once released its prey, went the length of its chain towards its fair charmer and stood in rapt attention. The boy, in the meantime, got up and ran to his mother. He never thought of crying till he entered the house and saw how excited every one was; then, quite out of danger, he had a good cry on his own account.

THE CHRONICLE.

Democratic at all Times and Under all Circumstances--Consequently Opposed to Monopolies.

VOL. XIV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1899. NO. 31.

DETERMINED MOB FOOLED THE SHERIFF

Gained Entrance To Jail and Shoots Down Prisoner In Cold Blood While In Steel Cell.

THE UNFORTUNATE VICTIM OF LYNCHERS' WRATH WAS SI SMITH

Unique Ruse Was Worked In Order To Accomplish the Bloody Deed--Tragedy Occurred In Hall County Jail.

In the Hall county jail at Gainesville, Ga., Friday at midnight, Si Smith, the farmer who killed Wm. Bell, the commercial traveler from Atlanta, several months ago, was shot to death right under the eyes of Sheriff Mundy.

The shooting was done while Smith was within the steel cage in the very heart of the jail, and was witnessed by every prisoner confined along with the slayer of Bell.

Shortly before midnight, Sheriff Munday, who lives at the jail, was awakened by a man at his door, who, when the sheriff had answered the summons, stated that he was the sheriff of Gilmer county and had a prisoner he wanted locked up for the night. In the dark Sheriff Mundy could see nothing but three or four men just outside the building and he admitted them without hesitation.

"We have had a long chase," said the man representing himself as the sheriff, "and a hard fight to get here. Now we want you to keep him safe for us till morning."

The supposed prisoner stepped forward. His hands were bound, and in every way he played well the role assigned him.

Leading the way through the hall Sheriff Mundy ascended the steps to the second floor, on which the cells are located. Just as he reached the door to the large iron cage in which the prisoners are kept over night, Sheriff Mundy found a gun thrown in his face. It came suddenly, and for the second threw him off his balance.

"We want the key to that door," said one of the men almost before Sheriff Mundy realized what was going on, "and we want it d—n quick. There's no use losing any time. We have come for Si Smith, and we intend to have him. So shuck out."

As he listened to the demand Sheriff Mundy was glancing about, and much to his surprise he observed that every man around him had covered his face.

Looking straight at the man who had personated the sheriff and who appeared to be the leader of the gang, Sheriff Mundy cooly remarked:

"Those keys are downstairs. In my hurry I didn't know that I had left them."

"Wait, we get them quick," replied the leader of the crowd. "These two men will go with you and see that you don't get away," and the man designated two of the crowd by pointing them out.

Leading the way, he hurried down the stairway, followed by the two men. As he went he was scheming some plan to escape from the men or get an alarm out which would bring him the assistance needed. Half way down the steps he was brought to a sudden stop by the rattle of firearms in the room he had just left. Wheeling around, he bounded up the steps until he reached the big room in which the cage was located.

As he plunged in the flash of guns illuminated the interior and the smell of gunpowder almost suffocated him. Between the discharge of guns he heard groans of agony and appeals for mercy. But all this lasted only a second, and then with a rush the men went by him, and before he could recover from his suprise they had gone.

The discharge of the firearms had not only aroused the prisoners, but every one within the jail. Members of the family hurried to the sheriff's side, and in a few seconds a light was secured. By the aid of the light a sickening spectacle was presented to Sheriff Mundy and those about him.

It seems that the conversation outside of the cage when the keys were demanded of Sheriff Mundy awoke the prisoners. None of them were locked in their cells, as the steel cage gives abundant safety against escape. Naturally every one of them came outside. Smith was among the number, but for some reason did not apprehend trouble for himself.

The instant the sheriff started away some one in the crowd called Smith's name, so the prisoners now say, and he came forward. As he stepped to the front a street lamp, flickering through the window, revealed him distinctly to the crowd. Instantly the fusillade was opened. The first discharge frightened the other prisoners within their cells. Smith turned to flee, but was too late. Six bullets pierced his body, and it is not certain that either one of them alone would not have produced death.

As soon as Sheriff Mundy could make certain of the security of his prisoners, he gave the alarm and in a short time a great crowd had gathered. As soon as the situation became known the feeling of the people became intense. A hurried search for the perpetrators of the most unique crime in the history of Georgia's criminal annals was begun. But the men had gone like they came. Nothing foretold their coming and nothing was left behind indicating whither they went. Every effort is being made to secure a clew to the members of the mob, and with the coming of day an active and energetic search was made.

Smith the victim of the lynchers, was one of the most prominent men in Habersham county. On Sunday, April 2d, he killed William D. Bell, a traveling salesman for an Atlanta drug house. The killing occurred near Soque postoffice, and the instrument of death was a heavy club in the hands of Si Smith, who is recorded in Habersham county as J. S. Smith. Smith was said to have been intoxicated. He overtook Bell, who was riding in a buggy, and accused him of having insulted a member of his family. Bell denied the charge and attempted to drive away, when Smith brained him with the club. Smith was soon arrested and put in the Hall county jail for safe keeping, so intense was the feeling against him in Habersham.

BRYAN EXPLAINS

His Views On the Philippines Question In Special Telegram.

The following telegram from Hon. W. J. Bryan explaining his views on the Philippine question was sent to the Atlanta Constitution and published in Sunday's issue of that paper:

HUMPHREY, NEB., July 15.—Editor Constitution: My views upon the Philippine question have been made public over and over again. The treaty should have provided for the independence of the Philippine islands, as it did for the independence of Cuba, but I thought it better to ratify the treaty and declare the nation's policy by resolution than reject the treaty.

I favored the Bacon resolution, which promised the Filipinos independence as soon as a stable government could be established. I believe, further, that our nation should protect the Filipino republic from outside interference while it works out its own destination; in other words, I believe we should treat the Filipinos as we have promised to treat the Cubans, and as we have treated the people of Mexico and the people of South and Central America. Monarchies are founded upon force, but republics are founded upon consent.

The declaration of independence asserts that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. If the declaration is sound we cannot rightfully acquire title by conquest or by purchase from an alien monarch, whose title we disputed when we furnished arms to the Filipinos.

If the administration had given to the Filipinos the assurance of independence which was given to the Cubans there would have been no bloodshed. If that assurance is given now hostilities will cease. No one proposes to withdraw the soldiers until a stable government is established, but it will be easy to establish a stable government when it is known that our occupation of the Philippine islands is only temporary.

"Forcible annexation would be criminal and contrary to our code of morality." W. J. BRYAN.

STREET CAR MEN STRIKE.

The Trolley Lines In Brooklyn, N. Y., Are Now Tied Up.

Another trolley strike is on in Brooklyn, N. Y. So far it has not been as effective as the strike of 1895, but there is no telling how long or far-reaching it may become. For some weeks past the employes of the several lines controlled by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company have been complaining that the management did not live up to the ten-hour law. The men demand a revision of the time tables at the different barns, and also claim that they should be paid 20 cents an hour for overtime, which is equivalent to $2 a day, the price which they set for a working day of ten hours.

General Master Workman Parsons and District Master Workman Pines had charge of the men's affairs and a strike was called at half-past 4 o'clock Sunday morning. At this hour most of the motormen and conductors on the Brooklyn Traction Company's lines had completed their night trips, and the leaders decided that this was the most opportune moment to begin what was expected to be a subborn fight with the traction company.

NEGRO MINERS AT WAR.

A Desperate One-Sided Conflict Occurs At Ishkooda, Alabama.

A special to The Birmingham Age-Herald from Ishkooda, Ala., says:

Two negroes were killed outright and another fatally shot in a terrific one-sided battle which took place Friday night at Ishkooda, between the striking miners and the negroes who have been imported to take their places.

From all indications the killing was the result of a deep-laid plot. For four weeks the miners, composed in the main of blacks and belonging to the Knights of Labor, have been on a strike. During the past week negroes have been imported from Georgia and other southern states to take their places engendering bad feeling and resulting in the open conflict.

All was quiet Sunday at the scene of the tragedy and Coroner Dallas commenced an investigation into the killing. The dead negro is Richard Cobb and he came from Atlanta.

PRESENT FOR MISS GOULD.

Ohio Soldiers Will Show Their Appreciation In Unique Testimonial.

A dispatch from Toledo, O., says: During the war with Spain, Miss Helen Gould, of New York, furnished a number of cots for the soldiers in Cuba, part of which were received by the Sixth Ohio regiment of this city. The boys fully appreciated the gift of Miss Gould and they at once decided to show their regard for her.

The corporals of each company commenced the raising of funds among the men, and with the money a magnificent medal is to be bought and presented to Miss Gould. The design for the medal is a miniature canteen.

LOOKING SOUTHWARD.

New England Cotton Mill Men May Build In This Section.

A dipatch from Manchester N. H., says: At a meeting of the directors of the Stark cotton mill, to be held soon, it will be decided whether or not supplementary mills will be erected in the south.

The agent and treasurer has just returned from a tour of inspection in that section and will have a report to present at that time to the board.

DEWEY FILES CLAIMS

Award of Prize Money Will Be Decided By Courts.

PRECEDENT WILL BE SET

Many Similar Claims For Destruction of Spanish Warships Are Filed.

Admiral George Dewey has filed in the court of claims at Washington, through his attorney, his claim for naval bounty growing out of the battle of Manila bay, May 1, 1898.

This is the first of this class of claims filed in this court, and it is anticipated that there will be between four and five thousand of them altogether. Many of these claims were originally filed before the navy department, under the provisions of section 4635 of the Revised Statutes, for sinking or otherwise destroying vessels belonging to Spain, on various dates during the period from April 21st, when active naval operations against the country were entered upon until the suspension of hostilities upon the signing of the protocol, August 12, 1898.

These claims involve controverted questions of fact and law, the decision of which will affect a number of cases and willl furnish a precedent for the future action of the navy department in the adjustment of this class of cases. The secretary of the navy, after consultation with the attorney general, and with his approval has referred to the court of claims a number of these claims, in order that the matters involved may receive judicial consideration. The claims referred to the court of claims are the following:

United States Flagship New York—Spanish fleet, Santiago, Cuba, July 3, 1898.

United States Steamship Concord—Manila bay, May 1, 1898.

United States Steamship Manning—Spanish fleet, Santiago, Cuba, July 3, 1898.

United States Torpedo Boat Ericsson—Surrender Spanish fleet, Santiago, Cuba, July 3, 1898.

United States Steamship Yale—Surrender Santiago, Cuba, July 16, 1898.

United States Steamship McCulloch—Manila bay, May 1, 1898.

United States Battleship Texas—Almirante Oquendo, Infanta Maria Teresa, Viscaya, Cristobal Colon, Pluton, Furor, Reina Mercedes, July 3d and 4th, 1898.

United States Battleship Texas—Vessels taken by terms of capitulation of Santiago and eastern province of Cuba.

United States Steamship Hist—Bounty for sinking of Estrella, disabling gunboat Cuba Espenda and torpedo boat Delgate; sinking of sloop with soldiers, burning armed vessel, all in engagement against superior force, harbor Manzanillo, Cuba, July 30, 1898.

The secretary of the navy is given authority to refer these claims to the court of claims for decision under provision of section 2, of the act of March 3, 1883, entitled: "An act to afford assistance and relief to congress and the executive departments in the investigation of claims and demands against the government. The purpose of the reference of the claims is to get a judicial determination by the court of the rights of all parties interested.

AMERICAN HAS JUDGMENT

Against Transvaal And Wants United States to Collect.

United States Consul Smith, of Victoria, B. C., is said to have forwarded to the American government a memorial from R. E. L. Brown, an American mining engineer, requesting the government's intervention to secure Brown's claim against the Transvaal government for damages rising out of the well-known Witwatstein case, in which Brown secured a judgment for $1,812,000.

BAINBRIDGE SUFFERS LOSS.

Big Blaze Results In Destruction of Twenty-Seven Buildings.

Twenty-seven houses were reduced to ashes at Bainbridge, Ga., at a late hour Sunday night. Fire was discovered in the rear end of the large general mercantile establishment of Bacher Bros., corner of Broad and Water streets, and soon afterwards the whole building was wrapped in flames.

The brick buildings of M. W. Subers and Mrs. E. Born—one occupied by W. H. Morrow, as a saloon, and the other by Dr. T. R. Wardell as a drug store—were destroyed, not even a wall being left standing.

INDIANS ARE REBELIOUS.

They Insist On Dancing In Defiance of Government Orders.

Advices from Guthrie, O. T., state that the Indians of the territory are largely engaged in dancing, in spite of the efforts of the government to prevent the practice. At Greyhouse the Big Hill band of Osages has been holding a smoke dance for a week in honor of their guests, the Pawhuska band, and during that time have presented them with nearly $5,000 in presents.

SAMOAN AFFAIRS

Are Explained By German Consul Rose, Who Is Now In Washington.

Consul General Rose, the German official who has been one of the foremost figures in the recent events in Samoa, and who is now in Washington, has given to the Associated Press an interesting outline of the conditions up to the time he left Samoa.

"Prior to the arrival of the Samoan commission," said he, "an armistice had been arranged with the native forces. The commissioners first turned their attention to disarming the native forces. The commission then gave a hearing on board the Badger to each of the claimants for the kingship, Mataafa being heard one day and Tanu another. They were addressed, not as kings, but simply as 'Sirs.' As senior member of the body, the American commissioner, Mr. Tripp, asked some very direct questions of Mataafa and Tanu. He wanted to know if they were ready to give their support to the committee, even if it determined to deny the right of one or the other of them or decided to abolish the kingship entirely. Serious as were these questions to the two claimants to the throne, they promised to support the commission in whatever action was taken.

"Some days later the Badger went along the coast to Malie, where Mataafa's headquarters were located. The native chiefs came alongside and formal surrender of the guns was made to the commission.

"Mataafa and chiefs came aboard the ship and were entertained at dinner. The Tanu party followed with the surrender of their arms a few hours later, for while the decision of the commissioners had upheld Tanu, yet it was felt to be in the interest of all concerned that the native kingship should be brought to an end and that an administration by white men, at least over those localities where white interests are greatest, should be brought about. Tanu yielded to this decision, but for a time there was some prospect of trouble as the royal flags were kept flying over the Tanu headquarters, despite the fact he had surrendered the kingship. This was a source of irritation to the Mataafa people, who considered it contrary to the understanding arrived at.

"Since arriving in this country, I understand that this source of difficulty has been removed, and that the Tanu flag is withdrawn and the Tanu forces dispersed. The Mataafa people have also gone back to the interior. With natives disarmed and both factors back to their homes, there is every reason to believe that no further trouble will arise, and that the commission will be free to work out a satisfactory plan for the future government of the islands.

"In determining upon the abolition of the kingship the commission examined the question with great care. The opinion of all of the leading business interests in Samoa was secured, and this was almost unanimous in favor of abolishing the kingship. The manager of the German company, which is the most extensive business concern on the islands, strongly approves the plan of having white administration.."

SENATOR MORGAN EXPLAINS.

Interview Was Correct, But Some Words Were Not His Own.

A special from Montgomery, Ala., says: Senator Morgan's recent interview, published in The Washington Post, has been the all-absorbing topic in political circles for the past several days. There appears to be no doubt that one effect of the letter will be to cause the present governor, Joseph F. Johnson, to become an active candidate for the United State senate to succeed General Morgan. These are beyond question the two most popular men in Alabama and a contest between them will be very full of interest.

Senator Morgan is now in his old home in Selma. He was interviewed there Thursday and frankly acknowledged that he did say what the Washington interview purported that he said, although he says that some of the words were not his.

When asked by Mr. Neal, the correspondent of The Age-Herald, if he was opposed to the nomination of Mr. Bryan, and if so whose nomination he did favor, he replied:

"If I was put on the stand tonight to be sworn I could not say what democrat I was for, nor could I say what democrat I was against. I honor and esteem Mr. Bryan and think he is a noble, conscientious man, but there are a number of things about him that I object to. One thing that I seriously object to is his view that congress, when it assembles, should order the withdrawal of all troops from the Philippines, a proposition that would be against all the laws of humanity, and which would be a dishonor and a disgrace to this country, from which we would not recover in a hundred years.

"It has been stated in some quarters that I favor Mr. Gorman for the presidency. Like Mr. Bryan, there are objections to my mind in Mr. Gorman; not personal, for we are warm friends, but he has also ideas at variance with mine. He was against the ratification of the treaty with Spain, and was very angry with Senator Pettus and myself because we would not follow his lead. So you see, I have no choice in the matter. What I want to know is, will the man nominated by the democrats for president abide by the platform adopted? We were fooled once before in Mr. Cleveland, and he wrecked the party so far as he was able, and I don't intend, if my humble protest will prevent it, to be fooled again."

Board of Trade Day at Birmingham.

Senator John T. Morgan has accepted the invitation to deliver a public address on Board of Trade day, at Birmingham, July 25. Governor Johnston and Representative Underwood have also accepted invitations and will be on hand. The three distinguished gentlemen will speak on the commercial interests of Birmingham at Capitol park.

Col. A. B. Jones Dead.

Col. A. Jones, of Anniston, United States consul at Tuxpam, Mexico, died at that place Friday. The nature of his illness is not known, but the remains cannot be shipped home. Col Jones was born in Wales in 1845 came to Pennsylvania when 2 years of age, and afterward removed to Alabama. He was appointed consul to Tuxpam by President McKinley in October, 1897.

Bridgeport Seeking New Industries.

Bridgeport is determined to increase its list of manufacturing plants, and with this object in view the city council has passed an ordinance by which all new factories that come there within the next three years, and which employ a capitol of from $10,000 to $49,000, inclusive, will be exempted from all city taxes for five years from date of its arrival, and all new industries employing a capital of from $50,000 to $100,000 will be exempted for ten years. This was done as there are bright prospects of locating a new concern there in the near future.

Alabama Baptists Rejoicing.

The last act in the elimination of the debt of Howard College at East Lake and the Alabama State Baptist Convention occurred in Birmingham Friday. The debts annihilated were as follows:

Bonded indebtedness of Howard College, as evidenced by 8 per cent bonds held by the Union Trust Company, of Philadelphia, $20,000. Floating debt of Howard College, $14,000; debt of the Alabama State Baptist Convention on account of State Missions, $2,700; debt of the State Baptist Convention on account of ministerial education, $1,000. Total debt, $37,000.

Deal in Iron Properties.

It is reported in the most reliable business quarters that the Hattie Ensley and Lady Ensley furnaces at Sheffield, the Philadelphia furnace at Florence and large tracts of iron ore lands in the Russellville field, have finally been purchased by the Sloss Iron and Steel company, of Birmingham. There appears to be not the least doubt that this deal has been closed and that these properties will be formally conveyed to the Sloss Iron and Steel company in the near future. The consideration is not known, but that the properties mentioned will pass into the hands of the Sloss Iron and Steel company is positive.

Death of Judge Brewer.

The news was received from Washington Friday of the death of Judge George E. Brewer. Judge Brewer first went to Talladega from Tuskegee, to take charge of the Talladega city schools, and after filling this position successfully for several terms he resigned and entered the practice of law. In 1894 he was appointed by Governor Oates judge of the Seventh judicial circuit, to fill out the unexpired term of the late Judge Leroy F. Box. In 1898 he was again a candidate and was elected by a handsome majority.

Signed the New Scale.

The scale of wages made by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers at the recent national convention in Detroit has been adopted and signed by the Southern Car and Foundry Co. at Anniston for its rolling mill department for the ensuing year. The new scale is an advance of about 25 per cent. over the old one, and is the best since 1892. About three hundred men are effected.

SCHOOL INVESTIGATION.

Irregularities In the Conduct of the Alabama Normal.

State Examiner Purifoy has filed his report with the governor of his examination of books and accounts of the State Normal school located at Troy. The report reviews the history of the school, its establishment, appropriations, etc. The receipts and disbursements of the school by President Eldridge are gone over from 1890 to 1899, the close of the last term, when a new president was elected. After checking up these reports the examiner reports that Eldridge has made errors in credits and expended money without authority of law, all of which are enumerated and set out in full. In concluding his report the examiner says:

"I have charged against him all funds that went into his hands from the summer school of pedagogy and from the extension course so far as I have obtained a knowledge of such, where such funds have not been accounted for, and the graduation fees which have not been accounted for, giving him credit for such balances as the figures in his report, correctly stated, show. His summer school and extension course have been reported to the state superintendent of education as parts of the Normal college. His payment of the school's funds for lobbying purposes and the unauthorized application of $200 per annum to the publication of the Exponent are clearly illegal disbursements of them, hence I have charged him with them. There are many other items of doubtful propriety that a strict application would require charged to him.

"By reference to the statement shown in Exhibit A it will be seen that he is due the school $1,871.53. I have attached hereto a statement showing sums in detail due professors of the college. As shown by the treasurer's book, these aggregate $6,136.46. They have accrued since 1881-92, there being such a balance every year except 1895-96. There are balances due other teachers, but I am not in possession of data sufficiently specific to state them accurately."

ACQUIRES 100,000 ACRES OF LAND

H. F. DeBardeleben and Associates Closes Big Deal in Mineral Property.

Henry F. DeBardeleben and his associates, chief of whom is Morris Adler, have closed transactions that place these developers in possession of 100,000 acres of the most valuable mineral lands in the state.

Mr. DeBardeleben is the master of the mineral lands of both sides of the Warrior river from a point almost opposite Birmingham to Tuskaloosa, a distance of forty miles. Thus the great developer comes into possession of a domain of imperial extent and richness, and thus is enabled to face the world richer in the world's goods than he was the other year when his wealth was counted in millions.

Mr. DeBardeleben and his associates have acquired the mineral lands on both sides of that stretch of the Warrior river which the government is now engaged in making navigable all the year around.

Moreover, Mr. DeBardeleben has acquired the lands voted by congress during its last session to the Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo and to Booker Washington's school at Tuskegee for colored persons, amounting in each case 25,000 acres. The price paid for these school lands Mr. DeBardeleben declined to state.

New Explosive Factory.

Articles of incorporation have been filed in the probate judge's office of Jefferson county by D. M. Drennen, Mayor W. M. Drennen and F. W. Hopkins under the name of the United States Explosive company, with a capital stock of $200,000. The new corporation will begin at once the construction of a plant for the manufacture of gunpowder, dynamite and other explosives. The factory will be located on Village creek, three miles from Birmingham. It will give employment to one hundred men and will have a daily capacity of 500 kegs of powder. The plant will be completed within six months. Contracts for the buildings will be let at once.

STATE BREVITIES.

Local capitalists at Huntsville are formulating plans for erecting a $200,000 cotton mill.

The H. O. Nelson Co., of St. Louis, will build a new pipe works plant at Bessemer. The new concern proposes to manufacture soil pipe and sanitary fixtures of all kinds that are made of iron.

Friday morning W. D. Perdue, a member of the police force of Birmingham, was found dead in bed at his home in East Lake. A physician who was called in pronounced that death was the result of heart disease.

A hitch in the making of the deeds to the Merrimack Mills property at Huntsville has been cleared up and the work goes on. The contractors will have a mill of 20,000 spindles going by January 1 next.

AS OBJECT LESSON.

Street Car Fares In Detroit Are Reduced To Three Cents.

Three-cent fares were announced Friday on the fronts of Detroit street cars in the place where amusement advertisement signs are usually carried.

This reduction is the result of a decision of Governor Pingree and Tom L. Johnson to give the people an object lesson upon what they may look forward to if present plans for the sale of all the Detroit street railways to the "Detroit Municipal Railway company" in behalf of the city wins out.

The three-cent tickets are sold at five for 15 cents and are so worded that their use in full payment can be withdrawn at any time.

STATISTICS OF RAILROADS.

Report of the Interstate Commerce Commission Is Encouraging.

The report of railway statistics for the year 1898, compiled by the interstate commerce commission at Washington and made public Friday, shows that eleven roads went into the hands of receivers, against forty-five taken out, while the mileage of receivership roads was reduced by 6,166 miles operated and 5,133 miles owned.

There was a decrease in the capital stock of the roads in receivers' hands of $221,927,239. The aggregate mileage of railways on June 30, 1898, was 247,532, an increase of 4,088 miles.

CABLE FROM DEWEY.

Secretary Long Gets a Dispatch From Admiral At Port Said.

A Washington dispath says: Secretary Long has received following cable message from Admiral Dewey:

"PORT SAID, July 14, 1899.—To Secretary of the Navy, Washington: Olympia in voluntary quarintine. As soon as coaled proceed to Trieste for practique and recuperation, officers and men. "DEWEY."

LOOTED THE BANK.

Cashier Is Jailed After Successfully Making Way With Nearly $200,000.

A dispatch from York says: George M. Valentine, cashier of the Middlesex county bank, of Perth Amboy, N. J., which was closed Friday, has surrendered himself and is now in jail on account of a shortage in the bank's funds, which has been variously estimated all the way to $165,000. The affair caused consternation among the business men of Perth Amboy, where the Middlesex bank was considered as strong as the eternal hills. So panic stricken did the residents become when the bank failed to open that crowds surrounded the Perth Amboy Savings institution, which has the same officers as the Middlesex.

CONGRESS OF CAPE COLONY

Meets At Cape Town, South Africa, With Large Attendance.

The parliament of Cape Colony was opened at Cape Town, South Africa, Friday. A large crowd of people assembled outside the parliament building, hailed the arrival of Sir Alfred Milner, the British high commissioner and governor of Cape Colony, with cheers, after which "God Save the Queen" was twice sung by the people.

The speech of the governor did not refer to the political situation, excepting that he said relations between Cape Colony and the states, colonies and territories of Africa was friendly.

MEXICANS ARE PLEASED

Over Their Success In Floating Bonds In the United States.

The favorable reception given to the Mexican government bonds in the United States has created an excellent impression in financial and business circles in the City of Mexico, and is regarded as indicating that hereafter Mexican enterprises will look more to the neighbor republic than to Europe for financial support.

SENATOR MORGAN'S INTERVIEW.

The recent interview of Senator Morgan has been much discussed, and there has been much misconstruction placed upon it. His enemies among so-called silver advocates have unjustly construed it to mean a repudiation of Bryan and a desertion of silver, while the gold-standard people look upon it as an admission of weakness. It is neither. His utterances are those of an honest observer, sincere in his desire for Democratic success; the words of a man who places party principles above the ideas of any one man, party success above hero worship. Nothing can be clearer than these words of his: "I stand flat-footed upon the Chicago platform. I believe it to be the very best instrument ever promulgated by the Democratic party, and I agree with it in toto. What I want is a re-affirmation of the Chicago platform, with such issues as the changed condition of affairs seem to warrant. And again, I want a man who will stand on the new platform, and if elected, carry every plank that is in it." If Mr. Bryan is the man best fitted to fill this requirement none will support him more cheerfully or more ably than Senator Morgan; if he is not the man it would be suicidal folly to nominate him for the sake of a sentiment. No man can be greater than his party, and an attempt to make him so is an acknowledgment of the party's weakness. That Senator Morgan should prefer the success of his party and its principles to any man is proof of his loyalty and his wisdom. Neither can be doubted.

COMPARISON OF COUNTY EXPENDITURES.

We have before us the financial statement of three counties for the first half of this year—the counties of Cullman, Macon and Shelby. A comparison of these statements prove quite instructing. Shelby is, if anything, the smallest of the three, Cullman is a strictly white county, Macon is largely colored and Shelby is mixed.

We find that Cullman expended for stationery during the period named $450.87; Macon expended $394.87; Shelby expended $863.70. In this item Shelby expended as much as both these larger counties.

In the matter of paupers Cullman expended $331.16; Macon, $496.78; Shelby, $1,113.80. Cullman's amount was for 15 paupers, or an average of $18 for the six months, or $3 per month, whereas it appears that this county has cared for something like an average of 25, at a cost of $7.50 per month.

In one other instance we notice that Cullman County paid two men for examining treasurer's books and vouchers $8, while Shelby paid one man $40 for the same service.

The expense of holding the sessions of the board of revenue in Cullman for six men was $129.25; in Macon for commissioners was $165.65; in Shelby, $387.30.

Upon these figures we offer no comment, but merely print them to show the difference of cost in the various counties.

THERE is now a splendid opportunity to do some good work for the future of the Democratic party in this county. Will the Democrats take advantage of it, and will the Governor help them?

JUDGE George E. Brewer, of this circuit, died in Washington City last week, quite unexpectedly. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Judge Box, and was last year elected for a term of six years. He was highly respected as a gentleman and an impartial judge, and his death is regretted by many who had come to like him.

IT would not appear to be the best of friendship to force the nomination of Mr. Bryan and have him beaten. Such a result would be accepted as a final settlement of the financial question in favor of the gold standard. Still if his friends insist on nominating and slaughtering him he can blame none but his friends.

THE CHRONICLE endorses the action of Chairman Browne in calling the executive committee for the purpose of recommending a man for sheriff. It is in the interest of Democratic harmony and for the future good of the party, both of which the committee is most competent to consider and pass upon. All Democratic applicants owe it to their party to submit to this plan, and the Governor owes it to the party in the county to recognize the committee.

ONE hears a great deal of the "business administration" of Governor Johnston, and it sounds quite well until you find that the State taxes are now 7 mills. A real business administration ought to have enabled the extra appropriations without the increased tax rate. We are inclined to think that Governor Johnston's administration is about on a par with that of the Populists in Shelby County—all talk.

THE CRINGING KNEE OF THE FAWNER

Not content with his abrupt departure from the ranks of the advocates of Bryan and the Chicago platform Senator Morgan makes this in passing, unkind fling at the Populists, who who have always been his strong friends and supporters in Alabama: "Referring to the Populists," says the interview as it appears in the Washington Post, "Mr. Morgan said that they reminded him of a household scold. They made a good deal of noise in the country but did not amount to much after all. The trouble with these gentlemen and others in the same class," said the Senator, "is that they want the Government operated according to their individual ideas and not even a plan for what will afford the greatest good for the greatest number. They have made a great deal of trouble, but have never accomplished anything." The Senator has gone out of the way to insult the Populists who happen to be for Bryan and the Chicago platform and to all intents and purposes are better Democrats than Senator Morgan seems to be. The Populists in Alabama are back in the party, if appearances count for anything, and they are going to help name the next United States Senator from this State. Are they not more entitled to help do so than those unrepentant deserters the Senator is trying to placate."—Montgomery Journal.

The premices upon which the above argument is founded and the conclusions drawn therefrom are so very unworthy a paper which claims to be the leading Democratic paper in Alabama that we are constrained to enter a feeble protest in behalf of him who has so outraged the Journal's sense of obligation to the Populists. We dare say that we will be considered impertinent if we dare question the correctness of the inspired organ's assertions, but we dare to do it, though it were a waste of time to call attention to what everybody will recognize as a bit of sauce thrown out to an element which the Journal hopes to control for its candidate. We review the above as we come to it.

"Not content with his abrupt departure from the ranks of the advocates of Bryan and free silver." The Journal knows that this is an untrue and unjust insinuation against Senator Morgan's loyalty to the cause of free silver. It knows that the Senate nor the country contains no stronger, more faithful or more able advocate of free silver than Senator Morgan, not even excepting Mr. Bryan himself. It also knows, if its editor can understand the plainly spoken language of Senator Morgan, that there is no sentence nor semblance of an idea in the Senator's recent utterances that justifies a charge of desertion. That Senator Morgan does not bow down in abject acknowledgement of Mr. Bryan's prominence as a leader is no proof of his failure to agree with him on the subject of bimetallism. No man can show his devotion to Democracy and his belief in the strength of its tenets better than to deny the party to the whole body. Senator Morgan plainly acknowledges his faith in Mr. Bryan's ability and fidelity; but that he does not recognize in Mr. Bryan the sine qua non of Democratic success is no proof of his desire to desert the principles of his party as the Journal would charge Senator Morgan with doing. If blind worship of Mr. Bryan, or any other man, is to be a test of loyalty to principle then we need no platforms, no concentration of ideas, no combination of purposes, no nothing but the imperial rule of a dictator to say what the great party of the people and of the constitution shall do and how it shall do it.

"Senator Morgan makes this unkind fling at the Populites, who have always been his strong friends and supporters in Alabama." Indeed. Since when have the Populists of Alabama supported Senator Morgan? They have had but one opportunity since their existence as a party to give expressions to their friendship for Senator Morgan, and then they did it by casting their solid vote in the legislature of 1884 for Warren S. Reese and in opposition to Morgan. This expression followed the passionate threat of the great Populist leader, Adams, to burn his arm off rather than support the Senator, and no Populist in Alabama, great or small, has ever evidenced any friendship for this able advocate of the rights of the common people. This intimation of the Journal is as ridiculous as the declaration which follows.

"The Senator has gone out of the way to insult the Populists, who happen to be for Bryan and the Chicago platform." If the Journal knows anything about the Populists, which we seriously doubt, it knows that the Populists have never been for Bryan and the Chicago platform. It should know that after the nomination of Bryan and the adoption of the Chicago platform the chairman of the Populist national executive committee announced himself in favor of endorsing the Democratic ticket by the Populists as a means of electing a silver President; that a certain element in the Populist party opposed this and clamored for the nomination of Watson, with separate electoral tickets in every State; that Messrs. Longshore, Deans and Howard, of this State, were of this element and supported this idea, which prevailed; that this action caused the loss of Indiana, West Virginia, North Dakota, California, Oregon and Kentucky. The Journal ought to know that in this, one of the strongest Populist counties in this State, in 1894 the Republican ticket received a plurality of votes on account of the Populists refusing to support the Democratic ticket. The Journal ought to know that three times the Populists of this district have endorsed a gold-standard, corporation Republican for Congress in preference to the Democratic candidate who stood on the Chicago platform. With these facts known to the reading public, and the further fact that the Populist papers are repeatedly denouncing silver as a delusion the Chicago platform as a snare, and Bryan as a humbug, the Journal presumes upon the credulity of its readers when it makes this declaration.

"And to all intents and purposes are better Democrats than Senator Morgan seems to be." It may be true for the intent and purpose of the Journal, which is evidently to turn the party over to these malcontents, but those who know Senator Morgan will not accept the Journal's estimate of his Democracy. Nor will they who know the Populists as they are known in this locality agree with the Journal that "the Populists are back in the party if appearances count for anything." Some of them are back and others are coming, but through the open doors as repentant sinners to their fathers' house, and not as thieves and robbers, as the Journal would have them come, stealing the birthright of lifelong Democrats and assuming the places of honor before they have shown works meet for repentance.

"And they are going to help name the next United States Senator from this State." For this declaration of the Journal we are thankful. It discloses the intention of the candidate whom the Journal is representing. It gives official notice of the plan to elect Johnston to the Senate by the capture and control of the Democratic party by the Populists, or a bolt of the next caucus by the Johnston Democrats and fusion with Populist legislators. The Journal is unwise in giving away the plan of its candidate, but we are thankful that it has put Democrats on guard.

The last sentence of the above article reminds us of the French maxim. "Evil be to him who evil thinketh." Senator Morgan is not trying to placate any unrepentant deserters. On the other hand the Journal is not only trying to placate unrepentant deserters but is seeking to place the Democratic party in the hands of the only formidable enemy it has had in this state in thirty years—the Populists. The above article is a very contemptible effort on the part of the Journal to increase the prejudice of the Populists against Senator Morgan and at the same time draw them into the Johnston net, to be used by him in his effort to defeat Morgan. It is arrogant demagoguery of the most blatant type, worthy of that species of men who have always been ready to lend aid to dissention that personal advantage might follow fawning.

Work has been begun on the grading of the railroad near Dogwood, Shelby County, leading to the new mines being opened by the Export Coal Company, which are located about a mile from the main line of the Southern Railway between Birmingham and Montevallo. The road is to be built as rapidly as possible as the Export Company is anxious to commence business. Domestic coal will be mined actively. Employment will be given to about 100 miners. Former Assistant State Mine Inspector F. Duncan is in charge at Dogwood. The mines will be just four miles this side of Montevallo. A red ash coal will be mined.—Birmingham News.

They Should Know it.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing-down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor, frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in bottle or common glass for 24 hours are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

In fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same remedy.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for 50 cents or $1.

To prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention THE CHRONICLE, and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

Appointment of Sheriff to be Submitted to Executive Committee.

The death of Mr. E. P. Vest leaves a vacancy in the office of sheriff. In order to ascertain the choice of the Democracy of the county and to secure the appointment of an acceptable Democrat to fill the vacancy, a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of Shelby County is hereby called, to be held at Columbiana, at 11.30 a. m., Monday, July 21, for the purpose of making a unanimous recommendation to the Governor. All members of the committee are earnestly requested to attend.

W. B. BROWNE, Chairman.

The above call was issued yesterday by Chairman Browne, who also notified the Governor of his action and requested the latter to await the action of the committee. This course was agreed upon by leading Democrats here as the best one to secure the appointment of the man most acceptable to the Democrats of the county, and who will be most available as a candidate next year, and therefore for the best interest of the party in the county. Two or three candidates have already appeared, and all have signified their willingness to abide the action of the committee. If others appear they will be given a full hearing, and will be expected to submit to this tribunal. This, of course, is not intended as an effort to forestall or coerce the Governor, but as a means of informing him of the wishes of a majority and of what is considered to be best for the party in the coming campaign. All Democrats ought to be willing to submit to this wise method of procedure, and it is thought that the Governor will recognize the wishes of the party thus expressed. Every member of the committee ought to attend, and be informed as to the wishes of his precinct so that he can represent them.

Several Populists will apply for the appointment, and an effort will be made by the leaders of that party to secure the appointment of a Populist. What assurance they have, or what right they have to presume, that a Democratic Governor will appoint one of their number we do not know. It is rather a reflection on a Democratic Governor that they are applying but the fact that they are applying is all the more reason why the Democrats should make a unanimous recommendation.

Among the Democratic applicants are C. C. DuBose and S. W. Nelson, of this place, and we are informed that Capt. J. L. Walshall filed his application, or gave notice of his intention to do so, while in Montgomery last Monday.

Among the Populists are John T. Porter, of Calera, B. L. Moore, of this place, and Henry Parker, of Shelby Springs. It is said that Mr. Porter has the endorsement of Senator Deans, Judge Longshore, Circuit Clerk Pearson, and other Populist leaders of this county.

Later information is to the effect that Col. W. T. Smith, of Wilsonville, is an applicant, and it is thought that he stands a good show of appointment. John Pilgreen, of Calera, is also an applicant.

The Famous Atlanta Optician,

Direct from the home office of this great Optical House, or one of his practical opticians, and will remain at the store of his agents,

LESTER, MASON & CO.,

3 DAYS ONLY, BEGINNING JULY 26.

This will give the citizens of Columbiana and vicinity a rare opportunity of having their

EYESIGHT TESTED FREE by one of the most renowned and successful, as well as reliable, opticians in the United States. Mr. Hawkes has the modern appliances for scientific adjustment of glasses to the eye. There is no optician in the United States who enjoys the confidence of the people more than Mr. Hawkes. This firm was established in 1870, nearly thirty years ago.

EYE STRAIN is often the cause of headache, dizziness, nervousness and dimness of vision. This can be cured in many cases by the correct fitting of his crystalized lenses to the eye.

CALL EARLY he positively remains but three days, as he has other engagements for later dates.

CAUTION.—I would caution the public against buying spectacles from peddlers going from house to house with a lot of spectacles, representing them to be Hawkes's, or selling the same grade of goods. Hawkes's spectacles are never peddled. Many of the inferior glasses that flood the market are positively injurious to the eye.

HAWKES RECEIVED GOLD MEDAL highest award diploma of honor for superior lens grinding and excellence in the manufacture of spectacles and eyeglasses. Sold in 11,000 cities and towns in the United States. Most popular glasses in the United States. Established 1870.

WAIT FOR HAWKES and not only get glasses scientifically adjusted to your eyes, but secure a pair of his Crystallized Lenses, the most brilliant spectacle lenses in existence.

DEATH OF SHERIFF VEST.

After a Severe Illness the Executive Officer Passes Away.

Tuesday at 10.30 a. m. Mr. E. F. Vest died at his home in this city. He had been quite ill for nearly a month, and on Monday his doctor gave him up. He lasted until the following morning, when he passed away quickly and quietly. His disease was one of the heart, and was probably the result of his change from active manual labor at his trade to office work.

Mr. Vest was sheriff of the county, which office he has held for nearly three years, having been elected in 1896. He was once before sheriff, once tax collector and for a term county commissioner. He was a thoroughly competent official, entirely impartial in the discharge of his duties, and strictly honest in his private and official transactions.

He leaves a widow and several sons and daughters, who have the deepest sympathy of all our people in their bereavement.

His remains were taken to Montevallo yesterday afternoon and interred with Masonic honors.

Coming.

A. K. Hawkes, the famous Atlanta optician, direct from the home office of this great optical house, or one of his practical opticians, will remain at the store of his agent, Lester, Mason & Co., for three days only, beginning July 26. This will give the citizens of Columbiana and vicinity a rare opportunity of having their eye sight tested FREE by one of the most renowned as well as reliable opticians in the United States.

Mr. Hawkes has all the modern appliances for the scientific adjustment of spectacles and eye glasses to the eye. There is no optician in the United States who enjoys the confidence of the people more than Mr. Hawkes. His name is a familiar word throughout a section of the country inhabited by over 25,000,000 of people. Mr. Hawkes has probably fitted glasses to the eyes of more people of national and international fame than any other optician living. His wonderful success is due to his superior grade of glasses, and to the confidence the people have in his ability as a practical optician. The firm was established in 1870, nearly thirty years ago.

Call early as he will positively remain but three days, as he has other engagements for later dates. Caution—These famous glasses are never peddled.

Miss Mary Lovett, of Bessemer, is visiting the family of Dr. Lovett, of our city.

J. R. Beavers and E. S. Lyman, of the Shelby bar, are applicants for the vacant judgeship. The appointment was expected to-day, but it did not appear.

Sick headache, wind on the stomach, biliousness, nausea, are quickly cured by a few doses of Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine.

Quite a nice little rain fell to-day, and we learn that other portions of the county are getting some. Crops were suffering very badly, and in many instances are totally ruined.

Keep your system in perfect order and you will have health, even in the most sickly seasons. The occasional use of Prickly Ash Bitters will insure vigor and regularity in all the vital organs. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

We regret to learn of the death of Mr. P. G. Trent, Sr., at Sycamore on the 17th instant. He was the father of P. G. Trent, of this city, and was 80 years of age.

For a clear complexion, bright sparkling eye and vigorous digestion, take Prickly Ash Bitters. It puts the system in perfect order. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

We regret to note the death of Mrs. Janie Leeper, wife of Rev. F. L. Leeper, at her home at Beach Island, S. C., on the 11th instant. She was well known in this county, her husband being a former resident here and a brother of the late Judges J. T. and J. S. Leeper.

I have sold out all my candies and am daily receiving a new line of goods. Call and see all the up-to-date things in groceries.

J. H. Hammond.

In warm weather Prickly Ash Bitters helps your staying qualities. Workers who use it occasionally stand the heat better and are less fatigued at night. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

An excursion to Talladega Springs from Calera and this place over the L. & N. will be run to-morrow (Friday) night. Each gentleman going will pay his proportionate share of the expenses and may take as many ladies as he chooses. Mr. J. T. Leeper is managing the affair here, and will give all information desired.

G. B. Espy, Alaga, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine many years. It cures sour stomach, constipation and disordered liver. There is great difference between it and the Black Draught I used, which griped considerably and did not have the same effect as Dr. M. A. S. L. M., which is mild and thoroughly cleanses the stomach and bowels.

We want to call special attention to the public that we are offering our dry goods, notions and clothing, ladies, gents and childrens shoes at extremely low prices in order that we may make room for a well assorted stock of hardware. Our line of family groceries is now complete, and we propose keeping on hand a full line of fancy and staple groceries, which will be sold at a very small margin. Call and see us.

Weldon News.

W. J. Liles, of Wilsonville, is a visitor in our town this week.

W. A. Weldon transacted business at Vandiver the latter part of last week.

Messrs. B. T. White and R. M. Payton left last Thursday morning bound for Coosa with the expectation of catching some fish. We hope they had a nice time.

Prof. J. W. Blackerby left for St. Clair County a few days ago to take up another writing school.

Prof. J. M. Dye is teaching a singing school at Mt. Tabor. We wish John success in his work.

Amos Daniel, of Wilsonville, came up Sunday morning and returned home in the afternoon, accompanied by J. W. Hall.

Rev. James Stewart failed to fill his regular appointment at Union Sunday. Rev. A. C. Messer preached in his stead to a large and attentive congregation.

J. H. Wilder, of Vincent, passed through our town one day last week.

A. F. Carden and C. W. Blackerby went to Fourmile last Saturday.

L. C. Moore, of Sterrett, attended divine services at Union last Sunday.

D. H. Wilder, of Brighton, Ala., was in our community a few days last week.

G. D. Dudly got very badly hurt a few days ago. We are unable to tell just how it happened.

News reached us a few days ago that Judge Brewer had passed away, which was sad news to us. We regret very much to loose such a man, for he was a man worthy of his name. We know that there is a vacant place in our land no other one can fill. But God doeth all things well.

A crowd of men from Fourmile passed through our town last Thursday en rout to the mountains for a camp hunt. We have been informed that most of the game was left unharmed, as they only killed one turkey and probably some smaller game.

We want the next man that represents this county in the legislature to give us a game law, to protect our game from the 15th of March until the 15th of September. Except a few varments and fowls that it is necessary that they should be killed, and then it would not be long until there would be something to hunt. So give us a game law.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thomas was buried here Saturday evening.

R. L. Flippin, of Birmingham, visited here last week. He formerly lived here and has many friends who are always glad to see him.

Mrs. Florey is having her old dwelling house torn away, which is supposed to have been built over a hundred years ago, and is having a new one built.

The third quarterly meeting of this circuit will be held here Saturday and Sunday next, and the meeting will probably continue all of next week.

I. T. Chancellor had the misfortune to get his barn, together with oats, corn and fodder burned up last Friday night. It was caught on fire from a lantern turning over where there was fodder.

We have just received the sad news of the death of Judge Brewer, of which we was indeed very sorry. He was a good judge and was giving very general satisfaction so far as we know.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott filled his appointment at the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

The negroes had a picnic near here Saturday and I have been told that several whiskey peddlers was on hand with a full supply of the poisonous stuff.

Frank Bates and George Wallis, jr., of Creswell, were in town Saturday evening.

There is a protracted meeting going on this week at the Vincent Baptist church. The pastor is being assisted by Rev. A. A. Hatto, of East Lake.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mummia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the perfect preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 750 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 15 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4.77 per acre.

The Journal does not guarantee results, but the result of the test at the Experiment Station make it worth a farmer's while to try these seed when they cost him nothing.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

RAIN MAKING ON THE ALPS.

An Experiment That Failed in Texas Has Been Successful in Austria.

The failure of American rainmakers has been followed by unqualified success in the Austrian Alps. There the problem was not the same as in Texas, for instance, where out of a cloudless sky an attempt was made to extract rain. In this section of the Alps there are always plenty of clouds, but unfortunately for those living here the rain freezes and comes down in the shape of hail, causing great damage. The problem, then, was merely to split the clouds as they formed and before they had time to freeze, causing the proper precipitation of rain instead of hail.

Since 1896 the experiment of shooting at the clouds with large mortars set up perpendicularly on the mountain has been made and with uniform success. All of the neighboring districts have suffered from the usual hail storms, but in this place, Feistritz, there has been nothing but rain. The mortar is fastened firmly to an oaken block. The funnel is about 6 feet high. The load used is only 75 grains of powder, and this cost but 5 cents. As the mortar is fired a long rolling echo follows, and after a few minutes the clouds discharge their moisture in the shape of gentle showers. In this way the crops planted in the valley are helped instead of being broken down by hail, and the cost is trifling. The success of these experiments has aroused widespread interest, and perhaps the weather sharps will be able to learn how to gather the clouds, since the problem of making them discharge their contents may be considered solved.

The Wilmington's Wonderful Cruise.

That staunch little gunboat, the Wilmington, which is now engaged on an exploration expedition up the Amazon river, has already accomplished the remarkable feat of piercing 2,500 miles into the almost unknown interior of South America. At Manaos the arrival of the American gunboat provoked a meeting of protest, the people of that place having never before seen a man-of-war. They thought it impossible, in fact, for such a ship to advance 1,000 miles up the Amazon. Beyond this, however, the Wilmington has met with little opposition. She has steamed up the Solimoes river as far as Iquitos, and since then has gone almost as far inland as the Cordilleras, a distance of only a few hundred miles from the Pacific. The gunboat was designed especially for river service, and has a speed of over 15 knots an hour. She is slightly over 250 feet in length, and has a draught of nine feet.

Missionary Work in India.

D. L. Moody, the evangelist, has issued an appeal for 100,000 selected books to be sent to help missionary work in India. He says there are five millions of English speaking people there who cannot be reached by the ordinary methods, and for this class the Colportage library has been started, and it has proved its efficiency already.

Modern American department houses will soon be a feature of life on the Island of Malta. A few years ago some Maltese capitalists erected at Valetta an apartment house, which was an entirely novel idea for the island. The experiment was so successful that every one of the thirty flats have been constantly occupied.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The official records show that four hundred New York City babies have been named Dewey.

It is only recently that any attention has been paid to the rice crop of Texas, but it is demanding notice. An acre of rice returns about $50 a crop.

The way we have been capturing the markets of the world in the last few months leads one to expect that some American will soon be shipping over a few samples of hand-made crises to France and soliciting orders.

The Czarina now is the mother of three girls, and the Czar's brother George remains heir to the throne of Russia. If there should be collusion between George and Dr. Schenk both may lose their heads.

One of the novels of which Mr. Joseph Chamberlain is most fond is James Fenimore Cooper's "The Last of the Mohicans." England believes that her Secretary of State for the Colonies, if not checkmated, will presently issue a work entitled "The Last of the Boers."

There is a fine sarcastic tone about the announcement that an American civil engineer, a Mr. Louis, is on his way from Chicago to Peking charged with the mission of tearing down the famed, historic Chinese Wall. This wall has long since ceased to be either a protection to the Heavenly Kingdom or an obstruction to the foreign invader, and it should be allowed to linger in its innocuous desuetude.

The government is finding no difficulty in securing the bluejackets and apprentices needed for the manning of the fleet. The shipping rendezvouses are crowded with applicants, and as a result of the careful selection thus made possible the recruits accepted are of a superior quality physically and mentally. The total number allowed by law is 20,000, made up of 17,500 men and 2,500 boys.

The famine in the seven provinces of East European Russia is sinking the wretched peasantry deeper and deeper into their misery. They need about a penny a day to live on, and there are not nearly enough pennies to go around, for in a population of 11,000,000 more than 5,000,000 are hungry every hour of their lives. The actual starvation in the afflicted territory is said by those who know the situation to be immeasurably worse than the much-pitied famine of 1891-92.

There has been no tendency of late to a decline in the price of horses, says the Atlanta Journal. On the contrary, it seems to be going up. The average price of horses is about what it was ten years ago, and there is a brisk demand. It is said that the sale of bicycles has fallen off in all the large cities because horseback riding has become so popular. Fancy saddle and harness horses command better prices than for several years past. The horse has not been abolished yet by any means. He appears to be rising in favor recently in spite of all the devices to supply his place. The horse will be with us for a long time, and we are glad of it.

Chicago shoppers are preparing to boycott the stores which refuse to provide seats for their women clerks. They affirm that it is injurious to female health to stand up without relief nine hours daily, and that the merchants who persist in imposing such an unfeeling and unreasonable task upon them deserve to lose their customers. The employers will no doubt give in as soon as their trade is seriously threatened, showing that even the Chicago purveyors may be coerced into humane and considerate ways of doing business if the proceeding is set about in the right way.

Recent consular reports to the State Department contain much interesting matter about street and steam railways in France and Switzerland. At Marseilles electric lines have been arranged for upon which a uniform fare of only two cents will be charged. The company pays $19,300 annually to the city for the use of the streets, and when the gross receipts reach a certain figure an additional fee must be paid, the amount increasing with the receipts. The Government reserves the right to buy the road and all its appurtenances at any time, and upon the expiration of fifty years it becomes absolute owner of all the property located on the public domain, and is privileged to take all rolling stock, tools, etc., at a valuation fixed by experts.

School officials in Germany are considering the advisability of adopting for children's use an expurgated edition of the Bible. Parts of this book, they argue, are more utterly unsuited for the young person than the average problem novel of to-day. They declare that to its pages numbers of boys and girls have recourse only for reasons scarcely acceptable to either parent or clergyman. Consequent upon this course of reasoning, an edition of the Bible, carefully expurgated, has long been in use in Prussia and the northern provinces. It is known as the Bremen School Bible, and makes a book about half the compass of the entire Scriptures. Now the movement has spread to South Germany, and the Wurtemburg Bible Society has received orders for a large edition of a similar work.

The cyclone or tornado is the most fatal visitation, save epidemics, that nature makes in the area of the United States. Lightning bombards the earth, but its casualties are few; floods come, but, apart from such exceptional catastrophes as that at Johnstown, they are more of an inconvenience and a damage to property than a menace to human life. Earthquake shocks hardly ever hurt anybody; their death rate in this country is not equal to that of lightning in a single Eastern state. Sometimes there are great forest fires, but as these give warning people are able to avoid them if they start in time. But there is almost no escape from the tornado, which comes with the speed of a winter gale and with such tremendous power that brick buildings are tumbled down like houses of cards, and iron safes, the bells of churches and even masses of loose rock are hurled here and there like the playthings of a child.

Many and varied are the uses of electricity. New and important applications of this wonderful power in nature are constantly being made. One of the latest is in the development and fertilization of the arid lands of the great Southwest. There are in Utah, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona and California vasts tracts of land which cannot be irrigated, where artesian wells cannot be drilled on account of the immense cost of coal and the inadequate roads of the country, over which machinery cannot be hauled. All this can be overcome by building one central electrical station, and sending out branch lines to sub-stations in all directions, over mountains and deserts and rivers and canons. Already there are capitalists who are taking advantage of this fact, and orders have come to Pittsburg for the electrical machinery necessary to accomplish the work. Only one central electrical plant is necessary, where coal would have to be stored and steam used. Wires can be put up where even a burro could not travel with a pack, so that there is practically no limit to the extent to which electricity can be utilized.

A SMART OURANG-OUTANG.

Yarn About One Out at Service in a Borneo Hotel.

At Pontianak, almost under the equator, on the south-west coast of Borneo, I had occasion to remain for a considerable period and was lodged in a pasagran (a hotel maintained by the natives, at the expense of the Dutch government, for the accommodation of any Dutch officials or visitors who may come that way).

To my intense astonishment, I learned after my arrival at this pasagran that among the help regularly attached to the place was an orang-outang, known to the native servants as Kees. He was about four feet high, but strikingly human in appearance, and ordinarily accustomed to walk and stand erect. I was told that Kees, who knew and readily responded to his name, was ten or perhaps fifteen years of age, and had been at the pasagran from his childhood.

One day a Chinese peddler came to the pasagran with an assortment of native trousers of cheap, bright-colored prints. The Dyaks called them batjoe or pakilan. I bought a number of pairs, presenting one to a native chief who was in the house at the time, and others to the servants, all the white retaining one of the brightest. Kees had been sitting in the family group watching what was going on. After distributing my presents to the others, I looked laughingly at the orang-outang and said, "Kees, you don't get any!" Instantly I regretted my attempt at a joke.

The poor creature began sobbing, a tear streaming down his face, and it was not until I had with evident regret in my tones hastily called out, "Never mind, Kees; you shall have these," offering him the brightest colored article of the lot, that the mias regained his composure.

Kees actually put on the trousers and wore them every Sunday, taking a stick in his hand cane-fashion, and walking around the house with much gravity.

He habitaually ate rice and fruit, with the servants at their meals. He would bring me my slippers, or a glass of water, or a bunch of fruit, when I ordered him to do so. He would hold my horse as long as I desired, and, when otherwise unoccupied, would sit on the piazza and watch me smoke.—J. T. Van Gestel, in The Cosmopolitan.

Ears Sometimes Deceptive.

"It is strange," said a Jersey City High School teacher, "that people have such confidence in their ears. Even the courts, so keen to sift testimony, readily believe a witness who is supposed to be trustworthy if he says: 'Mr. Jones said so and so.' Probably his ears deceived him and Mr. Jones said something very different. My experience in dictation work convinces me that the human ear is often a poor witness. The other day I dictated a stanza in which occurs the words 'And animation wakes.' One of the most attentive girls in the school wrote it 'And damnation waits.' In another exercise was the quotation: 'To err is human, to forgive divine.' This was written: 'To air is humor and to forgive design.' I believe from these and many similar experiences that the ear is often exceedingly inaccurate in recording impressions of sound."

Another teacher who was standing by agreed with this, and told the story of her little sister, who had picked up many hymns by hearing them sung in church. In one line occurred: "I want to be with them then," and the child one day was heard singing fervently: "I want to be with the men."—New York Tribune.

Where Royalty Ran Wild.

The czar was taught English, which he speaks without any accent, by a Mr. Heath, a gentleman who was very fond of boxing. An interesting picture is given by a French writer of the early life of the young ruler of the Russians. Nicholas and his brothers were brought up with very little ceremony, though they were well educated, particularly in religious matters. But their Sundays were not passed in a fashion which the old Puritans would have approved of, for on that particular day they entertained at dinner their boy and girl friends, and very lively these banquets were. The manners at the table of the future czar and his brothers and friends remind one rather of the days of Peter the Great, and the way in which that monarch "carried on," for we are told that "there was no end to the tricks the hosts and their small guests played. From end to end of the table there used to be continuous firing of bread pellets, which were perpetually striking princely noses or landing in royal mouths."—Chicago Times-Herald.

An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

Signaling by Fireworks.

Henry J. Pain, the fireworks expert of New York, has recently invented a pyrotechnic signal which is designed for the exchange of signals on land or sea and either during the day or night. He provides colored fire of different composition in round molds arranged interchangeably and telescoping in tubes, the charges being placed in the order desired, according to the signal to be given, and the whole inserted in the hollow chamber of a rocket. In mid-air the colored fire is ignited, and the same with a parachute are blown out of the rocket head. The fires burning in successive colors indicate the signal, while supported in air by the parachute.

The group of color-holders may be ignited and elevated to a high point upon a flagstaff or the masthead of a vessel, or the same may be connected upon the end of a stick to be held in the hand by burning.

Widows in China.

According to the laws of good society in China young widows should not remarry. Widowhood is held in the highest esteem and the older a widow grows the more agreeable her position becomes. Should she reach fifty years, she may, by applying to the emperor, get a sum of money with which to buy a tablet on which her virtures are named. The tablet is placed over the door at the principal entrance to her house.

Dewey Fighting Stock.

Admiral Dewey is of old fighting stock, and he has now become a member of both societies of descendants of the American revolution. Upon his own application he was admitted to the Vermont Sons of the American Revolution on November 14, 1892, his brother Charles, president of the National Life Insurance company, and a resident of Montpelier, being admitted at the same time. William Tarbox Dewey, son of Charles, became a member on Nov. 9, 1896. Recently the admiral received the compliment of an election as life member of the Sons of the Revolution (in lieu of honorary membership, for which that society has no provision), and is now entitled to wear the badge of both organizations.

PERFECT womanhood depends on perfect health.

Sweet dispositions turn morbid and fretful.

The possessions that win good husbands and keep their love should be guarded by women every moment of their lives.

PERFECT WOMANHOOD

The greatest menace to woman's permanent happiness in life is the suffering that comes from derangement of the feminine organs.

Many thousands of women have realized this too late to save their beauty, barely in time to save their lives. Many other thousands have availed of the generous invitation of Mrs. Pinkham to counsel all suffering women free of charge.

Mrs. H. J. Garretson, Bound Brook, N. J., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham—I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with the best results and can say from my heart that your medicines are wonderful. My physician called my trouble chronic inflammation of the left ovary. For years I suffered very much, but thanks to Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and kind advice, I am today a well woman. I would say to all suffering women, take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and your sufferings will vanish."

Mrs. Maggie Phillippe, of Ladoga, Ind., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham—For four years I suffered from ulceration of the womb. I became so weak I could not walk across the room without help. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and wrote for special information. I began to improve from the first bottle, and am now fully restored to health."

Blankets and quilts can be easily quilted on a newly designed frame, which has a pair of rollers set in journals on short side rails, to be revolved by cranks and adjust the quilt, allowing the use of the frames in a narrow room.

THE CHRONICLE.

Democratic at all Times and Under all Circumstances--Consequently Opposed to Monopolies.

VOL. XIV. COLUMBIANA, SHELBY COUNTY, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1899. NO. 32.

IS "SHAMEFUL" SAYS PINGREE

Michigan's Chief Executive Roasts McKinley.

"ALGER BADLY TREATED"

"Cowardly" and "Unmanly" Are Some of the Expressions Used---Says Alger Tried Repeatedly To Vacate.

A Detroit, Mich., special says: Governor Pingree handed to the Associted Press Friday a prepared, and signed interview, giving what the governor asserts are to be "facts which are absolutely reliable, bearing upon the relations between General Alger and President McKinley with which the public are not familiar." At the outset the governor said:

"I have no hesitation in saying that the course pursued by the president in this matter is little less than cowardly. It is, to say the least, very unmanly."

Governor Pingree said his information did not come from General Alger, but from one whose knowledge of the facts cannot be disputed.

Proceeding, he says that repeatedly since the eastern newspapers began their attacks upon Secretary Alger, the secretary informed the president that if those press dispatches embarrassed the administration in the slightest degree, he would resign at once, but the president as often protested emphatically that he had the utmost confidence in Secretary Alger and his conduct of the war department, and that the country could not afford to lose his services.

The governor says that at the time "his alleged alliance with General Alger was announced, and before his disavowal of interviews criticising the president had reached Washington, General Alger told the president that upon the president's slightest intimation he would resign, but the president refused to entertain the idea for a moment.

"As to the 'alleged alliance' being any reason for asking for General Alger's resignation, Governor Pingree says, 'Long before my announcement that I would support General Alger for the senate, Secretary of State Hay, on June 2d last, requested Vice President Hobart to intimate to General Alger that his resignation would be acceptable to the president and would relieve him from the embarrassing attacks of the press upon the conduct of the war.

Mr. Hobart very properly declined to be a party to such unmanly, not to say cowardly, proceeding and expressed his opinion in terms decidedly vigorous.

"After that General Alger, entirely ignorant of this miserable conspiracy, several times offered to end the attacks by submitting his resignation, but still the president did not have the courage to express himself to his secretary. General Alger finally did hand his resignation to the president to take effect January 2d.

"The president dared not face the general in a manly way and ask him to retire and give his reasons for making the request. He finally accomplished by indirection what he dared not do in an open and frank manner himself."

Governor Pingree states that Mr. Hobart was finally prevailed upon by Attorney General Griggs to convey to the secretary that his resignation was desired and gave my alleged alliance with the secretary as a pretext.

Commenting on the whole matter, the governor says that General Alger's sacrifice was compelled by demands of New York politicians, backed by the "unscrupulous and heartless press." He predicts that it will be learned "that the president himself will be responsible for whatever mistakes have been made in conducting the war."

"I am told on the very best authority that General Alger made very few appointments of officers during the war, and that the commissions were issued almost entirely upon the order of the president."

DEWEY GUEST OF HONOR.

Austrians Tender Admiral a Special Banquet At Trieste.

Admiral Dewey, accompanied by Captain Benjamin P. Lamberton and Flag Lieutenant T. M. Brumby, of the United States cruiser Olympia, landed at Trieste, Austria, Friday to return Thursday's visits to the admiral, and to call officially upon the governor of Kustenland, Count Goose. The American officers also called upon the mayor of Trieste.

The United States minister to Austria-Hungary, Addison C. Harris, gave a banquet Friday night in honor of Admiral Dewey. The guests were limited to thirty-five.

It was rumored that the case was compromised for a money consideration.

MOB LYNCHES FIVE.

A Tragedy In Louisiana Town Wherein Italians Are the Victims.

A special dispatch from Tallulah, La., gives details of a sensational wholesale lynching Thursday night following a dastardly attempt at murder. There were five victims and they were all Italians.

During the day Dr. Hodge, a prominent physician at Tallulah, became involved in an altercation with an Italian named Charles Defatta, and the latter shot the physician in the bowels, seriously wounding him. The wounding of Dr. Hodge created intense excitement in Tallulah and the surrounding country, and a mob was immediately organized to wreak vengeance upon the would-be murderer and several of his alleged accomplices.

Immediately on the crack of the gun Frank Defatta, Sy Deferroch and John Cerreno, who were in Defatta's store on Front street, started on a run to Joe's store, with shotguns and long knives in their hands.

Court was in session and a large crowd of country people were in town, and with the sheriff and his deputies, they joined in the chase and succeeded in arresting and disarming Frank Defatta, Sy Deferroch and John Cereno, after a tough struggle. John Cereno made a lunge at one of the crowd with one of his long knives and was promptly knocked down by a bystander.

The sheriff, with his posse, at once went to the house where Charles and Joe Defatta were barricaded, surrounded the square, and after battering down the doors of the house, succeeded in taking Charles Defatta. Not finding Joe in there, the crowd begun a vigilant search of the premises and thence going to the large dwelling immediately behind the shop, which was owned by the Defattas, found Joe hid under the chimney. He was promptly taken out and the sheriff started to the jail with Charles and Joe.

When he got to the courthouse square a crowd of about 250 citizens citizens overpowered the sheriff and after a severe struggle took Joe and Charles Defatta down in the field to the slaughter pen and hanged them to the gallows used for slaughtering beeves.

Joe denied the shooting and said Charles did it. Charles said Joe did the shooting, which half a dozen saw and know he did. Charles said he jumped on Dr. Hodge and was sorry of it, that Frank Defatta and Sy Deforroch were the cause of the trouble.

The crowd then adjourned to the jail, overpowered the jailer and deputies, taking the keys, went in and brought out Sy Deferroch, Frank Defatta and Joe Cereno and hanged them to an oak tree in the jail yard. Not a shot was fired and the crowd was orderly and quiet, but very determined. A good many citizens pleaded for the lives of the Sicilians, but of no avail, as this was the third outrage committed by this same class.

AUTHORITIES MAY CLASH.

Texas Receiver of Railway Is Placed Between Two Fires.

A dispatch from Austin says: The Texas state officials will probably clash with the federal courts. Friday they received information that the headquarters of the Texarkana and Ft. Smith railway, which is a part of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf, which is now in the hands of a receiver, had been ordered moved from Texarkana to Kansas City. The Texas law requires that general offices of all Texas lines shall be maintained in the state.

Western Union Protests.

A Columbia S. C., dispatch says: The Pullman Palace Car Company, the Southern Express Company, the Bell Telephone Company acquiesced in the valuation for taxation fixed on their property by the railroad board of equalization, being $83,000, $94,000 and $25,000 respectively. The Western Union, taxed for $1,000,000, entered a protest.

Luzon Island Flooded.

Advices from Manila state that the unprecedented rains of last week have convinced observers that military operations on a large scale or advances covering many miles will be impossible for a long time. Many miles of the country are flooded to a depth or three or four feet.

SOLDIERS PROTECT PROPERTY.

Military Is Called Out at Cleveland to Suppress Strikers.

Orders were issued at Cleveland, O., Saturday for the assembling of four companies of the Fifth regiment, located at Cleveland, to do strike duty in the streets of the city during the present street railway trouble.

Decision to call out the Fifth was made after a long conference between Mayor Farley and Director of Police Barrett. It was decided that it was absolutely necessary not only for the safety of the property of the street railway companies and lives of its employes, but for the protection of the lives and property of citizens.

EXPLOSION KILLS NINE.

Boilers of English Torpedo Boat Destroyer Blows Up.

A dispatch from London says: An explosion on board the torpedo boat destroyer Bullfinch on the Solent, during her trial Friday, killed nine and injured four on board. It was the worst naval accident of this nature that has occured in the British navy in twenty years. The victims were terribly injured, steam and boiling water filling the engine room.

ANGRY MOB'S QUICK WORK

Assailants of the Ogletrees Caught and Lynched.

ONE HANGED; TWO SHOT

One of the Trio Makes a Confession Just Before Being Swung Up, Implicating Five More.

Three negroes were lynched in Early county, Ga., Sunday morning by a mob. The first one put to death was Louis Sammin. He was captured near Brinson and carried to Saffold Sunday morning about 4 o'clock. Has was taken before Mr. and Mrs. Ogletree, who identified him as one of the party who robbed the man and assaulted the woman.

The negro was carried a short distance from the house of the Ogletrees and strung up to a limb.

Before dying he confessed to the deed and gave the names of the negroes assisting in the devilish work. He said that there were eight negroes in the gang and that they came from Augusta, Ga. He also said that two of the party were only a short distance from where he stood.

The mob divided, one portion swinging up Sammin and the other two negroes, who were overtaken and shot.

How Sammin Was Caught.

On Saturday night Sammin appeared at the cabin of an old negro near Brinson and asked for lodging. The old man suspected that the wayfarer was one of the assailants of the Ogletrees and gave his consent for the stranger to remain awhile. The old darkey then went to Brinson and informed the officers of the strange negro's presence in his house. A posse was soon organized and in a short time Sammin was a captive.

Were Probably Escapes.

A dispatch from Augusta states that while no positive information has been secured, it is thought that the six negroes mentioned in Bainbridge dispatches are those who escaped from the Richmond county jail on June 7th. They had all been convicted at the superior term, and were awaiting transportation to the various places of punishment when by the aid of a nail, spoon handle and a piece of wood they dislodged enough brick to admit their bodies through the wall.

They were next heard from at Lulaville, some seven miles west of Augusta. Some female residents of that place wired to Augusta that they were terrorized by the escaped convicts. The sheriff failed to find any proofs of identity, but offered a reward of $150 for the arrest of the escapes as well as expenses incurred.

The negroes were John Dogan, sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary, convicted of assault with intent to murder. He is a man who shot and attempted to kill Bridgeman McElmurray at Port Royal bridge over the Savannah river. Dogan has his full name tattoed on his left arm.

Will Easterling and Dred Henderson, each under sentence of six years, convicted of burglary. They burglarized Sim Walton's store on South Boundary.

Columbus Ray, under sentence of five years, was convicted on an indictment for burglary at the home of Mail Carrier Bruner.

Will Campbell alias "Boar Hog," sentenced to six years in the penitentiary, convicted of larceny from the car.

WATERMELONS GIVEN AWAY.

Southern Shippers Are Forced to Lose Eight Car Loads.

A New York dispatch says: Eight car loads of watermelons were given away Saturday at the freight yards of the Pennsylvania road in Jersey City. This was done because the company wanted the cars, and the New York consignees did not send for the fruit.

The loss falls on the consignors in the south.

STRIKE IS INEFFECTIVE.

Nearly All Trolley Cars In New York Are Now Running.

A New York dispatch says: The situation of the Brooklyn strike Friday was such as to give the Rapid Transit company much encouragement. By investigation it was found that fully 80 per cent of the cars were running on most of the lines. An exception is the Hicks street line, which has not been operated for several days. Four policemen are seen accompanying the cars. Many still refuse to patronize the surface lines on account of possible delays. The "L" roads are getting this patronage.

LANDS CANNOT BE SOLD.

Hermann's Recommendation Turned Down By Interior Department.

A Washington dispatch says: Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock has disapproved the recommendation of the commissioner of the general land office for the sale of all the lands in Alabama by public auction. These unoccupied and unreserved lands in the state aggregate 522,373 acres, over the disposition of which there has been considerable agitation.

HON. ELIHU ROOT SUCCEEDS ALGER

President Decides On New Yorker as Head of War Department.

IS WELL KNOWN LAWYER

Secretary Alger Sends Congratulations--Sketch of New Man.

A Washington special says: Elihu Root, of New York, has accepted the war portfolio in President McKinley's cabinet. The telegram of acceptance was received shortly after noon Saturday, while Secretary Long was with the president. Secretary Alger had just left.

The tender of the war portfolio was made to Mr. Root Friday night after the conference at the white house.

Secretary Alger had confidently expected the appointment of Mr. Root, and was very much pleased at the president's choice. This was evidenced in the following letter which Secretary Alger addressed to his successor:

My Dear Mr. Root: All I know is what the newspapers say, that you are to succeed me as secretary of war. Should it come to you I most earnestly urge you to make the sacrifice and accept the position. With your great knowledge of law and your excellent health, you can serve the country in a way given to few men. Sincerely yours,

R. A. ALGER.

"To Hon. Elihu Root, New York."

Who the New Secretary Is.

Elihu Root was born February 15, 1845, at Clinton, Oneida county, N. Y. He graduated from Hamilton college in the class of 1864 and entered the New York university law school. He was admitted to the bar in 1867, since which time he has been in the active practice of his profession in New York city. He was United States attorney for the southern district of New York from March, 1888, to July, 1885. He was vice president of the association of the bar of the city of New York for a number of years; vice president of the New York Grant Monument Association; at one time president of the republican club, and is the present president of the Union League Club.

He has been a trustee of Hamilton college since 1883 and has served as president of the New England Society in the city of New York. He was one of the most prominent members of the last New York state constitutional convention, where he served as chairman of the judiciary committee.

CLOSE THIER SESSION.

The Convention of Epworth Leaguers Adjourns at Indianapolis.

The closing day was the most important of the convention, 14,000 visitors thronging the city. The following resolutions were adopted by the convention:

"Resolved, That we congratulate the country on the passage of the anti-canteen act, which so accurately represents the will of the American people. Its nullification by Attorney General Griggs is viewed with painful solicitude and ever-increasing indignation, and we hereby pledge congress our hearty support in maintaining it against the untenable opinion of a subordinate executive officer. We heartily indorse the union of the temperance forces sought by the American Anti-Saloon League.

"We regard the election of a polygamist to congress by the state of Utah as an indignity offered to every American citizen and an insult to the sanctity and purity of the Christian home.

"We protest against the election of Mr. Roberts to the house of representatives and demand that one whose life is so repugnant to Christian principles shall be expelled from that great law-making body.

"We favor a federation with other young people's societies both locally and nationally through suitable executive committees for the promotion of Christian citizenship."

ROSE COGHLAN BANKRUPT.

Well Known Actress Files Petition In New York Court.

Rose Coghlan, the actress, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the clerk's office of the United States district court at New York Saturday under the name of Rosamond Maria Sullivan.

Her petition places her liabilities at $26,836. The only assets named are necessary wearing apparel, all valued at $250 and claimed to be exempt. About $15,000 indebtedness is in judgments.

RESORTING TO DYNAMITE.

Street Railway Strikers In Cleveland, O., Do Great Damage.

Dynamite was used by the street railway strikers at Cleveland, Ohio, Thursday night and Friday evening, causing considerable property damage and badly frightening people in the neighborhood of the explosions.

Aside from this the situation is unchanged. The authorities say they will not permit such disorder to continue, and a battalion of naval reserves has been ordered to hold itself in readiness for service.

ITALIANS AROUSED.

Government May Ask Indemnity For Those Lynched In Tallulah, La.

A Washington special says: The lynching of five Italians in Louisiana last Friday promises to assume an international aspect through the action of the Italian government. Count Vinchi, the Italian charge d'affaires, called at the state department at an early hour Saturday morning and made representations to the officials concerning the atrocity in Louisiana.

In order to get full information as a basis for action by this government, Secretary Hay thereupon telegraphed the governor of Louisiana requesting all the facts in the case. Count Vinchi's action was predicated on reports from the Italian consular officials in Louisiana, and by the press reports. There is reason to believe also that the Italian foreign office is already fully informed on the occurrence. It is probable, however, that the representations of the present are only preliminary with the view to calling attention to the facts reported and to pave the way for any protest or demand of reparation which may follow.

Count Vinchi's representations to the state department were based upon a brief dispatch from the acting consul at New Orleans, Pabini.

Count Vinchi at once directed that all the particulars in the case be secured and that special inquiry be made as to whether the victims of the lynching were Italian citizens who had not yet become naturalized.

DEMOLISHED PACKED CAR.

Strikers Cause Explosion In Cleveland But No One Was Killed.

At Cleveland, O., Sunday night, a trolly car, loaded with passengers, was wrecked by an explosion of nitroglycerin or gun cotton. Six persons were badly hurt, half of them being women.

The explosion tore out the front end of the car, smashed all the windows and destroyed the brake. After considerable difficulty the car was stopped and a call for an ambulance was sent out. The motorman was dazed by the shock, but the conductor escaped injury.

The force of the explosion was so great that it shook all the houses in the neighborhood and was heard for a distance of two or three miles.

There is no clew to the identity of the person who placed the explosive on the track. Persons living in the neighborhood say they saw a man in the buggy stop at the corner of Kensington street where the explosion occurred, and get out by the railroad track. He remained there a short time and then drove rapidly away.

Within a few minutes after the explosion a crowd of a thousand people assembled and the injured, who were suffering from shock, were cared for until the ambulance arrived. None of them were dangerously injured, their hurts being confined to bruises about the feet and legs.

A REVOLUTIONARY PRIEST

Heads Revolt in Philippines Against Spanish Clergy.

A Manilla dispatch says: A Filipino priest named Gregorie Agripay, with the insurgents, is trying to lead a movement for the independence of the church in the Philippines from the Spanish priesthood.

He has issued a proclamation declaring himself the vicar general of all the Filipino priests in the districts outside of American control on the island of Luzon, and is inciting the priests to disobey the regulations of the church and brotherhoods. The archbishop of the district has issued a bull excommunicating Agripay, and this action has increased the feeling between the Filipinos and the church.

LAST REPORT THE BEST.

Gen. Otis Sends Amended Dispatches to War Department.

Sunday the war department received from General Otis another dispatch giving additional particulars of the fight between Captain B. A. Byrne, with seventy men of the Sixth infantry, and robber bands in the islands of Negros.

It shows that the victory of the soldiers was greater than that reported in General Otis' dispatch of July 21st and that the loss suffered by the robbers was considerably larger than before stated.

"PRIVATE" ALLEN GIVES UP.

Senatorial Fight In Mississippi Conceded to McLaurin.

A special from Jackson, Miss., says: The campaign managers of "Private" John Allen now concede the election of Governor McLaurin to the United State senate, althought they make no estimate of the majority. McLaurin now lacks only five votes of the number necessary to elect on joint legislative ballot, and the coming primaries positively assure him fifteen, with a good fighting chance for twelve more.

It is conceded that McLaurin will have to his credit the ninety votes necessary to elect.

Asked For Citizenship.

A dispatch from Tallulah, La., says that the five Italians who were lynched Friday had been living in Ladison parish for some years, and had filed their declarations to become citizens. Some had applied for naturalization papers.

Dewey Home Fund Grows.

A Washington dispatch says: The contributions to the Dewey home fund received Saturday amounted to $230, making in all $15,003.

SALE OF ALABAMA LANDS RECOMMENDED.

An Alabama Boy Killed Near Bay St. Louis, Miss.—Pelham Gets Appointment for Judge of Seventh Circuit. Postmasters Appointed.

Commissioner of the General Land Office Binger Herman has forwarded a letter to the secretary of the interior recommending the sale of all the public lands in the state of Alabama at public auction. The unoccupied and unreserved land in the state amounts to 522,373 acres, which are surveyed and have been ready for occupation since 1889, but which have never been sold on account of the persistent and consistent opposition of the entire Alabama delegation in congress.

The action of Commissioner Herman is based upon the recent sensational developments bought to light in connection with the donation of 50,000 acres of public lands in the state to the Industrial School for Girls of Alabama, located at Montevallo, and the Tuskegee Normal Industrial Institute.

Last winter the Alabama delegation secured the passage through congress of a bill authorizing the donation of 25,000 acres of the public domain to each of the above named educational institutions. The law was so worded that the heads of the two institutions could select the land as they saw fit, taking it in ten-acre patches, if they so desired, and upon the governor's certificate of the same to the secretary of the interior he is compelled to forthwith, upon the receipt of the certificate, issue to the state of Alabama patents for the lands therein contained. Shortly after the law became operative rumors reached the interior department that the heads of the two institutions in question had entered into contracts with corporations, who were to acquire titles to the lands in question for a nominal consideration. In accordance with the contracts the lands selected were to be those containing large mineral deposits, upon which the corporations expected to commence work immediately. An investigation of the matter has confirmed the reports, and as a result Commissioner Herman has forwarded the recommendation above referred to, recommending the immediate sale of all the public lands in the state.

Alabama Boy Killed.

John A. Allen, a 15-year-old boy, who went to New Orleans some three months ago to visit his uncle, J. T. Brannagan, was killed Friday night by the fast train of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. When the train reached Bay St. Louis the boy's body was found between the baggage car and the mail coach. The boy left his uncle's home last Sunday, saying he was going to return to his home at College Hill, Ala. Allen's father is a farmer at College Hill. The boy was stealing a ride when he was killed.

Anniston's New Carpet Mill Starts Up.

The Anniston carpet mill is now in operation, having started up Saturday and made the first carpet ever made in the south, barring, of course, the old-time rag carpet. The new mill starts with a full complement of operatives. The grades of carpet to be made at the Anniston mill are unions, and all cotton carpet, half wool, and extra super, an all-wool carpet.

Pelham Gets Appointment.

The governor has appointed John Pelham, of Calhoun county, judge of the Seventh circuit to succeed the late Judge Brewer. Pelham is a nephew of the gallant Pelham of Confederate fame, and has been engaged in the practice of his profession in Anniston for some years past.

White Woman Killed by Negroes.

John Turner and his wife, negroes, a few days ago killed Mrs. Measles, a white woman, who lived on an adjoining farm near Idaho, in Clay county. The Turner woman has been caught and her husband is hotly pursued.

Alabama National Guard.

The adjutant general has announced by general order the election of the following officers in the national guard:

First Regiment—R. B. Dumont, colonel, G. J. Hubbard, lieutenant colonel; W. J. Vaiden, major.

Second regiment—Henry B. Foster, colonel; O. Kyle, lieutenant colonel; W. J. Parks, major; T. T. Huey, major; H. H. McConnell, major.

GREAT CORPORATION.

Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company Organized.

Richard E. Edmonds has returned to Baltimore from New York, where he assisted in the organization of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron company. Speaking of the new enterprise, Mr. Edmonds said: "The company was organized under a New Jersey charter. The capital is $5,000,000, of which $2,500,000 is cumulative 7 per cent. of preferred stock and $2,500,000 of common stock."

It is said that the directors will be John E. Searles, Abram S. Hewitt, R. G. Rush, John Skelton Williams, J. W. Middendorf, Richard H. Edmonds, Joshua Levering; F. M. Jackson and others. T. G. Bush will be president and John E. Searles vice president.

The company acquires the Clifton Iron company, the Standard Coal company, the Mary Pratt furnace property in Birmingham, the Gate City properties adjacent to Birmingham, and the Gadsden furnace and ore lands, at Gadsden. The total property includes 70,000 acres of land and four furnaces, with a combination of ores and coking coal probably not equalled by any other company in Alabama.

Marvelous Gains in Birmingham District

The Birmingham News Saturday, in its board of trade edition, issued in honor of the first annual celebration of board of trade day, reviews the commercial and industrial development of Birmingham and the Birmingham district during the first six months of the present year and finds that there has been a remarkable increase over the same period of last year in every field of development. The ratio of advance ranges from 10 to 30 per cent., and in many instances more. Wages have increased from 10 to 33 per cent.; shipments of pig iron and cast iron pipe have grown 25 per cent.; building operations over 100 per cent.; export iron trade 80 per cent., while the bank clearings for the half year show a larger increase than did the bank clearings of all last year over the year previous. A review of the field also shows that northern, western and eastern men, representing $100,000,000, have identified themselves with the development of this city and district. The News expresses the belief that this record, which is a most remarkable one, forecasts a still more prosperous autumn and winter ahead.

Newspapers Burned Out.

Fire at Dadeville destroyed $9,000 worth of property. The blaze started in "Brick Row," and was confined to a small locality. The following are the losers: F. A. Vaughan, owner of Vaughan building, $5,000, insurance, $2,000; J. W. Strather, attorney, $300, no insurance; Spot Cash, a newspaper owned by J. S. Nelson, $900, insurance, $500; Dadeville Herald, owned by J. W. Fleming, $800, insurance, $400; Bonanza Saloon, owned by C. A. M. Pitts, considerable damaged, loss $1,000, no insurance; J. Saul & Co., loss on account of damage goods by removal, $1,000, covered by insurance.

Bessemer Water Works Plant Sold.

The latest deal of a financial nature which has been consummated in the Birmingham district during the past week was the purchase of the Bessemer water works system by Birmingham persons. The amount paid was $100,000, and at least $100,000 more will be invested in enlarging and improving the property. The names of the Birmingham persons who made the purchase have not been given out yet, and will not be until next week probably, but the deal is known to have been closed within the last day or two.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

Will Huston, a small negro boy, had a foot cut off by a train at Selma.

W. J. Reese, charged with killing Frank Riggs, was acquitted at Selma.

A. E. Weeks fell overboard from the steamer Joe Wheeler at Decatur and was drowned.

Both Decatur and New Decatur councils have passed a Sunday saloon closing ordinance. Both mayors say they will enforce the law.

Calvin Evans was killed by Walter Roosevelt near Fort Payne. There had been bad feeling between them for some time. Both were negroes.

The Wallace place, a large farm eight miles south of Huntsville, has been purchased by Illinois capitalists, who have incorporated the Alabama Vineyard Company, who will divide the place into many fruit farms and offer flattering inducements to northern immigrants.

Dennis Williams, a negro miner, while attempting a blast in one of the Spring Gap ore mines in Jefferson county, was instantly killed Friday.

THE GOVERNOR'S APPOINTMENT.

In another column we publish the facts concerning the appointment of Captain Walthall and the circumstances attending it. Those facts show that the appointment was made in defiance of the recommendation of the Democratic executive committee and of the most influential Democrats of the county.

We have no criticism to pass upon Captain Walthall. He is a splendid gentleman and has always been a Democrat. As such we have the highest respect for him, though he was not the choice of the party in the county for the place and though he declined to abide the committee's action. He will no doubt make a good sheriff, and as a Democrat will do whatever he can for the good of his party in the county.

The Governor's action in ignoring the recommendation of the committee and of individual Democrats invites criticism, and as between the county organization and the Governor we are compelled to side with the former.

The executive committee of a county is organized for the purpose of looking after the party's interests, and the members are selected on account of their knowledge of conditions, their sagacity and judgment, and their ability to decide what course is best in emergencies for the promotion of Democratic success. In this case the committee had in view only the future good of the party, which of course included the competency of the man they recommended. Those members present had discussed the situation at home and were thoroughly informed as to the wishes of their people and as to the conditions to be dealt with. Acting upon this knowledge they thought that of the candidates Mr. DuBose would best suit their constituents, would make the most competent official and would be the most available man for the future. Their action was endorsed by the large number of Democrats who individually signed the petitions of Mr. DuBose.

It was reasonable to expect that the Governor would recognize such endorsements, and that he did not is accepted here as evidence that he either thinks himself better informed as to what the Democrats of the county want and need than they do themselves, or else that he cares nothing for the success of the party in this county. The latter is more likely correct. That the Populists and Republicans are referring to the appoint as "a victory" for them shows that they regard it as a failure on the part of the Governor to give the Democrats the help they asked for. They are evidently encouraged.

THE Governor has appointed Mr. John Pelham, of Anniston, to be judge of the Seventh circuit, which position was made vacant by the recent death of Judge Brewer. Mr. Pelham is a young, but able lawyer, and will doubtless give satisfaction on the bench.

SENATOR Morgan declares for a Democratic platform "on which all sections of the country can stand," and favors an Eastern plutocrat as a candidate for President.—Montgomery Journal.

This is the way the court paper has sought to fight Senator Morgan. The Journal knows that the above assertion that Senator Morgan favors an Eastern plutocrat for President is positively untrue. We had supposed that the editor of the Journal would not stoop to misrepresentation, but it seems that we are mistaken in our estimate of the man. Both the above charges are misleading and incorrect.

THERE are those who believe that the Populists are coming back into the Democratic party. Let those who think so read the following declaration from the People's Advocate, which is the organ of that party in this county:

> The Populists of Alabama and Georgia are as far from returning to the Democratic party as the East is from the West. "Only the dog returneth to his vomit."

Unless the Advocate is not a fair representative of its party, such a declaration will disabuse anybody's mind of the idea that the Populists can be led back to the Democratic party so long as there are any offices to be sought by them.

SINCE the death of Robert Ingersoll his famous eulogy at his brother's funeral is being published. It is beautiful with tender expressions, strong with grand thoughts. One paragraph is enough to give the lie to all his agnostic utterances:

> Life is the narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud, and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry. From the voiceless lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word; but in the night of death hope sees a star and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing.

The man who said that and believed it gave better evidence of the existence of eternity and eternity's God than all his cold reasoning could refute. No such hope nor love could be real to the soul that had said in its heart "There is no God."

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

By MRS. F. W. GIST.

WAS INGERSOLL AN INFIDEL?

The infidel orator of this generation is dead. As one recalls many of his beautiful expressions we pause to question whether he really was an infidel. He at least had hope if he did not have faith and belief. Hope and faith are so closely akin it is hard, sometimes, to discriminate. Ingersoll at his brother's funeral said, "From the noiseless lips of the unreplying dead there comes no word; but in the night of death hope sees a star and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing." What more beautiful expression than this of what one feels when a loved one has departed. Ingersoll was kind, tender-hearted, brilliant and fluent and, withal, a skeptic but whether he was one totally without faith and hope one doubts. There have lived worse men than he, though oftimes termed the indefatigable and notorious Infidel Ingersoll.

Mrs. Annie K. Walker's publication last Sunday of extracts from letters written by European tourists was a feature of genuine interest, and recalls to us a series of letters written from day to day by one sailing on the "Aurania" for Europe, and all bundled together and sent as one letter and reached our desk last Saturday. Our letter too is from a Birmingham girl, and she gives some beautiful visions and expressions of the scenes, sensations and experiences on ship-board over the Atlantic. We had written her a steamer letter in which advised that when she finished reading it to open out and spread across the bare chest and wear it through the trip to prevent sea sickness. In her series of letters she tells us she did so and as she closed within 24 hours run to Liverpool she had suffered no sea sickness nor inconvenience whatever. The letter was written on heavy linen paper. This is an old known remedy, but may be worth remembering.

The Advertiser recently has had the appearance of a man who has lost an arm or limb. It has been minus Mrs. deCottes' department. At this writing we hope to see the lost limb adjusted this week. Mrs. deCottes is convalescing at the rate of one pound per day, and she has to return to the fine markets of Montgomery to find a sufficiency of replenishing material. Columbiana has done its best for her, and Shelby Springs offered all and the best it had, but Montgomery markets have a charm now that none others can replace. Her friends throughout the State will be happy to note her recovery to health and return to her post on the Advertiser.

The Mobile News bids farewell to Senator Morgan and says if ever Bryan was to drop silver it would as readily part with him; as if Senator Morgan is not easy and by far the greater man of the two. Of course if Bryan should drop silver there would be little left about him to which anyone could cling. Although it is a most lamentable calamity that the News must part ways with Senator Morgan, yet we hope and believe he will live through it and come out unscarred. Senator Morgan has neither dropped or forsaken silver and if he were to do so there would yet be enough statesmanship left in him to command the highest respect of every person in the land. The most radical Republican in this county remarked a few days since that Morgan is beyond reasonable contradiction the greatest statesman in the United States Senate and that Alabama will not raise such another perhaps for many centuries. And if those who think that the "glamour of metropolitan life" has divided and weaned him from the people and conditions in this State could hold an interview with him they would find how utterly ignorant they are of the man that he is. An hour spent in his home in Washington would readily dissimilate such ideas of him and the effect his surroundings have upon him.

LIKE THE AMERICAN COMPANY'S PRESS.

An Arkansas Firm Used it Last Season With Great Satisfaction.

From the Commercial Appeal, Memphis.

A. J. Clements, of the firm of Clements & Daniel, cotton ginners, of Lonoke, Ark., was in the city yesterday. Mr. Clements was seen by a Commercial Appeal representative in the office of the American Cotton Company in the Continental building, and he talked very enthusiastically of that company's Roundlap bale press, which he has been operating at his gin the past season. He compressed about 4,000 bales on his Roundlap bale press and the cotton was all sold at the press at Memphis prices. Mr. Clements says that the Roundlap bale from the American Company's press will net from $2.50 to $3 00 more than from the old press. In fact a former a few months ago made a test of the matter bringing the exact number of pounds of the same quality to Mr. Clements that he did to a square bale press, without letting either gin know that he was making the test, and the Roundlap bale netted $3.75 more than the square bale.

Mr. Clements says that one season has satisfied him of the merits of the American Company's Roundlap bale press. It is a good thing, he says, both for the ginner and the farmer, and his firm will continue its use and a endondon its other press entirely.

They Should Know it.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing-down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor, frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in bottle or common glass for 24 hours are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

In fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same remedy.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for 50 cents or $1.

To prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention THE CHRONICLE, and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER. 50 CENTS A YEAR.
(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)
CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better that it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.

Address, THE CHRONICLE,
Columbiana, Ala.

10 CENTS IN SILVER pays for your name in the American Farmers' Directory, which goes whirling all over the United States to publishers, etc., and you will get hundreds of free sample copies of agricultural journals, magazines, newspapers, etc., for two years or more. You will also get free copies of books, catalogues, circulars, etc., of the latest improved farm implements and machinery, and be kept informed upon the latest improved implements. You will get more good reading matter than you could purchase for many times the small cost of 10 cents. We want every farmer's name in the United States in our Directory at once. Address, FARMERS' DIRECTORY CO., P. O. Box 326, Birmingham, Ala.

The Last Call.

Veterans of Shelby and adjoining counties and all lovers of their country, men, women and children, are cordially invited to be present at and to take some part in the reunion, which will convene at Campbranch, August 3 and 4. Bring your baskets as full as circumstances will admit, that all may have and to spare.

On the 3d Veterans will organize, elect officers, drill and prepare for the sham battle. There will be preaching on the 3d at 8 p. m. by some old chaplain of the Confederate Army.

Let me insist on the Veterans bringing their guns and at least twelve blank cartridges loaded with powder, as you know we can not work unless we have tools to work with. We want to do all we can to make the occasion as interesting as possible.

We also want to appoint a time and place for the next reunion. We respectfully ask that there be no intoxicating drinks on the ground during the reunion, as we want peace, harmony and fun to prevail.

Sunday School Committee.

Owing to the death of the chairman of the executive committee of Shelby County Sunday School Association there has as yet been no meeting of the committee held, hence no time has been appointed for holding the county convention. Therefore the committee is earnestly requested to meet at Columbiana on Tuesday, the 1st. day of August, 1899, for the transaction of such business as may come before it.

George Peter, of the Climax Coal Company, was in the city Monday. This is the only corporation in the county that has so far complied with the law in the assessment of its capital stock.

Nothing so thoroughly removes the malarial germ from the system as Prickly Ash Bitters. It gives life and action to the torpid liver, strengthens and assists the kidneys to properly cleanse the blood, gives tone to the stomach, purifies the bowels, and promotes good appetite, vigor and cheerfulness. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. DeCottes, who have been visiting the family of W. B. Browne, returned home to Montgomery on Monday. Mrs. DeCottes was very much improved by her stay here. Chester, Margaret and Myra Browne accompanied them home.

"What's in a name?" The word "bitters" does not always indicate something harsh and disagreeable. Prickly Ash Bitters is proof of this. It cleanses, strengthens and regulates the system thoroughly, yet it is so pleasant the most delicate stomach will not object to it. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

The Harpersville Dramatic Club will render their new play, "A Noble Outcast," at the Academy here on next Tuesday night. Judging from the report of their entertainment at home, published in this issue, they will be well worth seeing. Our people like a good show and they will do well to attend.

G. B. Espy, Alaga, Ala., writes: Have used Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine many years. It cures sour stomach, constipation and disordered liver. There is great difference between it and the Black Draught I used, which griped considerably and did not have the same effect as Dr. M. A. S. L. M., which is mild and thoroughly cleanses the stomach and bowels.

WALTHALL FOR SHERIFF.

Governor Appoints his Friend instead of Committee's Candidate

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING.

C. C. DuBose Recommended for Appointment as Sheriff.

A telegram was received here Wednesday afternoon by Judge Longshore announcing the appointment of Capt. J. L. Walthall as sheriff to fill the vacancy. Captain Walthall has been a close personal friend of the Governor for many years. He is a conservative Democrat, and has supported the Governor in all his races and in all his official acts.

When the news was received here of the appointment the Populists and Republicans openly hailed it as a victory for them. This was doubtless due to the fact that they recognized the Governor's action as a stab at the Democratic organization in the county.

Captain Walthall will no doubt make an efficient officer.

The Democratic executive committee of this county met on Monday. Twelve beats were represented as follows:

Beat 1—W. B. Browne, J. R. White, J. F. Averyt.
2—J. W. Carden, G. E. Abbett.
5—John Harmon, John Waddell
6—J. E. Ruffin.
7—C. L. O'Neal.
8—T. W. Lester.
9—J. L. Ray.
10—T. J. Martin, D. W. Kidd.
11—Dr. B. H. Smothers.
12—Earl Cross.
15—R. M. Hollis.
16—Dr. E. P. Chandler.

The chairman stated the object of the meeting to be the recommendation of a candidate to be appointed sheriff to fill the vacancy caused by the death of E. F. Vest.

A motion was made by T. J. Martin to take a vote on the candidates spoken of, and that the one receiving a majority of all the votes cast be given the unanimous recommendation of the committee.

This motion prevailed, and the first ballot showed that five names had been voted for, C. C. DuBose, J. L. Walthall, S. W. Nelson, W. T. Smith and J. E. Ruffin. The two last named were not candidates. On this ballot Mr. DuBose received 8 votes, and on the second ballot he received 9. This being a majority, a motion prevailed to unanimously recommend him for appointment. There was not a dissenting vote to this motion, and the chairman was instructed to inform the Governor of the committee's action and to ask for the appointment of Mr. DuBose.

After the committee adjourned Mr. DuBose presented a petition to members of the committee, and every member present signed it, with the exception of three who had left town before being seen, but these three had voted for him originally. So that the recommendation of the committee was a unanimous one, officially and individually.

Mr. DuBose afterwards secured the individual endorsement of leading Democrats in this beat, Calera, Montevallo and Helena. With these he hurried away to see the Governor, accompanied by Chairman Browne.

The three first-named candidates had previously agreed with Mr. Browne to submit their claims to the committee, and to abide the result. After the meeting, however, it was learned that Captain Walthall was still an applicant. He went to Birmingham to see the Governor, accompanied by Mr. J. R. Beavers.

We were somewhat misinformed last week as to the standing of the Populist candidates, in that we stated that Mr. Porter had the endorsement of Judge Longshore and Mr. Pearson. B. L. Moore took with him to Montgomery the written endorsement of these two gentlemen.

Captain Walthall was in town today and informed us that he had not agreed to abide the committee's action. He will qualify at once and take charge of the office.

Johnston is still Governor.

We had fine rains last week.

Crops are looking well now considering the long drouth which has at last been broken.

The famous goose case of Creswell, was tried here last week.

T. J. Martin and D. W. Kidd met with the Democratic committee Monday.

Dentist W. R. Johnson, of Cropwell, spent Saturday and Sunday in our community.

Colonel Kidd carried a drove of cattle to Birmingham last week.

Two cases from the Creswell court was brought up to the Harpersville supreme court and tried last week.

Mrs. Bradley and her daughter, Miss Johnnie, are visiting Mrs. Bradley's children at Montevallo Junction this week.

Pretty Miss Nena Johnston, of Cropwell, but recently of Wanesboro, Tenn., came down last Saturday to spend some time with her friend, Miss Stella Posey.

The play given here Friday and Saturday nights was very well attended, considering the unfavorable weather. There was about $16 realized.

Our farmers are about through work, and some of them have had quite a hard time keeping hands. They hire hands and keep them until the hands hear of a better place they think there is more money, and off they go, leaving the farmer to do the best he can, if he gets more hands it is alright and if he don't it is alright, so he makes a little more he don't care who sinks. Such things are being practiced to some extent by some preachers and teachers; they hear of a better job where there is more money and off they go trampling their word under their feet, and all striving for that "mighty dollar." Such things are happening and can't be disputed.

JAKE.

The Harpersville Dramatic Club gave one of their delightful entertainments on Friday evening, 21st. inst., presenting "A Noble Outcast."

The play is a pretty melo-drama, breathing the sentiment of the triumphs of love over persecution and wrong—old as the hills, yet still thrilling the hearts of men and women in whatever guise it comes.

The title role was faithfully and touchingly rendered by Henry B. Walthall. His delineation of the triple character of tramp, suffering innocence and generous hero may well become an acknowledged histrionic artist.

The leading lady of the play, France daughter of Colonel Lee, was charmingly represented by Miss M. E. Worsham. She was equally successful as sweet fiance and distressed beauty.

They were given a fine support by Mr. L. Kidd as the generous Colonel; Dr. J. R. Martin as the villain; Mr. J. Webb Martin as the manly lover, and by Misses Walthall and Darby, representing a noble wife and mother and a very pearl of servant girls. Altogether, it was an exceptionally fine performance. As an amateur performance your correspondent has never seen it surpassed.

Nunnelly and family, Miss Lula Morgan, Mrs. M. F. Morrow and daughter, A. H. Quince.

Shelby Springs is alive with an elegant class of people from different parts of the country. Games of various sort are participated in and music and dancing to the hearts content. Wednesday morning twenty-two couples were engaged in a game of progressive euchre. The lawns are brimfull of children, and everybody is enjoying themselves hugely.

Mrs. Victor Hansen, of Montgomery, and her charming sisters, the Misses White, of Uniontown, are especially popular guests. Miss Lucy Leeper, of Anniston, is also a great favorite: but really there are too many charming guests to discriminate. Miss Lula Morgan, of Selma, so well and favorably known has arrived, to the delight of her friends, which are legion. Mrs. Spencer's family, of Gallion, and Mrs. Turke add much to the sociability of the season. Mrs. C. G. Zirkle, of Montgomery, ranks next to Mrs. Hansen as the handsomest lady on the premises.

There will be an entertainment in the dining hall at Shelby Springs. Something new and novel. Ten cents admission will be charged for the purpose of starting a fund for a silver service for our battleship Alabama. We hope for a crowd from our sister towns.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mummia Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the perfect preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre The cost of fertilizers used was $1 77 per acre.

The Journal does not guarantee results, but the result of the test at the Experiment Station make it worth a farmer's while to try these seed when they cost him nothing.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

Keep the Surface in Shape.

In order to get the best results, the farmer should always keep the surface covered with either a mulch of vegetation or by keeping three or four inches of the surface thoroughly pulverized and loosened up, so that no water can come up through it from below. This will tend to keep down the detrimental results of drought.

Cut Crimson Clover Early.

It is very important that crimson clover should be cut for hay not later than the time of full bloom. The calyx is covered with rough, sharp-pointed hairs, which become stiff and brittle when the clover is fully ripe. It has been found that these hairs are liable to cause the formation of intestinal concretions, phyto-bezoars, or hair balls, especially when the ripe seed heads of the crimson clover are eaten by horses or cattle. Many losses are liable to occur unless care is taken in the feeding.

Food Value of Eggs.

The popular opinion is that eggs with brown shells have a higher food value than those with white shells. The California State Agriculture station recently made an extended study of the composition of eggs, to determine whether there was any basis of fact for the common opinion. The popular opinion was not borne out by the chemical analysis, and the examination proved that the main points of superiority, though extremely slight, are possessed by the white eggs, so far as food value is concerned. Compared with other food at the usual prices, eggs at 12 cents per dozen were found to be a cheap source of nutriment, while at 16 cents per dozen they are fairly expensive, and at 25 cents per dozen and over they are very expensive.—Humane Alliance.

Cultivating Crops.

Too frequently the work of cultivating crops is neglected too long. Land will be carefully prepared for planting and after the seed is planted nothing is done with the crop until the weeds make a considerable start. By this time the ground is hard in most instances and doesn't work up nicely all through the seasons, besides it takes a good deal more labor to keep out the weeds than it does to nip them in the bud. If you never allow a crust to form on top of your ground you will have no weeds to bother in cultivation or rob your crops of fertility. A weeder, or some light cultivator, in an hour's time will do more work in the way of destroying weeds than a plow will do later on in a whole day. Ground that is properly prepared for any crop in the spring does not have to be cultivated deep to keep it loose and pliable. Keep the surface properly worked and the rest will take care of itself. The main thing in cultivating any crop is to begin in time and work land often. Cultivators of the very latest and improved patterns can be bought very cheaply now, and it doesn't pay to try to get along with poor tools. It is false economy to do so.—Farmer's Guide.

Dairy Rules.

The Iowa Agricultural College creamery has promulgated the following rules, which could be profitably observed by all patrons of creameries and dairymen in general:

1. Nothing but tin pails should be used in the milkyard, as it is impossible to keep wooden pails sweet.
2. The cows' udders should be carefully washed before any milk is drawn.
3. Milk should be aired immediately by pouring or dripping from pail to pail before cooling, and then be cooled as quickly as possible to at least 60 degrees.
4. Milk should be kept where the surrounding air is pure and free from stable odors or taint of any kind.
5. Morning's milk should be cooled before mixing with the evening's milk.
6. Cows should not be permitted to drink stagnant or impre water, but should have abundance of good water.
7. Cows should be driven quietly to and from pasture.
8. Cans and pails should be washed carefully with warm water, but not hot, and care should be taken to clean the seams of the receptacles; then they should be scalded thoroughly with hot water and be aired.

When Buying Cows.

In buying cows the age of the animal is of great importance, and how to approximate the age from an examination of the cows is necessary knowledge. The old well-drilled expert depends more upon the general appearance, particularly the head and eye, while the next best judge, the average buyer, counts the rings on the horns, allowing three years for the tip. These rings usually mean births of calves, for they seem to be caused more by the trouble of motherhood than the mere passing of years. In judging Jerseys that calve usually at two years of age, the tip must be counted as two instead of three, as with native and beef cattle. But the horn signs are rapidly becoming eliminated by the custom of cutting off the horns, especially of old cows, sometimes for the very purpose of taking down her sign of old age.

The most exact test of a cow's age is the condition of her teeth. The beginner will remember that she has front teeth only on the lower jaws, and after calfhood there should up to old age be but eight of them. At two years of age she has shed the two centre milk teeth, and their substitutes are much longer than the remaining milk teeth.

At five years old she should have a perfect set of mature teeth, and at ten years old they should be about half worn down. As a cow's usefulness to a great extent depends upon the condition of her teeth, we should make that the governing test. For instance, a cow that drops her calf before she is twenty months old, as many Jerseys do, and then has to pick a living from short pasture on a sandy soil, may carry a five-year-old horn and ten-year-old teeth. Thus while she is really only five years old, she is for your purpose practically ten years old. Unlike the horse, whose teeth grow long with age, making a fine field for the jockey to file them to look young, the cow's wear down and defy the work of the cow jockey.—Farm and Home.

Treatment of the Peach Borer.

When borers once get into a peach tree there is nothing to do but to cut them out. No application can be made to the outside of a tree to kill the borers inside of it. The proper way is to keep them out from the beginning. No young trees should be set out until they have been examined for borers, and no tree injured by them should be put in.

The trees should be wrapped with a double thickness of newspaper when set out, so that at least 15 inches of the trunk is covered above ground, and this wrapping should remain until the middle of September. When the wrappings are taken off the trees should be closely examined, and if any borers have made their way in above the papers they should be cut out. Thereafter the trees should be annually protected by paper wrappings, put on not later than the first week in June, and preferably before the first of that month. This protection to continue each year to the middle of September.

Hydraulic cement mixed with skim-milk is equally effective, and may be preferable on young trees. It is sufficiently lasting and cheap, and any borers attempting to enter above it are at once seen, since there is nothing to shelter them. In tying on papers do not use too strong or stiff a twine. Peach trees grow rapidly and may become girdled, unless the twine is somewhat yielding and breaks under a moderate strain. A little retying may be required in August on young, rapidly growing trees. Such are the results of elaborate inquiry and tests at the New Jersey experiment station as summarized by Professor John B. Smith in Bulletin 128.

Fruit Growing on Wornout Land.

A man should plant his fruit and everything else on the very best soil he can, using judgment and discrimination of course. I write the following merely to show what can be done when one is driven to use very poor land.

Some years ago, wishing to considerably extend my strawberry acreage, and having no other land convenient, I was forced to make use of some notorious for its poverty. Farming on it made the unhappy tenant such a butt for all the wags of the neighborhood that it had come to pass that no one would cultivate it. It was jocosely affirmed that it was so poor and weak that the effort to sprout a pea made it grunt.

Some of the land I sowed in peas for a year before planting in strawberries. Some after plowing well and manuring as follows, I put in strawberries at once. There was considerable diversity of soil ranging from extreme sandiness, through "crawfishy" pipe clay to a little stiff red clay in places.

As the soil was depleted of every ingredient of plant food, especially of potash, I manured it heavily, one ton kainit, 800 pounds cotton-seed meal and 800 pounds acid phosphate per acre.

About three-fourths of this was sown broadcast and well harrowed in before planting, except 300 pounds of the cottonseed meal, which was applied in the drill; half the remainder was applied as a top dressing over the plants the following November, and what was left was sown likewise the following March. In using heavy quantities of fertilizers like this as a top dressing, I scatter it over the whole field, middles as well as beds. What falls on the plants will do no harm, provided it is applied only in winter while the plants are in a dormant state.

Now for the result. My plants made a quick and magnificent growth. I never saw finer or more vigorous ones. The wags quit laughing before June was out. Although the summer was dry, they maintained a healthy condition and grew till cold weather set in.

The next spring that field was the earliest to bloom and the earliest to ripen of any field that I had. The berries were large and well colored and sold as well as any that grew that year. The yield, while not as heavy as that on some of my richer plots, which had been heavily manured for years, was a large one and paid well.

Since then the field has kept up and even increased its yield. But I have fed it liberally, especially with potash manures, kainit and muriate of potash. Where heavy yearly applications are made it is better to use, say, 600 pounds kainit and 400 to 600 pounds muriate of potash.

The ammonia in cotton-seed meal or in nitrate of soda gives a fine plant growth. The phosphoric acid in acid phosphate or dissolved bone aids the plant growth and enters in a considerable degree in the formation of the fruit. The potash in kainit or muriate of potash, while promoting plant growth, enters in a very large degree indeed in the making of the fruit or berry.

Stable manure or any fresh rich land will make as fine a plant growth as one can wish to see. And often very good crops of berries can be thus grown. But heavy crops of the finest berries or fruit of any kind can be grown only when the desideratum potash is supplied in quantities commensurate with the demand. And yearly heavy cropping calls for a yearly heavy supply, if there is to be no falling off in yield.—O. A. Blacknall in American Cultivator.

On a Chinese Railroad.

Soon we were rolling along toward Tien-Tsin in a commodious first-class car. In a short time the ticket-collector came strolling along the corridor, followed by a policeman, who carried a heavy stick. This guardian of the peace said to me, with a knowing smile on his face: "Suppose no man payee my ticket, my makee flog," and with these words he passed to the scene of his labors in the second-class car. The car in which we traveled was of the ordinary first-class type, roomy, and perfectly ventilated by a clear-story roof and narrow central corridor, which ran the whole length of the vehicle.—Railway Magazine

Hon. John W. Tomlinson's Selection.

Hon. John W. Tomlinson, of Birmingham, who was elected president of the National Bimetallic League at the recent meeting of the executive committee of the league at Chicago, returned from that city Suturday. He said that everybody at the various silver and democratic meetings in Chicago was for the renomination of Bryan, and he believed that Bryan would unquestionably be the next democratic presidential nominee. Mr. Tomlinson said that he also found sentiment among the democratic leaders very strongly against the war in the Philippines. The opinion, he said, seemed to be that it was wrong for a strong nation like the United States to be keeping up an expensive war to reduce a handful of miserable foreigners. Mr. Tomlinson added that his elevation to the presidency of the Bimetallic League was wholly unexpected.

Alabama's Lands Will Not Be Sold.

Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock has disapproved a recommendation of the commissioner of the general land office for the sale of all the public lands in Alabama by public auction. These unoccupied and unreserved lands in the state aggregate 522,573 acres, over the proposed disposition of which there has been considerable agitation. General Wheeler has recommended that the public sale of all the lands be postponed until congress can have an opportunity to legislate authority for the state to make selections of lands, and that the residue be publicly auctioned off. Secretary Hitchcock concurs in this view, and congress must take the next step.

Tragedy at Hayneville.

A difficulty on senatorial election day between David Meadows and Samuel Varner ended Saturday at Hayneville in a shooting affray, and the result is that Varner will die. On election day Varner is said to have used rough language towards David Meadows, and Saturday morning Varner rode to the house of Ransom Meadows to see Mr. Balser, who lives with him and the difficulty was renewed between Varner and Ransom Meadows, brother to David Meadows. Meadows said, "I suppose you cursed Brother Dave" More words followed and Varner was shot.

There were no means of identification.

BIG CROP OF CORN.

Enormous Yield Anticipated in Kansas and Nebraska.

Kansas and Nebraska are getting their superlatives ready to apply to the corn crop, says the Kansas City Star. Here is the middle of July, and there has not been a whimper of complaint about the prospects, for any cause, from any section. Thus far the month has been the wettest on record, and about as wet as any other month of the year. Water is all these states need to make a crop. The corn everywhere is growing like a magic beanstalk. It is silking and tasseling all over Kansas, and the fields that were planted earliest, in Southern Kansas, are accounted made. The present status of the corn crop of the two states is the most promising ever known at this season of the year, and the acreage is larger than ever before. The statistician of the department of agriculture at Washington gives Kansas credit for 9,152,000 acres of corn, and Nebraska 8,240,000 acres, a total of 17,372,000 acres, or more than a fifth of the entire corn acreage of the whole country.

THE CABLES OF THE WORLD.

The French Government Leads in Length of Cable.

The various governments of the world own together 880 cables, having a total length of 14,480 miles and containing 21,560 miles of conductors. The French government, which takes the lead as to the length of cables, has 3,400 miles of fifty-four cables. As to number, the Norwegian government comes first with 255 cables, having a total length of 248 miles. Finally, as to the length of conductors, the English government comes first with 5,468 miles of conductors, divided among 115 cables; having a total length of 1,588 miles.

Private companies to the number of twenty-eight own 288 cables, having a length of 126,864 miles and containing 127,632 miles of conductors. The French companies, only two in number—the Compagnie Francaise du Telegraphe de Paris a New York and the Societe Francaise des Delegraphes Sous-Marins—have eighteen cables, with a total length of 7,249 nautical miles. The most important of the private companies is the Eastern Telegraph company, which operates seventy-five cables, with a total length of 25,347 miles.

The total number of cables in the world is 1,168, with a total length of 140,344 miles and 149,193 miles of conductors. This is not sufficient to reach the moon, but would extend more than half way there.

Four Courtship Sundays.

The four Sundays of November are observed as fete days in Holland. They are known by the curious names —Review, Decision, Purchase and Possession—and all refer to matrimonial affairs, November in Holland being the month par excellence devoted to courtship and marriage, probably because the agricultural occupations of the year are over, and possibly because the lords of creation, from quite remote antiquity, have recognized the pleasantness of having wives to cook and cater for them during the long winter.

On Review Sunday everybody goes to church, and after service there is a church parade in every village, when the youths and maidens gaze upon each other, but forbear to speak.

On Decision Sunday each bachelor, who is seeking a wife, approaches the maiden of his choice with a ceremonious bow, and from her manner of responding judges whether his advances are acceptable. Purchase Sunday, the consent of the parents is sought, if the suit has prospered during the week. Not till Possession Sunday, however, do the twain appear as actual or prospective brides and grooms.

A Remarkable Family.

In Austin county, Texas, there is a remarkable German family consisting of fifty-six people. Casper Schmidt and wife, the founders of the family, are still alive. M. Schmidt went to Texas and settled the league that his descendants occupied in very early times. Strangely enough he had but one son. This son, however, whose name is John Schmidt, married when he was 20 years of age and he raised fifteen boys and girls. Five of these have married, but not one has yet left the parental roof. These five married sons and daughters have twenty-five children and there are six great-grandchildren of Casper Schmidt in the family.

BUSINESS APES.

They Make Their Living Detecting Spurious Siamese Coins.

In that far-off, dried-up little oriental country—quite near China, you know—there are large quantities of counterfeit coin in circulation, and the counterfeiters of Siam must be most proficient, for we hear that it is the hardest thing in the world to detect the bad from the good money.

The merchants are often deceived and frequently swindled. The smartest men they could employ were deceived, too, for the bad money was such a wonderful imitation that the closest scrutiny often failed to find the difference between a good and a bad piece.

In this dilemma some Siamese merchants called in to their help some one who was always thought not so smart as a man—monkey. And these "large apes of Siam" proved such a success at their new avocation that the custom of employing them for the purpose of detecting bad money has become universal. The ape cashier of Siam holds his situation without a rival.

He has a peculiar method of testing coin. Every piece is handed to him, and he picks up each bit of money, one at a time, and meditatively puts it into his mouth, tasting it with grave deliberation. If the coin is good he declares the fact plainly. He takes it from his mouth and carefully places it in its proper receptacle beside him. He has pronounced judgment, and every one is satisfied that the judgment is correct.

But if the coin is bad, the cashier makes known his verdict in an equally unmistakable manner. He throws it violently from his mouth to the floor, shaking his head with as much disgust as the merchant himself might feel at being imposed upon. With loud chattering and angry gestures he makes known his displeasure at being presented with a bad piece of money. The merchant himself could not express it better.

Now, how does a monkey know what a man cannot tell? Ah, that is his secret! He never reveals it.—The Independent.

SOLOMON'S TEMPLE.

A Pretty Costly Edifice if the Accounts of It Are True.

"A Biblical student in this city," says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, "declares that if the descriptions of Solomon's temple are accurately given in the Bible and by secular authorities, the total value of that edifice and its contents must have exceeded $50,000,000,000. In the first place, the value of the materials in the rough is estimated at $12,500,000,000, and the labor at $3,000,000,000. According to Villalpandis 10,000 men were engaged in dressing cedar lumber, 80,000 were engaged in cutting stone, and 60,000 in bearing burdens, for a period of seven years, who, in addition to their wages, received 50 cents a day for food. According to the same authority, which is corroborated by Josephus, the vessels of gold were valued at 140,000 talents, which, reduced to American money, is equal to $2,326,-481,015. The vessels of silver are calculated at $3,231,715,000, the vestments of the priests and the robes of the singers at $10,050,000, and the value of the trumpets of gold was $1,000,000."

Illuminating Pike's Peak.

A special from Denver says: The success of the illumination of Pike's Peak has started plans for a similar affair during the convention of the Cryptic Rite Masons on the peak the week of August 6. The special trains will arrive in sight of the peak very early the morning of August 7. From midnight till daylight the peak will blaze with fires emblematic of the different degrees of Masonry, ending with the burning of a ton of purple fire just as the first pink streaks of early dawn illuminate the eastern sky. Every night during the conclave fires of various hues will burn on the mountain and stand out in bold relief in the darkness. During the trip across the state from Glenwood Springs the visitors' trains will pass through a continuous stream of red fire up to 1 o'clock in the morning. Men on every engine will ignite and throw out small parcels of fire. These will burn only a minute each, but will keep the train in a red glare continuously during the night.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this: it prevents their formation.

It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address,

HALF A HUNDRED ARE KILLED

TWO FEARFUL ACCIDENTS RESULT IN GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

TROLLEY CAR FALLS FROM TRESTLE; GANG PLANK BREAKS

Both Accidents Were Scenes of Indescribable Horror--Death List Incomplete.

Nearly forty persons were killed by an accident on the Stratford extension of the Shelton Street Railway Company at Bridgeport, Conn., Sunday afternoon, when a loaded trolley car went off the trestle over Peck's millpond at Oronoque, about six miles north of the city, and sank in the flats forty feet below. Thus far thirty-one people are known to be dead and several more injured.

Only two persons are known to have escaped unharmed.

It is believed that there were forty-three passengers on the car, but the indicator was removed by a conductor of another car and spirited away, so that at present it is impossible to state accurately the number aboard.

The scene of the accident is midway between Shelton and Bridgeport. The car was north-bound, running toward Shelton. It was in charge of Conductor John Carroll, of Bridgeport, who was among the killed, and Motorman Hamilton, of Bridgeport, who escaped by jumping.

The trestle 440 feet long, made of iron, with stone foundations, and was not protected by guard rails. South of the trestle is an incline down which the car ran at a high rate of speed. After it ran onto the trestle for about ten feet, the trucks left the rails and then the car continued on the ties for about seventy-five feet, when it went off the trestle and dropped into the pond below, overturning completely and up-ending. When the car struck, the four-ton motor and the heavy trucks crushed into it, instantly killing many of the passengers.

Three physicians, who were passengers on a car a short distance behind, arrived quickly on the scene and rendered all possible assistance to the injured. Word was sent to Bridgeport and three ambulances were hurried to the scene.

The injured were taken to Bridgeport general hospital. A morgue was improved in the main room of the town hall at Stratford and in a very shot time twenty-three bodies were laid out awaiting identification.

The accident was witnessed by Miss Francis Peck, who resides about 400 feet from the bridge. She was upstairs at her home as the car was passing, and she says it was running unusually fast. Frank Cramer, who was bathing near the bridge, states that the passengers were all singing and in the most joyful mood as they passed him.

At Bar Harbor, Maine, Sunday, while a crowd of excursionists were on the way to the warships, a slip leading from the dock to the boat at Mount Desert ferry broke, precipitating more than 100 into the water.

Twenty bodies had been recovered up to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and it is estimated that the dead will number thirty or more. Seventeen were drowned and three died from the terrible experience of immersion in the water and injuries while struggling for life.

The Maine Central railroad ran excursions to Bar Harbor from all sections of its line in Maine, the attraction being the warships which were expected during the day.

All the morning long trains packed with excursionists were rushing to Bar Harbor. The train which left Bangor at 8:25 consisted of twelve cars jammed with people. At Mount Desert ferry, the terminus of the line, the passengers have to leave the train and take the boat for an eight-mile sail to Bar Harbor.

From the wharf a slip or gang-plank forty feet long and ten feet wide led up to the boat. The slip was hinged at the inner end, the outer end being supported by chains by which it was raised or lowed to suit the tide. It is said that there was no support for the plank between the hinges and the outer end.

When the excursion train from Bangor arrived at the ferry there was a rush for the steamer Sappho. The first few passengers had crossed the gang plank safely, and it is estimated that 200 people were massed upon the plank. Suddenly they felt the plank give way beneath them.

The long timbers supporting the plank broke in the middle. The hinges held up one end and the chain the other, while the broken ends of the plank dropped, and a struggling, screaming mass of humanity was plunged into the water fifteen feet below the wharf. A few clung to the inclined sides of the plank, but at least 150 were struggling in the water.

After the first moment of stupefaction, the work of rescue began. Ropes and life preservers were thrown to the crowd, but in the panic the people in the water clutched one another and many sank thus in groups in a death grapple.

Many taken from the water were unconscious and were revived with difficulty.

WANT MAYOR TO RESIGN

Atlanta's Municipal Head Is Charged With Violating His Solemn Pledge As To Indulgence In Strong Drink---Exciting Caucus of City Council.

The members of the Atlanta, Ga., city council held a caucus Saturday afternoon and adopted a resolution offered by Councilman Maddox, demanding the resignation of Mayor J. G. Woodward.

When the caucus was ready for business, Mr. Maddox secured the floor and said:

"Some two or three weeks ago council decided to investigate the conduct of the mayor. He was allowed opportunity to do better, but the reports in the press state that he has again been guilty of being drunk."

After a few other remarks, Mr. Maddox declared that the mayor should be asked to resign. He then offered the following resolution:

"Whereas, Mayor James G. Woodward is again charged with neglecting his official duties, and also it is not believed he has kept faith with the general council touching his promise to abstain from excessive use of whisky, thereby destroying his influence and reflecting upon the fair name of the city; therefore,

"Be it resolved by this general council, That Mayor James G. Woodward be and is hereby requested to tender to this body his resignation of the position of mayor of Atlanta by Monday morning."

The resolution was passed with three dissenting votes.

There was a spirited discussion over the matter and some red-hot speeches were made. The three dissenting councilmen opposed the resolution on the ground that no evidence was produced.

One suggestive statement was that made by Councilman Parks, who said that the air was full or rumors to the effect that the mayor's downfall was due to a prominent stockholder in one of the street railway companies.

NITE WAS CONVICTED.

Survivor of Notorious Dalton Gang Gets Life Sentence.

The Jim Nite murder trial was ended at Henderson, Texas, Saturday night by the jury returning a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, assessing defendant's punishment at life imprisonment. The state succeeded in proving that Nite is Jim Jones, who assisted in robbing the Longview, Texas, bank and killing and wounding several prominent citizens in the fight that followed. Nite is the only surviving member of the notorious Dalton gang, the others having been killed while resisting arrest since this occurred.

FAST TRAINS COLLIDE.

Railway Accident In France Results In Loss of Seventeen Lives.

A Paris cablegram states that seventeen persons were killed and thirty-seven injured in a collision Saturday evening on the Orleans railway at Juvisy. The disaster was the result of imperfect signaling.

The collision was between the Orleans line's Paris and Nantes 9:40 train and the Paris and Lyons Mediterranean train, which left late.

MORE PAPER CURRENCY

Is Needed For Moving Crops--Order For Printing Gold Certificates.

The treasury department Saturday made requisition upon the bureau of engraving and printing for the printing of $10,000,000 gold certificates in denominations of twenty dollars each. The treasurer now holds a large unissued supply of certificates of the larger denominations. It is the evident intention of the treasury department to be in a position to issue gold certificates freely for gold coin, should the fall movement or currency lead to a demand at the treasury for gold certificates in exchange for gold coin.

FIVE WERE DROWNED.

Rowboat Turns Over and Four Men and a Woman Go Down.

Five persons were drowned early Saturday morning by the capsizing of a small rowboat in the northwest branch of the Patapsco river, near Baltimore.

The party was returning from a day's outing at a pleasure resort, and from the statements of Mrs. Deems, the only survivor, were rocking the skiff when it capsized.

CARRIED TO BOSTON.

Miss Jewett Takes Charge of the Family of Murdered Negro Postmaster Baker.

A special from Charleston, S. C., says: Lillian Clayton Jewett, the Boston girl who recently created a sensation among the negroes of that city by declaring that she would come to Charleston and take north with her the family of the late Frazier Baker colored, who was lynched at Lake City, S. C., 1897, with a view to beginning an agitation against mob law, has carried out her design.

Miss Jewett arrived Friday morning, accompanied by her mother and a young man named R. G. Larsen, who is a Boston journalist. She had frequent conferences with the Baker woman and her friends; and as a result she left the city for Boston Saturday afternoon, accompanied by the entire Baker family, the mother and five children.

Miss Jewett paid for the tickets of the Baker family to Boston, and she also bought a number of small articles of clothing for the woman and her children.

Miss Jewett said her plans for the future were not yet formulated, but she proposed to hold mass meetings throughout the north to arouse popular sentiment against lynching and mob law generally.

The Rev. J. L. Dart, a colored minister of Charleston, who has recently spent some time in Boston, opposed violently the removal of the Bakers from Charleston. He declares that Miss Jewett did not represent the better class of white or colored people in Boston. He says she and those who stand with her merely want to get control of the Bakers to make notoriety and money for themselves.

CHINA GAVE BOND

Not To Furnish Arms To Filipinos and Will Now Have To Pay.

Hon. John Goodnow, consul general of the United States at Shanghai, China, has rendered a decision as referee in the consular court which will be of far-reaching importance during the continuance of the war in the Philippines.

The case was in relation to the steamer Abbey, charged with taking arms from Canton to Luzon. It has been in contention for some time. The owners of the vessel gave a bond that the ship should land the arms purchased at Singapore, but she did not do so. The bond was demanded by the Chinese customs authorities. Mr. Goodnow holds that it must be paid.

RACE TROUBLE EXPECTED.

Negroes At Greenville, S. C., Arm Themselves and Threaten Whites.

According to a special dispatch Greenville, S. C., was on the verge of a race riot Sunday night and excitement was high. A negro shot into the house of a white operative at the Poe mill and the operatives had him arrested. The negroes heard he was to be lynched and began to gather in large numbers to protect the shooter. In turn the whites got together and there was for several hours desultory firing between the two crowds.

FEVER SCARE SUBSIDING.

Latest Reports Indicate That the Epidemic Is Limited.

Surgeon General Wyman, of the marine hospital corps, received a telegram Saturday night from Dr. Vickery, of the Hampton Soldiers' home, in which he said the epidemic seemed limited. No new cases developed during the day and only one death occurred Friday.

The inmates of the home are being removed to tents and the barracks thoroughly disinfected. Dr. Wasdin reports forty-two cases and eleven deaths to date.

United States Cruiser New Orleans, Arrives at City of San Domingo.

Solemn funeral services in memory of the late President Heureaux, who was assassinated at Moca July 26th, were held at San Domingo, Hayti, Friday. The diplomatic and consular body was present.

The news from the interior indicates that tranquility prevails, though troops have been sent to Moca in pursuit of the assassins.

The United States cruiser New Orleans arrived at San Domingo Friday,

TWO DEATHS AT HAMPTON.

No New Cases of Fever, However, Were Reported For Friday.

Official reports of the marine hospital service at Washington from the Soldiers' home at Hampton show that the yellow fever situation there continues favorable. Surgeon White reports to Dr. Wyman that there is nothing suspicious in the town of Hampton. There were no new cases and only two deaths at the home Friday, according to a report from Dr. Vickery, the surgeon at the institution, sent to the surgeon general.

CANADIANS UNFRIENDLY

Dominion Officials Turn Down Invitation From This Side.

THEY REFUSE TO VISIT CHICAGO

Were Asked to Be Present at Laying of a Corner Stone In Windy City.

Mr. F. W. Fitzpatrick, of the treasury department, has just returned to Washington from Ottawa, where he went at the instance of the committee of citizens of Chicago in charge of ceremonies of the laying of the corner stone of that city's great postoffice building next October by President McKinley, to arrange for the formal invitation and expected acceptance of an invitation from Chicago's citizens to the governor general and cabinet of Canada to participate in the festivities. Mr. Fitzpatrick is the assistant United States architect under Architect Henry Ives Cobb for the Chicago building.

To an Associated Press representative he admitted that his official reception was slightly chilly, Sir Wilfrid Lauier very candidly told him that under the present conditions it would be impossible for him to accept or even consider any social invitations to this side of the border.

Mr. Fitzpatrick says that in substance Sir Wilfrid's voluntary statement and answer to queries was as follows:

"As a friend in whom I am deeply interested I am very glad to see you, but frankly as a representative of the federal or any local government in the United States, your visit could not have been more untimely. When I received your first letter I took up the matter with his excellency, the governor general, and he expressed a sincere desire to visit Chicago and seemed as anxious to accept the invitation as I was. He would have been delighted to go and we were looking forward to the day with much anticipation. But since then the tone of your press has become so harsh in dealing with the Alaskan boundary question, such misrepresentations have been made about our government, and particularly about me, that it would be undignified for us to visit you and I cannot advise his excellency to go."

Mr. Fitzpatrick said that Sir Wilfrid intimated that in the present state of public feeling in the United States as indicated in the press it would not be entirely safe for the governor general and himself to visit Chicago, as he feared that they might, in a great gathering of such a character as the Chicago ceremony, be subjected to some unpleasantness or indignity by thoughtless persons.

Sir Wilfrid expressed himself in favor of arbitrating the Alaskan boundary dispute and concluded the interview as follows:

"So, much as I regret, I could not go to Chicago under present conditions and must, however a painful duty it may be, advise his excellency to decline the invitation that I know and feel has been so kindly extended to us by the city of Chicago."

Mr. Fitzpatrick secured Sir Wilfrid's promise, however, to consider the matter.

UNDERWOOD CLAIMS DAMAGES.

Alleges That Publisher of "The Confederate Veteran" Libeled Him.

At Nashville, Tenn., Friday General John C. Underwood, of Covington, Ky., entered suit in the United States circuit court against L. A. Cunningham, of Nashville, and the publishing house of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, for $50,000 for libel.

The bill filed states that defendants did falsely and maliciously publish of and concerning the plaintiff, who is the superintendent and secretary of the Confederate Memorial Association, in a newspaper periodical called The Confederate Veteran, of which Cunningham is editor, and the publishing house published certain false and defamatory matter with intent to defame the plaintiff.

MORMON CHURCH DEMOLISHED.

Kentucky Mob Chops Building Into Kindling Wood With Axes.

President Ben E. Rich, of the southern Mormons' headquarters in Chattanooga, Tenn., has received a letter from Elder L. M. Figgins, who is laboring in Kentucky, stating that an angry mob of Kentuckians destroyed a Mormon church at Beechburg, Fleming county, Kentucky.

Elder Figgins told in his letter that the mob took great pains to destroy the church so that it could not be rebuilt of the same timber, and that they could not get the fire insurance they carried on the church. The building was chopped to pieces with axes.

WORK OF THE STORM

Additional Particulars Show That Three Towns Were Wrecked.

HUNDREDS OF FAMILIES HOMELESS

The Destruction More Extensive Than Was at First Reported—Fifteen Vessels Were Beached.

Additional particulars of the Gulf storm which swept over a section of Florida a few days ago indicate that the work of devastation was more extensive than was at first reported.

The cyclone completely annihilated Carrabelle, McIntyre and Lanard Inn, south of River Junction. At Carrabelle only nine houses remain of a once beautiful and prosperous town. Communications from the mayor state 200 families are without home or shelter, and many are destitute.

Of McIntyre only two mill boilers mark the site of the town. Lanark Inn, the famous summer resort, was blown into the gulf.

The Carrabelle, Tallahassee and Georgia railroad is washed away for a distance of thirty miles. A passenger train was blown from the track more than 100 yards. Many passengers were injured, but their names are unobtainable. Mary Williams, colored, was killed at Carrabelle. Numerous others had legs and arms broken. Daniel Neel, of Apalachicola, had his back broken and is not expected to recover.

No fatalities are reported from McIntyre and Lanark.

Fifteen ships lying at anchor in Dow island cove and upper anchorage are now all high and dry on St. George's and Dog island. Twelve were loaded with lumber and ready for sea. Nothing remains of them but a mass of wreckage. When the Italian bark Corteria struck, she split in two from stem to stern.

Three pilot boats and steamers Oila and Capitola, and forty boats under twenty tons were lost. Six lumber lighters, loaded, are gone. Not one of the entire fleet can be saved.

Five unidentified bodies were recovered Friday, supposed to the sailors.

Fifty destitute sailors were brought here today and are being cared for. A mass meeting of citizens is being held here tonight, and all possible aid will be given the Carrabelle destitute. One million dollars will not cover the loss. The insurance is small.

INDIAN UPRISING GROWS.

Redskins In Mexico Are Vacating Towns and Going to the Woods.

A special to the Chicago Tribune from the City of Mexico says:

"Dispatches from Guayamas show that the Yaquis' insurrection is constantly growing in extent and all the Indians in the towns along the river are rising in arms and taking to the woods and mountains to join their companions already arrayed against the authorities. Jack Ramsay, the famous frontier character, and the American photographer, Ed Miller, were on the way to Alamos when they were attacked by the Indians and killed.

Three sloops on the Yaqui river, near Mesaro, were also attacked and Aurille F. Paresdes, who was in charge of them, was killed. The vessels were set on fire, but were saved by federal forces who drove the savages away.

It is reported that the Romero family were captured as they were about to embark on one of the sloops and that Paresdes was killed in trying to rescue them.

Troops are pursuing the bands supposed to have the family. The telegraph lines south of Alamos has been cut. The Indians along the Mayo river are quiet and do not seem inclined to join the insurrection.

Colonel Angel Garcia Pena telegraphed Friday that Don Carlos Hale, the noted merchant, had not been killed as reported.

General Candedo believes the United States will not be called upon to protect the Arizona border, as there is a sufficient force in Mexico to exterminate the Yaquis.

GOVERNOR SAVED MULLENS.

Presence of Georgia's Chief Executive Prevented a Lynching.

John Mullens, the negro who attempted a criminal assault in Coweta county, Ga., Wednesday, and is now safely in the Atlanta jail, owes his life to Governor Candler.

While the mob was forming on the outside of the Newnan jail Governor Candler hurried to that city, where he personally gave directions to the sheriff and the military.

It is the first time on record where a governor of the state has gone to the trouble to prevent a lynching, and has taken personal command of the military and posse.

DEWEY WAS DISSATISFIED

At Coldness of Reception By Austrians at Trieste.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Standard says: "It is reported that Admiral Dewey left Trieste earlier than he originally intended and mainly because he did not meet with a good reception as he had expected."

The Kolnische Zeitung thinks that Austria's relations with Spain and the Hazleton incident may have contributed to this.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Date Set for Holding the State Fair at Birmingham.

A BOLD ATTEMPT AT ASSASSINATION.

A Prominent Physician Commits Suicide. Bibb County Murderer Executed. Combination of Iron Interests. Combine of Iron Interests.

The date of holding the Alabama State Fair has been definitely decided upon. The big event will be held at Birmingham nine days, exclusive of Sunday, beginning November 7. The fair will open on Tuesday and close on Friday of the following week.

Articles of incorporation were filed in Jefferson County Saturday. The capital will be $20,000, with the privilege of increasing the stock at any time. The incorporators will be P. G. Bowman, M. V. Joseph, R. F. Kolb, J. A. Rountree and L. Y. Lipscomb.

It has been decided to have an expert come to Birmingham to arrange the purses and other details for the horse races. The horse races will be a conspicuous part of the fair. Some of the fastest horses on the Southern circuit will be entered.

A strong effort is to be made to make the coming fair result in Alabama having a permanent exhibit of her mineral resources, etc. To this end the probate judges of every county in the state are being communicated with with reference to having each county represented by a good exhibit, the same to be left in Birmingham as a permanent exhibit. It is believed that a permanent exhibit of the resources of Alabama would result in much profit to the State as a whole, and if the fair results in such an exhibit being established it will have accomplished a great and permanent good.

Bold Attempt at Assassination.

A startling discovery was made at Huntsville Saturday by workmen engaged in blasting out a trench for a water main. On the evening before they had been engaged in blasting out a very large rock and left one drill hole unfinished and open. When they assembled the following morning the drill holder and drivers gathered up their tools and prepared to finish drilling the hole, when some one suggested that they had better probe it first. The suggestion was acted upon, and a dynamite cap and stick of dynamite six inches long were fished out. If the discovery had not been made in time, the first blow of a hammer would have caused an explosion that would have killed at least six men and caused an immense amount of damage to property. The police believe that an attempt was made to assassinate some one of the men. They have taken up the case, and an arrest is expected.

Alex Hill Executed.

Alex Hill was hanged at Centerville Friday for the murder of Mrs. Hester Hubbard, at her home, on the 5th day of June. He was tried July 1 and sentenced the same day to be hanged August 4. The negro seemed to be perfectly resigned to his fate. He aided some in arranging the scaffold and said he was ready when the time came. He said that he was ready to die and was going to heaven. After his attorney appointed by the court to defend him, together with many others, had shaken hands with him, Hill asked Mr. Hubbard, the husband of Mrs. Hester Hubbard, to come and shake hands with him, but Mr. Hubbard did not go.

Combination of Southern Iron Interests.

The Saturday's New York Tribune says:

"It is reported that a combination will be effected of the more important coal and iron interests in the south, including the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company, the Sloss Iron and Steel Company and the Virginia Iron and Steel Company, with others of less prominence. Such a combination would control the iron and steel industry in the south, and to a large extent control the exports of pig iron and billets to Europe and South America. It would be of a magnitude rivaling recent northern combinations of steel and iron interests."

Dr. Johnson Commits Suicide.

Dr. J. S. Johnson, a prominent physician and druggist of Clanton, died Friday as the result of an overdose of morphine taken, it is said, with suicidal intent. The doctor has, it is said, threatened to kill himself several times lately. Thursday he went into his drug store, and, picking up a bottle of the drug, swallowed a quantity of it.

Bessemer Looks for Steel Plant.

It is reported that Mr. Adler's plans for Bessemer embrace the building of furnaces and a steel plant as well as the starting of the rolling mill. Mr. Adler is in control of some of the best coal veins in the state about twenty miles northwest of that city, to which it is contemplated to build a road connecting with the Sheffield road, which leads to his brown ore mines at Russellville, which are said to be the finest and most prolific in the state. Mr. Adler will thus mine his own coal and ore, make his own pig iron and steel and roll the steel ready for the market. While this is to a large extent mere speculation, it is based on something more tangible than an idle dream on the part of the citizens of Bessemer.

To Deport the Race.

The African Methodist Episcopal Presiding Elders' Council of Georgia and Alabama, which had been in session in Birmingham, Bishop H. M. Turner, D. D., of Atlanta, presiding, has closed.

A great sensation was created when the committee on the state of the country reported a resolution recommending that a committee be appointed by the council, to set before the United States congress the deplorable condition of the negro population in several of the southern states and to petition congress for an appropriation of $100,000,000 to start a line of steamships between the United States and Africa, in order to enable all negroes who may desire to do so to emigrate to Africa. The resolution was adopted.

Alabama's Quarantine.

State Health Officer W. H. Sanders is in Birmingham for the purpose of looking over the quarantine situation. He says that there was no reason for alarm, but that it was better to take precaution to prevent yellow fever from coming here than to wait and attempt to drive it out after it was here. A strict quarantine against the infected Virginia sections was being observed on trains out of Montgomery and Birmingham on the main highways to Virginia. He did not believe the people of Alabama should feel any alarm over the matter.

Postmaster Attempts Suicide.

J. H. Deramus, postmaster of Vance, arrested for attempting to kill his wife and placed in the county jail, attempted to kill himself by jumping from a window sill on a hard pavement head foremost. He was afterwards confined in a cell, and made a second attempt, striking his head against the iron bars, tearing his scalp entirely off. He was pronounced insane and placed in the Alabama Bryce insane hospital. He is in a critical condition.

To Enlarge Pipe Works Plant.

The pipe works plant at Gadsden recently purchased by the Centra Foundry company, is in full blast and is shipping soil pipe to Santiago Havana, Manila and elsewhere. They now make fifty tons daily, employ 200 men and pay out $7,000 monthly Orders have been received from headquarters to purchase more ground and increase the capacity to 100 tons daily and employ 600 men.

Prominent Republican Dead.

James R. Cowan, ex-tax assessor of Etowah county, aged 70 years, died at Gallant, Saturday, after an illness lasting from last Christmas. Mr. Cowan was a republican, and was appointed as tax assessor just after the war and served during the reconstruction period.

Accidently Killed.

Henry Arrington, one of Livingston's most prominent merchants, accidently shot and killed himself Saturday. He went out of his dwelling to kill a prowling dog, and as he drew his gun through the fence it was discharged, the load passing through his heart.

Appointed Commissioner.

W. D. Parks, has received notice from the secretary of state of his appointment by Governor Johnston as county commissioner for Jackson county, the Third district, to succeed the late Dr. W. H. Payne.

Mangled by the Wheels.

A white man, thought to be B. F. Seay, of Midway, was run over and horribly mangled at Montgomery. Very little was known of the deceased further than his name.

Hayti in State of Ferment.

Hayti is in a state of ferment, perhaps from sympathy with the neighboring state of San Domingo. United States Minister Powell has cabled the state department that the presence of a United States warship may be required if the present threatening conditions continue, to insure the safety of the United States legation and consulates.

THE WORDS OF A DEMOCRAT.

In a letter written in answer to an invitation from one hundred and forty gentlemen of Talladega to speak there, Senator Morgan announces his candidacy for reelection and states his position in no uncertain terms. We copy from his letter, published in the Mountain Home, the following:

If I am again chosen I desire that it shall be the choice of the Democrats of the State.

I could not be the nominee of a faction, in a combination with those who are not Democrats in any sincere sense or for any honorable purpose.

Being a Democrat, with no flaw in my allegiance to that great party, I rely upon Democratic support for such votes as I may receive for a seat in the Senate.

I am in duty bound to subordinate my personal wishes and my political fortunes to the success of the Democratic party. I do this cheerfully, supporting its principles, its organization and its nominees, as I have always done, and I claim that all other Democrats should do the like.

These are the words of a man who puts his duty to his party above his own desires; a man who would suffer defeat before he would sacrifice the interests of his party; a man who bows to the will of a majority of his party, and would not seek to influence its expression by any combination with those who have no right to participate therein. He would not ask nor consent that the enemies of Democracy be admitted into the party primaries for his own election, for the very good reason that the enemies of Democracy are his enemies and he recognizes no political friends and makes no political associates who are not Democrats. Those white men in Alabama who, calling themselves Populists, have joined with the negro to defeat Democrats will not be asked to aid in his election; he would not consent that his party be corrupted by their unholy touch for his personal success. Having helped to redeem the State from the control of the negroes and their white leaders, he would not now deliver it into the hands of the enemies of Democracy and their negro allies.

If Senator Morgan is reelected it will be by Democratic votes; if he is defeated it will be by a combination of traitors with the open enemies of Democracy.

FROM a news item published elsewhere it will be seen that the dormitory space of the Montevallo school is to be enlarged and that the intention of the trustees is to limit the attendance to the capacity of the dormitory. This will be quite a blow to the town. Every family in Montevallo has been heretofore reaping financial benefit from the boarding of the girls; the merchants have enjoyed an increased trade in consequence thereof; real estate and rents have advanced, and even the washerwomen have made and spent $3,600 per year. Under the new system this will be changed. When the girls are kept close in the school grounds and fed at the dormitory the families will lose the profit; the manager of the dormitory will buy his supplies at wholesale and the merchants will lose the trade; rents will go down and real estate take a tumble; a laundry will be put in and the $3,000 will go into other channels. Putting the girls in the dormitory will take at least $25,000 per annum from the general business of the town. Montevallo will very perceptibly feel the change of administration.

THE following is all the Montgomery Journal, the Governor's organ, has had to say in regard to recent affairs in this county:

The appointment by Governor Jonston of a sheriff of Shelby County whose Democracy is vouched for by an anti-Johnston paper, the Columbiana Chronicle, and the appointment by that sheriff of a Populite as a deputy under him, is the occasion for a front and center of page article with border all around it, with scarry headlines, in a morning paper. The Governor's last crime is the worst yet. Really, it is awful. And then to give it such a conspicuous place on the front page, advertising it, is just too bad for anything. Another crime like that and the Governor must go—go up higher.

This was said with the evident air of, "Well, what are you going to do about it?" However, the Journal is just a little previous in its assertion that the Democracy of the new sheriff is vouched for by this paper. If we ever did we take it back. We can inform the Journal that the Democrats of Shelby County will not tolerate such an appointment as he has made. If he or the Governor gets anything out of this county in the future they will get it from the Populists and Republicans, whom they are so assiduously courting.

THE Advocate is as silent as the tomb this week as to the appointment of H. M. Norris deputy sheriff. We had supposed it would offer some explanation or denial of the facts stated by us last week, but it does not even mention the matter. For once the leaders of the Populist party in this county have entered into a deal which their organ cannot defend. It has still a want of sufficient gall to uphold treachery in its own ranks, but it has not the courage to expose it. In the face of political treachery it is silent. It is well.

THE Age-Herald has become as dumb as an oyster on the subject of Johnston. We are looking for another flop.

MORE ABOUT THE DEAL.

As intimated last week a great many Populists in this county repudiate the appointment of the new sheriff's deputy, and they are beginning to wonder if their own party is not in as much danger of betrayal as the Democrats are.

There are not a few real middle-of-the-road Populists here, opposed to fusion with anybody or anything, and these regard the scheme which is evidenced by recent developments as dangerous to their principles as the fusion with the Republicans, which has brought them into such bad repute. One of these middle-of-the-roaders who looks upon the deal between Johnston and the Populist leaders as being a betrayal of both Democrats and Populists was asked about the matter, and he expressed himself very freely.

He says that the appointment of Norris is part of a plan to control the county for Johnston. The Populist leaders have promised Governor Johnston the vote of Shelby's representative for the legislature in return for the appointment of Norris, and in picking up Norris as the man to trade on they have undertaken to put forward a man whom the Populists will not endorse for future purposes. The middle-of-the-roaders have already settled on R. F. Cox as the candidate for sheriff next time, and this deal of the leaders will interfere with this plan.

Norris was evidently selected for his influence with the Republican element, and he will undertake to carry out his contract of delivering both the Populist and Republican vote to Johnston. We are informed that this deal was made in advance of the appointment by the Governor, and that the Populist applicants for sheriff were used as mere blinds by the traders. One of these applicants had the endorsement of Judge Longshore, while the other was backed by Senator Deans. Neither of these endorsements was sincere, but each was using his protege as a blind for his real purpose, for while ostensibly pushing these two applicants forward they were in reality agreeing to do just what was done. So that both Democrats and Populists have been betrayed.

We also learn Governor Johnston is in constant correspondence with these Populist leaders, and they are kept informed of his purposes. Through this evidence it is known here that the recently talked of deal between Johnston, Tomlinson and Cunningham is not mere surmise by any means, and that the Age-Herald is also in that deal and will at an early day be again a Johnston paper. The fact that the Age-Herald has let up on Johnston, and that it has declined to print these recent evidences of his treachery seem to bear out this information.

The Governor and the Populist moguls have overstepped themselves in this deal. Both Democrats and Populists see too plainly the drift of affairs, and they will defeat the scheme.

THE Age-Herald is contending for a primary election for State officers and for United States Senator next year. If the Age-Herald will assure us that it will be participated in only by Democrats we of this section will agree, but in this county there will be no primary for Populists to go into and control for the purposes of their unholy alliance with Johnston.

ROUNDLAP COTTON BALES.

To Satisfy the Demand the Entire Crop Will Eventually be so Baled.

For once the cotton planter has an ally among the great corporations. For years the cotton tie ring, the bagging combine and the compress people have all lived off the cotton grower. There was no way to fight them and so they grew rich on their enormous profits, which the farmers had to pay. Now the American Cotton Company with its Roundlap bale is in the field and it is so revolutionizing the cotton handling business that many of the old expenses are necessarily wiped out. The farmers must inevitably get a large share of this saving, but the old compress people and the bagging and tie trust are raising a great commotion against the American Cotton Company as though they had always been the friends of the farmer. Unfortunately for them they never played the friendly act before and now the farmers doubt the sincerity of their repentance.

The Roundlap bale is the trade mark name given by the American Cotton Company to its round bale to distinguish it from all other bales. The cotton mills of New England and of Europe are eager buyers of this bale because as compared with all other bales it has many advantages covered by broad patents, which greatly lessen the cost of manufacture to the mill. This Roundlap bale eliminates two or three processes in manufacturing and as the cotton mills of the world are willing to pay more for this cotton than any other, it naturally follows that to secure the highest prices all Southern cotton must in time be put up in this Roundlap form. Mr. Wm. C. Lovering, one of the most distinguished cotton mill men of New England says:

"I do not hesitate to say that the time is coming when the cotton manufacturers all over the world will insist that their cotton shall be delivered to them in the form of a Roundlap bale."

CURRENT CRITICISMS.

By Mrs. F. W. Gist.

A copy of "Christian Work" has reached our desk and is altogether a most wholesome publication. It is refreshing to turn from a pack of sensational metropolitan papers or from a stack of county weeklies running over with political wranglings and gossip, to peruse the clean pages of "Christian Work." There are two pages of this July issue devoted to the "Oread Institute" which is a feature of so much interest to us women folk.

* *

One can scarcely pick up a newspaper these days with running across a letter from someone abroad. There is a striking similarity in all the letters from London—but Mrs. Zac Smith's letter on the athletic contest was different and seemed of far more interest, as she is almost our very own.

* *

So many people have gone abroad this year. It is estimated that not more than 10,000 more Americans can next year get transportation to Europe and the Paris Exposition than have gone this year. The steamer lines have been taxed to their utmost capacity this season, and only a small number of "extras" can be put on next year. So those wishing passage to Europe next year will have to get up before day.

* *

There is a prevailing "fad" among young ladies, especially recent graduates, that is deplorable and very unbecoming. It is simply an acquired habit, as absurd as it is ridiculous, viz. That of screeching, screaming and yelling to the height of their voice at every little jest or funny incident. Your humble writer may be termed very "old time" as we were taught that it were ill bred in any lady to laugh loud and harshly. It must be that politeness and good manners are changing with the rush and progress of latter-day customs. To see young lady graduates, who ought to be the personification of dignity and decorum, rushing headlong into the habit of unearthly yelping and screeching over the most insignificant jest is enough to arrest the attention and disapproval of thoroughly cultured people, and the habit is by no means confined to young graduates. Young women who ought to be an example of the highest order, judging from their station in life and in society are as prone to the screaming habit as any others. None of them are guilty in their own conscience of any misdemeanor; yet the habit is not in accordance with old school cultivation, and grates harshly upon the ears and senses of genuinely refined people.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Every one of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Munania Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cet preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS
COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 79 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $55 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4 77 per acre.

The Journal does not guarantee results, but the result of the test at the Experiment Station make it worth a farmer's while to try these seed when they cost him nothing.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

They Should Know it.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing-down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor, frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in bottle or common glass for 24 hours are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

In fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same remedy.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for 50 cents or $1.

To prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention THE CHRONICLE, and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Advice to
Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

MONTEVALLO SCHOOL.

Contract Awarded for Main Dormitory Building.

The following from Tuesday's Age-Herald will be of interest to our readers:

The executive committee of the board of trustees of the Montevallo school met at the Florence hotel yesterday at noon and opened the bids for the contract for the erection of the main building of the dormitory of the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo.

The contract was awarded to McAfee & Co., of Atlanta, Ga. The amount for which this company proposed to do the work was $35,237, brick to be furnished by the school. These are now being made at Montevallo.

The other bids considered by the committee varied from $37,000 to $56,000. There were in all ten bidders, who are among the most prominent contractors in Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee.

When completed this will be one of the most imposing school buildings in Alabama. It is the first school established in Alabama which offers free education to the girls, and the people all over the State are looking forward to the completion of these dormitories with great interest. The building, when completed, will accommodate four hundred girls, and it will be the policy of the trustees not to solicit more girls than can be provided for in the dormitories.

Work on the new building will begin at once, and the contract provides for its completion by February 1. The plans provide for a complete system of waterworks and electric lights.

"What's in a name?" The word "bitters" does not always indicate something harsh and disagreeable. Prickly Ash Bitters is proof of this. It cleanses, strengthens and regulates the system thoroughly, yet it is so pleasant the most delicate stomach will not object to it. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

Lightning played a queer prank in Prof. Mynatt's yard. It struck a mulberry tree and ran down into the roots, tearing up the ground in the various direction taken by the roots. No one was hurt.

Nothing so thoroughly removes the malarial germ from the system as Prickly Ash Bitters. It gives life and action to the torpid liver, strengthens and assists the kidneys to properly cleanse the blood, gives tone to the stomach, purifies the bowels, and promotes good appetite, vigor and cheerfulness. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

The Juvenile Society of the Methodist church will give an icecream supper at this place Friday night, August 11, at the residence of J. W. Dykes. Cream 5 and 10 cents. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS.

Enjoyable Meeting at Campbranch for Two Days.

The writer, in company with Comrade Col. West, left Calera on Thursday at 9 o'clock, a. m. for the camping ground—the beautiful and picturesque Campbranch church—arriving there a 10.30.

After a rest of a few minutes and a refreshing draft of pure water from the magnificent spring nearby, the veterans and others in attendance were called to assemble in the large school building for business. Comrade John P. West was called to the chair and Comrade C. C. Martin, an old Tennessee veteran, who served under that gallant chieftan "Frank" Cheatham, was elected secretary.

The programme was read and the various committees appointed. The officers for the ensuing year were then elected, as follows: John Johnston, colonel; John P. West, lieut. colonel; Ed Lide, major; Rufus DeShazo, adjutant.

A committee on constitution and by-laws was appointed with instructions to report at the next annual meeting.

After several short talks by veterans, a recess for dinner was announced.

At about 2 o'clock the chair called for order, and a resolution was adopted to organize the association into four companies, one for each commissioner's district. There being but few veterans present from districts 2 and 4 they deferred their organization; but districts 1 and 3 organized and elected officers. The writer failed to get the officers of Co. A, except that Prof. Bird, of Columbiana, was made captain. The officers of Co. B: James Ozley, captain; J. O. Alexander, 1st lieutenant; Asbury Leonard, 2nd lieutenant; John Harmon, C. C. Martin, O. S.

After the organization, Col. Johnston took command and marched to the open field nearby, and drilled the two companies for an hour or two. After this he marched to the beautiful spring, and when the veterans had filled their canteens, they sat around on the ground and rehearsed reminiscences of the war. Several short talks were made in which several suggestions were made as to our duty as survivors, among them an appeal to sons of Veterans to organize an association for the perpetuation of the memory of the Lost Cause. Another to the patriotic ladies to organize societies for the preservation of Confederate graves and burial grounds. After this the crowd began to disperse and only about a dozen veterans were left on the ground to camp for the night.

The second day was principally taken up in drilling in the forenoon and the sham battle in the afternoon. Considering the lapse of 34 years since the veterans were engaged, and the old age of most of them, the maneuvering and fighting was well executed much credit of which is due to the patriotic and gallant son, Walter S. Cary, the efficient cannoncer.

NOTES.

It was said by some old Vet. that more "grub" was consumed in the two days than was eaten and wasted by Bragg's entire army during the seige of Chattanooga—six weeks.

‡-‡-‡

Short and appropriate speeches were made by Col. J. P. West, Major Pitts and Col-elect Johnston.

‡-‡-‡

After the battle and before ranks were broken Wilsonville, Montevallo and Shelby Springs were put in nomination for the next reunion, resulting in the selection of the latter—the time to be appointed by the officers of the battalion.

‡-‡-‡

Much credit is due to the large crowd for the extreme good order.

‡-‡-‡

Probably one of the most notable features of the reunion was the services held in the church on Thursday night. There being no minister among the old Vets, Mr. Bird, a young minister opened the service, and turned the meeting over to the veterans, who, in turn, talked, sang and prayed. All present seemed to be thankful that the Lord had spared them to meet together, and pledging one to another to "be there" at the final "roll call."

‡-‡-‡

The crowd was estimated at all the way from 2,000 to 4,000.

One of the most picturesque and delightful sections of North Carolina, is what is known as the Sapphire Country. This section is located near Brevard, N. C., at an average altitude of 3,000 feet, and abounds in many beautiful streams and grand water-falls.

Of the many attractive features, perhaps one of the most interesting and picturesque points are Fairfield and Sapphire Lakes. No where else in the South at this altitude are there such bodies of water. There are towering cliffs, rising abruptly for a thousand foot from their shores and cascades of rare beauty falling directly into the lakes from the lofty table land surrounding.

On account of the elevation of this section, it is very healthy, and particularly adapted to those troubled with hay fever, being also free from all malaria or other diseases. A record of the temperature kept at Sapphire for four years, shows an average of 69 degrees for the entire summer.

Sapphire Inn, Fairfield Inn and The Lodge, afford excellent accommodations for guests.

For further information regarding the Sapphire Country, call on any agent of the Southern Railway, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn., for descriptive pamphlet.

Shelby Springs Shot Drops.

One of the most delightful evenings of the season was spent at the residence of Mrs. Pond, as guest of the hostess and her house-party, on last Saturday evening. An impromtu musicale, interspersed with recitations and a cake walk. There were thirty-six guests in attendance, and the evening was one long to be remembered and cherished as one of the brightest spots in our life.

Mrs. Frank Wilson and little daughter, Susie Parker, and Miss Anna Bristow have been added to the house party.

Mr. James Nunnely, of the Selma Times, came up for a few days, and accompanied several ladies, including his charming daughter, Miss Lula Morgan, on a trip to Birmingham.

Mr. Johnson, the popular drummer, left on Monday with his bride-elect, Miss Flora Lister, for Birmingham, where they will at an early day be married at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Cody.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott, one of the most noted Presbyterian ministers in the State, delivered a most interesting discourse at the pavillion on last Sunday evening. He left an appointment for the fourth Sunday in August at 4.30 p. m. At this meeting a collection will be taken for the orphans' home at Talladega. Let everybody attend. Rev. Mr. Sinnott is reputed the most brilliant man in his presbytery. His sermons here at the Springs are without money or price: don't fail to hear him.

On Monday morning many guests enjoyed a rare treat in music at the residence of Mrs. Pond. Prof. C. C. Slaton rendered his famous laughing song, and Mrs. Wilson, in her charming manner, recited the Freak Lectures on woman suffrage.

Miss Juliet Ashhurt and Miss Birdie Nelson are visiting Miss Lizzie Law.

Capt. E. W. Booker left this week, leaving a large number of long faces behind.

Mrs. W. H. Greene and children, of Selma, are visiting Mrs. Gist.

Miss Lucy Smith has accepted the school here, as Mr. Garner failed to pass examination and had to retire.

Mrs. Pond and her bevy of guests made a delightful trip to South Calera Tuesday evening and were the guests of Mr. McKnight's family. An evening picnic luncheon was served, followed with music, dancing, recitations, etc. The drive home rounded up an evening brim full of mirth and enjoyment.

The gay house party at Mrs. Pond's dispersed on Wednesday last and many hearts were made sad over departure.

Wilsonville Waifs

Mrs. E. Williamson and Mrs. W. W. Price, of Mexico, are watering at Shelby Springs this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Self, of Mississippi, are guests of Miss Sue Self and mother.

C. W. Archer uploaded a splendid corn mill here Saturday, which he will erect midway between this place and Columbiana. The outfit was purchased from a Newnan, Ga., firm and will be put in operation one week hence.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sanders have returned from a week's visit to Calera relatives.

G. W. Browne, of Atlanta, Mrs. Burns, of Sylacauga, and Mrs. Davidson, of Bessemer, are attending the bedside of their mother, who is not expected to live through another week.

Will Sommerville and family, of Birmingham, are visiting his parents near town.

THE PLAY—The doors to our opera house were thrown open Thursday evening to welcome the Harpersville Dramatic Club in their latest hit, "A Noble Outcast." The play was well staged, and was very creditably presented by four actors and three actresses.

Henry Walthall, as benedict, father of Miss France and comedian of the cast was played to a finish. Henry possesses the elements which go to make up the professional stage hero.

Miss Mattie Worsham has a splendid conception of her part, and represents the heroine of an enduring affection with such earnest reality that one forgets her assumed role.

Jim Kidd as Colonel Lee, was very typical of Southern gallantry of long ago.

Miss Natalie Walthall as the Colonel's wife made a distinguished hit in the third act: her beautiful solo was faultlessly rendered.

Messrs. Martin contributed much support in each and every act.

Miss Pearl Darby struck us as being the most natural person on the stage. She didn't say much, but what she did say was to the point.

Last but not least was Fluker McGraw, who played a very important part as advance agent, door-keeper and manager.

The tramp, or rather "outcast," brought tears to many of the ladies eyes in the first and fourth acts. The proceeds amounted to $18.25.

THE NEW MOVEMENT

An Industrial League Organized For Upbuilding of the South.

INITIAL MEETING A GRAND SUCCESS

J. K. Orr, the Well Known Shoe Merchant of Atlanta, Ga., Elected First President of the League.

The meeting of the Southern Industrial League held in Atlanta, July 25th to 28th, was attended by over 300 delegates from the southeastern states. The following papers touching upon questions vital to the prosperity of the whole south were presented:

"Some Hindrances to Southern Commercial Department," by Hon. F. B. Thurber, of New York.

"How Can the South Borrow Money at a Lower Rate of Interest Than is Now Demanded?" by Major J. F. Hanson, of Macon, Ga.

"The Need of Better Collection Laws and How to Secure Them," by Mr. Robert C. Alston, of Atlanta, Ga.

"Our Export Trade From a Southern Standpoint," by Mr. D. A Tompkins, of Charlotte, N. C.

"The Interdependence of Commerce and Agriculture," by Hon. J. Pope Brown, President Georgia State Agricultural Society, Hawkinsville, Ga.

"Are We Equal to Our Burden?" by Hon. S. G. McLendon, Thomasville, Ga.

"The Necessity For Cotton Baling Reform," by Mr. D. C. Ball, Manager American Cotton Co. (the round bale system) St. Louis, Mo.

The officers elected to serve for the coming year were as follows:

President, J. K. Orr. Vice Presidents—For Georgia, Willis E. Ragan; Alabama, Geo. H. Malone; North Carolina, D. A. Tompkins; South Carolina, F. T. Wilhite; Florida, Jno. P. Coffin; Mississippi, E. S. Bostick.

The opening address of President Orr seemed to crystallize the purposes of the meeting. After extending in a most pleasing manner a few words of welcome, he said in part:

"Speaking generally, the success of the manufacturer and the wholesale dealer depends largely upon the prosperity of the retail merchant. He in turn is vitally interested in the welfare of the producer. It's an old axiom that no chain is stronger than its weakest link. Let us see if we can find it. For thirty years the bane of prosperity in the south has been usury and the serfdom of a single crop.

"Correct these, and we stand upon the brink of an industrial revolution. Lower interest will surely follow higher credit. When the farmer, like the successful merchant, meets his engagements to the day, his credit will be better, and his time prices, if there be any, will be lower.

"An old merchant, retiring, said to the young man who succeeded him: 'Do you want to keep a good credit? Then, don't use it much.'

"When the farmers of the south so change their methods as not to use much credit they will become, as they ought to become, the money lenders of this country. The savings bank is one of our needs. Little Rhode Island, no larger than two Georgia counties, has over sixty-five millions in her savings banks. Over half the population of Massachusetts, counting men, women and children, are savings bank depositors. How many have we in the rural districts of the south? Every state represented here is from three to six times as large as the two I have named. What a field, gentlemen, we have to fill up!

"A small boy on his 12th birthday was asked by an anxious mother if it was not time he was thinking about what he expected to do for a living; whether he should try to make himself a doctor, lawyer, farmer or a merchant. He answered: 'I have been thinking about it; Iv'e decided I'd like to be one of these what you call a philanthropist.' On being pressed for a reason for this rather unusual choice, he said: 'You see it would sure be a popular business, and then such a comfortable one.'

"I suppose, my friends, when we get the comfortable feeling the savings banks will follow. You may tell me that savings banks only pay three per cent and that's too slow a way to get rich, but when the farmer who now borrows at 15 per cent is in a position to loan at 3 per cent he will be 18 per cent ahead of the game.

"Will not that in six years double the money capital of this country? Do you realize what this would mean? Your local banks would be seeking good loans among you at 6 per cent. They would be the first to subscribe to the capital for industrial enterprises, promising equal dividends.

"The youth of our land, now languishing for a lack of employment, would become skilled artisans, earning satisfactory wages and most important of all, every manufacturing center would become an all-the-year-round cash market for the surrounding agricultural district.

"I hear you say this is a Utopian dream. It may be, but I firmly believe it lies in the power of this association to make it a reality. You ask me how? Every man here is when at home the advisor of from a score to a hundred of his customers. In their interest makes it a condition of extending credit, that they become self-sustaining, put them on notice that, beginning with 1900, credit will be refused for any supplies that can be raised at home, form local associations and blacklist the people who will not pay. Did you know that the margins absolutely annihilated annually in insolvencies would in ten years equal the national debt? Then you are interested to see that your member of the legislature is sound on good collection laws. These assured, credit will be higher and the rate of interest lowered.

"Along these lines of thought, we have invited to address you men who [illegible] recognized as advanced thinkers, [illegible] of national reputation. Their [illegible] of wisdom will merit your [illegible] attention. If you should ask me how you may carry out some of the reforms they will suggest, I would answer, when you go home, get your newspaper friends to preach less politics and more potatoes, that will give us here and there a starch factory. To talk less of currency and more of cucumbers, might move some of the pickle factories from the west.

"Let them tell the people to do less whittling and sow more wheat; tell them it takes less labor to grow hay than to kill grass. Tell them the keep of a cur dog is more than that of a merino sheep. Let them write less of dead issues and more of live stock. This might fill the country with creameries and butter factories and perhaps stop some of the revenue we now pay to Kentucky.

"It is well for us to remember that the great reforms of the world had their beginnings in the counseling together of a few earnest men, standing together for a common purpose, nothing we have offered is impossible.

"And when, good friends, you shall have brought these things to pass, the south shall have won its first independence. We will take the place in history nature destined for us, and there will open before us the dawn of a new era, that will indeed make our beloved southland the garden spot of the world. God speed the day that brings us to it."

POFULAR SCIENCE.

One of the divisions of the United States Fish Commission has investigated a number of problems connected with oysters and their culture, and has reported on the origin of the color of green oysters. This variety is due to vegetable matter used by the oysters for food, and in no way injures the edible qualitiss of the bivalve. Red oysters have been occasionally noted, but there has been as yet no opportunity for their examination.

The extreme delicacy of many scientific processes is indicated by the report of Dr. Martin Ficker, a German investigator, that bacteria are affected favorably or otherwise, by the character of the glass containing the water in which they are suspended. Marked differences in the behavior of cholera germs were noted, according to the kind of glass composing the vessels used. The degree of alkalinity imparted by the glass to the water is believed to be an important factor in these experiments.

A simple method of applying hot air for the relief of acute pain has been described by Dr. William Taylor, an English physician. The air is heated electrically and driven by a fan over a spiral of fine wire, also heated, direct to the painful part. The application is continued until the skin becomes blanched and blistering follows. Neuralgia has been effectively treated by air of 200 degrees Fahrenheit or over, the aching of a badly decayed tooth was stopped in five minutes and did not return for eight months, while sore throat, lumbago and other painful complaints have been cured by the current of hot air.

The powerful solvent action of absolutely pure water is held by Dr. Koppe, a German physician, to make it a genuine poison. On drinking it one experiences mild symptons of catarrh of the stomach and Dr. Koppe explains the ill effects of some ice as due to too great purity instead of to the presence of bacteria. Such purity, however, belongs only to melted ice and to distilled water. One exception must be made, perhaps, one of the Gastein springs having been known for centuries as the "poison spring," and chemical analysis having failed to reveal any poisonous substance, the harmfulness being due to the extreme purity of the water.

Recent inquiries in England have led to the preparation of tables showing the "full term of life" for man, and other mammals, based upon the theory that there is a fixed ratio between the period required to reach maturity and the total length of life. Accident, disease and so forth have to be eliminated from the calculation. According to these tables, only one animal exceeds man in its full life term, namely, the elephant. For man the theory makes the average term about ninety years, and for the elephant something over one hundred years. Next to man, in lonevity, come the camel and the Arabian horse, whose term of life is about forty-two years.

Professor Talbert, of La Porte, Ind., who is now in Germany, has discovered a way for a much wider and more scientific investigation of the action of the brain on the muscles of the body than has heretofore been known. It has long been known that stimulation of certain parts of the brain would cause definite responses from certain muscles of the body. Professor Talbert has hit upon the plan of trephining holes in a dog's skull, which he will fill with ivory plugs to which are attached electrode knobs resting on the surface of the brain. Wires are then attached to a battery and the brain at that point is stimulated at will. The location of that part of the brain governing the leg, eye, nose, etc., may be found by this new means.

The "literary fellers" to whom the late Hon. Zachariah Chandler applied an epithet suggesting that they were already dead and worse, seem now to be specially appreciated by our government for public and particularly diplomatic service. In former times Irving, Hawthorne and Motley were regarded as exceptional instances of men of letters deemed fit for consular or diplomatic place. Now the rule seems to run along the lines of the old exception, as is easily seen by a reference to the just published membership roll of the Authors' club of New York city. There are only 152 members of the club. Yet the list includes John Hay, late ambassador to England, and now secretary of state; Horace Porter, ambassador to France; Andrew D. White, ambassador to Germany; Oscar S. Straus, minister to Turkey, and Arthur Sherburne Hardy, late minister to Persia and now minister to Greece.

THE LADY OR THE TIGER.

She Had a Number of Good Reasons For Not Marrying.

One would scarcely go to the mountains of West Virginia to find even so much as a semblance to the story of "The Lady or the Tiger," but I came very nearly doing it on one occasion. I had been invited, largely as a recognition of my position as the representative of the biggest timber firm in the section, to attend a mountain dance, and I was there having as good a time as a man can have who doesn't dance, even the old-fashioned quadrille and that kind.

At the moment in question I was "sitting out a dance" with the prettiest mountain girl of the whole neighborhood, and I was mildly jollying her about not being married. She was 24, which is old maidhood in the mountains, except in the case of very pretty girls, of whom there are very few among the mountaineers.

"I could marry of I wanted to, I reckon," she said, with a shake of her head.

"Yes, there's Jim Mullins. He wants you. Why don't you marry him?" I asked with a little more directness than might have characterized my utterances in a more conventional atmosphere.

"Huh!" she sniffed. "Jim's red headed and freckled'n a turkey aig."

"John Horgan isn't. What's the matter with John? I'm sure he would have you quick enough if he could get you."

"You're foolin', colonel," she said, blushing a little. "Anyhow, I don't want John. He walks bias like ez ef he was cross-eyed in the feet."

"Well, there's Sam Hodgkin. Sam's a good fellow and would make a good husband."

"P'raps he would—fer some other lady, but not fer me. Sam's ugly enough to make a mule bray. I've seed him do it by jist lookin' over the fence."

"How's the school teacher? He isn't so bad looking, is he?"

"What, that long, ganglin', whopper-jawed thing? Why, I wouldn't marry him if he was the last man on earth."

Finding it rather difficult to satisfy this fastidious mountain maid from the selections I was making, I became a trifle more personal.

"Well," I said with some effusion, "since none of these will suit you, how do you think I would answer?"

"Goodness sakes, colonel," she exclaimed with all the naivette of nature, "ef I married as nice a lookin' man ez you air, leavin' all of them others livin' round here handy, I'd be a widder afore three months, shore."

It was a compliment that I could not do otherwise than recognize, and at the same time it was very embarrassing, and I don't know what would have happened if it had not been for the opportune arrival of her partner for the next dance.—Washington Star.

The Indian Is Still In It.

"The Indian is by no means an extinct portion of civilization," explained an Indian bureau official, "as the coming census will very clearly demonstrate. Indeed, instead of running out, the last ten years will show that he has got almost as good a hold on life as the most favored of our people. The poems regretting his passing away will have to be stored for some years. The Indian of late years has been generally engaged in minding his own business. He is not much improved morally from what he was, but he has not fallen behind to any noticeable extent. It is a case of the survival of the fittest, and while eventually the Indian will have to go, he is not gathering up his traps and getting ready to start as yet. Those who regard the Indian as a scattered race, existing in small camps in the far West, will be considerably informed when I can tell them that there is today a record of 250,000 Indians in the Western States. There are many kinds there. The Choctaws number over 15,000; the Creeks even more; the Seminoles about 3,500; Cherokees about 30,000; Chickasaws about 8,500. There are over 10,000 Indians in the Six Nations of New York State alone. The Indian is still in it, and will be in it for many years yet, and I would not be surprised if the coming census will show that there are over 300,000 of them."—Washington Star.

An Exciting Race.

"I reckon the most excitin' race I ever see," observed the man with the faded hair, after an interval of silence, 'was between two Mississippi River steamboats. The engineers crammed the furnaces with bacon and everything else in the cargoes that would make a hot fire. The Prairie Rose was the name of one boat and the Minnesota Belle was the other, but everybody knowed it was a race between the engineers, fur the reason that they'd had a fight in St. Louis once. I was on the Rose, and we was chinnin' the passengers on the Belle. It wasn't more'n forty feet away, an' the boat that got around the Big Bend first we knowed would win the race"—

"Which got there first?" asked one of the listeners, tired of the oratory.

"Well, the engineer of the Minnesota Bells got there first," rejoined the man with the faded hair. "Or parts of him did. His b'iler exploded."—Chicago Tribune.

Does All His Own Work.

Vinalhaven, Me., has a hotel proprietor who does all his carpenter work, paints his house, drives his hack to the ferry, or will take passengers to North Haven, nine miles distant. He does all his cooking and chamberwork, and one morning recently got up in the morning and got breakfast for his two boarders and family of five, and then did his weekly clothes washing, having it on the line to dry before many of the people in the town were up. At 9 o'clock he went down-town and bought articles for dinner, and while these were cooking the landlord amused himself by scrubbing the floor of the hotel office.—New York Press.

Deeds, not words, count in battles of peace as well as in war. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. It has won many remarkable victories over the arch enemy of mankind—impure blood. Be sure to get only Hood's, because

AN ARMY OF YOUTHS.

Philippine Insurgent Leaders, From an American Point of View, Are Boys.

"From the American point of view the insurgent leaders over in the Philippines are all a pack of boys," said Louis Rodriguez, the Filipino, now residing in New Orleans, who has applied for the position of stenographer on General Otis' staff. "It may surprise you to know that their average age is between 15 and 18. I know nearly all of them personally, and many of them are the sons of our old friends and neighbors, so I am not at all likely to be mistaken. There is hardly a native officer in Aguinaldo's whole command who has reached 30, and very few who are over 25. I know positively that some of the colonels and minor officers are boys between 15 and 16.

"It should be borne in mind, however, that young people mature much more rapidly in that tropical climate than they do in this country. There 15 is regarded as an age of discretion and responsibility, and not a few marry even younger. Severe, long-continued exertion is impossible in the latitude of Manila, and a man of 35 ought to be provided against future want. To that end he has to begin early. Aguinaldo chose boys for his officers because he was shrewd enough to appreciate the military value of the enthusiasm of the youth."

Light From the Human Body.

I have discovered the very interesting fact that the human body emits rays which acts on a sensitive photographic plate, writes Ottokar Hoffman, in the Electric Age. There is a distinct difference in the property of these rays and that of light. They pass through certain opaque substances, while to others they impart their vibration, and these substances in this condition then act on the photographic plate. Before giving a description of my experiments I will mention that it seems that not all persons emit rays of the same chemical energy. Some persons whom I tried produced a strong while others only a faint impression on the film and others even none at all. But it may be that, had I tried these same persons the next day, the result would have been an entirely different one, because I made the observation on myself that at different times there was much difference in the chemical energy of the rays emitted by my fingers. What causes these differences I do not know, but these rays being produced by the functions of our organic system, it is not improbable that these differences occur in connection with the regularity and irregularity of these functions. However, my experience in this direction is too limited to justify the expression of a positive opinion.

Some Tricks of Lightning.

It is not always the first shock of electricity in lightning which does so much damage. The discharge acts by induction upon all the conductors in the vicinity, and sometimes plays some very odd and curious tricks.

Not long ago a house was struck by lightning. In the house was a broad, polished, but unvarnished, table, covered by a piece of Turkish embroidery containing metallic threads. The induction current leaped from one metallic thread to another and burned into the table the pattern of the embroidery, shaded in browns.

There is a story told, for whose truth we cannot vouch, that a flash of lightning came into a room, shocked all the inmates, and when it was gone left a perfect silver-plated cat on the sofa. The silver had been taken from the handle of a sword on the wall and coated over the cat to the most minute hair.

First Statue of Jefferson Davis.

The first statue ever made of the leader of the confederacy is now being completed in New York. It is seven and a half feet high, and represents Jefferson Davis standing in a characteristic attitude, dressed as he was when captured by Michigan cavalry in the mountains of Alabama. The statue will be erected on the Davis lot in Hollywood cemetery, Richmond, Va., and will be dedicated in the early autumn. The entire expense of the statue will be borne by Mrs. Davis and her daughter, Mrs. Hayes, of Colorado. At the same time the Winnie Davis memorial statue, which is the gift of the Daughters of the Confederacy, will be dedicated, and it is probable that the ceremony will be of a public nature.

Origin of the Fan.

The use of the fan originated in Calna, and sprang from the following incident: A royal princess, very beautiful, was assisting at the feast of lanterns, her face covered with a mask, as usual. The excessive heat compelled her to remove it, and in order to guard her features from the common gaze, she moved it quickly to and fro in front of her face, thus simultaneously hiding her charms and cooling her brow. The idea was at once adopted throughout the kingdom. Catherine de Medici carried the first fan from Italy ever seen in France, and in the time of Louis XIV, the fan, covered with jewels, was worth a small fortune.

Suffocation as Capital Punishment.

The Japanese government is considering the advisability of inflicting capital punishment by means of suffocation—placing the subject in an air-tight chamber and then exhausting the air from the chamber by means of a pump.

The "death" or "vacuum" chamber, as it is to be known, is to be an air-tight cell built in or adjoining the prison. It is to be eight feet in height, ten feet wide and ten feet long. The four sides are to have each an air-tight window of three-quarter inch plate glass, so that the operators, prison and other officials may have an opportunity to witness the execution and determine the results.

The cell will be connected with an air pump which will have the power of causing the expulsion of the air in the cell in one minute and forty seconds, thus acting so quickly as not to allow the victim to become suffocated or distressed in even the slightest degree, but, instead, causing almost instant death. In fact, it was shown when the experiment was tried upon a large St. Bernard dog that the animal was dead in a minute and a half after the vacuum was completed.

An Anti-Divorce Trust.

In Ann Arbor, Mich., an anti-divorce trust has been discovered by the attempt of two people, one of whom had previously been divorced, to get married. One minister after another refused to perform the ceremony, and it was learned that the Methodist, Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian, Trinity Lutheran and Church of Christ clergymen of the city had entered into an agreement not to marry a divorced person except in cases where the applicant is the unoffending party and has been granted a divorce on scriptural grounds.

Amber Mines.

Although amber is the gum of what is called a coniferous tree, that is a tree bearing cones like the pine, it is now mined out of the earth, being found imbedded in a sort of blue clay in northern Prussia, near the Baltic sea.

No one knows where these trees grow, or when, but the insects we find imbedded in the amber tell us something.

There are over two thousand different varieties of these insects, many of which are entirely unknown today.

It is very interesting to see how some of them have changed, as, for example, the common fly.

Much of the amber is found down under the sea, and the right to mine it is sold by the Prussian government at about a quarter of a million dollars a year, and the amber miners take out about one million dollars' worth in that time.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

What does it do?

It causes the oil glands in the skin to become more active, making the hair soft and glossy, precisely as nature intended.

It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and thus removes one of the great causes of baldness.

It makes a better circulation in the scalp and stops the hair from coming out.

It Prevents and It Cures Baldness

Ayer's Hair Vigor will surely make hair grow on bald heads, provided only there is any life remaining in the hair bulbs.

It restores color to gray or white hair. It does not do this in a moment, as will a hair dye; but in a short time the gray color of age gradually disappears and the darker color of youth takes its place.

PARISIAN MOBS HOLD SWAY

ANARCHISTS IN FRENCH METROPOLIS HAVE BATTLE WITH POLICE.

CHURCH EDIFICES LOOTED AND THE CONTENTS FIRED

Guerin and His Anti-Semite Companions Are Entrenched In a State of Siege.

Sunday Paris was the scene of most serious disturbances, recalling some aspects of the commune. In response to an appeal of The Journal du Peuple and La Petit Republique, groups of anarchists and socialists gathered about 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the Place de la Republique. The police had taken precautions and there seemed no danger of disorders.

Sebastien Faure and Faberot, well known revolutionary anarchists, were the ringleaders. Faure, standing on the pedestal of the statue which rises in the center of the Place de la Republique, addressed the crowd. Among other things he said that the anarchists should be masters of the streets.

The police interfered and disloged Faure and Faberot, making three arrests. The crowd at this point dispersed, but a column of demonstrators headed by Faure and Henri d'Horr made for the Place de la Nation. The police broke through the column and a struggle for the mastery followed. Shots were fired and H. Goullier, commissary of police was twice stabbed with a knife. This threw the police into momentary confusion. The mob reassembled and ran towards the Place de la Nation.

The police, re-enforced by a squad that had been held in reserve, made another attempt to stem the current, and fresh, fierce fighting occurred, three constables being wounded.

Faure and d'Horr jumped into a passing street car that was going to the Place de la Republique, and the car driver, on arriving there, gave a signal to the police, who immediately arrested them both, together with two other anarchists, Joseph Ferrier and Jean Perrin. All were conveyed to the Chateau d'Eau barracks. Only d'Horr was found in possession of firearms.

Houses of Worship Demolished.

In the meantime the anarchist mob retracted its course to the Place de la Republique, smashing the windows of religious edifices on the way.

Suddenly, either at the word of command or in obedience to impulse, the column made a loop and curved toward the church of St. Ambroise, where the rioters smashed the windows.

Proceeding thence toward the Faubourg du Temple, which they reached at the corner of the Rue Darboy and the Rue St. Maur-Popincourt, they formed up into a compact body.

Hatchets were suddenly produced, with long knives stolen from the counters of shops, and a concerted rush was made on the church of St. Joseph.

The aged sacristan, seeing the mob, hastily closed the outer gates, but these were soon forced open with hatchets and bars of iron. The massive oaken doors were then attacked. According to the first account the wild horde burst into the church, which instantly became a scene of pillage and sacrilege. Altars and statues were hurled to the floor and smashed; pictures were rent; candlesticks, ornaments and posts from high altars were thrown down and trampled under foot.

The crucifix above was made the target for missiles and the figure of the Savior was fractured in several places.

Then, while raucous voices sang the "Carmagnole," the chairs were carried outside, piled up and set on fire in the center of the square fronting the church. When this stage was reached the crucifix was pulled down and thrown into the flames. Suddenly the cry was raised that the statue of the Virgin had been forgotten, and the crowd returned and tore this down also.

Meanwhile the sacristan, who had been captured by the anarchists, escaped and called the police and republican guards, who promptly arrived with many constables. They were compelled to fall back in order to form up into line of defense, as the anarchists attacked them fearlessly with knives.

At length the officers began to gain the mastery. A score of anarchists took refuge in an adjacent house. Others intrenched themselves in the belfry and fiercely defended themselves by showering missels on the republican guards, but finally they were dislodged. Twenty anarchists were arrested, taken to the police station, searched and found to be carrying revolvers, loaded sticks and knives.

When the police entered the church the anarchists had just set fire to the pulpit. The interior of the edifice was a complete wreck. Several valuable old pictures that can never be replaced were ruined.

There is no change in the situation at the building in the Rue de Chabrol, M. Jules Guerin and his anti-Semite companions are entrenched in a state of seige against the police who have orders for their arrest.

An attempt was made to fire the choir of St. Joseph's with petroleum, and the firemen were called to quench the flames.

Several parishioners were severely mauled in their efforts to defend the church from sacrilege. The church is situated in the poorest quarter of the city. No disorders of any kind occurred in the fashionable districts.

It is much feared that Sunday's scenes were due to weakness the government displayed over the Guerin affair. The government's desire to avoid bloodshed has been misinterpreted with the worst result.

It appears that the anarchist demonstration was decided upon at a meeting held Saturday night.

The Journal du Peuple, edited by Sebastian Faure, published a manifesto denouncing the military party, the anti-Semites, the monarchists and the priests, and urged its supporters to meet force with force.

"Should Dreyfus be convicted," said the manifesto, "it will be triumph of the bandits. Should he be acquitted, the military section will be in open rebellion."

SKIRMISH WITH FILIPINOS.

American Lieutenant Killed and Another Wounded By Rebels.

Advices from Manila state that one lieutenant of the Twelfth infantry was killed and another seriously wounded while reconnoitering Saturday evening north of Angeles.

The Americans encountered a large force of insurgents and drove them from their positions. Lieutenant Cole, of the Sixth infantry, with eighty men encountered 100 insurgents intrenched in the mountains of the island of Negros and routed them after an hour and a half of severe fighting.

The Americans had three men slightly hurt. Nineteen dead insurgents were counted in the trenches.

DID DEWEY SAY IT?

Admiral Is Credited With Favoring Autonomy For Philippines.

The Naples correspondent of The London Daily News telegraphs the substance of an interview he had with Admiral Dewey there during the admiral's recent visit.

The admiral said in his judgment the Filipinos were capable of self-government and the way to settle the insurrection and to insure prosperity was to concede it to them. He declared that he never was in favor of violence toward the Filipinos and remarked that after autonomy had been conceded, annexation might be talked of.

ILL WITH YELLOW FEVER.

Inspector General Harrison Reported Desperately Sick In Cuba.

A dispatch from Santiago de Cuba says that Major Russell B. Harrison, inspector general, is critically ill with yellow fever. The disease had been progressing for three days, although not pronounced yellow fever until Sunday afternoon. The case is the first to occur at Cristo.

PROGRESS OF MORMONS

In Their Work of Proselyting In Various Southern States.

The report of President Rich of the Mormon society issued last Saturday, shows that 490 elders are laboring in southern fields, and that during the week these walked 9,260 miles; visited 3,500 families, and held 950 meetings.

The report says in the Georgia conference 67 elders are at work, and during the week they walked 909 miles and visited 169 families. They were refused entertainment 37 times.

Bubonic Plague In Evidence.

Advices from Madrid state that three cases of the bubonic plague are reported from Oporto. They are said to be of a mild character.

NEW SECRETARY MAY RESIGN.

Rumor Current In Washington That Mr. Root Is Tired of His Job.

An interesting story is going the rounds in Washington that Secretary Root will resign his portfolio. In a word it is rumored that the secretary is already sick of his job and that he will be forced to abandon his post in humiliation if he does not protect himself by an early resignation.

In view of the fact that the new secretary of war has had charge of the department but a few weeks, this is certainly a remarkable story to find a start anywhere. But it is going around and comes from apparently good authority.

MAY RELEASE DREYFUS.

London Correspondent Says General Mercier Will Be Arrested.

The Paris correspondent of The London Sunday Special says:

"The government, I understand, has decided to arrest General Mercier. It is rumored that orders will be given to withdraw the case against Dreyfus, it having been proved that the documents relied upon to establish his guilt are forgeries."

JIMINEZ IN CUSTODY.

The Aspirant to the Presidency of San Domingo Is Arrested In Cuba.

A special from Havana says: In view of the fact that Colonel Bacallao, chief of the secret police, persisted in his declaration that General Juan Isidro Jiminez, the aspirant to the presidency of Santo Domingo, was in Havana, either not having left, or having returned, the military authorities telegraphed to Cienftiegos instructing Capt. Stamper, collector of customs, to ascertain whether Jiminez was on the Menedez steamer and to take him under arrest if that should be the case.

Just as the steamer was about leaving Cienfuegos, Captain Stamper located Jiminez and arrested him. Jiminez denounced the arrest as an outrage. He said that he had broken no law and would not yield except to force. Captain Stamper replied that he was ready to use force if necessary and Jiminez then yielded, remarking that he did so only because he could not help himself.

Senor Frias, mayor of Cienfuegos, refused to make the arrest, claiming that General Jiminez was an old personal friend whom he had known intimately for years. When Jeminez was taken into custody, Senor Frias was found with a police inspector, in close conversation with Jiminez and the latter's secretary. It is believed the mayor was urging him to leave the steamer, to conceal himself and wait for a better opportunity. Captain Stamper informed Jiminez that he would make him as comfortable as possible, and after Jiminez and his secretary had packed their trunks they were accompanied by the chief of police and Captain Stamper to the Union hotel, where two bedrooms and a dining room were placed at their disposal.

General Jiminez will be kept under police charge until further advices are received from the governor general. There is much excitement among the people of Ceinfuegos over the affair. The sentiment is generally expressed that the authorities had no right to arrest Jiminez, an unarmed citizen, going apparently to Santiago de Cuba, and the point is even made that, even if he were going to San Domingo, he would only be returning to his native country.

PICQUART HELPS DREYFUS.

Colonel's Testimony Indicated Innocence of the Prisoner.

Advices from Rennes state that when the Dreyfus courtmartial was resumed Friday morning Colonel Picquart, former chief of the intelligence department of the war office, was called, continuing his deposition, which was interrupted by the adjournment of Thursday.

Colonel Picquart discussed the secret dossier as being the mainspring of the condemnation of Dreyfus. His evidence tends to show the prisoner's innocence. He took up the documents successively, referring to the writers and addressees of the letters as "A" and "B." Among those present in court were Generals Zurlinden and Billot, former ministers of war.

Maitre Mornard, who argued the case in behalf of the Dreyfus family for the revision of the prisoner's sentence, before the court of cassation, was present to assist M. Demange, of counsel for the defense.

WITHOUT MAIL FACILITIES.

Lake City, South Carolina, Is As Yet Without a Postoffice.

The disposition of the Lake City, S. C., postoffice controversy is still undecided, despite contrary reports. The suggestion to re-establish the office and appoint a white woman as postmistress was a tentative one, and while that course may be pursued, no decision has been reached.

A new factor in the case is an adverse report of an inspector on re-establishing the office.

The case has been under discussion at Champlain between President McKinley and Postmaster General Smith.

Tobacco Stemmers Strike.

About 100 tobacco stemmers, in the employ of W. F. Smith & Co., exporters of leaf tobacco, at Winston, N. C., went out on a strike Friday. They demanded an increase in wages, which was refused.

TRAIN PLUNGES INTO RIVER.

Accident Occurs Near Texarkana, But Results Yet Unknown.

A message was received at Texarkana, Ark., early Saturday morning to the effect that a northbound passenger train on the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railroad went into Little river fifty miles north of Texarkana. A switch engine with crew has left for the scene. The wreck is between stations and it is not known how much of the train went off the bridge. It is known, however, that the baggage, mail and express cars went in.

A Gigantic Watermelon.

A dispatch from Tallahassee, Fla., says: The explanatory letter and one of the largest watermelons ever grown anywhere, weighing 152 pounds, was received by Commissioner of Agriculture Lucius B. Wombwell, Friday afternoon. The melon was grown and shipped by W. M. Girardeau, Monticello, Fla.

Suffrage Given Australian Women.

A dispatch from Perth, West Australia, says: The legislative council of Western Australia has passed a bill enfranchising women.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Events of General Interest to All Alabamians.

OFFICERS SELECTED FOR NEW REGIMENTS.

Progress of the State Fair—Huntsville's Industrial Convention—Street Duel in Montgomery—Boy Killed in a Runaway.

Secretary J. A. Rountree, of the State Fair association, has received a telegram from Judge A. E. Caffee saying that he had accepted the presidency of the association to which he was elected a few days ago and will come at once to Birmingham to confer with the management with a view to beginning upon the duties of the office.

Everybody is enthusiastic with the progress that has been made toward the success of the state fair. It has always been Birmingham's way to push to successful materialization everything that it has undertaken and the state fair is no exception. Not only are people of Birmingham enthusiastic, but the whole state seems delighted with the idea.

Probably no effort to bring about good results has ever received more hearty co-operation and active support than the movement now fairly launched to bring a big exposition of the state's resources to Birmingham this fall.

Southern Industrial Convention.

Secretary N. F. Thompson, of the Huntsville Chamber of Commerce, has begun to send out hundreds of invitations to persons throughout the United States to attend the Southern Industrial Convention, which will be held in Huntsville beginning October 10. The convention will probably continue four days. It will be composed of governors, commissioners of agriculture, superintendents of education from all southern states, mayors of cities, editors and publishers, the duly accredited representatives of business and commercial organizations, schools, firms and educational institutions.

The subjects to be discussed embrace the leading lines of industries at present established or that may be deemed worthy of establishment in the south. The general objects sought to be obtained are a wider knowledge of the south's resources and the best means to secure their speedier and more thorough development.

Street Duel in Montgomery.

A shooting affray occurred on Court Square, Montgomery, Friday between two white men, J. G. Reasonover, a Montgomery county farmer, and Charley Ray, a young man about town. Reasonover shot Ray twice with a double barrel shot gun in the left shoulder and neck and he is seriously wounded. The arteries of his neck are supposed to have been severed. After Ray was shot he at once drew his pistol and shot Reasonover twice, one ball striking him in the left thigh, the ball going through the leg, dropping out on the floor.

Boy Killed in Runaway.

A shocking accident occurred at Tuskaloosa which resulted in the death of the little son of Policeman J. P. Sims. Clifton, the oldest child of Mr. Sims, aged about 8 or 9 years, was sent on an errand on a horse. His younger sister was with him and when they had returned and were directly in front of their home, the horse bucked and threw them both to the ground. The little girl was badly hurt, but not seriously. Clifton's head, however, struck a stone. Concussion of the brain was caused, and though a physician was summoned, death ensued in a short while.

Officers for New Volunteer Regiments.

Governor Johnston has notified Secretary of War Root of his selection of six officers from the three Alabama regiments whom he desired should be appointed in case of emergency in obedience to a request sent out by the secretary recently to all the governors whose states furnished troops for the late Spanish-American war. They are:

First Infantry—Capt. C. L. Ledbetter and Lieutenant Thomas Hardeman.

Second Infantry—Capt. S. B. May and Capt. J. W. Vaiden.

Third Infantry — Capt. Edward Johnston and Lieut. Frank W. Glover.

Chief Justice Chambers Arrives.

Hon. William L. Chambers, chief justice of the supreme court at Samoa, arrived in Montgomery Friday evening, accompanied by his family. Judge Chambers would not talk of Samoan affairs, as he has not yet made his official report to the authorities at Washington. He will spend several days in Montgomery before going to the capital.

Boy's Head Split Open.

A horrible accident occurred near Attalla Saturday. Tilley and George Burgess, aged 10 and 15 years, espectively, were in the woods cutting cross ties, when Eddie McDaniel, an orphan boy, came along and wished to be employed, but was told they did not need anyone. The boys were all good friends, and Eddie, who was about 12 years old, said he would help Tilley any way. He picked up a maul and wedge and started to work. He passed near George Burgess, who looked up in time to keep from him. He ran to where Tilley was working and directly under the descending ax, which struck him in the center of the head, cutting a gash four inches long and one inch deep. McDaniel cried out: "Oh, Tilley, you have killed me." Tilley dropped his ax and pulled a piece of bone out. The Burgess boys carried him home. He is in a precarious condition, part of his brain having oozed out and the skull pressing on the balance. McDaniels says it was purely an accident, and no one is to blame but himself. He cannot recover.

Options Secured on Property.

Rumors are afloat in Birmingham of the purchase of options on a large tract of property at East Birmingham by Baltimore parties, supposed to be representing either a big railroad company or a large manufacturing company. It is impossible to get the details, but the property in question lies between the railroad and Copeland's brickyard. It is intimated that the Baltimore parties are none other than those who recently bought the Mary Pratt furnace and the Gate City properties and that they are representing John Skelton Williams and the Seaboard Air Line syndicate, with a view to bringing that road into Birmingham.

Sloss Sheffield Company Incorporated.

A Trenton, N. J., dispatch says: Articles of incorporation of the Sloss Sheffield Steel and Iron Company, with an authorized capital of $20,000,000, were filed with the Secretary of State. The company will manufacture steel, iron, etc. One-half of the stock is preferred, with 7 per cent cumulative dividends. The incorporators are John B. Summerfields, S. B. Lawrence and Ansel L. White, of New York, George E. Spencer, Brooklyn, Adrain H. Larkin, Nutley, N. J.

Cotton Crop Injured.

The prospects for a big yield of cotton in this state have been greatly diminished since August 1. For three weeks heavy rains, followed by excessively hot sunshine, have seriously hurt the crop. The bottom cotton is fruiting rapidly and appears to be all right, but the middle crop has been practically destroyed in many sections, and the top crop is little better. It is estimated the yield has been injured 15 per cent in two weeks.

Mayor Hight Dead.

Captain F. M. Hight, mayor of Anniston for more than eight years and one of the most intellectual men of Alabama, died Saturday afternoon. Captain Hight was formerly general manager of the Woodstock Iron Company and late its secretary and treasurer during the days of its greatest prosperity. He fought with distinction in the confederate army and was widely known and admired. He was 56 years old.

Col. Wiley Appointed Major.

Col. A. A. Wiley, of Montgomery, received a telegram Saturday from the war department bearing the information that he had been appointed a major in one of the provisional regiments. The news was a very great surprise to Colonel Wiley, as he was not an applicant for this or any other army position. He will decline the commission. It was insisted in the telegram that Colonel Wiley accept the place.

Scholarships Awarded.

Superintendent of Education Abercrombie has awarded the three scholarships from Alabama to Peabody Normal college at Nashville. The successful contestants were Miss Ethel Erwin, of Evergreen; Miss Alleen Sweat, of Montgomery; and T. H. Somerville, of Franconia, Pickens county.

Tax Collector Checks Up Short.

Another tax collector has been checked up short by Examiner of Public Accounts Purifoy. The examiner filed a report with the governor Friday morning, charging Collector J. Z. Hendley, of Henry county, with a shortage of $2,320.37. This covers a period of two years in office, 1897 and 1898.

RED BAY WAS DEVASTATED

Hurricane Destroys Town On Andros Island.

THE FATALITIES FEARFUL

Eye Witness Estimates That 600 People Were Killed, While Another Report Places Number at 300.

According to a Miami, Fla., dispatch to The Jacksonville Times-Union and Citizen, Captain Dillon, of the steamer Cocoa, states that the town of Red Bay, on the island of Andros, twenty miles southwest of Nassau, was swept away in the recent tropical hurricane and about 300 lives lost.

An eye witness of the storm estimated that the loss of life on the island was fully 600. Scattered through the wreck of houses at Red Bay after the storm subsided, he said, were hundreds of corpses of persons of all ages and classes.

Captain Dillion says the wind blew at the rate of ninety miles an hour at Nassau, with occasional gusts which reached the velocity of 105 miles an hour.

INVESTIGATED WHIPPINGS.

Warrants Are Issued For Whitecaps In South Carolina.

The mass meeting to consider outrages recently perpetrated on negroes in that section met in Greenwood, S. C., Friday pursuant to adjournment on Wednesday. The committee made its report that no effort had been made to excuse, shield or whitewash any one, but that diligent inquiry had failed to elicit information sufficient to recommend the arrest of any one.

They had made the discovery, however, that the situation was not as bad as reported in the newspapers or as they thought it to be. While it was all the outgrowth of the Phœnix riot, it had no direct connection with it. The several whippings at as many different times and places were probably due to as many causes.

The meeting evidently thought the committee had not been as thorough as it might have been in the investigation and several of the negroes who had been whipped, and who were present, were called for and questioned, first having been pledged protection by the white people by a unanimous vote, for any information they might give that would lead to the arrest of at least some of the guilty parties.

The tales they told were harrowing in the extreme. Especially is this true of old man Jake Richardson, as he told how they dragged him from a sick bed, beat him and assaulted his wife. No one who looked in his face doubted the truth of his statement, but unfortunately he would not divulge the names of any of his assailants.

Five other negroes gave evidence against Joe Jones, Jesse Cauley, William Wilson and Robert McCaulan, all white men, sufficient to warrant their arrest, and the sheriff will execute papers against them at once. All the evidence went to show that there was a dozen or more of the whitecappers and still others may be arrested.

Feeling over the matter is very much wrought up, but no further trouble is apprehended.

PROSPECTIVE ROAD SOLD.

New Parties Get Option On a South Georgia Road.

An Augusta, Ga., dispatch says: Mr. Jesse Thompson confirms the report that he has given an option for the sale of his railroad, the Augusta and West Florida. He did not say at what price, but said $600 had been paid on the option by Mr. T. J. Jones.

The purpose of the prospective new owners is to run the road from Wadley to Keysville on the Tennille division of the Southern, or failing in that, to run to Augusta. The road as originally projected was by way of Eastman into Florida.

WATCHING FILIBUSTERS.

Cuban Coast Is Being Patrolled By American Vessels.

News from Santiago de Cuba is to the effect that the Dominican agents are rapidly recruiting expeditions in that part of the island, particularly on the north coast.

All trading schooners are closely watched. The tug Adonis was armed and sent to Guantanamo to patrol the coast.

It is certain that several expeditions have been able able to get away without any interference, but General Leonard Wood, the military governor, is determined to do all in his power to enforce neutrality.

Undoubtedly Bubonic Plague.

Advices from Oporto, Portugul, states that it is now acknowledged that the bubonic plague began there on June 4th, last, since which time there have been thirty-nine cases, thirteen proving fatal.

Oil Explosion Caused Big Fire.

Fire which originated from an explosion of oil at Chicago Friday night destroyed the five-story brick building at Twenty-seventh and Dearborn streets. Loss, $300,000; partially insured.

SIX INDICTMENTS FOR LYNCHING

Hall County Grand Jury Acts On Taylor's Confession.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Sheriff Monday, However, Says Wrong Men Are Accused.

As a result of the confession of Taylor Hamilton, the Hall county, Ga., grand jury has returned six true bills for murder against men whom Hamilton implicates in the lynching of Si Smith in the jail at Gainesville. The men indicted are:

Taylor Hamilton, of Maysville.

Tom Bryson, a harness-maker of Gainesville.

Henry Towry, a tinner, Gainesville.

Tom Bryson, Charles Tanner and Taylor Hamilton are under arrest, but the two Bell boys and Henry Towry have left the country and no trace of them has been discovered in the energetic search that has been instituted for them for the past week.

The grand jury recommended that Tanner and Bryson, who have been confined in the Gainsville jail, be removed to Atlanta for safe keeping. Judge Estes, of the Hall superior court, issued an order to Sheriff Monday to take the prisoners to Atlanta. The order was at once complied with.

The recommendation of the grand jury and the consequent order of Judge Estes regarding the prisoners added to the already tremendous sensation, as it has been openly asserted that Sheriff Monday has known of the entire affair of the lynching from the beginning to the end, and that he was in sympathy with the alleged lynchers. Taylor Hamilton, in his confession, vows that the sheriff knew of it, and many witnesses before the grand jury gave testimony pointing that way.

On the other hand, Sheriff Monday states emphatically that the men under arrest were not in the mob on the night of the lynching. On this testimony the fate of the prisoners depends.

There is undoubtedly a feeling of great sympathy in the county for the Bells. The shocking murder of the aged head of the family aroused the indignation of the whole section and when Si Smith, the murderer, was captured, everybody felt that he should receive the full extent of the law for his crime.

Smith was captured on the 12th of last May and confined in the Hall county jail. On the night of the 14th of July he was shot to death in his cell by a mob. The killing of Smith caused the greatest surprise in the community, for those interested in his capture and crime had brought him many miles through a mountainous country to the jail without molestation.

Governor Candler had offered a reward of $500 for the capture of Smith with evidence to convict. The captors made application for the reward, but the governor refused to pay until the prisoner had been convicted. It is said in Gainesville that the doubts expressed by the governor as to the evidence against Smith hastened the lynching.

A striking feature of the whole affair is the fact that every man against whom the grand jury returned true bills figured prominently in the six weeks chase and capture of Smith.

The best people of Gainesville and the vicinity believe that the right parties have been discovered.

Many of the state house officials in Atlanta, including Governor Candler, place implicit confidence in the confession of Hamilton, and since the crime of lynching in the state has become so prevalent, a confession from one of the perpetrators could not fail to have fascinating powers for those who are determined to put a stop to the mob violence. The governor is especially interested in bringing to justice the men who are responsible for the inhuman death of Si Smith and the consequent blot on the morals of Hall county, the governor's home.

THE SHAMROCK ARRIVES.

English Yacht Reaches New York Sooner Than Anticipated.

Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, the Shamrock, challenger for America's cup, reached port at New York Friday, accompanied by her tender, the steam yacht Erin. The Shamrock sailed from Failee on the Clyde August 3, and made the voyage over in much quicker time than was anticipated.

The Erin towed the Shamrock about 2,000 miles, and the latter sailed something more than 1,200 miles. Her best day's run under canvas was 286 knots. Most of the towing was done after passing the Azores, August 9th.

PULLED CRAP SHOOTERS.

Constaple Raids Swell Game at a Prominent Summer Resort.

A Chattanooga dispatch says: Constable K. P. Miller raided a swell crap game late Thursday night at Lookout Inn, one of the swellest summer resorts in the south. Pistols were drawn and it was feared trouble for the officers would result, but the hotel clerks kept it down. The affair caused quite a sensation.

MORE ABOUT THE DEAL.

The Age-Herald publishes a story from Montgomery which bears upon recent events in this county. It reads as follows:

Little incidents tending to show Governor Johnston's candidacy for the United States Senate are cropping out almost every day. A prominent Elmore County Democrat in Montgomery to-day revealed a deal in the senatorial district composed of the counties of Elmore, Chilton and Shelby, whereby the Governor is building a machine to elect the senator favoring Johnston for General Morgan's seat. The Elmore County man said:

"I have at last unearthed the reasons why the Governor has been catering to the Populists in our senatorial district. He wants to control the State senator, and what is still worse, he is attempting to have another Populist succeed Deans. Representative Reynolds, of Chilton, is the man. The trade is this: Johnston appointed the choice of the Populists judge of probate of Elmore, Hon. H. J. Lancaster, a recent convert to Democracy. He appointed a Democratic sheriff of Shelby, who in turn makes a Populist editor chief deputy. Now, the appointees and the Governor will endeavor to have the Democracy endorse Reynolds. Reynolds, I understand, boasts that Judge Lancaster has already promised him the support of the Elmore County Democracy."

If this story be true, it would seem that the Governor is very much a candidate for the senatorship. It is certainly a plausible revelation of some recent appointments.

In this connection it is interesting to remember that last year, during the Congressional campaign in this district, an opportunity was offered to Mr. Reynolds to become a Democrat by espousing the cause of the Democratic candidates. This he declined to do. We can not speak for the Democrats of Chilton and Elmore, but we can for those of Shelby. They will not endorse Mr. Reynolds, and the Governor's appointees will have a hard time carrying out their part of the contract. In this county we do not recognize as Democrats men who come in through any but the open door: nor do we recognize those who stay on the inside and dicker with those on the outside.

THE Montgomery Journal has a great many contributors who praise Johnston and tell falsehoods by innuendo on Morgan, none of whom have the manhood to give their names. Anonymous articles, like anonymous letters, are of little consequence. The cowardice displayed usually proves their unreliability.

SINCE primaries are being called in some counties and demanded in others we suggest it would be wise for the State committee to meet at an early day and take some action that will give official sanction or disapproval to early primaries. It ought also to fix the qualifications before any are held for State officers. There may be contests, and some law ought to be laid down beforehand.

FROM our news columns it will be seen that Mr. Aldrich is a very smooth player. Starting out with a capital stock of $300,000, he reduces it to $100,000 to dodge the tax commissioner. He then gets on the good side of the commissioner, and settles with a raise of $7,000. His own report is that his stock is worth par. Under the law he ought to pay on $100,000 on the aggregate, whereas he gets off with $45,000. Our best information is that the annual profit of his company exceeds this amount, and certain it is that he has refused one-third of this amount as rental. Applying the law to the present capital stock, he would pay on $60,000 for five years back. Mr. Aldrich has gotten off light, whereas the Saginaw Lumber Company was pushed up to the full amount of its capital stock without a murmur.

THE Advocate publishes a personal letter from Governor Johnston in which he says:

If those who are escaping or evading their just share of taxation, and there are many among them who own the most property and get the most benefits from government, if these would only make fair assessments the tax rate could be reduced one-half, the schools taught twice as long, and Alabama yet have the lowest rate of State taxation in the South. While I am in office I shall stand for equal rights to all and no privileges or immunities to any, and especially the rich who can best bear the burdens of taxation.

The Governor talks very well for a man whose business administration has resulted in a 70 cent tax rate. He would do well to give his attention to some of the big concerns in this county to which we have repeatedly called attention. There is quite a field for his labors here, and if he can get the proper amount of tax money out of them he will do more than he or his friends have done yet. Anything he might do in this direction would be highly appreciated.

It has been intimated that the election of Senator Morgan will be inimicable to the interest of certain railroad corporations in this country, and if any money is needed to defeat him it will be forthcoming in abundance. There is a strong probability that this is true. The building of the Nicaragua canal would seriously interfere with certain great trunk lines across the continent, to say nothing of some smaller ones. Morgan's defeat would seriously retard the construction of this canal, if it did not entirely kill it. The enemies of the canal could well afford to furnish the money to defeat its able promoter. Alabama and the South can ill afford to have him defeated. Morgan has been an honest Senator, hence he has no money to fight his enemies with, nor would he use it if he had. His enemies, in and out of the State, are not so honest. It will be their money against the people's will.

MORGAN'S DREAM.

The Louisville Courier-Journal recently had the following to say of our senior Senator:

But for Morgan the Spaniard flag would be flying in Havana and Manilla at this good day. He was to Spain what Cato was to Carthage, though his motive was nobler and higher. It was with the greatest reluctance that the Senator entered upon the war, and it was whipped in by the tenacity and temerity of John T. Morgan. But for Morgan the Nicaragua canal project would have been abandoned years ago. The prospect of its construction was never so bright as it is now. Morgan may not live to see its completion, but when it is finished to him will be due the meed of a great statesman. The Erie canal was the work of DeWitt Clinton. The Pacific railway was the work of Thos. H. Benton. The Nicaragua canal will be the work of John T. Morgan. If it is practical, if it proves a success, it will revolutionize commerce. It may make an American city on Puget Sound the metropolis of America. It make New Orleans a rival, and a successful rival, of Chicago in population, commerce and wealth. It may make Birmingham, Ala., greater than Pittsburg, Pa., or Birmingham, England. Certain it is that Manchesters and Fall Rivers will spring up all over the South, spinning and weaving the fabrics that clothe the labor of China. There is Morgan's dream. And Morgan's dreams are sometimes realized.

Commenting on the above the Birmingham News says:

Senator Morgan's dream is by no means a wild one. As to the canal itself, the project was only very recently been declared entirely feasible by the Walker Canal Commission and the cost of construction has been placed by a majority of the commission at $118,000,000. As he stated in his speech before the Board of Trade, in this city, the hope and desire of Senator Morgan is to remain in the Senate until the canal is built. His purpose is to give the project his best efforts, and he believes that its success is very near realization. It is idle to speculate upon the possibilities, commercially and industrially, which the opening of the canal holds out to the South. They are recognized by every intelligent man as being beyond computation.

The singular part of it all is that there should be found in Alabama men who would defeat Morgan for re-election and imperil this great enterprise, to say nothing of robbing the nation of the services of a man who is recognized throughout the world as the greatest statesman in the American Congress today. The defeat of Senator Morgan at this time would be a national calamity. As for Alabama, it would be a reflection upon the judgement, intelligence and appreciation of the people of this state.

WE note that Frank Nelson, Jr., is a candidate for mayor of Anniston, a place made vacant by the death of F. M. Hight. We hope to see him win.

THE YARN IS 25 PER CENT STRONGER

Test of the Roundlap Cotton Bale In New England Mills.

Mr. Mm. C. Lovering, a leading New England Cotton manufacturer says:

The Roundlap bale of the American Cotton Company continues to win favor with the manufacturers of New England, as well as with the spinners of Europe. You can readily understand why this should be so, in view of the saving, and of the fact that after making a very thorough investigation in one of my mills last summer I found that the average breaking strain of yarn spun from this bale is about 25 per cent greater than the strength of the yarn spun from the old bale.

The Alabama Fertilizer

Is said, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 48 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The present price is no more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mununin Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cent preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS

COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting cotton at 5 cents and seed at 13 cents a bushel, was over $45 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4.77 per acre.

The Journal does not guarantee results, but the result of the test at the Experiment Station make it worth a farmer's while to try these seed when they cost him nothing.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

They Should Know it.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing-down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor, frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in bottle or common glass for 24 hours are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

In fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same remedy.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for 50 cents or $1.

To prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention THE CHRONICLE, and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

One of the most picturesque and delightful sections of North Carolina, is what is known as the Sapphire Country. This section is located near Brevard, N. C., at an average attitude of 3,000 feet, and abounds in many beautiful streams and grand water-falls.

Of the many attractive features, perhaps one of the most interesting and picturesque points are Fairfield and Sapphire Lakes. No where else in the South at this altitude are there such bodies of water. There are towering cliffs, rising abruptly for a thousand foot from their shores and cascades of rare beauty falling directly into the lakes from the lofty table land surrounding.

On account of the elevation of this section, it is very healthy, and particularly adapted to those troubled with hay fever, being also free from all malaria or other diseases. A record of the temperature kept at Sapphire for four years, shows an average of 69 degrees for the entire summer.

Sapphire Inn, Fairfield Inn and The Lodge, afford excellent accommodations for guests.

For further information regarding the Sapphire Country, call on any agent of the Southern Railway, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn., for descriptive pamphlet.

Don't forget, but hold your cotton and go to Hammond's and buy your groceries.

"What's in a name?" The word "bitters" does not always indicate something harsh and disagreeable. Prickly Ash Bitters is proof of this. It cleanses, strengthens and regulates the system thoroughly, yet it is so pleasant the most delicate stomach will not object to it. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

One of the oldest citizens of the county, Wiley Russell, died yesterday at his home in Shades Valley at the age of 90. He was not afflicted with any disease, but died of general debility induced by his old age.—Age-Herald.

Nothing so thoroughly removes the malarial germ from the system as Prickly Ash Bitters. It gives life and action to the torpid liver, strengthens and assists the kidneys to properly cleanse the blood, gives tone to the stomach, purifies the bowels, and promotes good appetite, vigor and cheerfulness. Sold by Drs. Williams Bros.

Capt. R. R. Poole, of Marengo, was in the city Tuesday. He is a candidate for commissioner of agriculture before the next convention. He is a sterling Democrat, and was a staunch friend of the constitutional convention in the last house. He will be in the county again.

F. M. Johnson, Rozell, Ala., writes: Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine cured me of indigestion. All my neighbors who have used it speak highly of it. I think it a far better liver medicine than Zeilin's or Black Draught.

BACK TAX COMMISSIONER.

List of Raises Made and Sustained to Date.

The following raises have been made by the back tax commissioner and sustained by the commissioners court:

Saginaw Lumber Co.	$13 991
Montevallo Coal & Trans. Co.	7 000
Lester, Mason & Co.	11 250
Earle Terrell Coal Co.	11 000
J. F. Pope	4 000
J. E. Adams	2 500
Alabama Iron & Steel Co.	6 750
T. C. I. & R. Co.	6,000
Renfro, Stiner & Vaghan	1 630
Cahaba Mineral Land Co.	3 036
J. B. Adams	2 000
Birmingham Dry Goods Co.	808
Mrs. L. A. Hardy	250
O. Cost	1 236
Mrs. M. Pond	1 500
Pratt & Holcombe Lumber Co	500
Willard Warner	325
Alabama Mineral Land Co.	10 000
Columbiana Mercantile Co.	3 000

In the matter of the Montevallo Coal and Transportation Company, Mr. Aldrich had the capital stock of his corporation reduced from $300,000 to $100,000, and the commissioner then agreed to a raise of $7,000; so that now Mr. Aldrich is paying upon an assessment of $45,000, with a capital stock of $100,000 reported to be worth par. The amount of assessment does not more than equal the annual profits of the plant.

J. B. Adams was raised $19,000 by the commissioners, but in default of evidence only $2,000 was sustained. The commissioner will appeal.

The Alabama Iron and Steel Co. was raised $13,750, but only $6,750 was sustained.

The Alabama State Land Co. was raised $10,000, but by an agreement made with the commissioners court a year ago, the raise was not sustained. This company is represented by Maj. F. Y. Anderson, of Birmingham, and by Representative Sturdivant.

Eighty-seven more cases are set for the 7th and 8th of September, including the Shelby Iron Co. The total raises will probably reach $225,000. In addition to this escapes will probably be discovered amounting to some $60,000. This will net the county and State some $3,640 in taxes, and the commissioner $364 in fees.

TO THE DEAF—A rich lady, cured of her deafness and noises in the head by Dr. Nicholson's Artificial Ear Drums, gave $10,000 to his Institute, so that deaf people unable to procure the Ear Drums may have them free. Address No 132, The Institute, "Longcott," Gunnersbury, London, W. England.

Hon. Gaston A. Robbins, of Selma, was in the city Tuesday. He had just had printed his brief in his contested-election case with W. F. Aldrich for the seat from this district in Fifty-sixth Congress. The evidence of a fair election is conclusive and he hopes to retain his seat—if the case is decided on its merits.

WHISKY, CHLORAL, COCANE OR MORPHINE habits successfully treated without pain or detention from daily business. communications confidential. Terms very reasonable. A. S. WOOLLEY, M. D., 1502 Eleventh Avenue, South, Birmingham, Ala., office hours from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m.

BICYCLES GIVEN AWAY:—I am offering one new high grade bicycle in every county in Alabama for a little pleasant work. No one has taken up the work in Shelby County nor in the adjoining counties. Any boy or girl, lady or gentleman, can easily do the work. Write at once.

Shelby Springs Shot Drops.

The Springs is now at the height of the season. During the rainy spell many guests departed, but for several days past there has been a pouring in and filling up to the utmost capacity. Every room on the premises is packed and people still clamoring for admittance. The attractive young ladies, or something, are drawing a number of elegant gentlemen from various parts of the State.

Hon. Gaston A. Robbins, with his genial smile, has found his way here. Mr. Charlie Allen, of the Governor's staff, is also a great favorite. Mr Ollie Leeper is keeping up his reputation in gallantry and a leader in the dances remarkably well.

Miss Bingham, Miss Romer and Miss Dimmick, with many other beautiful young ladies are gracing society here and keeping many hearts in a flutter and quiver. One gentleman in particular has had to resort to "Bromo Seltzer" and other restoratives to quiet the brain and compose the wild pulsations of a doubtful heart.

There was an unusual attendance at the dance Monday evening. Mr. Walthall and Miss Worsham, Mr. Wallace and Miss Darby, of Harpersville, being among the visitors.

Mrs. Price, of Mexico, and Mrs. Brightman, two of the stoutest ladies on the grounds have afforded much pleasure and mirth by leading the old "Virginia Reel" occasionally.

As every one realizes the season will soon be coming to a close. There seems to be a general rush, and everyone vieing with each other to see who can get the most pleasure and have the best time. Old Shelby is doing herself proud this season, and cupid is getting in its share of momentous work.

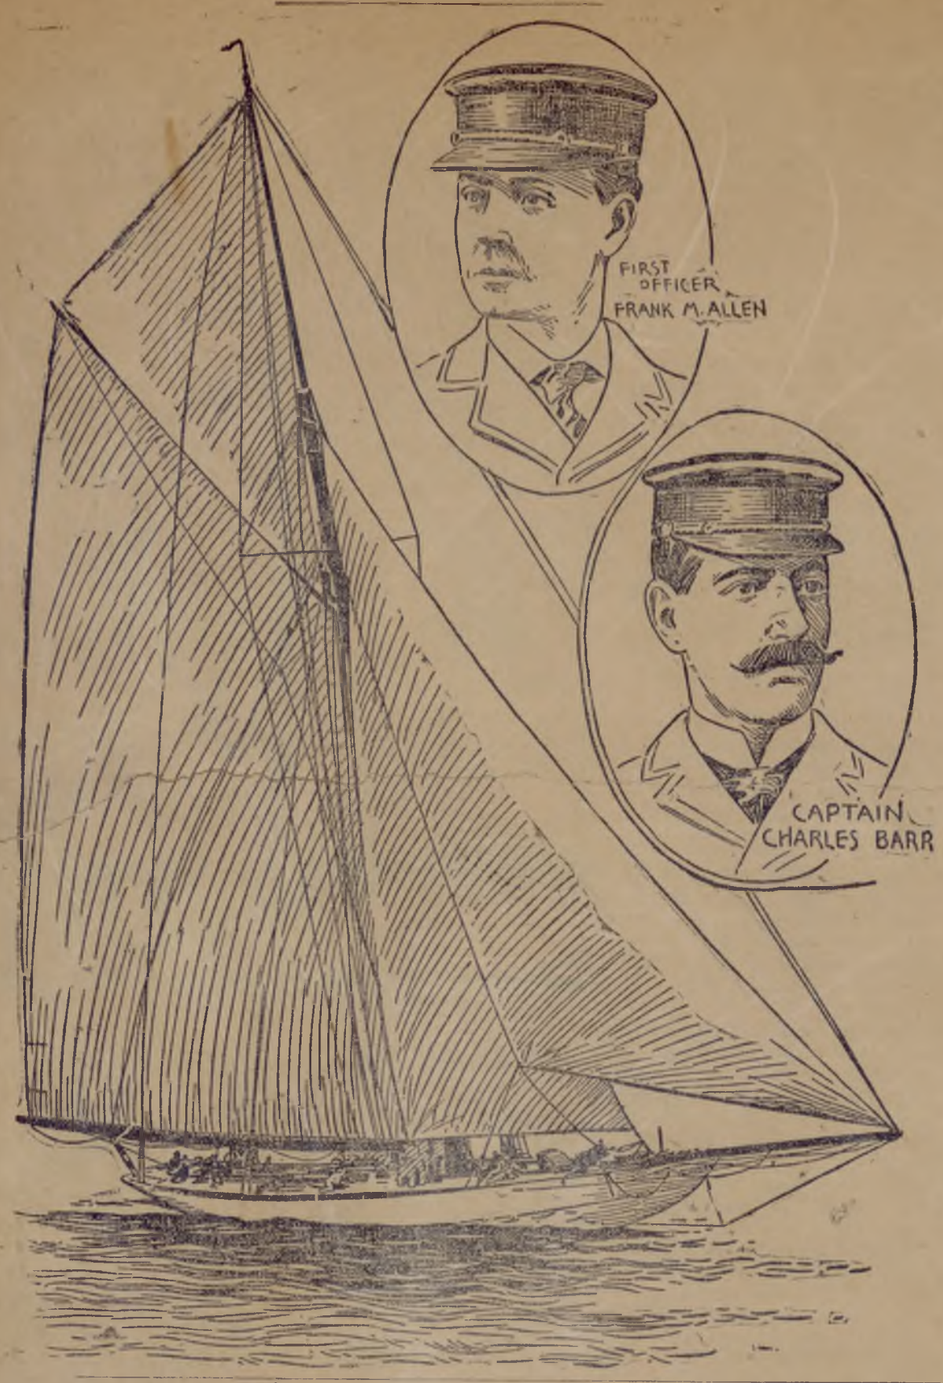
THE AMERICA'S CUP DEFENDER, COLUMBIA.



the Race Between Columbia and Shamrock.

MEMORABLE contest may confidently be expected when Sir Thomas Lipton comes over here in the fall to get the America's Cup. The race will be the tenth since the proud day when the eagle first acquired a right to perch upon that trophy. But it is not time to be frightened yet. The British papers are doing their best to scare us, but we should keep up our courage for the present. That the Shamrock, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, is a dangerous craft is hardly to be doubted, but that she will defeat the Columbia is not yet a foregone conclusion. We have been told that the Shamrock had a concealed centreboard, and that this was what would beat us. We have read that she had a way of putting her chain cable up her sleeve and taking it out for the purpose of the race; that she had a hollow keel in which all sorts of dangerous expedients could be concealed, and that she was in general a craft more filled with mysteries than our own Fenimore Cooper's Water Witch. But the lines of a yacht, like murder, will out. Her dimensions may be kept secret, yet they, too, will ultimately be known with something approaching exactness.

The dimensions of the Columbia have been obtained from men who have had means of learning them, and are trustworthy. They put the yacht's length over all as 131 feet; beam, 22 feet 2 inches, and draught, 19 feet 10 inches. Her painted water line measured 89 feet 6 inches, and it was believed that she would float, when all rigged, at about 89 feet 8 or 9 inches. The following table of dimensions of the two yachts is taken from the London Daily News.

SIR THOMAS J. LIPTON.
(Challenger for the American's Cup.)

	Columbia. Ft.	In.	Shamrock. Ft.	In.
Length over all	131	4	132	2
Water-line length	89	10	89	6
Beam	24	2½	24	6
Draught	20		20

Displacement — Columbia, 142½ tons; Shamrock, 147 tons. Sail area—Columbia, 13,910 square feet, Shamrock, 14,125 square feet.

The Columbia, which is the third cup defender designed by Nathaniel Green Herreshoff, is owned jointly by Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan and C. Oliver Iselin, both of the New York Yacht Club. Roughly speaking, she will cost to build and run about $225,000 for the season, of which the Herreshoffs will receive about $110,000, which includes the hull, rigging, sails and extra spars.

The Columbia in C. Oliver Iselin has a capable amateur manager. His famous racing flag, the black and red swallow-tail, has been carried triumphantly to victory on the Titania, Vigilant and Defender. No patriotic American doubts he will be successful this year. He has in Mrs. Iselin the most charming mascot in the world. His aids are Woodbury Kane, Herbert C. Leeds and Newberry D. Thorne, all excellent yachtsmen.

His skipper, Charles Barr, is one of the smartest in the world. He is a Scotchman, but has long been naturalized. He is the only man of foreign birth who will sail on Columbia. He is thirty-five years old, and was born at Gourock on the Clyde. In Chief Mate Allen, Captain Barr has a thoroughly able and experienced officer.

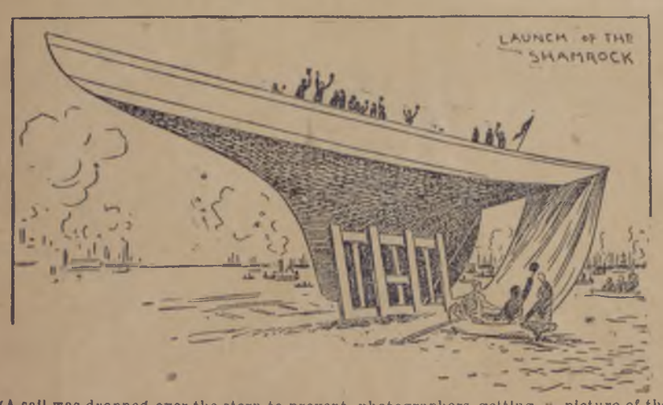
The crew of Columbia hail from Deer Isle, Me., and a better lot of seamen never broke a biscuit. There are thirty-nine all told, and ten of them sailed on Defender. Many of them have been captains and mates of coasting vessels. They are a lithe, agile lot, and handle the Columbia to perfection.

WM. FIFE, JR., THE DESIGNER.
CAPT. WRINGE. CAPT. HOGARTH.
(The Shamrock's designer and her two skippers.)

The Shamrock's skippers, Hogarth and Wringe, are men just a little over thirty years of age, and yet both have been sailing in class matches for several years. Hogarth has had charge of most of Fairlie's successful boats, and Wringe made another boat of Ailsa when he took her over from Jay. The designer has, therefore, complete confidence in them. The crew consists of no fewer than fifty men, thirty Scotchmen and the rest Englishmen—four officers, boatswain, two boatswain's mates, carpenter, carpenter's mate, sailmaker, nine leading seamen, twenty-seven able seamen, two stewards and two cooks. In addition, Tom Batsey and six sailmakers will look after the canvas. Of the ship's company, only ten have not sailed in America's Cup contests before.

The contests between two such yachts as Columbia and Shamrock, manned by such men, cannot fail to be of magnificent interest.

THE HULL OF THE COLUMBIA.



(A sail was dropped over the stern to prevent photographers getting a picture of the lines of the yacht.)

"For the Sake of Fun Mischief is Done."

A vast amount of mischief is done, too, because people neglect to keep their blood pure. It appears in eruptions, dyspepsia, indigestion, nervousness, kidney diseases, and other ailments. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all diseases promoted by impure blood or low state of the system.

Luther's Engagement Ring.

Martin Luther's historical engagement ring has been found, and in the possession of a Norwegian peasant woman, Sigrid Hansen Alm, in Sonderhordland, in Norway, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

How it came to Norway and when is unknown, as for centuries the ring has been an heirloom in the family of all the women having the name of Sigrid. Two years ago the German State Historical Museum had advertisements inserted in continental newspapers. Slowly the news found its way to Norway and was read by the Norwegian peasant woman. The description of the ring tallied exactly with the ring in possession of the woman.

Consul Jens Gran, in Bergen, was notified, and at once offered the woman 800 kroner for the ring, which was refused. This is the description given in Norwegian papers of the ring found:

"It is of silver, considerably worn and badly scratched. Set in the ring is a red pearl, to represent a drop of the blood of Christ. On the outside of the ring is engraved Christ on the cross and several of the subjects of the crucifixion, as the ladder, the lance, etc., and the letters I. N. R. I. (Jesus Nazarenus Rex Judeorum). On the inside of the ring is engraved 'Martinus Luther—Catharina von Boren—13—7—1525,' and the faint outlines of two hearts."

Through the German minister to Sweden and Norway every effort will be made to induce its present owner to permit it to become the property of the German Historical Museum.

The Eiffel Tower is being put in readiness for the exposition. It is to be given a coat of enamel paint in five shades, gradated from lemon chrome on the summit to deep orange on the pedestal. Two coats will be applied, for which nearly fifty tons of enamel will be required.

TAGAL PEASANT GIRL.

Simplicity of Tagal Women.

The natives of the Philippine Islands—that is the pure bred natives or aborigines—are called Tagals. They are of the Malay race and are about as wild and unsophisticated as any of the savage peoples of the world.

They are not an ill-favored race, and some of the women are very pretty. The illustration is made from a photograph of a native Tagal peasant girl. Her family evidently has had the benefit of contact with civilization, as her dress indicates. Some of the Tagal women dress elaborately, but in the country places, it is said, they are wholly unconscious of the feeling of modesty as applied to dress so common with the women of Europe.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The Electrical Review describes a new steel shaft just finished for the Boston Elevated Railway company, which is said to be the largest ever cast. It is to be used in the company's central power station. The engine will be of 4,000 horse power at ordinary speed. The shaft is 28 feet in length and thirty-six inches in diameter in the center, and weighs about 75,000 pounds.

The beet sugar industry is assuming respectable proportions. Last year 43,960 "long" tons were produced in this country. California was by far the larger contributor, and the nearest rival being Michigan. It is estimated that these states will, during the coming season, manufacture 54,000 and 32,000 tons respectively, the estimate for the whole country being 122,000 tons.

Japan apparently favors telephones. The imperial diet recently voted to expend $12,800,000 within the next seven years for the improvement of the government telephone system. Rinja Nakayama, a young electrical engineer, has been sent to the United States to investigate the latest improvements and inventions. The government work will all be executed by Japanese electricians.

Electricity has been applied to the manufacture of glass. Formerly difficulties were experienced in melting the ingredients, owing to particles of coal and cinders entering the crucible to the injury of the product. These are now eliminated by employing an electric arc within a carbon crucible to fuse the ingredients. Great economy results, as but 40 per cent. of the coal formerly used is required. A pot of glass can be melted in fifteen minutes that by the old process would require thirty hours.

From a lecture given by Dr. Nernst, in Berlin, it appears that Nernst lamps are now being made by the Allgemeine Elektricitats Gesellschaft in 25, 50 and 100 candle power sizes, with a life of about 300 hours and an efficiency of 1½ to 1¾ watts per candle power. Experiments are also being made with lamps of higher candle power. The wholesale manufacture of 110 and 220 volt lamps will be commenced as soon as the new works, which are being erected by that company for that purpose, are completed. The German patent office has dismissed all petitions against the validity of the Nernst patents.—American Electrician.

American Silk Industry.

A few years ago there was very scant appreciation in the United States of silk goods of domestic manufacture, and the only way to make American dress fabrics "go" was to load them with clay until they would stand alone and put them on the market under a foreign looking label. In fifteen years the silk industry has grown with a pace that is astonishing. The production has been tripled, and today fully two-thirds of all the silk goods used in the country is of home making—broad goods, ribbons and sewing silk. At the present time there are more than 860 silk mills in operation, with 2,700 power looms for broad weaving and 6,000 for ribbon weaving, and during last year the production of broad goods was worth $40,000,000 and of ribbons $20,000,000, besides the greater part, if not all, of the sewing silk that was used here.

The mother suffered and she thinks her daughter must suffer also. This is true only to a limited extent. No excessive pain is healthy. Every mother should inform herself for her own sake and especially for the sake of her daughter. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice about all matters concerning the ills of the feminine organs.

INDULGENT MOTHERS

Many a young girl's beauty is wasted by unnecessary pain at time of menstruation, and many indulgent mothers with mistaken kindness permit their daughters to grow careless about physical health.

MISS CARRIE M. LAMB, Big Beaver, Mich., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—A year ago I suffered from profuse and irregular menstruation and leucorrhœa. My appetite was variable, stomach sour and bowels were not regular, and was subject to pains like colic during menstruation. I wrote you and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used two packages of Sanative Wash. You can't imagine my relief. My courses are natural and general health improved."

MRS. NANNIE ADKINS, La Due, Mo., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I feel it my duty to tell you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done my daughter. She suffered untold agony at time of menstruation before taking your medicine; but the Compound has relieved the pain, given her a better color, and she feels stronger, and has improved every way. I am very grateful to you for the benefit she has received. It is a great medicine for young girls."

Si Hoskin's Boy.

Passenger Agent Drake, on his recent visit to Denver, got hold of a yarn about Arkansas, from a Little Rock school teacher who was going to Los Angeles, says the Wichita Eagle. This teacher said that below Little Rock eighty miles was a country that was a century behind. Children were not compelled to put on civilized dress until 21 years old. He said he went down into that particular section during the holidays of last winter hunting. Just as the party got into a little town that had the only postoffice for forty miles a big burly young fellow looking a good deal as Adam probably looked when he bossed the Garden of Eden came tearing down the rocky street, swinging his arms and clawing the rocks and clamoring along pursued by three men. One of the party asked a young fellow who stood near the wagon, laughing, if that fellow running was crazy.

"Naw," he said with a drawl; "that's Si Hoskin's boy. He's 21 years old today and they're trying to catch him to put some clothes on him."

Digging Potatoes With a Plow.

An attachment by which a plow may be made to do duty in digging up potatoes has been recently invented. The device consists of a series of spring tines or fingers, which may be attached to the moldboard of any plow and be substituted for the regular point, and this, it is designed, will receive the earth, potatoes and plants thrown up by the plow and effect such a separation of the material that the dirt will be sifted from the potatoes and the potatoes be distributed in rows upon the ground, while the plants will be distributed also upon the surface of the soil, but at a distance from the potatoes.

JIMINEZ WINS; FIGUEREO QUITS

Revolutionists Successful In San Domingo.

PRESIDENT FORCED OUT

Followers of Jiminez Capture a Number of Towns and Have Easy Sailing Into Power.

A dispatch from Santo Domingo says President Figuero has resigned. The ministers will continue at the head of their various departments until a provisional government has been formed, after which the elections for president and vice president will take place.

The city is quiet but business is at a standstill. The Dominican gunboat Restauracion is ashore on the rocks near Macori. Efforts are being made to get her off.

The United States cruiser New Orleans and the French cruiser Cecille are still in port.

Santiago, Moca, La Vega, Porto Plata, San Francisco de Marcoris and Bani have declared in favor of the revolution.

Santiago was taken after a strong fight.

It is expected that the other places will submit to the revolution without any more fighting, principally owing to the fact that the president has resigned.

Since August 25th the correspondent of the Associated Press has visited the camp of General Garrido, nine miles from Santo Domingo, it being the chief seat of the revolution in the district.

There he found 800 revolutionists with Dr. Frias's command of the infantry. With him was Senor Despradel from Puerto Plata. In their following they had all the young men of the city. General Garrido opened negotiations with the government authorities of Puerto Plata looking to its instant surrender. The city surrendered August 26th.

The part of the revolutionary army besieging the city of Santiago de Los Caballeros demanded its surrender. It officials refused to consider proposals, and the revolutionists attacked and captured the city.

Negotiations were opened for a surrender of the fort. The terms were declined and the revolutionary forces attacked the fort during the night of August 27th and the place was taken by storm. After the capture of the fort the officer who was in command of the government troops entertained the victors. The casualties of the revolutionary army number one officer and six men wounded.

Guarantees were given Cordero and Villavirde, who are now tranquilly reposing at their residences.

On August 28th General Manuel Cocco, government delegate, and Emilio Cordero, governor of the district of Puerto Plata, who said they were inspired by patriotic and humanitarian ideas, turned the city over to the municipal council. The council in turn transferred it over to Generals Imbert and Juan Gardido and the other officers of the revolution.

The transfer took place in the presence of the consular corps, prominent citizens and a large number of people. Popular demonstrations followed. The revolutionary chiefs were complimented on their victory and their wish to sustain the will of the people. The revolutionary chiefs eulogized the authorities. General Carrido was appointed commander-in-chief; General Imbert governor general, Gen. Billaneuva town mayor. Other local officers were named.

The former government officials having approved of the programme of the revolutionary party, will remain at their posts.

DEWEY HOME FUND.

Up to Date the Amount of Cash Received Exceeds $21,000.

Frank A. Vanderlip, chairman of the Dewey home fund, and Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer, have issued the following statement to the public regarding the fund:

"The Dewey home fund now exceeds $21,000 in the hands of the treasurer from 27,695 contributors, with sums aggregating about $15,000 or$ 18,000 reported as subscribed, still held by local committees and subscribers."

FEVER IN FLORIDA.

State Board of Health Announces Two Cases In the City of Key West.

The Florida state board of health, through its local representative, Dr. Sweating has officially declared the existence of yellow fever at Key West.

Two persons were pronounced to be suffering from the disease. They were Dennis L. Eagan, an attache of the custom house, and William M. Browder, special agent of the treasury department.

Several other persons are down with fever, which exhibits symptons similar to those cases already pronounced to be yellow fever. Considerable excitement exists throughout the city among the unacclimated who are preparing for a hurried departure. Every precaution is being taken by the authorities to prevent the spread of the disease.

WANTED TO HIT HALSTEAD.

Editor's Remarks In Lecture Displeased Part of His Audience.

Editor Murat Halstead lectured in Cincinnati Thursday night by invitation before the Economic Club, which meets in the Vine street Congregational church.

The audience was miscellaneous, in addition to the members of the club, which is largely anti-imperialistic, Mr. Halstead's subject was the Philippines.

After the lecture, according to the rules of the club, Mr. Halstead was plied with questions. One of the questioners, after he had been answered, remarked:

"I hope Otis will be kept in and will keep on blundering till he and the whole army are driven into the sea or captured."

Mr. Halstead said:

"A man with those sentiments is a traitor to his country."

Several men jumped up and remarked: "Two-thirds of this audience thinks that way."

Mr. Halstead replied:

"Whoever thinks that way is a traitor."

Then there was a rush down the hall with raised fists toward Mr. Halstead, but a great number of men stepped in between Mr. Halstead and those who were rushing at him.

There was a great noise and uproar which disclosed the fact that the audience was composed of men on both sides of that question. Mr. Halstead was quietly led out of the church by a side door and taken home.

No blows were struck, but chairs and seats were upset and there were threats and great uproariousness.

WILL RESTORE CUT.

Wages of Southern's Employes to Be Restored at Once.

A Chattanooga dispatch says: The Southern railway, during the dull season of 1896, made a cut of 10 per cent in wages of all employees on the system, embracing trainmen, office men and officials in all departments. Some months ago the wages of shopmen were restored, while the engineers also secured a slight increase. It is learned that President Spencer has decided to restore the 10 per cent cut all around and that announcement to this effect will be made about September 10th.

GIGANTIC LUMBER ORDER.

Romor Current That Cecil Rhodes Will Buy 500,000,000 Feet.

A special from Kansas City says: An order for 500,000,000 feet of southern yellow pine, the largest single sale in the history of the lumber trade, for use in the construction of Cecil Rhodes's proposed Cape to Cairo road, in Africa, is said to have been consummated.

According to The Kansas City Star lumber dealers and railroad officials interested understand that the negotiations are ended and that twenty mills along several Texas and Louisiana railroads are under contract to fill the order.

Women Strive to Avert War.

A petition from the Netherlands Woman's Disarmament league has been presented to Queen Victoria, praying for her, in the name of womanhood and motherhood, to avoid war with the Boers, and saying, "it would cast a frightful blot upon your majesty's most glorious reign."

PENSION ROLL GROWS.

Commissioner Evans' Report Shows Enormous Sum Paid Out.

The annual report of Hon. H. Clay Evans commissioner of pensions, shows that during the year there were added to the pension roll 40,229 names, and 43,186 were dropped, 34,345 of these by reason of death.

There was expended for pensions $138,355,052. The annual value of the entire pension roll amounts to $131,617,691, being $649,469 more than it ever was, due to the higher average annual value of pensions. The roll is made up of 753,451 surviving soldiers, 237,415 widows and dependent relatives, and 653 nurses.

BET ON COTTON BALES.

Editor and Financier Wager on the Present Texas Crop.

At Galveston, Texas, Thursday, a wager of $500 a side was posted between Major R. G. Lowe, vice president of The Galveston-Dallas News, and Thomas Taylor, prominent cotton man. Lowe wagers that the Texas cotton crop of 1899-1900 will be 500,000 bales short of that of 1898-1899. Taylor bets that it will not.

DRANK DEAD MEN'S BLOOD.

STARVING AND SHIPWRECKED SAILORS TELL HORRIBLE STORY.

WERE COMPELLED TO ADOPT THE ROLE OF CANNIBALS.

Drew Lots to Designate Who Would Be Sacrificed For Food and Drink.

The British steamer Woodruff from Hamburg, arrived at Charleston, S. C., Saturday with two half starved, half wild devils who had lived for two days on a raft at sea on a feast of blood and human flesh. They were Morrison Anderson and Goodman Thomas, members of the crew of the Norwegian bark Drot, which was wrecked in the hurricane off the straits of Florida on August 11th.

The bark carried a crew of seventeen. When the storm came down, the vessel was smashed into, the captain and eight men being swept overboard and drowned. Eight men clung to a raft, a part of the bark's deck, and drifted out. The waves, however, smashed this in two, and left six men swinging to the larger part. The two men on the smaller raft were driven away, and one saved by a passing ship and landed at Baltimore.

When the storm had passed the six men were left drifting about, with no help in sight and without food or water. Some of the bark's trappings were found on the raft and among these was a fishing hook and line. The fish caught were devoured raw by the starving crew. The thirst was fierce. While one of the sailors was fishing with his line staying far out, he drew in a fish, but in an instant he went mad. "I am saved!" he shrieked as he lunged for the fish, and he went over and was lost. With his death the last means of obtaining food was gone.

Soon after the man was drowned, two members of the crew were taken deathly sick from eating the raw meat. Signs of death were falling over them, and the three fellows, still strong through all the suffering, stood by them with a knife ready to cut for the heart blood as soon as that organ failed to beat. The sick man's feet were cold and clammy when his heart was cut, and the half fiends scrambled for the trickling blood.

Cast Lots For Victim.

While they were sucking this, the second sick man died and there was the same rush for the weak blood from his heart and veins. Parts of the filthy, sickly flesh were eaten, but the thirst for hot blood came over the three men left and they agreed to cast lots to see who should die.

The unlucky man was a German, a big sailor, thirty-five years of age. He lost and surrendered manfully, baring his breast that his heart might be struck good and clear. The German was stabbed. Anderson and Thomas stuck their lips to his breast and drained the blood.

Afterwards the heart was chopped out and particles of the warm flesh eaten with a relish. All the time the men were on the raft a stench to heaven had arisen and scores of sharks came straggling up. They fought to everturn the craft and find the human prey, but they were driven off and parts of the German's body was tossed over to them. The survivors were weak and thirsty and had agreed among themselves to cast another lot by Friday morning at sun rise if no help was in sight, but the steamer Woodruff sighted the raft Thursday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

The small boats sent out to rescue the men had to fight away the sharks. Anderson and Thomas were picked off weak, demented and emaciated, with ulcers and sores steaming over their bodies. Both men were in a dreadful condition and when landed at Charleston were sent to a hospital for treatment.

Thomas was the cabin boy and was only seventeen years of age. Thomas's face and breast was bitten fiercely. He claims that it was done by Anderson.

No intimation of what the courts will do, if anything, is given. The Drot sailed from Pascagoula for Buenos Ayres on August 3.

REGULAR SERVICE FULL.

Gen. Corbin Explains Why Recruiting of Negroes Was Stopped.

General Corbin says that the war department has discontinued the recruiting of colored soldiers at Fort McPheron and vicinity, for the reason that every one of the colored regiments in the regular service is full, and so far no orders have been given for the formation of any colored volunteer regiments.

The race question, he says, has nothing to do with the stopping of recruiting at Fort McPherson.

SENATOR MORGAN PROPHECIES.

Says Expansion Will Be the Salvation of the Fleecy Staple.

A special to The Chicago Times-Herald from Washington says:

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, prophesies that expansion will be the salvation of cotton, and is about to start a crusade in the south to spread the gospel. In his prophetic vision he sees Manila the great cotton market of the world instead of Liverpool.

JURY KEPT BUSY.

Trial of Rioters at Darien, Ga., Is Being Pushed With Rapidity and Dispatch.

At Darien, Ga., Saturday, the court moved more rapidly in the trial of the negro rioters. The jury, out Friday night on the second batch of five, sat on the case for twelve hours and then returned with the statement that it was impossible for them to agree on the woman, Josephine Bird, while for Abram Green they found a verdict of not guilty.

Judge Seabrook sent the jury back and told them to agree and report. The foreman stated that they would not agree if they were out six months, and Judge Seabrook told them they could sit seven if necessary. In about an hour the judge sent for the jury, accepting their verdict, as they were then ready to return it.

Those convicted were Jones Green, Moses Miller and Lawrence Baker.

Josephine Bird's case was reported a mistrial and Abram Green was found not guilty.

The cases against Charles McDonald, Dave Petty, Hugh Thompson, Moses Bailey and John Thompson were on trial in the meantime and the jury was out only about ten minutes when a verdict of guilty against them was returned with the exception of John Thompson.

The case against Bill Jenkins was tried separately, he having employed a different lawyer from the rest, and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty against him in about ten minutes' time.

Court then adjourned until Monday morning.

The grand jury Saturday afternoon took up the case of Henry Delegal, charged with rape, and about whom the entire trouble at Darien originated. The jury did not conclude its labors and adjourned until Monday.

REBEL STRONGHOLD TAKEN.

Americans Under Byrne Make an Important Capture.

A Manila special says: Argogula, the most impregnable stronghold of the bands which have been destroying plantations and levying tribute on the people of Negros, has been taken by the Sixth infantry under Lieutenant Colonel Byrne. The only means of reaching the town was up a perpendicular hill, covered with dense shrubbery and a thousand feet high.

The Americans accomplished this under fire, although an officer and several men were hit and rocks rolled down upon them. The native strength was estimated at 400. Many of the rebels were wounded and captured, and twenty-one were killed.

CHAMBERS AT CAPITAL.

Chief Justice of Samoa Ready to Report to the President.

Hon. W. L. Chambers, the chief justice of the Samoan islands, arrived in Washington Sunday from his home in the south. While at the capital he will make a report to the president and the secretary of state of recent happenings in the islands and of the part he took in the affairs there.

BLACKBURN GOES HOME.

Ex-Senator Breaks Down While Helping Candidate Goebel.

A spicial from Lexington, Ky., says: Ex-Senator Joe C. S. Blackburn has broken down and will have to go home to Versailles and rest, while his brother, James Blackburn, ex-United States marshal of Kentucky, will accompany Mr. Goebel on his tour through the mountains.

RIGID QUARANTINE.

Alabama and Texas Put Up Bars Against Crescent City.

The case of fever in New Orleans reported to the Louisiana board of health as suspicious, was declared by the experts to be genuine yellow fever.

The New Orleans board of health made a careful sanitary inspection of the district in which young Adolph died of yellow fever, and declares that there is nothing approximating yellow fever—indeed, there is an absence of all fevers and the mortality for the past five weeks had been the lowest of the decade.

JIMINEZ ON THE MOVE.

His Friends In Santo Domingo Are Anxiously Awaiting Him.

A dispatch from Cape Haytien says: Juan Isidro Jiminez, the revolutionary aspirant to the presidency of the republic of Santo Domingo, left Caimanera Sunday on board the Georges Crioz for Baracoa, from which point he will proceed to Port Au Prince and then to Puerto Plata, where he is impatiently awaited.

FIGHT AGAINST R. R. COMMISSION.

Commercial Bodies of Birmingham Seek to Abolish the Law.

The Commercial club has joined the other commercial bodies of Birmingham in calling for the abolition of the present state railroad commission, and the adoption of the Georgia railroad commission law, which, it is claimed, has been found almost perfect in its operations.

After a heated discussion, the club adopted a resolution which had previously been adopted by the Freight and Transportntion Bureau and the Board of Trade, in which it is set out that the present law has proven utterly inoperative and without benefit to the people. The Wholesale Grocers' association also passsd the resolution unanimously.

The Freight and Transportation Bureau intends to make a vigorous campaign. A letter will be sent to every merchant in Alabama with a copy of the Georgia law and the resolutions passed by the different commercial organizations attached.

The resolution follows:

Whereas, the Alabama railroad commission has proved utterly inoperative, and without benefit to the people of Alabama; and,

Whereas, we believe that Alabama should have a railroad commission possessing some power, and elected by people and paid by the people; and

Whereas, The state of Georgia has such a railroad commission, that has worked to the benefit of the citizens of that state, and without detriment to the railroads; now, therefore, be it

Resolved that we favor:

First, the abolishment by the next legislature of Alabama of the present railroad commission of Alabama.

Second, that we favor the adoption of the state of Georgia railroad commission law without change, except substituting the word "Alabama" for the word "Georgia" wherever it may occur in said law, a copy of which Georgia law is hereby attached and made a part of this resolution.

Mine Inspector's Report.

The first year of office of J. deD. Hooper, under his present appointment as chief mine inspector of the state, closed with the month of August, and that officer has a very satisfactory report to make to the governor. The report is here given:

"For the month of August I have to report an accident at Belle Sumpter, causing the death of two men, Dan Tolliver and John H. Jones (colored), miners. These two deaths seemed to be caused by the reckless and careless use of explosives, which is hard to guard against. With three slight accidents from falling coal, this covers the accidents reported for the past month.

"The past month having completed a full year of my present term of service, shows for that year that there have been thirty-one fatal accidents; of these, twenty-two were negroes and nine white men. It is interesting to note that during the present year no convict has been killed, and but one seriously injured from falling slate or coal, which is without precedent in the mining history of this state.

"When it is considered that many new mines have been opened and more furnaces put in blast, that the mines are working full time, it shows that they are at present in a satisfactory condition as compared with the past."

Sheffield's Flattering Outlook.

The Sheffield Stove & Foundry company resumed operation Friday after being shut down for several weeks. The company and men reached an agreement as to prices this week. All the officials of the Sloss-Sheffield Iron & Steel company are in Sheffield perfecting arrangements to begin the repair work on the furnaces recently purchased of the Sloss company.

The city is full of strangers, and the outlook for Sheffield was never so flattering as at present. Hon. Wilson R. Brown is in the north for the purpose of inducing several new industries to locate in Sheffield.

Will Build a New Furnace.

The Republic Iron and Steel Company will build a new blast furnace in the Birmingham district. It will be of 200 tons daily capacity and will be equipped with the most modern and complete machinery for pig iron manufacturing. Work will begin at once and it will probably be finished within eight months. The new stack will go up beside the two furnaces at Thomas which were formerly owned by the Pioneer Mining and Manufacturing Company and recently absorbed by the Republic company along with the two rolling mills of the district.

The Fever Situation.

Alabamians have little reason to be alarmed at the yellow fever situation. State Health Officer Sanders is maintaining a strict quarantine against Key West, Fla., and New Orleans. Quarantine officers have been placed on all trains, and travelers are forced to present a clean bill of health to get into this state. The authorities do not anticipate serious trouble.

DREYFUS WEEPS OVER TROUBLES

Witness Testifies That Prisoner Once Confessed.

HIS STORY IS DISCREDITED

Many Incidents of the Trial In 1894 Are Brought to Light.

Advices from Rennes state that Dreyfus had the most trying day Thursday he has yet gone through. The strain proved too great for him, and, for the second time in the course of the trial, he gave way to his feelings and sought relief in tears.

The generals have branded him as a traitor before the court, their subordinates have pointed the finger of scorn at him. But he only flinched once—when the official report of his treatment on Devil's island was read before him and the pictures of his sufferings, menial and physical, were thrown vividly on the screen of his memory. Then he hid his features and wept.

He passed through another such crisis Thursday when after Captain Lebrun-Renault and witness after witness had brought up before him again that cold January morning which ushered in the scene of his degradation, Major Forseinetti, a man of heart, told in simple words and unaffected manner the story of Dreyfus' struggle with the maddening temptation to take his life and the intervention of his wife, as an angel, pointing out the road of duty. Then again the prisoner's breast heaved with emotion and teardrops trickled down his cheeks.

He arose, and after a forced effort to remain calm as he spoke a few words concerning his denial to Colonel Du Paty de Clam that he wrote the bordereau, he turned to Forseinetti with a look of thanks for his consolation so needed.

Dreyfus then uttered these words of heartfelt gratitude to his wife for the courage with which she inspired:

"It is due to her," he cried, "that I am alive today."

The prisoner could articulate no more, but sat down abruptly to conceal his distress.

The proceedings concluded a few minutes later and he was taken back to his prison, where his wife visited him, and, in the presence of Mme. Dreyfus and the gendarme on guard, he broke down completely. The tension has been too much for him. He sobbed convulsively and the partner of his sorrows joined him in a solace of tears.

Captain Lebrun-Renault and the supporters of his assertion of the Dreyfus confession had an inning lasting nearly the entire session, their depositions containing little but what has already been stated before the court of cassation.

Captain Lebrun-Renault introduced anew the new assertion that the fact that he had not related the incident of the confession to President Casimir-Perier was because he overheard himself called "canaille," "cur" and "traitor," while waiting at the Elysee. He, however, could not explain why he kept this to himself for so long a time instead of recounting the incident before the court of cassation. Nor did his explanation as to why he destroyed the page of his notebook containing the record of Dreyfus' confession sound very convincing.

MANY TRUE BILLS FOUND.

Thirty-Seven Rioters Indicted and Twenty-Two Released.

Thirty-seven true bills were returned by the McIntosh grand jury at Darien Thursday afternoon. In twenty-two cases no bills were found. This large percentage of releases knocks the props from any proposition for a change of venue, on which all attorneys for the defense were basing their main fight. In releasing so many, the McIntosh grand jury shows that no prejudice exists against the negro.

On announcing that riot cases were ready to be called, Judge Twiggs, counsel for the defense, announced that defendants' attorneys were ready to try the negroes in groups of such numbers as might be selected.

Attorney Charlton, counsel for the prosecution, stated that he wanted it understood that the prosecution was to select the groups.

GEORGIA DAIRYMEN

Will Hold Sixth Annual Meeting In Grantville Next Month.

Mr. M. L. Duggan, the secretary of the Georgia Dairymen's association, is sending out a prospectus and premium list of the sixth annual meeting of the association, which is to be held at Grantville on October 12-13.

Five hundred dollars in premiums will be given for the best displays and exhibits of dairyman's products, and it is expected that the exhibits this year will be the best ever seen at a meeting of the association.

The program of the meeting is being arranged, and it will include many features interesting to the dairymen.

MORGAN TALKS AGAIN.

This Time Alabama Senator Is Out and Out For Bryan.

A Birmingham, Ala., dispatch says: United States Senator John T. Morgan, who declared some time ago against Bryan's renomination and John W. Tomlinson, Bryan's lieutenant in Alabama, spoke at Maplesville Thursday, the former for and the latter against expansion. Morgan said in his speech that Bryan was the only logical nominee of the democracts in 1900.

DREYFUS' FRIENDS HIGHLY ELATED

Over Strong Testimony Given In Favor of the Prisoner.

IT WAS A DREYFUS DAY.

It Is Now Claimed That Conviction Is An Impossibility.

Elation is the only word that could express the feelings of the Dreyfusards after Saturday's proceedings of the Dreyfus courtmartial at Rennes. The tide has turned at last, they say, and Dreyfus cannot be condemned after the evidence given Saturday morning. The spirit of the Dreyfusards are now bouyant, and they claim the evidence puts the verdict out of doubt and the judges must acquit Dreyfus.

Major Hartmann, of the artillery, occupied nearly half the session with the conclusion of his expert evidence to the effect that Dreyfus as an artillery officer would not have displayed such ignorance regarding the guns and brakes as was shown in the bordereau, while the other subjects of the bordereau were matters upon which any officer should inform himself.

Major Hartmann's testimony practically stood uncontested, as neither General de Loye nor General Mercier, who replied, refuted any material point therein. Labori asked General Gonse to enumerate the documents to which he alluded.

Colonel Jouaust, president of the courtmartial, however, declined to put the question, whereupon Labori said he reserved to himself the right to submit a formal application for these documents.

Then came the leading witness of the day, M. Defond Lamothe, a probationer contemporaneously with Dreyfus, who is now a civil engineer, and has no reason to fear the wrath of the military clique. The witness opened by declaring that despite the fact that he had a brother in the garrison at Rennes, he came to tell what he knew in favor of Dreyfus, and proceeded to make a statement which, according to the Dreyfusards, practically decided the case. First he recalled the fact that a circular was sent to the probationers on May 1, 1894, informing them that they must not go the manouvres, thus showing that the man who wrote the bordereau in August and said, "I am going to the manouvres," cannot be Dreyfus.

The witness then pointed out that none of the ministers, who, he believed, acted in good faith, were informed of the existence of this circular, which he declared: "I consider a vital point in the case. The circular," he continued, "shatters the prosecution, because after May 17th Dreyfus could not say, 'I am going to the manouvres,' for then he knew he would not go, while prior to May 17th he could not have known the five documents comprised in the bordereau."

This practically ended the session, which was one of the most interesting and undeniably the most favorable to Dreyfus yet held.

CHARGES AGAINST OTIS.

Counsel For Carter Accuses General of Perjury and Subornation.

The Chicago Times-Herald says: Charges of perjury and subornation of perjury have been filed against General Elwell S. Otis, commander of the American army in the Philippines with President McKinley by Frank P. Blair, one of the counsel for Captain Oberlin M. Carter.

Counsel Blair declares that at an early date he will also file charges of perjury and subornation against General Advocate Colonel H. B. Barr with President McKinley. Colonel Barr appeared in the famous trial of Carter for the government. General Otis was president of the Carter courtmartial.

BRYAN TO AID M'LEAN.

Nebraskan Will Take Part In Ohio Democratic Campaign.

Hon. W. R. Burnett announces that Bryan will visit Ohio and take a swing around the state with McLean.

James Seward, of Mansfield, has been selected for chairman of the executive committee, and ex-Mayor Constantine, of Springfield, is slated for treasurer.

Annual Report Shows Last Year's Crop a Record Breaker.

The totals of Secretary Hester's annual report of the cotton crop of the United States were promulgated at New Orleans Friday. They show receipts of cotton at all United States ports for the year of 8,579,426 bales, against 8,769,360 last year; overland to northern mills, 1,345,623, against 1,237,813; southern consumption, taken direct from interior of the cotton belt, 1,353,701, against 1,192,821, making the crop of the United States for 1898-99 amount to 11,274,840 bales, against 11,199,994 last year and 8,757,963 the year before.

JIMINEZ SET FREE.

Can Now Go and Take Charge of Dominican Government.

General Jiminez, the revolutionary aspirant to the presidency of Santo Domingo, has been allowed leave Santiago de Cuba on a specially chartered steamer, the George Croise, General Wood, the military governor, having received instructions from Governor General Brooke to release him from custody unless there are indications that he is promoting a filibustering expedition.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Valuable to Women.

Especially valuable to women is Browns' Iron Bitters. Backache vanishes, headache disappears, strength takes the place of weakness, and the glow of health readily comes to the pallid cheek when this wonderful remedy is taken. For sickly children or overworked men it has no equal. No home should be without this famous remedy. Browns' Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.

THE CHRONICLE

F. W. GIST, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Entered in the post-office at Columbiana Ala., as second class matter.

THE Age-Herald gives good reasons why the national convention should not be held any earlier than usual. It strikes us that the same reasons apply to county primaries.

IN a speech at Moulton the other day Hon. Jesse Stallings declared in favor of a poll tax receipt being made the prerequisite for voting. We are not altogether inclined to this as a sole prerequisite. It is only a step in the right direction, and if practiced without other requirements might prove dangerous.

ABOUT the most amusing thing we see is the contention that the people are with Johnston and the politicians against him. If Joseph F. Johnston is anything he is shrewd, practical politician, and numbers among his active supporters many of the men who practice politics as a profession. His pose as a tribune of the people is almost laughable to those who have kept up with his political course.

THE county roads have been worked the full time allowed under the new law. There is no money to supplement the work, and will not be until the midst of the winter season. The roads are now in dreadful condition, and when the rains set in they will be practically impassible with no remedy at hand. Mr. Sturdivant's road law will prove in the first year of its trial a great deal worse than the old system.

THE county treasurer's report on the first of July showed the amount of cash on hand to be more than $7,000. Less than two months later the warrants of the county were being peddled about the streets, there being no money to pay them with. The doubt as to the constitutionality of the tax rate makes the discount on these warrants very high, and the probability is that the county's creditors will be put to very great inconvenience between now and the end of the year.

THE Montgomery Journal, speaking of financial conditions in Jefferson, says "the honest taxpayers see better schools and better roads, while they pay less taxes." We congratulate our friends in Jefferson. Down here in Shelby the honest taxpayers see worse roads while they pay more taxes than ever before. If the Governor's tax commission and board of revenue did so much for Jefferson we wish he would give us some such relief in this county. In Jefferson the general rate is now 25 cents; in Shelby it is 40.

THE Montgomery Journal is consistently inconsistent. It wants primaries in the white counties, but it does not want them in Montgomery County. In other words it wants primaries wherever there are Populists to vote in them for the Governor, but where there are only Democrats to participate it wants an opportunity for the smoothest politicians to get the plums. If there is any place where a primary should be held it is in the black counties, where the white people are all of one faith politically. There of all places, every man should have a voice in the party councils. The primary is successfully worked in Dallas; why not in Montgomery?

AT Maplesville on Thursday last Senator Morgan addressed a large crowd of people, and in effect he there opened his campaign for re-election. Up to this time he has no avowed opposition, but it is generally understood that Governor Johnston is working to defeat him. This may or may not be true, but it will make no difference with the course of the Senator. He will stand or fall on his record before Democrats. Whatever his party does in its wisdom he will abide by, and he will appeal to none but Democrats for endorsement or condemnation. If they choose to further honor him he will further prove himself worthy of their trust; if they set him aside they will not find in him a kicker against their will.

WE publish elsewhere an account of a meeting held in Georgia for the purpose of formulating a plan to control the cotton market. We do not think much of it. There were merchants, bankers and farmers present. The interests of these three classes in the cotton crop are not identical, hence they will not go far together. On a six million bale crop it would take at least $200,000,000 to make the scheme work, which would draw interest for at least six months. If there could be found an independent set of bankers to advance the money, it might work, but unfortunately the most of bankers are under the influence of Wall street, and they will not be permitted to advance this sum for the benefit of the farmers. The theory is good, but the practice will not prove satisfactory.

WHY THEY SHOULDN'T LIKE HIM.

THE CHRONICLE has several reasons for liking Senator Morgan, but does not give any reason why some people shouldn't like him. The esteemed contemporary down the street perhaps overlooks the many expressions of the distinguished Senator, which clearly shows that he is not in sympathy with the common people.—Advocate.

We overlooked that important fact, but since our neighbor seems to want them we will give some reasons why some people don't like him.

For instance, Joe Johnston don't like him because he stands in the way of that gentleman's ambition to occupy his seat, a place which Joe is not, and will not be big enough mentally to fill so long as Morgan lives.

Certain Populites we know of don't like him because he tells the truth about their insincerity in the cause of monetary reform, in which he has been a conscientious worker while they have been discordant notes that make a loud sound but no music. Then some Populites don't like him because he is a Democrat, and in his offering for re-election presents his case only to Democrats, asking no favors from those enemies of his party and its principles for which he would have to sacrifice his manhood as a statesman and his honor as a man. Then some Populites do not like him because he has aided in trying to break up the fusion between their leaders and the Republican bosses, by which the negro has been able to dictate the management of local affairs against the common interest of the Anglo-Saxon citizen. They don't like him because he stands for a white man's government and against the control of the country by a few pothook politicians of their ilk.

Some people don't like him because he has come so near succeeding in establishing the Nicaragua canal, which will seriously interfere with some of the great railway corporations of the country. Some people don't like him because he has so ably fought the trusts and monopolies whose greedy hands have sought the throats of honest business men. Some people don't like him because he has dared to refuse to be bribed by the great railroad magnates, rather choosing to defend his people against their exhorbitant tariffs. Some people don't like him because he is so far above them in ability and in honesty of purpose, the two things that make a man really great, that they can not approach him: and they can only attract attention to themselves by detracting from him by false charges which they expect the ignorant voter to believe.

If the Advocate will CORRECTLY quote any expression from Senator Morgan which shows him out of sympathy with the common people, or call attention to any act of his that was not to their interest, and then present any man of its knowledge with half as good a record in public life, we will acknowledge its right to criticise him and oppose his re-election. Until it does it must stand in the attitude of a nagger at the heels of greatness, or a flee baying at the moon.

PARALLEL TO A CERTAIN POINT.

The Atlanta Journal of Saturday published a sensational story from its special correspondent who has recently been in North Carolina, on the campaign commenced there by the white people, both Democrats and Republicans, to disfranchise 100,000 negro voters in that State. The Journal says:

"North Carolina has just entered upon one of the most eventful campaigns in her history. It is more far-reaching than the political destinies of a man or the achievement of a party. It is the death-struggle between the Anglo-Saxon and the African, and when the smoke of battle will have cleared the State, the political and social supremacy of the white man of North Carolina for the time and for all time will either be absolute and unconditional or else negro domination will again immerse the State into ignominy and disgrace.

"This campaign is waged on a proposed suffrage amendment to the Constitution submitted to the people by the last Legislature. It was designed for the single purpose of eliminating the negro as a political factor, and it is a notable fact that the educational qualification enjoined upon the negro is not exacted of the white man. It is not intended that an Anglo-Saxon shall be disqualified.

"Every person of eligible age, who applies for registration, for instance, must be able to read and write any section or sections of the Federal Constitution. Under this clause 100,000 incompetent negro voters in North Carolina will be forever barred from the polls. But the ignorant white voters—and there are perhaps thousands of them—can enter through another gate.

"Section 5 provides that any lineal descendant of any voter in this country prior to 1867 shall be entitled to vote whether he can read and write or not.

It is more than a political fight; it is a fight in defense of home and decency. It is a constitutional device that the Anglo-Saxon shall govern this State. On this platform the Democracy stands. The Republicans have challenged this amendment for party protection. The issue has been joined. For thirty years it has been dodged, evaded, beclouded. It is to the point now. It is the crucial test between Southern Republicanism and Southern Democracy.

"Every State in the South will feel its humane effect. It is a humane war of the races in which ballots are the bloodless weapons.

"F. M. Simmons chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, furnished a statement in which he emphasizes the determination of the white people to enforce the foregoing qualifications in order to rid the political field of the negro. He says:

"The amendment will receive the united support of the Democratic party and that part of the Populist vote which has not, by fusion with the Republicans, become thoroughly Republicanized.

"'In addition to this, a large number of white Republicans will support the amendment, because they believe it to be to the best interest of the State and both races that it should pass.'"

This is but the advanced stage of an effort parallel to the one started in Alabama last year, and only defeated by the personal ambition of Joseph F. Johnston. As in North Carolina, there was no intention of disfranchising any white man in this State, and the movement had appealed, not only to Democrats but to "those Populists who had not by fusion become Republicanized," and a "large number of white Republicans." In North Carolina there is no Johnston to defeat the perpetuation of white supremacy for his personal benefit; in Alabama there is one. In North Carolina white supremacy will be assured, and the race question will be settled. In Alabama, for at least one more campaign, the negro will dictate nominations for fusion tickets, and Johnston will attempt to ride into the United States Senate on the votes of members of the legislature elected, as in this county, by virtue of the negro vote.

These are plain truths, and that they are unvarnished is but the result of conditions that can only be told in plain language.

WE have repeatedly shown how the Populists in this district and in this county put their aid to McKinleyism in 1896 by supporting a Republican for Congress and by giving their votes to a set of electors who could do Bryan no good, and were never put in the field for aught else than to lessen his vote. It has also been shown that the Populists of the country accomplished the defeat of Bryan by dividing his vote in several doubtful States. Yet there are papers and men in Alabama to-day who are giving to these Populists the full measure of praise for being silver men, while loyal Democrats who made it possible for Alabama's electoral vote to be cast for Bryan are damned for daring to differ with him in opinion though they supported him as the nominee of his party. Such a course can only be the outcome of demagoguery or dishonest purposes. Every man is entitled to his opinion, and he who yields to a majority of his party is entitled to more praise than a pretended friend who proves himself an enemy.

MY BROTHER.

I will not ask my brother of his creed.
Nor what he holds of doctrine, old or new.
Nor what the rites by which his soul may need
To worship God, the only Wise and True—
Nor what he thinks of Christ Himself, the Son.
Nor through what waters he hath put Him on.

I ask not what temptations have beset
His doubting heart, now self-abased and sore,
Nor by what Jacob's well he met
Divine suggestion—"Drink and thirst no more;"
Between his soul and God those matters lie;
Not mine to cavil, question or deny.

I ask not by what name, among the rest,
That Christians go by, he is known of men:
Whether his faith has ever been "professed"
Or whether proven by his deeds, for when
I see the Christhood in him, all is well;
He is my brother, and in peace we dwell.

I will not ask him through what dusty street
Of Bethany, Nazareth or Nain,
The cobblestones have bruised his weary feet
While he bore healing balm for others' pain;
If he alone has hungered, or if he
Has fed ten thousand by the sounding sea.

If grace and pity in his actions speak,
Or fall in words of kindness from his tongue,
Which raise the fallen, fortify the weak,
And heal the heart, by sorrow torn and wrung,
If he yield good for ill and love for hate,
Friend of the fatherless, poor and desolate.

I find in him disciple so true,
So full that nothing further I demand;
He may be bondman, freeman, Gentile, Jew,
Yet we are brethren, walk we hand in hand.
In his clear life let me the Christhood see,
It is enough for him, enough for me.

RAISE THE PRICE.

A Plan Suggested by Georgians to Put Cotton Up.

[Constitution.]

The resolutions passed by the Troup County planters, merchants and bankers in mass meeting at LaGrange, in which they show there determination to control the price of cotton, read:

The farmers, merchants and bankers of Troup County, having this day met in pursuance of a previous call to consider some plan of cooperation among the farmers, whereby an adequate price may be obtained for the present cotton crop, suggests the following:

"1. The present crop shall not be put on the market for a price less than 8 cents per pound.

"2. Until that price is reached the bankers and merchants are to advance such amount on all cotton received by them as will meet the immediate demands of the farmer, storing said cotton in the warehouses and as security hold the receipts of such cotton until a sale is deemed advisable.

"3. The great difference between the raw material and the manufactured goods is proof conclusive that the present price of the staple is but little more than half its value. The surplus on hand is of such low grades as not to be of much value save for the very coarse fabrics and should cut no figure as against the present high grade.

"4. There is no such thing as overproduction of cotton while more than half the human family is in rags and tatters, as a result of arrested distribution.

"We, therefore, call on the farmers of Georgia and ever cotton growing county in the South to meet at once and organize similar associations and force the price of our principal product to that figure which will remunerate the industrial classes of the South.

IT IS TIME TO PLANT BULBS.

Careful Work Done Now Will Repay You When Spring Comes.

"This is the season of the year in which to set out bulbs. Prepare the ground for them before they are received by having it dug up to a depth of at least a foot—a foot and a half is better—and worked over until it is mellow," writes Ellen E. Rexford in the September Ladies' Home Journal. "Mix with it a liberal quantity of old, rotten manure from the cow-yard, or, if this is not obtainable, use bonemeal in the proportions of one pound to a square yard of soil. If the soil is naturally heavy, it is well to add considerable sand to make it lighter and more porous. Plant the bulbs as soon as possible after they are received, as they are greatly injured by exposure to the air. Set tulips and hyacinths six inches deep, smaller bulbs from four to five inches. All bulbs should be placed five or six inches apart, and each kind kept by itself."

SENATOR MORGAN'S PROPHECY

As to Manila Becoming Another Liverpool.

[Savannah News.]

Senator Morgan is an expansionist. There isn't any doubt about that. And he is an expansionist mainly because he is an enthusiast in respect to the Nicaragua canal. He believes that the canal will be constructed, and that it will revolutionize the commerce of the world. In our dispatches yesterday from Washington he was quoted as saying that the time wasn't distant when Manila would be the great cotton market of the world, and that it would be an American city. For this reason he thinks the South should favor the policy of expansion.

What he says in favor of that policy is well calculated to interest the South. At present, he says, Liverpool and Manchester thrive on the American cotton crop. They leave a heavy middle man's toll on the cotton growers of the South. Liverpool fixes the price for cotton and Manchester gets the manufacturer's profit out of it. The greatest market for cotton goods is found in Asia. Why should the cotton growers continue forever to pay tribute to Liverpool and Manchester? Why should not Manila, which is just off the coast of Asia, become the greatest cotton market of the world?

In Senator Morgan's opinion it can and will become such a market, under American control. From there the cotton fabrics, intended for the markets of Asia, could be distributed.

It begins to look as if the time were not so far off when the South would need all of her cotton for her own mills. The number of mills erected in the Southern States within the last year was surprisingly large. And mills are being built all the time. It is safe to predict that large as the number last year was the number that will be erected this year—from September, 1899, to September, 1900—will be much larger. Those who have been watching the growth of cotton manufacturing in the South are confident that it will not be many years before the South will manufacture her cotton crop. Assuming that such will be the case the prophesy of Senator Morgan does not appear to be such an unreasonable one. The building of the Nicaraguan Canal would work wonders. It would undoubtedly help the South. With that canal Savannah would need even more wharves, and she would be the natural outlet for the trade of a very large part of the far South with the far East.

Roundlap Bale Becomes Popular.

The American Cotton Company has met with marked success in the development of its Roundlap bale business. Last year it had less than sixty presses in operation while this season it will have over 300 at work. Its plant at Chicago for building these presses is running night and day and new locations are being selected as rapidly as possible.

If in doubt as to your trouble, take Simmons Liver Regulator and it will settle the whole question. The Alabama Fertilizer

Is sold, by over 12,000 farmers in this State to be the best all around fertilizer for cotton and corn.

It is the oldest brand now sold in Alabama, and is just the same as it always has been. Everyone of the 45 premiums given during a series of years through the Commercial and Industrial Association for the greatest yield of cotton and corn on a specified area of land was awarded to farmers who used exclusively the ALABAMA FERTILIZER. The only objection ever raised to the ALABAMA FERTILIZER was that it costs too much.

The great success to get more than that of standard fertilizers. When requested, the ALABAMA FERTILIZER will put up, without extra cost, in bags treated by the Mississippi Vegetable Fibre Preserving Process, thereby insuring the per cet preservation of the bags for an indefinite time, and saving the contents from loss by waste in handling. These preserved bags when emptied and thoroughly washed will be found as good and strong as new, and equally useful for other purposes. Every person, farmer, merchant or dealer vitally interested in the economical production of good crops should advocate the use of ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

AFRICAN LIMBLESS COTTON SEED FREE

Anyone who sends a year's subscription to the Atlanta Semi-Weekly Journal can get postpaid one pound of the celebrated African Limbless Cotton Seed without charge.

One pound of these seed will plant one-fifth of an acre, and with proper attention should yield enough to plant a crop.

The seed were tested in a list of thirty varieties by the Georgia Experiment Station, and a bulletin recently issued by Director Redding shows that the African Limbless Cotton produced 70 pounds more per acre than any other variety, and 161 pounds more per acre than the average of thirty leading varieties. The African Limbless Cotton produced 780 pounds of lint per acre, which is nearly four times the average on the farms of the South. This shows what high fertilization and thorough culture will do with these seed. The value of the product, counting lint at 8 cents and seed at 1½ cents a bushel, was over $65 per acre. The cost of fertilizers used was $4.77 per acre.

The Journal brings you the news of the world twice a week, with hundreds of articles of special interest about the farm household, juvenile topics, and every Southern farmer should have the paper. You don't have to wait a week for the news, but get it twice as often as you do in the weeklies, which charge the same price.

THE CHRONICLE and the Journal, three papers per week, sent regularly to your address, and 1 pound of the Limbless Cotton Seed for only $1.75

They Should Know it.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing-down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor, frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in bottle or common glass for 24 hours are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

In fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same remedy.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for 50 cents or $1.

To prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention THE CHRONICLE, and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

One of the most picturesque and delightful sections of North Carolina, is what is known as the Sapphire Country. This section is located near Brevard, N. C., at an average attitude of 3,000 feet, and abounds in many beautiful streams and grand water-falls.

Of the many attractive features, perhaps one of the most interesting and picturesque points are Fairfield and Sapphire Lakes. No where else in the South at this altitude are there such bodies of water. There are towering cliffs, rising abruptly for a thousand feet from their shores and cascades of rare beauty falling directly into the lakes from the lofty table land surrounding.

On account of the elevation of this section, it is very healthy, and particularly adapted to those troubled with hay fever, being also free from all malaria or other diseases. A record of the temperature kept at Sapphire for four years, shows an average of 63 degrees for the entire summer.

Sapphire Inn, Fairfield Inn and The Lodge, afford excellent accommodations for guests.

For further information regarding the Sapphire Country, call on any agent of the Southern Railway, or write C. A. Benscoter, A. G. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn., for descriptive pamphlet.

State Examiner Here.

Hon. Jno. Purifoy, State examiner of public accounts, is in the city engaged in examining the books of the county officials. He will be here for some time, and will make a report on all the accounts of both the present officers and their predecessors. There is nothing so far to give out.

Judge Purifoy is positive in his opinion that a uniform system of accounts ought to be adopted for county officers, and says that such a system would protect the officers and the State from a great many unintentional errors.

A special to the Advertiser from Birmingham, dated the 6th, says: "The miners employed by the Terrell Coal Company, the Helena Coal Company, the Falliston Coal Company, and the Birmingham Grate Coal Mining Company, all operating around Helena, struck today for higher wages, the operators in each instance ignoring all committees and refusing to reply to their demands. The strike was ordered by the United Mine Workers' organization and involves about 1,800 men. All is quiet at the mines, where no effort is made to operate."

Lost—All confidence in the druggist who tries to sell something of similar appearance or name and claim it to be the same as Simmons Liver Regulator. There is but one Simmons Liver Regulator and it is made only by J. H. Zeilin & Co. Look and see that the name Simmons Liver Regulator in full is on the package, being particularly careful to see that the last word in the name is "Regulator," and you can not be deceived.

Ten New and Original Songs Which Can be Had Free.

What will the great metropolitan papers do next? This is the question some one asks nearly every day. But there is one which leads all others. It has gained the sobriquet of "America's Greatest Newspaper" by just such remarkable pieces of enterprise as the one which has just now attracted the attention of the press all over the country.

Last week the New York Sunday World announced that it would give away an album of new and original music, consisting of ten of the up-to-date class of songs that are now so popular such as songs of sentiment, "coon" songs, "cakewalks," etc. These ten songs the Sunday World proposes to distribute one each week, with every copy of the Sunday World. When it is considered that the average price of new music, written and composed by popular authors, is from 30 to 45 cents, the unparalleled enterprise of The World in giving the song away with a big Sunday newspaper, for which only 5 cents is charged, is apparent. The World requests that we publish the following announcement:

A Music Album free. From Sept. 3 to Nov. 5, the Sunday World will issue weekly a song in sheet music form, with handsome colored cover. The entire set will be mailed, postage paid, for 50c. Remittances received after Sept. 3 will get the back numbers and each new number issued. Besides the song, The World will also send its colored Art Portfolio which is a marvel of journalism; its Sunday Magazine, which equals the monthly periodicals and its Comic Weekly, which excels every comic weekly in the United States except two, and in its comic scope equals these two 10-cent publications.

Write a postal card to the Sunday World Music Editor, Pulitzer Building, N. Y., for a list of the songs.

WEEKLY ADVERTISER. 50 CENTS A YEAR.
(MONTGOMERY, ALA.)
CHEAPEST PAPER SOUTH.

The striking and important events of the last year have established the unequalled value of THE WEEKLY ADVERTISER to every reader. For an almost nominal sum it has kept its subscribers informed of the progress of all our wars, and, moreover has reported them almost as promptly and fully as a daily. With our interests still extending throughout the world; with our troops operating in the Philippines; the great Presidential campaign and the Constitutional Convention, too, at hand, its value is further increased. It strives each year to be better than it was the year before, and public confidence in it is shown by the fact that it now circulates more than twice as many papers as any other newspaper in the State. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE CHRONICLE together one year for $1.25.
Address,
THE CHRONICLE,
Columbiana, Ala.

10 CENTS IN SILVER pays for your name in the American Farmers' Directory, which goes whirling all over the United States to publishers, etc., and you will get hundreds of free sample copies of agricultural journals, magazines, newspapers, etc., for two years or more. You will also get free copies of books, catalogues, circulars, etc., of the latest improved farm implements and machinery, and be kept informed upon the latest improved implements. You will get more good reading matter than you could purchase for many times the small cost of 10 cents. We want every farmer's name in the United States in our Directory at once. Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand. These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

NATURE SMILES IN SANTO DOMINGO.

Has All the Charms of Both Tropic and Temperate Zones.

GOLD AND OTHER MINERALS IN PROFUSION

Whatever the Island of Santo Domingo may lack, it is not from any remissness on the part of Mother Nature, for it was originally richly endowed. Everything that grows within the tropics may find a home somewhere between coast line and mountain tops, and in the elevated regions may be produced almost every variety of fruit and vegetable peculiar to the temperate zones. As for minerals, the most precious of all, gold, in flakes, particles, sands and nuggets, has been found in abundance. It was the gold of Hispaniola, as Columbus called the island, that first attracted him thither, and from the native caciques on the north coast he obtained the precious metal first taken to Spain, some of which may yet be seen in Burgos and Granada.

SANTO DOMINGO AND ITS GEOGRAPHICAL RELATION TO CUBA AND PORTO RICO.

As his sailors were filling their water casks at the mouth of the river Yaqui they were delighted with the sight of golden sands, and from this circumstance Columbus called it Rio del Oro, or the river of gold.

The founding of the present capital, Santo Domingo, was owing to the discovery of gold on a tributary of the river on which it is situated, from which resulted the rich mines of San Cristobal, first brought to light in a romantic manner in 1496. Here was dug up in 1502 that nugget said to be the largest ever found in the new world, of such dimensions that the lucky miners, in the first excess of their joy, had a pig roasted and served upon it as a table. They let it go to the King of Spain, some time afterward, but sent a message to the effect that they had done what no royal personage had ever done; dined off a table of solid gold. This great nugget was lost when the fleet that sailed with Bobadilla went down, and still lies at the bottom of the sea off the east end of the island.

It is not known that much has been done in recent times to exploit the mineral riches of the island; in fact, the interior mountains have never been satisfactorily examined. In their shelter yet exist nooks and caves, secluded valleys and dells, which have never been visited except by the Indians of early times and the "Cimaroons" or runaway negroes of slavery days. Humboldt declared that what the Spaniards obtained was merely the surface washings of the placers and the hilltops, and what they got from the beds of rivers. The golden secret has not been revealed, as yet, and will not be divulged until some more progressive Government than that at present ruling in Santo Domingo shall undertake the exploration of the great central range of mountains.

But it is not in mineral wealth alone

that Santo Domingo offers temptations to the explorer. This island, which of late has been known to political adventurers as "Leelee's" Island ("Leelee" being a contraction of Ulysses, former President Heureaux's Christian name) is rich in every possibility. Within its area of some eighteen thousand square miles, Santo Domingo has every range of climate and soil, capable of producing everything necessary to the support of man. Nature, as has been observed, did everything needful for this beautiful island, but during the four centuries of man's domination its rich gifts and generous provisions have been perverted and even prostituted to the basest ends.

When Sir Francis Drake went to Santo Domingo intent upon sacking the city, he found it hardly worth the plucking. So it happens that while rich in historical associations, both island and city are poor even to the verge of poverty. In the interior of the island, where the banana and sugar cane grow wild, and the ground is covered with rank growths of valuable plants and trees, I have been followed for miles by begging children supplicating a morsel of food.

And yet, any good sort of people might make a second Eden of this beautiful island. Notwithstanding its tropical situation, exposed to torrid heats and torrential rains, Santo Domingo is a very healthy island. A white man can live there, if he exercise due caution, with almost perfect immunity from diseases such as endemic and yellow fevers. Many acquaintances of mine resident there have informed me that they were never sick a day unless they exposed themselves unnecessarily.

Far more precious than gold are the historical memories of this island. Here, on its north coast, Columbus founded the first city in America, Isabella, erected the first church, built the first forts and initiated the movement by which the indigenous inhabitants were exterminated. In the capital city we may see the ruins of a chapel erected in his time, a fortress built by Don Diego, his son, and the remains of the first conventual structure, as well as of the first American university. In the cathedral lie his own remains (notwitstanding Havana's claim to the contrary) and those of his brother and grandson, while relics of such well-known adventurers as Fernando Cortez, Las Casas and Velasquez, the subjugator of Cuba, are on every hand.

There is yet another possession of the island which neither the rapacity of the Spaniards nor the misdoings of their degenerate successors can take away or spoil. This is its great natural basin and glorious harbor, Samana Bay. As a naval necessity Samana is no longer desirable, but as a factor in our commercial development it would be invaluable. However this may be, there it lies, one of the most magnificent bays and natural harbors in the world, almost unused, and at all events not sufficiently utilized. It is not quite so solitary as when Columbus discovered it, in 1493, and thence took his point of departure for Spain, on his return voyage; but it still exists in isolation, the deep channels that would suffice for the largest steamships only giving passage to few craft beside small sailing vessels.

From the grand promontory of Balandra Head, which guards the entrance to Samana Bay, there sweeps a terraced shore line, with a constant succession of palm-bordered beaches, forest-crowned bluffs and crescent-shaped coves of white and glistening sand, back of which run fertile valleys, cultivated to the tops of the hills. The channel takes us close to the beautiful beaches and almost within hail of the fishers' cabins on the shore, giving glorious contrasts between the deep blue water, the silver sands and the varied vegetation of the hills.

A few natives cultivate the lands adjacent to the beach, and their huts of palm leaves occupy a bluff above the water. The beach of pure white sand is overhung by cocoa palms in ranks and groups, and an islet off shore breaks the force of the incoming waves.

The real harbor of the great bay of Arrows lies five or six miles within the gulf, and, together with the town adjacent, is known as Santa Barbara. A series of small cays lies opposite town and harbor, between the islets and the main, being a perfect cul-de-sac, with deep water close to shore.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING AND CATHEDRAL IN THE CAPITAL OF SANTO DOMINGO.

Steep, cultivated hills rise directly from the shore, with offshoots offering choice sites for dwellings; the lateral valleys are fertile and filled with every tropical product, the beaches are smooth and fringed with palms, the bay within the reefs delightful for bathing, boating and fishing.

The Samana peninsula is about forty miles in length, and consists of a range of hills thrust right out into the ocean to the north of the bay. These hills, swept by cool breezes, covered with tropical vegetation, and with their feet on either side plunged into the sea, offer desirable sites for farms and winter settlements.

A Wooden Church 700 Years Old.

Here is the oldest wooden church in the world, erected at Borgund, Norway, more than 700 years ago, when Christianity was first introduced in that neighborhood. It is still as sound as ever, but is used by the congregation only during the warm months of the year. As the ancient edifice is not supplied with heating apparatus or glass-protected windows, the people refuse to patronize it in winter.

Seen from the outside, the church seems to be all roofs. Over the low colonnades, partly open, partly closed, that surround the church on all sides, rise two rows of roofs covering the side naves. Above them are the roofs of the centre naves, crowned by towering rafters and timber work. The roofs are covered with moss-grown shingles and dragon heads and other emblems of Norsemen lore protrude on all sides.

The interior construction shows even more plainly than the outside that the builders of this edifice were advanced architects, for they discarded the primitive blockhouse principle for that of posts set upright and joined by woodwork. The church proper is divided into a "high church" and a choir, which is smaller than the first, and terminates in an oval altar niche. Both "high church" and choir have a centre and two side naves, separated by rows of pillars. The middle naves are elevated after the manner of the Roman Basilica. There are three entrances under fine arches, masterpieces of wood carved with axes.

The church is always steeped in mystic gloom, for there are no windows, only a series of small, round holes cut into the upper side walls where they join the roof. There are no window frames nor shutters, and the holes in the walls are never closed, summer or winter. The altar and the pulpit are of the simplest description, unadorned by paint or picture. There is a bench at the side of the altar for the burgomaster and the alderman of Borgund; the rest of the congregation has to stand or kneel on the bare floor.

OLD CITY WALL, SANTO DOMINGO.

America's Youngest College President.

John Henry MacCracken, who has just been elected President of Westminster College at Fulton, Mo., is the youngest college President in the United States, and probably in the world.

Mr. MacCracken has not quite completed his twenty-fourth year. He first entered school in New York City in 1886, having been previously taught at home.

JOHN HENRY M'CRACKEN.

The years 1894 to 1896 he spent in graduate study, the first year in New York University and the second in the University of Halle, Germany. In this latter university he had exceptional advantages in being a member of the family of one of the professors of philosophy, with whom he spent part of the summer in the mountains on the border of Silesia. After completing two semesters in Germany he became instructor in philosophy in New York University College, and was advanced the present year to the position of assistant professor of philosophy.

Wanted to Be Polite.

No one made any remark upon the temerity of the ladies who invited Ambrose Bierce to deliver a lecture before the members of their club. Bierce was so taken aback by the unexpectedness of the request that, to his own surprise, he found himself weakly accepting the bid, and then humbly consulting his callers concerning the topic upon which they might desire him to speak.

The president, a dignified and very conservative lady, in reply to a novel suggestion of the lecturer-elect, remarked somewhat loftily that they were not a club of new women.

"I am convinced of that," answered Mr. Bierce in a bland and deferential tone which almost, if not quite, concealed his cynicism. "Shall I say you are a club of old women?"—News-Letter.

A Botanical Curiosity.

Among the other botanical curiosities of Colombia is a singular tree known as "leche miel" to the people and as "lacmelle" to the scientists, says William E. Curtis in the Chicago Record. Its sap, when analyzed, contains almost the same properties as cow's milk and in almost the same proportions. During the spring of the year the sap of the milk tree is gathered by the natives as the people of New England gather the sap of the maple, and they not only drink it, but manufacture a creamy substance from it that resembles butter in its taste and properties. The fermented milk makes a drink that is very much like koumiss, which they preserve in gourds.

Another curiosity is a plant of the laurel family, botanically known as "mirica arguta," which yields a species of vegetable wax, and might be made a profitable article of commerce if it were cultivated. The wax is of greenish color and disagreeable odor, but when boiled and purified loses those objectionable qualities and becomes white. The natives use large quantities of it to make candles, and when refined it gives a clear, soft light. The wax is obtained by boiling the crushed fruit of the laurel in water. When the water cools the wax congeals on the top. A well-grown plant will furnish from fifteen to twenty pounds a year. The wax is also used in making soap.

THE EUCALYPTUS TREE.

Its Virtues as a Preventive of Malaria.

Owing to frequent recommendations to Governor-General Brooke, of Havana, Cuba, of the eucalyptus tree as an anti-malarial agent, some investigations into this have been carried on under his orders. Attention has been called to the success obtained in cultivating the tree in the vast Campagna di Roma, Italy, where the eucalyptus is now recognized as rendering the whole territory much less unhealthful.

The City of Mexico is cited as another instance, where the Vigo canal, the floating gardens and other malarial districts are now well stocked with young trees, with the result that places which were once marshy and unhealthful have been rendered dry and innocuous.

One recommendation says that the camp of the British troops in Jamaica, which was formerly malarial, has been planted with eucalyptus, the outcome already being a steady disappearance of marshy spots.

The tree, which absorbs the moisture, grows very rapidly, often ten feet in a year. The wood is valuable and the honey bees seek the flowers. The honey, it is said, contains important medicinal properties.

The tree department of Santiago de Cuba, not knowing of the investigations in progress under Gen. Brooke's directions, recently made a request for several thousand eucalyptus slips, the requisition being strongly endorsed by General Wood.

The officials in charge of the yellow fever hospitals planted several slips some months ago, and these are now thriving.

Red Hair and Baldness.

Statistics show that persons with red hair are far less likely to become bald than those who have hair of any other color, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. The average number of red hairs on the human skull is 29,200. Hair of a dark color is generally much finer than red hair, and three dark hairs cover as much space as a single red hair. As a rule, a dark-haired person has about 105,000 hairs on the scalp. Fair-haired persons, on the other hand—men as well as women—have from 140,000 to 160,000. The strongest hairs, however, are those of a red color, and hence they endure the longest. It may be added that red-haired persons are generally of a sympathetic and passionate nature, and are, as a rule, far more apt to be optimists than pessimists.

Uncle Sam's Cats.

The government of the United States spends thousands of dollars annually for the maintenance of cats. In every store house there are from one to five of these animals, and their rations are provided as carefully and regularly as are those of the soldiers. The meat for them costs 6 or 7 cents a day per cat. General Merritt took three government cats with him to Manila. Nearly every warship has a black cat for a mascot. Dewey's cat, it is said, rather enjoyed the Manila naval battle. When a shell was observed coming toward the flagship the cat would seem to watch the slight trail of smoke. If it had any length the animal would pay no further attention to it, knowing it would pass to one side. If the trail was but a mere point, the cat would move off to another position, knowing the shell was making for a spot near where it sat. This is one of those interesting, if not always trustworthy, stories that help to embellish accounts of thrilling events.
